The morning usually begins by chasing Fido out of the crib and into the yard. Both dog and boy then howl through the bath and final dressing until they can be again as one, and I do mean one.

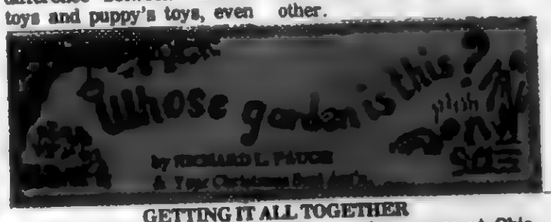
Breakfast proceeds with Junior skillfully slipping his patiently waiting K-9 friend most of the eggs and bacon, knowing that the dog chow will be just a toddle away when he's finally released from the high chair.

There's always plenty of fresh water for both in the bowl on the floor and if milk is to be had, either in the bottle or the cup, you can be sure it will be shared as are cookies, peanut butter sandwiches and dog biscuits.

After lunch an interesting phenomenon occurs. The table scraps that don't interest my "human" child in the least, become "oh so interesting" once they find their way to the dog's dish.

I have done away with bibs and wash clothes for good. My four footed "child" handles that department now, from his master's fruit tipped head to his spinach covered ears.

Telephone calls tend to revive some primative drive for self expression, for just as I reach the receiver they simultaniously begin what I have titled "Serenade for Beast and Boy." Knowing the exact length of the telephone cord, both manage to stay just out of "stiffleing" range yet close enough to make conversation impossible.



After nap time, that long awaited period, both must enjoy a run through the house at full gallop. Depending on who reaches the swinging door last, the spree usually ends with either dog or boy running for the safety of Mother.

Small cuts and bruises aren't the only hazards these two compadres must face as is evidenced by small, hand sized clumps of hair and scraps of torn britches found daily along their well worn trails.

Well-meaning grandparents have tried, without success, to explain the difference between Aaron's toys and puppy's toys, even going so far as to buy special toys for both. Invariably the boy tosses aside what was so carefully chosen for him and quickly "trades" for the less colorful but better tasting "doggy" gadget. Poor grandma!

Dog and boy must once more be parted for the evening walk and change. Then to bed and a late evening check which again finds the boy and the dog together, safe and sound, knowing each will protect the other.

GETTING IT ALL TOGETHER

Having just finished a five-day intensive course at Ohio State's Center of Tomorrow on the intricacies of air pollution, I was properly impressed with the amount of knowledge our university has accumulated concerning the environment.

TEN PROFESSORS (each a specialist in his own field) held us spellbound for a week. If I had to boil my experiences down into one phrase, it would be, "I'm happy that the environment has an Ohio State to help it out."

Actually, there are twenty or more departments at the university that delve into the ways of environmental improvement. Such persuasions as behavioral sciences, preventive medicine, systems engineering, geography, chemistry, chemical engineering, and physics all pertain in part to the problem-solving stature of O.S.U.

UNDER ORDINARY circumstances the outsider would certainly not know who of the thousands of professional men in that maze of campuses would be able to help him in his time of need.

Coincidently, I just heard that enrollments are down a bit on campus and that the new Lincoln Tower dormitory will be vacant. This twenty-four floor struture could easily be made into a study and research center for the environment. Each of those twenty-or-more departments could maintain control over their environmental activities but see them used to a much greater advantage in a closer arrangement to each other.

JUST AS THE chemical abstracts building has brought many millions of records together under one roof for easier retrieval and transmission, the environmental center would make badly needed information more easily available. Logically, Ohio State University could become a focal point of research and knowledge redistribution for the academic world in environmental matters.

EMPTY BUILDINGS that I pay for bug me. Fragmented approaches to the environment bug me. I believe Lincoln Tower could solidify the Ohio State University's entry into the big clean-up and at the same time, use my money much more judiciously. I like bargains.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: Drop a note to O.S.U. President Enarson, suggesting a fine state university like his has every right to expect to be a big factor in the environment and that filling Lincoln Tower with anti-pollution data would be a big first step.

School Bond Support Is Stand For Progress

To the Editor:

I was pleased to read your editorial in the November 1 issue of The Spectator.

I appreciate this support that will bring positive attention to the issues.

It is gratifying to have a newspaper of your stature willing to take a stand for progress.

Thank you for your continuing assistance.

Sincerely,

Hemophiliac Helped

To the Editor:

We recently sent you a request for volunteers who were willing to transport a hemophiliac boy who needed blood treatment for a month.

We are really happy to report that our phone rang off the hook with volunteers offering their services and that the need was filled!

Without your immediate response to this request, we could never have accomplished this. We thank you for your continued cooperation and interest.

Sincerely yours,
Skip and Nicki Batchelor

Heart Fund Cards Will Aid Research

PROCEEDS from Christmas cards sold by the Franklin County Heart Branch will help to fund the Heart Saver Program, a life-saving educational program available to everyone in Franklin County, according to C. Joseph Cross, M.D., president of the local Heart branch.

Explaining the purpose of the program, Dr. Cross said, "The goal of the Heart Saver Program is to teach anyone who is interested in the proper emergency techniques to be used when someone stops breathing." Dr. Cross said the program was developed because of the Heart branch's concern for early care of the heart attack victim, but noted that the resuscitative techniques being taught can be used for whatever reason breathing has stopped.

STRESSING the importance of proper emergency care of a heart attack victim, Dr. Cross noted that 60 percent of the people who die from heart attacks never reach the hospital; however, of those reaching the hospital coronary care unit alive, 80 percent can be saved. "This shows that if the ordinary citizen can help keep the victim alive until he reaches the hospital, his chances for survival are much better," Dr. Cross said.

Dr. Cross noted that the proceeds from the Christmas card sale will also help to fund the branch's programs of heart research and community service, but stressed, "The Heart Saver Program is something that everyone can actively participate in, and saving someone's life is the best gift that we can think of."

Beth Jacob Congregation Plans Special Program

"A Sabbath of Keddushs and Defiance—A Sabbath in Moscow" is the theme for the 12th annual "Sabbath with the Rabbi" program at the Beth Jacob Congregation, 1223 College Ave., this weekend.

The teenage youth group of the Beth Jacob Synagogue and their invited guests from a number of cities in Ohio celebrate their sabbath this weekend in discussion and work shop groups with Rabbi David Stavsky and a team of advisors and leaders.

Close to 100 teenagers will participate in the 24 hour program which begins on Friday at sunset and ends late Saturday night with a Kumsitz in singing and dancing.

The sessions will analyze the sacredness of the sabbath and Jewish life as a reality in the value system that elevates man and brings him closer to His Creator. This year the theme for shabbos will be "How do the Jews in Russia today living in constant fear and oppression celebrate their holy sabbath every year?"

Marc Shar, newly appointed advisor of the Beth Jacob Youth Group will coordinate the program and will be assisted by his wife, Gwen, Keve Zlans, youth supervisor, Daniel Butler, newly appointed N.C.S.Y. Regional Director from Cleveland, and host of resource people from N.C.S.Y. staff and Yeshiva University.

Registration for the "Sabbath With the Rabbi" program will begin 30 minutes before lighting of candles Friday, Nov. 10. Traditional sabbath meals will be served Friday evening and during the day on Saturday and all teenagers will be housed within walking distance of the synagogue.

Hosts Talent Show On Tuesday

Following competitive auditions, eight acts will perform in the annual Talent Show, sponsored by Alpha Psi Omega, dramatic fraternity at Ohio Dominican College. The show is scheduled in the Little Theatre of ODC's Erskine Hall at 8:30 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 14.

The Talent Show will include various walk-ons and cameo skits to unite the variety acts.

According to producers, Miss Mary Ann Damicone, a sophomore, Scott Pharion, 3115 Hamilton Ave., a junior at the liberal arts college, cash prizes will be awarded to the three top contestants.

Choir Presents 'Charlie Brown'

Members of Capital University's Chapel Choir will stage a special production of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" on Thursday, Nov. 9 at 8:15 p.m. in Mees Hall Auditorium.

Heading the cast as the gullible and lovable Charlie Brown will be John Kauffman, a Capital University junior of 3432 Medina Ave.

Others in the cast include Laurie Weger as Lucy; Eric Treu as Schroeder; Ann DeNunn as Peppermint Patty; Dwayne Hammer as Linus; and Keith Hamen as Snoopy.

Tickets are $1 and will be available at the door.

Proceeds from the performance—and related fund-raising activities—will go toward the Chapel Choir's upcoming European tour.

The January, 1973 concert-study trip will take the choir to some 20 cities in six countries including Holland, East and West Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland and England.

The choir, under the direction of Dr. Lewis E. Whikehart, will perform in about ten cities, featuring a concert program of masterworks which reflect the European past as well as contemporary American music.

Special Guest Speaker Nov. 15

Mrs. David Roth, Cultural Arts Committee Chairman of The Jewish Center, 1125 College Ave., announces that as part of the Center's Jewish Book Month celebration, Martin Gray, author of "For Those I Loved", will be at the Center on Wednesday evening, Nov. 15 at 8 p.m. to discuss the book which is a current best seller in France.

In the U.S. the book, which is being published by Little Brown and Company this week, is the main December selection of the Book-Of-The-Month Club. It is being translated everywhere in the world, in remote countries as well as big ones.

According to the publishers, "For Those I Loved" is Gray's life story. He lived as a smuggler of food and combatant in the Warsaw ghetto, as a victim and escapee of the Gestopo and as the only man to have found his way out of the inferno of Treblinka concentration camp.

He came to this country and became a millionaire manufacturer of simulated antiques. He returned to Europe where he raised a second family that parished in the flames of a Villa he had built in Southern France.

Gray will be in this country for only 11 days. Columbus will be one of a half dozen cities he will be visiting.

A New Number From Chanel

MLLE. JOSETTE LEGOUIX who is appearing this week in Columbus to promote Chanel's new fragrance.

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

ANOTHER GREAT new original has been added to the long and distinctive list of "the best from Chanel"—Chanel No. 19—the first new perfume from the famed House of Chanel in forty years. Coco Chanel inspired it, created it, loved it and wore it, but kept it as private stock—giving it to special friends and select couture customers, as one might keep a rare brandy, eager to share it with only a chosen few. Now Chanel No. 19 is being shared with the world—has already captivated Europe, and is making an exciting debut in the United States.

CHANEL'S ATTRACTIVE, delightfully French-accented Mlle. Josette Legouix will be bringing the news to Columbus this week—appearing at Lazarus downtown store. She has the fascinating story behind the creation of this new fragrance, as well as the latest news about the Paris fashion scene.

Born in Normandy, Mlle. Legouix was educated in Paris where she modelled for several couture houses. Her summers were spent on her family estate in the sun-drenched, flower-filled hills of the South of France—the perfume center of the world—where she learned the history, romance and artistry of the perfumes industry.

As a member of Chanel's Fragrance Education Program, Josette travels throughout the country bringing the latest news about fragrance and fashion, and educating American woman in the art of selecting and wearing perfume to complete their feminine fashion image.

I HAD the delightful experience of visiting the famed House of Chanel several years ago during a fashion trip to Paris. I was fascinated watching Gabrielle Chanel seated at the top of her mirrored staircase during her show, and was ecstatic when she came down and spoke to me afterwards in her salon workroom.

Having been born on the 19th of August, the temptation for Mlle. Chanel to name her new fragrance Number 19 was too great to resist, to celebrate her birth date—her memory will linger in her personal fragrance. One of the late Coco Chanel's quotes sums it up. "No elegance is possible without perfume – it is an important part of the success of a woman".

Fashions Shown At Scioto Country Club

The Women's Auxiliary of the Columbus Bar Association will sponsor a style show Thursday, Nov. 16, at 11:30 a.m. at the Scioto Country Club.

The fashions for this show will consist of Malcolm Starr's Resort and Holiday Collections, and will be flown in from New York especially for this showing.

Mrs. Leonard Stern, 370 S. Roosevelt Ave., was the fashion coordinator.

Women serving on the committee for this affair are Mrs. Irwin W. Barkan, 2848 Berwick Blvd. and Mrs. Bernard Feitlinger, 485 S. Parkview Ave.

Among the local women who will model are Mrs Robert Cohodes, 363 Westland Ave., Mrs. Grady L. Pettigrew, 1489 Wilmore Drive, and Miss Linda Stern, 370 S. Roosevelt Ave.

Hostesses for the style show are Mrs. Robert Horowitz, 1461 Severn Rd., Mrs. Russell Leach, 1437 Severn Rd., Mrs. Earl Morris, 2531 Fair Ave., and Mrs. John Potts, 6962 Woods Edge Drive.

Heise-Wuertz Rites Read

Miss Mary Margaret Heise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Page Karl Heise Jr., 789 Chelsea Ave., was given in marriage to Richard Eugene Wuertz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Earl Wuertz of Columbus.

The ceremony took place at 2:30 p.m. Saturday November 4, in St. John's Lutheran Church. Pastor Herbert W. Wolber officiated.

The Maid of Honor was Miss Tina White. Other bridesmaids included the sisters of the bride Miss Mary Beth Tucker and Miss Mary Kay Husi. The junior bridesmaid, Miss Mary Jean Heise, is a sister of the bride.

The flower girl was Miss Lisa Wuertz, neice of the bridegroom.

The best man was Mr. Thomas M. Wuertz, brother of the groom. Ushers were Mr. Thomas Hoffman, Mr. Robin Morgan and Mr. James Heise, brother of the bride.

After a wedding trip to the South, the couple will reside in Columbus where the bride will be employed as a dental assistant and the groom will return to his job as Body Shop Manager for Lease-Recon Inc.

The bride was given in marriage by her father Mr. Page Karl Heise Jr. who is president of Allied Applicators, Inc. The groom's father is manager of Lease-Recon Inc.

NATIONAL DYN-A-VAC

BUSINESS' NEIGHBOR' Chuck Salt (of Salt Brothers Hardware), at left, offers his advice to Jim Britton of the new Bexley Bicycle Sports Shop at 2994 E. Broad St.

Too Ambitious? Consider Wilbur

Bexley Bicycle Sports fulfilled a big need for a bike shop in Bexley and East Columbus when it opened its doors.

John and Jim are both graduates of OSU and, although neither is a native of Columbus, they've both resided on the city's Eastside for some time now.

As longtime outdoor recreational enthusiasts, they both felt for several years that there was a genuine need for a bicycle shop to service the eastern portion of Columbus.

When the opportunity arrived, the pair set up shop at 2994 E. Broad Street in the Esquire Shopping Center. The shop features 1600 sq. ft. of showroom and repair facilities.

Jim and John carry a complete line of imported and domestic bikes, featuring children's trainers and highrise bikes, men's and women's three and five-speeds and a variety of 10-speed models (including altra-lightweight touring bikes).

"We like to keep about 100 bikes in stock," says Jim.

Jim and John wish to advise customers to purchase their bicycles and accessories early for Christmas. They have in stock a wide variety of frame sizes, 10 speed and 5 speed models. They also have men's and ladies 3-speed middle weight bikes. Bexley Bicycle has a lay-a-way plan for Christmas.

Jim heads up the repair shop and boasts that Bexley Bicycle has the parts in stock to repair almost any brand of bike. He plans to offer repair on all bike brands, as well as serving what the shop sells.

In addition to the complete line of bike accessories in stock now, a full line of altra-lightweight camping equipment for the weekend tourist.

Both John and Jim feel the interest in bikes will continue to increase through public awareness of ecology problems and the need for physical fitness.

Already state and city programs are underway to establish safe bikeways for riders. John and Jim are currently planning to organize a bike club through the Columbus Council of American Youth Hostels.

In this way, the pair hopes to coordinate bike tours, safety programs and technical seminars.

If all that sounds a bit ambitious for a couple of fellows starting out in a bike shop, consider Wilbur and his brother Orville Wright.

Two Ways To Look At It

AMWA Schedules 57TH Meeting

The 57th Annual Meeting of the American Medical Women's Association will be held Nov. 11-14 at the Christopher Inn.

A number of Columbus physicians will have a major role in this national gathering.

Francis Keller Harding, M.D., Columbus Gynecologist and President of the American Medical Women's Association, will preside at the meeting.

Roslyn F. Pariser, M.D., Columbus Psychiatrist and President of Branch 12 of the AMWA will be installed as Secretary of the national organization.

The Association's scientific session, under the subject of "Unfinished Business", features four original papers by Ohio physicians on various aspects of the problems presented by the congenitally malformed patient.

Dr. Blanca Kent, pediatric surgeon at Children's Hospital, will discuss the "Rehabilitation of Congenitally Malformed Babies: Operations and Late Results." Mary M. Martin, M.D., of Cincinnati, whose paper is titled "Refinishing the Unfinished" will discuss the plastic surgery aspects involved in the rehabilitation of these children.

Dr. Ernest W. Johnson of Columbus will address himself to the topic of "Rehabilitating as an Art Form", and Claire V. Wolfe, M.D., also from Columbus, whose paper is titled "M.D.? Mrs.?...PM&R", will discuss the field of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation and the opportunities it offers to the woman physician.

WALNUT RIDGE 7, WEST 0

READY FOR tackling is Walnut Ridge's Gary Gioia (10) as West's No. 71, Jim Whitman comes in for the kill. (Photo by Tom Foley.)

The super contestants will be Northland (North Division representative) and Walnut Ridge (South Division representative).

NORTHLAND clinched its berth two weeks ago while the Scots got into the championship game with a 17-0 blank of West while former leader Marion Franklin was being absorbed by Eastmoor, 14-6. The Scots got the nod for the title game when, with their division tied with South at 4-1-1 records, the Scots season win over South (and that by a one point margin) gave them the nod.

The Scots took the game to West and scored two TD the first half for the win.

EASTMOOR'S dumping of Marion Franklin wasn't exactly unexpected as Eastmoor had been churning up the field all season between the 15 yard lines and was bound to get into solid paydirt sooner or later at someone's expense.

Two area teams finished the season with unblemished records last week.

GAHANNA clinched the Ohio Cap Conference with a perfect 9-0 record and 7-0 in the loop with a close 15-13 win over tough Delaware on a field goal by Jack Wilyard.

WATTERSON ended with a perfect 9-0 season record and 4-0 in the Central Catholic loop with a win over Bishop Ready. Watterson is ranked No. 1 in the Double AA Region 6 and might get into the Ohio High School Athletic Association playoffs Nov. 18 at Troy, Ohio Nov. 17 if the lead holds up.

GROVE CITY is also 9-0 for the season and 6-0 in the Mid-Eight with a season finisher hosting Ohio Cap's Westland Friday. Grove City is ranked No. 2 in Region 2 and hopes to oust Toledo Scott from that spot with a heavy win against the Cougars.

DUBLIN ends its season Friday at Marysville having already clinched the Metro title but hoping for a 10-0 season. They rank No. 8 in the same class as Watterson.

Other season enders this weekend include Mifflin at Hartley, Wehrle at New Lexington and Ready at St. Paris Graham.

THE LEAGUES will soon be announcing the all-league selections and there should be some hot races after the all-stars are announced and competition for the Central Ohio District honors starts.

From this corner our vote for the outstanding high school player in the area this season has to go to Watterson's Art Yaroch. The slick quarterback has been the thorn in the side of every team Watterson has faced and time and again has come up with the big play at the right time. His performance game after game has always been high.

Other dandies we have noticed include two blockbusting Ohio Cap Conference fullbacks, Gahanna's Jack Wilyard and Westerville's Brad Corkwell. Although he played on a losing team again (Reynoldsburg 0-9) our vote for the best player on a losing team has to go to Steve Nole.

Nole continuously performed in an outstanding manner. He's also a superb wrestler and baseball catcher and has to be listed among the best all-around athletes in the area.

Northland's 8-0 league record and 8-1 season record is the Columbus city's best and they should be geared for giving Walnut Ridge a tough time of it.

Heart Ohio Playoffs Scheduled

Worthington and Whitehall tied at 7-2 in the Gray Division of the Heart of Ohio football league. They will play Sunday for the right to face the Wild Bunch the following Sunday for the league title.

EASTMOOR 14, MARION FRANKLIN 6

REACH! REACH! But not quite far enough as this pass escapes the fingertips of Eastmoor's Monty Hamah (12). P (Photo by John Stafford.)

Eastland Vikings Split Three Games

The 90 lb. travelling team won its division by playing a 0-0 tie with Johnstown. The Vikings will play Reynoldsburg for the championship.

The 120 lb. travelling team defeated Kar-Mil, 22-0, to end the season with a 7-1 record. Randy Bressler scored on runs of 8 and 22 yards plus a 45 yard punt return for a TD.

The 140 lb. team lost to Cincinnati at Riverfront Stadium by a 36-7 count in a benefit game. Mark Stevens scored on a 15 yard run for the only Viking score.

Packers Sertoma Gridiron Champs

Marcus McMillan led the TD parade with three TD's and four conversions for 26 points. Scott Shaw and Jerome Bostid scored two TD's each.

In the Oct. 29 game the Packers shut out the Vikings, 16-0 and the Bengals zipped the Cards, 7-0.

The team coaches this year were: Packers: John Rickenbacker, Jerry Jochem, John Palfy and George Sidner; Vikings: Bob Hamill, Tom Passen and Luke Lauch; Bengals: Carl Bush, Bob Perrow and Ted Kramer and Cardinals: Lou Swain, Bob Durbin, Jack Jensen and Art Eckles.

We regret that the Sertoma League results for the past few weeks have been carried in the wrong area Spectator due to our error. It had been appearing in the West Hilltop edition.

Assistance for 650 alcoholics in Franklin County was available last year through two United Way agencies. Maryhaven Inc., 1415 E. Broad St., served 550 female alcoholics during 1971 in its residential and day care programs. House of Hope for Alcoholics, 98 Buttles Ave., served 100 male alcoholics in its residential counseling and rehabilitation programs. Maryhaven received $31,743 from the 1971 United Way campaign. House of Hope was allocated $14,086 in UW funds.

GOOD HEADLIGHTS

Day are shorter during the winter months. Highway Safety Director Pete O'Grady says for safe, sensible driving, keep your car lights in tip-top condition and remember to turn them on earlier.

IT SEEMS WE have had a wealth of darn good, talented groups Around Town the past few weeks. There appears to be no end to it. Believe me, it is a welcome relief to me. It sure does make my job more enjoyable.

Speaking of enjoyment, the group currently at Diamond Jim's is one of the best. Family Affair is the name and entertainment is their game. They are not one of, but the must high powered exciting, dynamic groups I have seen in many a moon, and that my friend is making a very big statement.

Family Affair consists of three fellows who play and sing, and two sharp, sexy girls who will knock you right off your seat with their saxophone playing and singing.

THE TWO GIRLS Judy Miller on Alto sax, and her sister, Peggy, on baritone, are show stoppers. They sing, play sax and dance. And, when I say they play sax, that's just what I mean. They don't play at it, they really handle the saxes like old pros. You should see and hear Peggy work over the big baritone horn. She can put most men to shame.

These two talented beauties are just about the hardest working, exciting girls I have seen on stage.

They have plenty of help from three solid musicians. Leader Richard Fall with the guitar certainly plays up a storm. He, along with the other two men join in with the girls on some very fine harmony work.

Put all five together and you hear some mighty fine sounds, both musically and vocally. All five are showmen. Family Affair is a group loaded with variety, good pacing and just plain talent.

Young or old, rich or poor, you will love this group. Look for me, I will be out there most every night this week.

THERE IS A PLACE that is relatively new in town. It is not for most of you who read this column. Yet, in the long run, those of you who hit the night spots could very well benefit. Those who should read this are the professional musicians and those who would like to become a professional entertainer.

I am refering to the Correale School of Contemporary Music and Theatre Arts. Owned and operated by the well known Andre J. Correale, famous as owner of a chain of beauty saloons and former head of one of the finest modeling schools in the country, Correale has done it again with his new school of music.

Before I go any further, let me tell you this: there is no other music school like it in the country. Keeping in the famous Correale tradition, his new music school is plush from the word go. There is about 9,000 square feet of space. The entire school has very thick red carpeting. Just from the standpoint of decor, this school is way above all others.

BUT, DECOR ALONE, does not make a school. Andre Correale realizing this, didn't stop here. He preceeded to build the finest facilities of any place.

There is a piano lab, with nine pianos, each equiped with earphones, so all nine can be played at once. There is also a large auditorium, with a stage, video taping facilities, so tapes can be made of students while they are performing. This way, a student can easily hear his mistakes and correct them quickly. There are also regular stage lights and all the other equipment that one finds as if they were working a real job.

The Correale School of Contemporary Music and Theatre Arts also has two small band rehearsal rooms and nine large seperate studios. The entire school is air conditioned. All of the rooms are sound proof, well lighted and cheerful.

After constructing the most beautiful looking school in the country, building in all the basic as well as the luxury facilities, Correale knew that for the job he wanted to accomplish, he had to have the best staff of teachers in the business.

Take it from me, this he has done. I personally know most of them, because most of the staff are the finest professionals msicians in the business. I was going to list all the names. Space does not allow it. Just let me tell you this, there are thirty-one professionals who are specialist in their fields, be it piano, organ, drums, bass, saxophone, trumpet, trombone, voice, guitar, and every other form of the musical arts.

At the beginning of the story I said you could benefit, true, because many of the students are professionals who are currently working. By attending the Correale Music School they are improving their musical abilities and techniques.

IN FACT, according to Correale over 90 per cent of his students are advanced students. Not are all pros, but must have had training before coming to his school. This does not mean that they will not take beginners. They do. But, according to Correale, "I do not want students who's mother's drag them in." "I only want the sincere students, who have a heart and desire to learn."

AROUND TOWN

YOUNG MAN with a horn and young girl with a voice are a hard combination to beat. That's part of the dynamic duo plus two at Holiday Inn- Reynoldsburg. The hornblower is Dave Hopkins and the pretty lark is Leslie Jones. (See Around Town for details.)

There are already 163 students registered. Correale is planning to set up a school in Oslo to recruit European students, with a two week seminar here at the school.

So, if you are a beginner, or a professional, you people of Columbus now have for the first time an honest to goodness professional School of Music to attend. If you are a professional, this is the best opportunity you have had in your life time.

SEVERAL TIMES in the past few weeks I have told you about the Dave Hopkins Trio at the Holiday Inn - Reynoldsburg. They play pretty music, that's great for easy listening or dancing I have also told you these three fellows are a great bunch of musicians. Dave Hopkins is one of the best trumpet players around. There has been only one thing lacking in the group, a good looking gal singer.

Now, this has been remedied. Currently working with the Dave Hopkins Trio is lovely LESLIE JONES. This little girl is sharp. She can sing to me anytime. Even if you were deaf, you would still enjoy her, because she is as cute as a bug in a rug.

Leslie is a nineteen year old beauty. She was a Reynoldsburg Tomato Festival Queen candidate in 1971. I could say she is a real cute tomato, but I won't. She is a real honey, with a million dollar figure.

I caught Leslie on her second weekend in show biz. Yep, this is not just her first time on stage with the Hopkins Trio, leslie is brand new in the business. This you must take into consideration. Because, believe it or not, Leslie shows a lot of poise on stage. She comes on with a voice that shows plenty of control and descipline. Even for being brand new, Leslie showed me more than some have after being a professional singer for a long time.

Leslie has a rather high voice. It is clear as a bell. Take my word for it, Leslie is worth the trip to the Holiday Inn - Reynoldsburg. Her freshness, vitality and charm make her a pleasant addition to the Dave Hopkins Trio. In fact, Leslie is a pleasant addition to anything.

Remember her name, Leslie Jones I feel you will hear a lot more about this girl as time goes by. She has all the potential of being an outstanding success in the entertainment business.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Here is another Skipping Around Town Scoop! The restaurant and bar operations of the Imperial House- West will close at the end of this week. It will be converted into a Polynesian restaurant with Polynesian type entertainment. The food and beverage operation has been leased out to a family from Taiwan, who have a string of these restaurants throughout the country. In fact, they have several in the various Imperial Houses. Watch for more details later... Speaking of good restaurants, The Top of The Center has to be a must for you. I had dinner there the other evening and it was superb, the food, the service, and the atmosphere. I will give you a complete review on The Top of The Center next week. It is a gorgeous place to go. The view of Columbus is breath-taking... For something different head toward the Mid Way Grill's Tack Room. You will love this place, it is so unique and intimate. They tore down an old bar, used the siding as panneling on the interior walls. Even the old sign on the bar was re-created in the lounge. There is no entertainment in the Tack Room. Just a very subdued atmosphere, it is a nice hide a-way for you. And, only ten minutes from Broad and Hamilton straight out East Broad St. This has to be a must on your night-time schedule... This is the finale week for "Fiddler on the Roof," at the Columbus Springfield Dinner Theatre. I have seen this production several times, and thoroughly enjoyed their production. With the small stage, it took some doing to place a cast of 24 on stage. They did it beautifully. Of course, in my book, this is one of the finest musicals in the history of the theatre. Try and see it this week. If you are lucky, you might get a reservation... After a complete remodeling program, Charbert's have reopened on High St., across from the O.S.U. campus. A great place to eat, when you are in the University area. More on them later... My gal of the week is Bobbi England, who serves you at Diamond Jim's. This gal is a real honey with a million dollar personality. I'll take her home with me anytime.

OSU Mothers' Club Honors New Members

A membership luncheon, to honor new members, will be given by the Ohio State University Mothers' Club, Group R., at Jeffery Mansion Nov. 13 at 12:30 p.m.

A program of flower arranging will be presented by Mrs. Heidi Haakenson.

Hostesses for the luncheon will be, Mrs. Donald Blakeslee, Chairman, Mrs. Kenneth Saffle, Mrs. Charles Conroy and Mrs. Jack Pressman and Mrs. Sanford Bather.

Environment Topic Of Center Film

The New Mexico Taos Indians' fight to preserve their environment from man's destruction is presented in "The Water is so Clear, That a Blind Man Could See," this weekend at the Ohio Historical Center, Interstate 71 and 17th Avenue, Columbus, under sponsorship of The Ohio Historical Society.

The film is shown at 2 and 3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, November 11 and 12 in the Center's auditorium.

UNITED WAY

Venereal disease and narcotic addition often make unpleasant headlines. But the American Social Health Association is working to eradicate these community problems through education and research.

CHIEF FADLEY

Heads MD Campaign

Columbus Fire Chief Raymond R. Fadley has been named general chairman for the 1972 Franklin County Muscular Dystrophy Association campaign.

The campaign will climax Sunday, November 12 when some 9,000 volunteer workers participate in a house-to-house March against Dystrophy.

Kits containing funds collected in the march will be brought to fire stations and from there to a central point for counting and tabulating.

A 21-year veteran of the Columbus Fire Division, Chief Fadley has held his present post since May, 1971.

Breakfast Is Open

Camp Chase Post No. 98, American Legion will hold its annual Veterans Day breakfast Saturday, November 11, at the Post Home, 3211 West Broad St. from 6 a.m. to 10 a.m.

Ham, eggs, potatoes and coffee are on the menu and all you can eat for just $1.

To Sponsor Talent Night

The Suburban Women's Club annual "Talent Night" will be Thursday Nov. 9, at 6:30 p.m. at the Faith Lutheran Church, 730 Collingwood Ave., Whitehall.

A buffet dinner will be served, followed by an auction of homemade items.

Ad Federation Speaker Named

Robert D. Lund, General Sales Manager of Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors Corporation, will be the featured speaker of the Columbus Advertising Federation on Friday, November 10, at the Neil House.

Winter Season Invites Fires

Columbus Fire Department public information assistant Jim Caldwell has penned a few more fire prevention hints for the homeowner.

During the Winter Season small smoldering house fires present a more serious threat to your life than in summer months, because now more than ever homes are insulated and resemble a "tightly closed box" with the lid in place!!!

Q. What are the "silent killers"?

A. Carbon Monoxide and other gases given off in the process of incomplete combustion are the killers!!!

Q. How can I prevent these killers from committing their silent crimes? Especially while I sleep?

A. Make sure that your chimneys and flues are intact from all your fuel burning appliances. Clean flue cleanouts.

Don't use your gas cooking range to heat your house or apartment (it is not vented).

Keep matches and lighters from small children; teach them the use and dangers of these devices. (If you don't, they may never get the chance to learn!)

Remove bad wiring (cracked insulation), extension cords, and open spliced wiring. Short circuits cause "unfriendly fires."

A careless smoker may cause a smoldering chair or bed fire. Unless these fires are extinguished by an expert they can cost you your life.

Gasoline should never be stored inside your house!

If you notice fumes or suspect danger from your fuel burning appliances, call the Division of Housing, 461-8130, or the Division of Fire, 221-2345, for a Carbon Monoxide check.

"Practice safety yesterday to save your life today!!!"

WINTERIZE YOUR CAR

Are you ready for winter? Make sure your tires are in good condition, andi-freeze is in the car, brakes and exhaust system are working smoothly. Highway Safety Director Pete O'Grady says drive a safe dar safely. Keep it in tip-top condition.

CUBBYHOLE COOKING

By MYRNA McCAULEY

Beef Fondue For Two

YOU AND YOUR true love are dining at home alone. It's a special celebration – an anniversary or a birthday – so you're ready to live it up a little. And you're going to stage a romantic setting for two by candlelight.

You'll pop open a bottle of champagne maybe. There will be sweetheart roses for the table. Silver candlestick holders. Your finest linens. And for the center of attraction, how about Beef Fondue – or Beef Bourguignonne, as it's called in finest restaurants? It's fancy but wonderfully easy to do, because it's prepared ahead and cooked at the table.

NOW, ALL you need is the right kind of fondue pot and we can proceed. But, please note! Use a metal pot with sloping sides, the kind that's designed for cooking food in extremely hot oil. Never use a pottery or ceramic pot, because either kind can crack or break. With disastrous results.

Fondue plates are fun, too, with their separate sections for sauces and meat, but they're not absolutely necessary. You can always improvise by serving sauces in small sake cups and setting them on individual serving plates, along with the beef cubes.

In cooking the beef, follow the rituals. Spear a cube of meat, dip it into the fondue pot and cook until meat is crusty on the outside, juicy on the inside. Let the meat cool a moment on your plate, then dip it into a sauce and eat.

SWEETHEARTS SUPPER
Beef Fondue & Sauces
Wilted Lettuce Salad
French Bread
Cheese & Fruit
Demitasse Coffee

BEEF FONDUE: Buy ½ to ¾ lb. sirloin or tenderloin. (Or buy choice top round and tenderize.) Trim off fat and cut into 1-in. cubes.

Fifteen minutes before sitting down at the table, mound beef cubes on individual plates lined with lettuce leaves. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and allow beef to reach room temperature.

FOR BEST results in frying beef in a metal fondue pot, use 1 part clarified butter to 2 parts peanut oil; fill pot to a depth of 2 inches. (To clarify butter, heat until melted and let stand a few minutes; then pour carefully through fine strainer to skim butterfat off the top.) Heat butter and oil in fondue pot on top of range until it can quickly brown a cube of bread. Move pot to fondue burner and cook away.

SAUCES: There are dozens of them on the market to choose from. Serve three or four, such as chutney sauce, Bearnaise, sweet 'n sour and steak sauce.

WILTED LETTUCE SALAD
2 slices bacon, crisply fried and cut up
4 tbsp. vinegar
1 tbsp. water
½ head lettuce, shredded (or Spinach leaves)
2 green onions, chopped fine
salt and pepper
1 egg, hard-cooked and finely chopped, or handful of seasoned croutons

FRY BACON and cut into small pieces. Add vinegar and water; then heat. Pour over shredded lettuce and green onions; season with salt and pepper and toss. Divide into two equal portions, top with chopped egg or croutons.

CHEESES & FRUITS: Gourmandise is a delicious cherry-flavored cheese, great with apples and pears. Roquefort and white Cheddar are also good. Bring them in on an antique breadboard which replaces the fondue pot at table-center. Enjoy with your coffee.

DEMITASSE COFFEE: "Demi-tasse" means half a cup. It also refers to the strong after-dinner coffee served in small cups. The proportions for brewing the coffee are 2 tablespoons coffee to each one-third cup of water. Serve with a twist of lemon peel. Add sugar, if you like – but no cream.

And as you lift your coffee for the final toast of the evening, may I suggest a favorite of mine: "Long life, long health, long love for the two of you."

At The Parks This Week

Metropolitan Park Programs for the week November 12-18 are:

Sunday, November 12, local craftsman O. E. Anderson will demostrate his skill at waterfowl decoy carving in the Walden Orientation Center at Blendon Woods Metropolitan Park starting at 2 p.m. The refuge, where thousands of migrating waterfowl stop to rest and feed before moving further South, is open for visitation from 3 to 5 p.m. daily and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekends.

Blacklick Woods - Films "A Fire Called Jeremiah" and "Black Creek Pioneer Village" at 2 and 3:30 Sunday in Beech-Maple lodge.

Darby Creek - Film "Nanook of the North" at 2 p.m. Sunday in Cedar Ridge Lodge with a nature walk following the film.

Citizens Research Report

Regional Government Need Is Study Subject

CITIZENS RESEARCH, INC. is an independent fact-finding organization dedicated to better local government through research.

This report is on "Regional Government" and is published without comment.

A previous report from Citizens Research concerned the gas rate structure in Franklin County.

This report consists of testimony presented in a public hearing before the Local Government Subcommittee of the Ohio Constitutional Revision Commission on October 18, 1972, with regard to the subject of regional government and the need for amendments to the state constitution concerning local government.

ABSTRACT

THE PRIMARY concerns at this hearing on regional government are whether or not we need regional government, and, if so, how and why such should be effected.

It is not clear whether the proposal is primarily to help the state and the federal governemnt, local governments, or some combination thereof.

Legislative or constitutional or combination approaches can be used to effect regional government. A strict constitutional approach could be overly rigid, and create other problems. Permissive rather than mandatory legislation would seem preferable.

THE MOST crucial issue in the potential impacts of regional units of government is the effect upon the home rule provision.

The powers outlined for regional government in the proposed draft are rather comprehensive, and should be evaluated closely for their potential impact upon the citizenry.

The arguments of "demand for public services" is used as the basis for restructing government. Other partial case-and-effect relationships have also been used to justify restructing. Local problems should first be dealt with by analyzing the social, political, and economic characteristics of the area involved.

Restructuring is not the sole or primary means which should be used to cope with local government problems, because it does not really get to the heart of the matter. Other means should also be sought.

TRADITIONAL arguments used as a basis for restructuring are not clearly defined, and employ questionable assumptions.

Despite the multitude of factors contributing to what has been called the "urban crisis," many persist in attempting to resolve everything by restructuring.

The semantics and terminology of regionalism advocates is subject to question.

The issues involved in considering the possibility and ramifications of regional government are not entirely clear, and probably vary according to the areas of concern of the observer. The overriding issue seems to be how power shall be distributed, and to whom.

In lieu of just regional government, the state should provide for a number of different approaches - at least to the extent that restructuring is deemed to be a remedy.

THE PURPOSE of government consists in more than just the provision of public services.

REGIONAL GOVERNMENT

Although a number of issues in various categories and among different levels and types of governmental units are involved in the discussions of the Ohio Constitutional Revision Commission concerning local government and realted matters, the most immediate issue which has been presented for discussion today appears to be that of the need for a new or additional layer of government; how such should be established and by whom; the effect that this would have upon the constitutional powers of local government; and the types and extent of power to be exercised by such as government.

IN THE following , each of these issues is discussed briefly, and the first is then discussed in greater detail, since it appears to be the item of greatest concern at this time.

Need for Regional Government

What is not so clear is whether regional governments are being proposed (see Appendix for draft of constitutional provision for regional units of government) primarily to facilitate state and federal planning and administration; to assist local governments and constituencies in overcoming what are deemed to be their problems; or some combination thereof.

A heavier emphasis on either of the first two proposals would seem to have varying implications for their effects upon local government.

IF REGIONAL units of government are seen as devices to help the state and federal governments lessen confusion in their involvements in state or federal affairs, it is possible that the policies which may be necessary to effect such are more detrimental than beneficial to local governments, where the problems of

IF REGIONAL units of government are seen as devices to help the state and federal governments lessen their confusion in their involvements in state or local affairs, it is possible that the policies which may be necessary to effect such are more detrimental than beneficial to local governemtns, where the problems of inequities, overlapping, fiscal disparities, etc., are said to be serious.

If the units themselves is regarded to be the most appropriate means of assisting local governments in meeting or surmounting their problems, it is still possible that the remedy may eventually be worse than the disease, however that is defined.

This is not to say that regional government is automatically something "bad." On the other hand, it should not also be implicityly assumed that something bigger is necessarily better, or that this can much more adequately take care of whatever is the problem or problems.

FOR THE state to mandate regional units of government, and to do so in considerable detail as a means for resolving or attempting to resolve local problems also seems to presuppose that a higher level of intelligence or wisdom for such resides at the state level, which is not necessarily true.

Means and Source of Establishing Regional Government

Inasmuch as local governments are creatures of their states, and the two main vehicles of law and regulation in the state are the constitution and statutory law, some options for different approaches are avilable. The most obvious ones are to either constitutionally grant local governments whatever additional powers they need to resolve their problems (whether it be through enabling or some other action), or provide a way for local problems to be met through legislative action, which could conceivably include the establishment of regional units of government.

AT THE BASIS of either of these approaches is the assumption that a lack of appropriate governemtal structure is the primary probem, and that having a different or bigge (and hopefully better) structural unit will help to resolve whatever he to be resolved.

If regional units of government are required by the constitution to be established by action of the state legislature, to include defining boundaries, forms, and powers, then it would seem that there is a danger of a constructing a rigid approach to a constantly changing society.

This approach at this point in time may be too early for acceptance and workability (aside from possibly not being the best approach in the first place), and in later years, it may be the cause of a sociological or political lag because of the difficulties with which constitutional provisions are changed.

ATTEMPTING to lessen some of this rigidity by the use of board, general statements may only compound a problem because it might require the courts to become heavily involved in lengthy hearings and numerous rulings upon matters which have not been outlined specifically and sufficiently beyond question from a legal standpoint. It might also result in the courts becoming more heavily involved in the appropriateness as well as the legality of particular actions.

In addition, the draft concerning regional units of government seems to assume that the state of the art in government has reached a relatively constant state, and-or that regional units of government are final forms of appropriate state subdivisions.

At a maximum, if any state constitutional or statutory provisions are to be made for regional government, the wisest course of action would appear to be that of making regional units of government permissive, rather than mandatory.

Some counter-arguments to the enabling point of view include statements saying that if regional units of government are not mandated, they will never come to be. However, if this is the case, then perhaps it is a better argument for not establishing them in the first place - at least from the standpoint of political acceptability.

Effect of Regional Government Upon Powers of Local Government

The most crucial issue here is that of the home rule provision, how it will be effected, or how it should be changed. Viewed traditionally, the concept of home rule recognizes separate spheres of power between state and local governments, but the distinctions have not always been clear.

ALTHOUGH it would be difficult to predict all of the problems tha t might arise with the implementation of regional government while retaining the current home rule provision, it would seem that, if the regional approach is used, the Fordham approach could be considered, but the implications are not clear at this time, and could conceivably dictate against it.

This approach would permit municipalities, counties, or regional governments to exercise any legislative powers or to perform any functions not prohibited by charter or denied to these units of government generally, and which are within limitations established by the legislature.

Types and Extent of Powers to be Exercised by Regional Government

The portion of the proposed draft outlining powers in the areas of planning and review, contracts, functions and services, and how powers shall be limited and exercised, appears to provide comprehensive powers and to have considerable strength.

Substitute Teacher Policy Criticized

Two school board members criticized the policy followed in assigning substitute teachers to schools.

Official school policy is to assign substitutes according to the needs of the schools. However, board members Marie Castleman and Dr. Watson Walker claimed at the Nov. 7 board meeting that substitutes are assigned according to their own needs and desires rather than those of the schools.

"I'm concerned with substitutes who always end up at the same school," Walker said. He said that many white teachers were refusing to work in predominantly black schools.

Supt. John Ellis said that there are times when exceptions have to be made, and that "the individual substitute's transportation problem must be taken into consideration."

"I'm told," Ellis said, "that it would throw the subsdtute program into disrepair if we don't allow them to select the schools in which they will work because of transportation."

WALKER SAID transportation is being used by white teachers "as an excuse." He said that the policy should be enforced "down the line."

"A substitute who repeatedly refuses to go to a school should be dropped from the list," Walker said.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the board appropriated $25,991 to the Manpower Development and Training program fund. The board also approved the program's new supervisor, Stephen D. Blazina.

The program is operated under provisions of the federal Manpower Training and Development Act of 1962. The act was originally passed to provide for the retraining of skilled workers whose skills had become obsolete.

However, the objectives of the program have changed.

Today it provides skill training, job orientation and counseling, and related basic education for unemployed or under-employed persons who could not benefit from regular vocational programs to prepare for job entry.

THE PROGRAM is administered by the Columbus Schools Department of Adult Education, in cooperation with the State Department of Education, and the State Bureau of Employment Services.

An estimated 325 persons are served by the program. Most of these people are not high school graduates, and are referred to the program by the Bureau of Employment Services.

Under the 1962 act the board is reimbursed for all actual costs in maintaining the program.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board approved a pilot project setting up a reading improvement laboratory for vocational and pre-vocational students at Central High School.

The goal of the project will be to provide remedial reading instruction at a time when motivation is at its highest level, and when reading skills are necessary for succesful completion of a vocational program.

Areas for individual and small group instruction will be included in the laboratory, which will serve up to 36 students. The students will be referred to the program by counselors and vocational education instructors.

OF THE PROJECT'S $17,961 cost, $15,284 will be provided by the State Department of Education's Division of Vocational Education.

In a statement released after voters approved the $89.5 million school bond issue School Supt. John Ellis said "The voters have shown by their actions that they care about their schools.

ELLIS SAID he was "delighted," and described the passage of the bond issue as "a great victory for the thousands of youngsters who are depending on the schools to prepare them for a successful and rewarding life."

He said it was also a victory "for the future of our community. The building program will enable the school system to be a valuable partner in the growth and progress of the city."

Ellis praised the efforts of the Citizens Committee FOR Progress for its hard work for the bond issue. He singled out the dedication of Tom Palmer, the committee's chairman, Mrs. Pat DeWitt, deputy chairman, and the Reverend Johnny K. Bryant.

HE THANKED the Board of Education, the Columbus Council of PTAs, the Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Tom Moody and the City Council for their "significant efforts" in behalf of the bond issue.

Eastland Heads For A New Era

BY RAY ADAMS
REYNOLDSBURG EDITOR

EASTLAND Joint Vocational Center is growing. The acceptance by residents of the seven-school area districts has all but taken away the stigma of "school for drop-outs".

Honor roll status has been gained by many students through their home school.

WHAT is the reason for this acceptance and the growth in all directions of the vocational programs being made available.

A professional staff, additional programs to be made available when the new construction is finished, and personal pride among the students are the keys to the changeover.

SIX OF the keys to the newly gained success of Eastland are men who have dedicated themselves to the vocational training of thousands of youngsters whose skills will now be marketable.

Heading these is Superintendent Ralph Hudson. Others are Carlton Antoine, Director of Pupil Personnel; Herb Chamberlain, Director of Vocational Education; John Irvine, Supervisor of Trade and Industrial Education; Franklin Miller, Supervisor of Agriculture and Co-op Education and Walter Sharp, Supervisor of Business and Academic Education.

BACKING them up are a professional staff degreed to the hilt but also possessing the intangibles of understanding of the needs of the students and the community.

There are 53 certificated personnel employed by the school. These include 13 women and 40 men.

(1) Recommended that Robert R. Thompson be employed as instructor in electricity. Thompson has more than 25 years experience in electrical work.

(2) A discussion of the 1973 appropriations, effect of issue 2, foundation program, local taxes and other items.

(3) Construction progress report.

(4) Cafeteria inspection report.

(5) Progress report of the Metropolitan Educational Council.

(6) Discussion of the expiring terms of four board members.

(7) Various reports from personnel.

THE BOARD functions according to law. Some of its policies are as follows:

The Board of Education shall act as the general agent of the State in carrying out the will of the people of the district in the matter of public education. It shall be responsible for the completion of certain mandatory laws, and shall consider, and accept or reject, the provisions of the permissive laws.

In all cases where state laws do not provide or prohibit possible solutions, the Board of Education shall consider itself the agent responsible for establishing and appraising the educational activities of the district.

The Board of Education shall retain full legislative and judicial authority in accordance with law, but delegates executive, supervisory, and instructional authority to its employees except as follows:

The board reserves for itself the power to contract for services and materials, the power to inspect, the power to pass judgment upon employees and their work, and the power to veto acts of any or all employees when such acts are contrary to law or inconsistent with established board policies.

Officers shall be elected as prescribed by law and shall be a President and Vice President. They shall be elected by a majority of the members present and voting. All officers of the board shall be duly appointed members of the board, except the Clerk-Treasurer, who may or may not be a member of the board.

The term of each officer shall be for one year and each officer shall perform the legal duties of the office and such other functions as may be designated by the board.

THE REGULAR meeting of the board shall be held on the third Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m.

All official meetings of the Board of Education are open to the public. This does not, however, prohibit the board from meeting in executive session when this may become necessary. All action by the board shall be taken at an open session and all records of the Board of Education are open to public inspection.

Although the public has the right to attend board meetings, no individual or group has the right to enter into the deliberations of the board without its consent.

THE ANNUAL budget is regarded as the financial plan of the district. It attempts to show how much money will be needed in each specific category and for what purpose. Budget preparation is the primary responsibility of the Clerk-Treasurer and Superintendent.

ON OR before July 15 each year, the Board of Education must adopt a tax budget for the next succeeding fiscal year and on or before July 20, the adopted budget must be submitted to the County Auditor, who, in turn, submits it to the Budget Commission.

THE SEVEN full participating school districts: Whitehall, Reynoldsburg, Groveport, Teays Valley, Gahanna, Canal Winchester and Pickerington will be joined next year by New Albany.

Other schools can participate by paying tuition and can enroll students on a space and classroom subject availability basis.

The record speaks for itself. Ninety-three percent of the 1972 graduating class received permanent employment prior to or at graduation.

Residents Question District Transfer

A group of residents from the northern section of the Madison Local school district appeared at the school board meeting Monday night to question the possibility of their being transferred to the Columbus school district.

A spokesman for the group said they had heard rumors that since the bond issue failed, they would become part of the Columbus district.

MOST OF THE residents present live north of Chatterton Road and their children attend Dunloe Elementary School.

Philip Williams, school superintendent said the district did not want to lose any of its land. "Our basic policy has been to oppose any transfer or loss of our school land. But because we oppose it doesn't mean we will be successful."

Williams said Columbus did take in some of the districts land in the northern section in 1971 but said at this point he had not heard of any immediate plans to request additional land in that area.

WILLIAMS EXPLAINED that within the Madison school district there are several areas which are serviced by Columbus.

"It was stated several years ago by the Columbus School Board that they wanted the school to have all the land which is serviced by the city. If they followed through on that we would be in real trouble."

Williams said the district had fought the 1971 transfer but had lost. "In our original negotiations then we tried to get Refugee Road as the boundary but they took some land south of Refugee. And there is a possibility, since they do have a school site in the area that they will try to get more of the area transferred."

HE ADDED that the best solution would be for the two districts to get together and agree on boundaries.

"If there is a request for a transfer to the Columbus district, we will notify you and I'm sure you will have time to get legal counsel and to take steps to make your opposition known."

The superintendent told the group that at present all the district could do was to wait and see if Columbus made an overture toward the land.

"IF WE DO GET our bond issue passed at a later time this will give us more leverage to negotiate, because at present we don't have the money to build a school in that area."

Columbus has a site near Refugee and Noe-Bixby and plans to build a junior high - high school and an elementary school in the area.

IN OTHER action the board approved a resolution stating that the Madison Local school district will join with other districts in the area in a cooperative effort in meeting the eeducational needs of special education students.

This action was taken in order to continue to provide low incident handicapped youngsters the opportunity to attend Columbus facilities and to help in future needs which may arise.

Bexley Resident Joins City's String Quartet

Mark Childs of 949 S. Roosevelt, Bexley, is the violist for the Columbus String Quartet, the Columbus Symphony's first full-time musicians, hired with the support of a $5000 Ohio Arts Council grant. The Orchestra has also received aid from the National Endowment for the Arts.

The Quartet will not only appear in concert with the Symphony, conducted by Evan Whallon, but their full-time status will also enable them to give at least 80 performances in 40 different elementary schools in the Columbus system.

The four musicians, formerly known as the Atlanta String Quartet, performed with the Atlanta Orchestra in that city, as well as making extensive tours of the Western United States. Childs, who performs equally well on violin or viola, has given solo concerts with the Pittsburgh and Atlanta Orchestras.

Of the remaining three members of the quartet, violinist Harold Byers has also been concertmaster for the North Carolina Philharmonic Orchestra; violinist Dennis Cleveland is a former member of the Houston Symphony and the Chamber Symphony of Philadelphia; and cellist Karen Andrie was a participant in the Music in Maine Program and soloist with the Eastman Rochester and Milano Orchestra in Italy.

The Columbus Symphony has received Ohio Arts Council grants for the past several years. During the 1971-72 school year, the orchestra also toured Columbus schools with the support of the Council, giving 12 concerts in six junior highs and eight concerts in four different high schools.

Smaller instrumental groups from the orchestra traveled to 30 elementary schools for a total of 60 performances. The most recent OAC grant will help the Columbus Symphony to continue its high school and junior high tours featuring winners of music competitions for more than 8000 students.

Church News

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS

Seventh-day Adventists will launch their 1972 World Service Appeal in Columbus on Saturday, Nov. 18, with plans to raise $25,000 as their share of the world goal of $11,000,000.

Church members will join in distributing thousands of copies of a special issue of These Times magazine, which reports on the humanitarian aspects of their worldwide program, and at the same time give people an opportunity to contribute to the work.

Young people will join the adults in the door-to-door contacts to be made during the four week campaign.

Funds from this year's campaign will not only help maintain the regular services provided by the church's hospitals, schools, camps for underprivileged children, and similar projects, but they will help purchase relief supplies for large-scale disasters. Flood relief, both in foreign countries and the US, have required heavy expenditures this year.

The annual campaign, which is a worldwide appeal, began in 1903.

At The Parks This Week

Metropolitan Park Programs for the week of November 17-23 are:

Thanksgiving as early Ohio residents might have known it will be depicted in a special program by park naturalists in Beech-Maple Lodge at Blacklick Woods Sunday, November 19.

The pioneer festival will be enacted through song, story-telling and cooking over an open hearth fire at 2 and 3:30 p.m.

Walden Wildlife Refuge at Blendon Woods will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the weekend and 3 to 5 p.m. during the week.

The film "Annapurna—Challenge of a Mountain" will be shown in Cedar Ridge Lodge at Darby Creek at 2 p.m. Sunday, November 19. Following the movie, the naturalist will conduct a nature walk along the trails of the park.

Eastmoor Jr. High Has Busy Schedule

Student Council elections were conducted recently and the new officers are: James Mason, president; Matthew Hennessee, vice-president; Stephani Wiggins, secretary; Nettie James, treasurer; and Albon McGinnis, sergeant-at-arms.

The junior high also opened its previously all male industrial arts program to a few interested young ladies.

After induction to the equipment in the shop and some safety instruction, the girls began constructing a lamp made from pop cans and wood.

They are as yet undecided about future projects.

The Boys and Girls Outdoor Clubs of Eastmoor have been offering opportunities for the students to become familiar with various aspects of living in the out-of-doors.

Recently, the Boys Outdoor Club held a week long session in Hunter Safety given by the advisors.

At the completion of the course the members were presented a patch which entitles them to hunt on state owned hunting property on specially reserved and designated days.

The girls' club has taken nature hikes and had a cookout at Blendon Woods and members are planning a horseback riding day and a hayride in the near future.

As Time Goes By

It finally happened

Everyone was on time for dinner last Thursday.

Even the dogs.

That hasn't happened at our house for some time.

IT WAS a change, however, from the usual routine.

Four or five years ago it was Dad who always trailed in to be at the table if possible.

Now it's the kids (and the dogs).

I imagine it's the same at your house - at least four of our friends admitted to a certain likeness since their kids, too, are active after school.

IT'S nice to have the family circle once in awhile. It might not seem like much to some but to us it is sort of a special time.

We don't need a holiday to be thankful for our blessings.

One boy finally captured a choice plum of an after school job and his bank account is starting to pay dividends.

Another boy is sprouting up (all legs and arms) and Dad and Mom looked at some seven-foot beds last week in anticipation of him being the next seven-foot cage whiz.

THE daughter does so many things around the house and at school that I think she just uses the house here as a sort of oasis.

If you really want to see how your own have grown in size and maturity look around for the shaving cream, Dad, and you, Mom, look around for that favorite bottle of perfume. If it's gone from its usual spot don't be alarmed - it'll be back when the agony is over.

We started with eight at the table 11 years ago last Friday. It's dwindled to five since three of the girls have changed their last names with wedding bands.

THE FAMILY circle has grown smaller but has not diminished in importance.

I'm not going to wait until Thanksgiving to count my blessings. I do it a little bit at a time every day. I think I appreciate them more when I can concentrate on each one separately and put it in its little niche in my mind.

FAMILIES are fun. I'm blessed with mine. I hope you are, too.

Blind Date

THIS IS a tribute to the ever popular Blind Date. The Blind Date is to college what Batman is to Robin and country-fried is to chicken. You can't have one without the other. When I was in school this was the most popular extra-curricular activity. It wasn't – "How many exams have you had this week?" – rather, "How many blind dates have you suffered through this week?"

My roommate used to say she had so many blind dates she felt sure that she'd been through the entire male population on campus and would soon be seeing familar faces.

AFTER you accepted the date the next major worry was finding your date in the crowded dorm lobby. I've seen girls come out looking for a blue sweater and brown hair and suddenly go to pieces as they came face to face with 20 blue sweater brown hair combinations. The poor girl would usually go running back into the dorm screaming, "I knew this could only happen to me." But then what else could you do. It feels pretty ridiculous wandering around the lobby calling, "John Smith, where are you: '

I CAN understand the feeling because this almost happened to me. My blind date called from the lobby and said he'd be standing by the telephones and he was wearing a brown coat, blue pants and green socks. I figured this guy's got to be easy to find. When I got downstairs I found three guys standing by the phones wearing brown, blue and green. Fortunately my date was the only one wearing a purple shirt. (Did I say fortunate?).

Of course even if you think you've found the right person you should always double check–maybe a sort of code worked out over the phone. I had one friend who got all the way out to the car with some guy before they realized they'd made a mistake. Meanwhile the guy's date is wandering around going "John Smith, where are you?"

IT'S ALSO funny how blind date conversation always seem to have a pattern. First you talk about the mutual friend who arranged the date. Of course by this time you could be considering this person an ex-friend, but you still say nice things. Then there's the - - "Where are you from, what high school and did you know so-and-so." When you didn't know "so-and-so" you may have hit a snag in the conversation so you then begin with the football team. After a quick analysis of the season you are usually out of topics for the evening. That's really a shame too because by this time you've usually just gotten out of the parking lot.

I guess blind dates weren't always disasters. It sure seemed to beat spending a Saturday night in the dorm. Besides as my roommate used to say, "One of these days I'm going to find someone who's taller and who hasn't had onions for dinner."

Nov. 18 Benefit For Kids

Sertoma-TICO In Grid Contest

The Spectator Newspapers and the Columbus West Sertoma Club will present a combined first annual Training Institute of Central Ohio (TICO) benefit football game Saturday, Nov. 18.

All proceeds will be used to benefit the needy students at the training institute.

The Training Institution Central Ohio, better known as TICO, was completed in 1961 on 24 acres of land belonging to the Columbus State Hospital, on West Broad Street, Columbus.

TICO is designed to house and train the more hostile, aggressive, escape-prone, older delinquent boys requiring an extended period of confinement in a setting incorporating some security features.

Each of the 13 buildings can be reached through enclosed corridors, thus facilitating good supervision and control of the students and protection from inclement weather.

The original cost of the institution was estimated at over two million dollars...equipment was extra. Heat, water, and electricity are furnished through the facilities of the State Hospital plant.

TICO is one of the rehabilitative facilities under the auspices of the Ohio Youth Commission.

Most students are transferred from the Juvenile Diagnostic Center and the Fiarfield School for Boys. The remainder come from Youth Camps and from the Treatment Center for Youth (TCY). All transfers are arranged by the Classification and Assignment Section of the Youth Commission.

The age range is from 15-20; population capacity is 192. There are eight living units identical in design and structure, each containing 24 beds. There are 16 single rooms and 2 four-bed dormitories in a unit. Each room is furnished with a bed, study table, chair, and open wardrobe with shelves.

THE remainder of the unit contains a dining room; living and recreation area; toilet and shower facilities; a serving kitchen, which receives prepared food from the Juvenile Diagnostic Center; and two offices, one for the social worker and the other for youth leaders.

The rehabilitation program embraces cottage-living experiences, individual guidance, group counseling, educational and vocational instruction, recreation, and religion. All staff members put forth efforts and skills to help students develop self-control and favorable attitudes towards their families, community, and society. Insofar as possible, the staff attempts to understand each student and to provide for his needs, as available resources allow. To achieve these ends, various disciplines such as social work, guidance and counseling, and psychiatry are utilized. A climate conducive to positive change throughout the institution is encouraged.

THE MAJORITY of the 192 students attend a full day of academic school, or ½ day school and ½ day vocational shop or occupational training. There are approximately 40 different subjects taught by 30 educational staff. Many students are academically retarded from one to several grades, thus requiring remedial help. In addition, there are 6 shops...auto shop, barbering, machine shop, printing, welding, and woodworking.

Currently, a social worker is assigned to each unit. Essentially, their responsibilities center around casework and group sessions with students and coordination of total program efforts.

TICO is used as a placement resource for graduate students from the Ohio State University School of Social Work and College of Education.

Two psychiatrists visit the institution fourteen hours each week on a consultative basis and are available for in-service training of staff.

The institution conducts an active physical education and recreation program. These activities go on not only during the weekday and evening, but also during week ends and holidays. Indoor facilities such as a gym, swimming pool, two multi-purpose rooms, and a combination auditorium-chapel are used. A large baseball field and a football field are available for outside sports. Selected motion pictures and other wholesome entertainment are offered regularly.

A number of volunteers are active within the institution. Different volunteer groups sponsor monthly parties for each living unit.

Presently, TICO has 148 employees. Total operational money is over one million annually for salaries alone. Per capita cost to program a student for one year is $6,683.00.

Regional Government Needed ?

CITIZENS RESEARCH, INC. is an independent fact-finding organization dedicated to better local government through research.

This report is on "Regional Government" and is published without comment.

A previous report from Citizens Research concerned the gas rate structure

This report consists of testimony presented in a public hearing before the Local Government Subcommittee of the Ohio Constitutional Revision Commission on October 18, 1972, with regard to the subject of regional government and the need for amendments to the state constitution concerning local government.

PART TWO

Basis of Call for Regional Government

One of the common threads which seems to run through much of the recent literature discussing or advocating metropolitan or regional government is that there is a "demand for public services" from the people served by local governments, and that this "demand" is not being adequately met. It is not always clear whether this means that new services are demanded by and as a result of increasing territory; new services are demanded by and as a result of increasing population or some other factor; more services of the same type are demanded by a given population; more services of he type are demanded by and because of a growing population; or some combination thereof.

ALONG WITH this "demand for public services" is the usual proposed best solution: restructure the government, put something bigger in charge, and everything will tned to operate better and more efficiently. The "demand for public services" statements are further associated with assertions such as "...the quality of urban life rises and falls with the quality of public services and facilities.

Taking up the call for action, some have gone slightly beyond this to assert that most important function of government.

Such statements have potentially dangerous implications. They are saying that the government is or should be responsible forwhetever good or ill comes about or is attained in our society; that the role of the private sector is apparently no longer important, nor does it have much bearing on the quality of urban life; that improvement must come primarily or solely by governmental means or it will not come at all; and that such functions as making and enforcing the rules of society are not relatively as important anymore. "Government" is being treated or viewed as an abstract entity instead of being the people.

In addition, it implies an abnegation of individual or private sector responsibility.

In an earlier (1966) report, 3 the ACIR, in a discussion of economic and social disparities, stated the following:

OTHER metropolitan problems are more ominous than the inadequate services of newly developing suburbs. Metropolitan growth in the United States is producing patterns of racial and economic segregation, with severe consequences for disadvantaged groups, for the communities where they are concentrated, and ultimately for the entire urban society.

IF THIS statement were analyzed closely, it would become readily apparent that metropolitan growth is not the cause of racial and economic segregation - it only concentrates or intensifies what exists. It would be more realistic and logical to say that racial and economic segregation are the immediate result of manifested selfish and prejudicial attitudes of individuals and groups, as well as of differences in income.

Structural Reform; Issues; Power Distribution

It is difficult to understand why some political scientists, sociologists, and others proceed to write volumes attempting to outline what is the essence of the "urban crisis;" the complexities, imponderables, and intertwining of metropolitan activities; the social and economic "disparities;" and the difficulties of resolving differences fiscally, personally, territorially, and otherwise, and then attempt to resolve everything under the rubric of structural reform.

Is structural reform, which usually is presented as something bigger and better, just another temporary but bigger rug under which we are trying to sweep more problems that no one has been able to determine how to handle?

ANOTHER difficulty is that of determining what is really the issue. Is it state vs. local government and power? Urban vs. suburban? Rural vs. urban? County vs. municipality(? All of these vs. regional government? Centralization vs. decentralization? Fiscal resources vs. lesser fiscal resources? Good management vs. poor management? Efficient opoerations vs. inefficient operations? Economies vs. diseconomies? Performance vs. non-performance? Participation vs. non-participation? State political power and representation vs. local political power and representation? State administration vs. local administration ?

It would seem that a good many of these questions are superficially asking how shall power be distributed, who shall decide this, and to what extent can the recipients of the distributed power utilize this power. Paul Ylvisaker made one of the most lucid and forceful remarks in recent times with regard to distributing power among governments when he said, "...most of what has been said on the subject has been provoked in the heat of battle over whether or not to adopt or keep some variety of the system. As a result, we have inherited a congeries of claims, supported only by casual examples and fragmentary arguments chosen on the run...." ?.

'Phys Ed Needs Rev Up' Says OAHPER President

DEVELOPMENT of the human body, basic to everything man does, is being neglected in Ohio schools, according to Dr. Matthew Resick, immediate past president of the Ohio Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation (OAHPER).

The OAHPER is made up of professional physical education, recreation and health educators in the state at all levels, elementary, intermediate and high school and college.

Resick, a professor at Kent State University, says, "Ohio children need more physical education especially in grade levels K through 6. And, the teachers need much more equipment and time with which to help young people develop attitudes and activities that will keep their bodies healthy and vibrant through their entire lives." Ohio has 4200 elementary schools with less than 3800 fully certified physical education teachers. That's far less than even one per school. It's a tragic shortage, says Resick.

THESE educators with colleagues from the medical and other professions are very concerned about the poor quality of so many health and physical education programs being offered for Ohio school children. Resick says, "As school bond and levy elections have been lost in great numbers across the state over the past few years, general support for all educational programs has slipped and it seems that facilities for good physical education programs have not kept pace with the need." In 1950 99 per cent of all Ohio local school finance elections passed. In 1970 only 20 per cent passed.

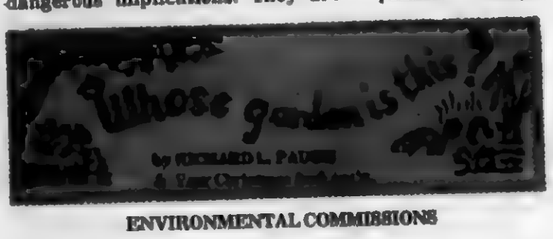
THE OAHPER recognizes that Ohio has published minimum standards for physical education and health programs in all schools but points out that the standards are just that, "minimum" and do not really require the fuller, comprehensive kinds of physical education and health programs that all schools should provide for all children.

Physical education and health educators generally agree on five basic concepts for physical education programs in schools:

1. A physically educated person is one who understands how his body works and how to keep it healthy.

2. Physical education is health insurance. Through preventative health, regular physical activity and proper growth development the individual can live longer, feel better and be a more productive human being.

3. Physical education contributes to academic achievement. All persons can think and learn better if their bodies are healthy. A healthy, active person can do more, think more and enjoy life more.



4. A good physical education program contributes to development of good selfconcepts in children. Participating in well planned physical activities can help youngsters build self confidence and assurances that they can achieve and compete in the every day world.

5. A good physical education program can help an individual attain social adjustment skills and learn to get along well with others. Good body motor skills, grace in movement, values of sportsmanship in play and many other assets can be achieved by the individual participating in a well planned all-around physical education program.

OAHPER PRESIDENT, Dr. Gwendolyn Scott, says "many physical educators in Ohio are providing programs that approach these concepts and in many schools one can find outstanding physical education and health activities, but the truth is generally, we have short-changed our youth in the field of physical education." Dr. Scott says, "We must provide a full range of facilities and professionally trained educators in all schools."

The OAHPER official says children must be introduced to the lifetime sports – those sports such as golf, tennis, gymnastics, swimming, bowling, archery etc. – that can be enjoyed all through life. She said, "The facts are most Ohio boys and girls complete high school without ever really being introduced to these kinds of sports that they might enjoy all their lives in order to keep their bodies fit and healthy."

Resick says, "We feel the answer to these problems is citizen awareness. We hope to let Ohioans know just how we are neglecting the physical bodies of our children and just what we can do about it. The answers seem simple." He says, "We must provide funds for schools that will permit purchasing the equipment and employing the trained personnel to use it in the fully developed kinds of health and physical education programs essential for all youth and adults today."

ENVIRONMENTAL COMMISSIONS

ACCORDING to Dale Hollern, executive director of the Ohio Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, many cities, towns, townships, and villages back east have their own citizen-controlled environmental commissions. (He ought to know, he just moved into Ohio from a long stay in Connecticut where these commissions are playing a valuable part as advisors to both government and industry.)

The concept of officially recognized citizen action is slow to come to Ohio, where the only real thrust has seemed to be "profit at any cost." Actually, in my estimation, an environmental commission, to be effective, must be regional in concept. Neither air nor water pollution stays where it originates. It is no respecter of political boundaries.

FOR SOME unknown reason, Ohio administrators are slow to pick up the already proven way to represent a polluted public. It can't be the cost of a commission, in almost all cases the group is not paid for its time, only for expenses incurred by the members in traveling distances to inspect a problem. Even then, most really dedicated citizens are willing to forget about turning in a tab. The only on-going expense would be the part-time use of a secretary to keep track of reports and set up agendas.

What would such a group do? Plenty! After receiving a report from a citizen that there was a pollution problem, they could first confirm the problem existed, then call in the involved people, the aggrieved people and the person in government who has the authority in that area.

THE PERSON representing the causes of the problem could show what had been done to correct it, if anything, and why not more. The affected people could show cause as to how much the problem affects their health or their esthetic values. The options and legal paths open to both could be explored and the person from government could testify as to what he was willing to do.

THE MOST important product of such meetings is not especially the immediate response from all parties involved, but the beautiful way they all start talking to each other after the snow melts. As long as communicating is possible, the rest of the problem will get solved.

It is hoped that soon all Ohio will be covered by commissions whose job it will be to hear all sides and give their judgment. To place the blame is not enough.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: Check with your county commissioners and see of they would like to have their job made a bit easier by having a group of environmentally concerned citizens form a commission and field complaints that used to land on official desks. As a clincher, tell them federal funds are much easier to get if it can be proven that the citizens have a voice in the big clean-up.

How Fresh Is 'Fresh'?

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President
and Director
White House Office of Consumer Affairs

How many times have you bought a carton of soured milk? A loaf of stale bread? Or wondered just how fresh those fresh eggs were?

Well, there is a way to determine the freshness of the food you buy It's usually called "open dating."

Look for open dating. Many food products on your grocer's shelves have coded date information about their freshness stamped on the container, but deciphering this information can prove next to impossible. Fortunately for consumers, many chain food stores and-or food processors are now labeling their perishable commodities with "open dating" –actual dates, not coded messages that can be understood by shoppers.

OPEN DATING can help you to shop harder by telling you how fresh a product is. Freshness is your assurance that the product is of the same quality when you are ready to buy it as it was when it was processed or packaged.

Bacteriological changes, though, are common to all food products. These alterations--or the deterioration of quality that comes with age–can cause minor flavor change. Or a considerable loss of vitamin content. Or even spoilage.

AGE IS NOT the sole cause of these food changes. Other factors are proper temperature controls, handling procedures in warehouses and in the stores and what you do when you get the product home.

While open dating is a good shopping tool, it is important to understand that a variety of systems are used by different neighborhood stores or food processors to convey freshness information.

DOES THE date printed on the package refer to the pack date–the date of processing?

Or is it the pull date–the last date a product can be offered for sale?

Is it maybe the final date the product will have the same quality as the day it left the plant?

Or the expiration date–the last time the product can be used.

OBVIOUSLY, to get the most from open dating, consumers need to know which system of dating is being used for a given product.

If your store is still playing the "coded numbers game" with its freshness information, or if it isn't telling you what the open date means, urge the manager to do something–such as telling food processors and food trade organizations that consumers want and need simplicity and uniformity of freshness dating.

THE FOOD industry's interest in the standardization of open dating terms has increased in recent years, but the adoption of voluntary programs on behalf of consumers has historically gathered more momentum when you and other consumers have spoken out.

1972 Income Tax Form Will Be Regular Again

TAX RETURN form 1040 may be somewhat easier to fill out for 1972 because of completely revised instructions, the Internal Revenue Service has [illegible].

Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz had announced earlier the reintroduction of a short Form 1040A, which may be used by approximately 32 million taxpayers whose income is from wages and not more than $200 each of interest and dividends.

WHILE there are few basic changes in the 1040, the IRS has completely revised the instruction booklet that comes with the form to make it easier to understand, the IRS said.

A new feature of the instruction booklet is a glossary defining such tax terms as exemptions, dependents, gross income, and the low income allowance.

Taxpayers may use an order blank included in the instruction booklet to obtain additional forms and free publications. The order blank lists the more frequently used forms and publications so that the taxpayer merely has to check off the titles of those he wants.

THE IRS said it will mail two copies of each form and one copy of each publication requested by taxpayers sending in the blanks. Taxpayers living in rural areas especially will find the order blank helpful, the IRS said.

A new feature on the Form 1040 is revenue sharing, a system for sharing Federal money with states and cities. The questions on the tax form will be used to determine the allocation of the Federal money to states and cities.

ANOTHER feature is the new tax credit for political contributions made in 1972. The credit half the actual contribution but not more than $12.50 ($25 on joint return of a husband and wife). Instead of the credit which reduces the tax liability, the taxpayer may claim a deduction from income for political coontributions up to $50 ($100 on a joint return).

A separate Form 4875 is available for the presidential election campaign fund dollar "check off" which, for the first time, enables taxpayers to designate $1 of their taxes ($2 on a joint return) to the political party of their choice.

A TAXPAYER does not have to list sources of dividend or interest income if either is no more than $200, the IRS said. Last year the sources of such income had to be listed if the total of either exceeded $100.

MANY taxpayers again may have the IRS figure their income tax and retirement income credit. On request, the IRS will figure the tax for persons with incomes of $20,000 or less, who take the standard deduction and whose income is solely from salaries and wages, dividends, interest, pensions, and annuities.

The IRS, on request, also will compute the taxpayer's retirement income credit if he provides certain information. Instructions on Schedule R of Form 1040 explain which item must be provided.

After the IRS figures the tax on a return, either a refund check or a bill for the tax due will be mailed to the taxpayer. If bills for the tax due are paid within 30 days, taxpayers will not be subject to interest or penalty charges, the IRS said.

ABOUT 76 million taxpayers who filed returns for 1971 will receive their 1972 tax packages in the mail early in January. The Forms 1040 that will be mailed to taxpayers will have blue printing with highlights in red.

The tax packages again include schedules generally based on needs indicated by the taxpayer's past filing history, the IRS said. However, if taxpayers need additional schedules, they can get them at the nearest IRS office or by using the order blank.

Raindrops And Roses - You Can Have Them!

WELL, SURE it rained. So what else is new? It was a football Friday so that makes it eight of the last nine Fridays that rain entered the gridiron photos. See the raindrops splash on the Grove City players. Oh, well, they beat Westland for the Southwestern School District championship, 32-0. Mike Stafford, our photographer, also got wet - but that's old hat to him.

Eastmoor Will Present 'Our Town' Nov. 17-18

Thorton Wilder's "Our Town" will be presented November 17th and 18th by Eastmoor High School.

The play takes place in the small town of Grover's Corners, N.H. It concerns the daily occurances in the town and the love affair between George Gibbs and Emily Webb and thus culminates in a moving wedding scene. The play also shows the futile effort of Emily, after her death, to come back to life and to live again with her memories.

All performances will be at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the door or by calling 237-1823. Admission price is $1.50.

Inhalation Therapy Care Scheduled

An inhalation therapy home care program for respiratory disease patients will be offered to Columbus area residents starting December 1, on a one year demonstration basis.

The program will be sponsored by the Tuberculosis Society of Columbus and Franklin County and the Community Health Care Services, under the direction of Dr. William Brown, Columbus Health Department.

The program will develop a home care service for patients who may need inhalation therapy on a continuing basis. The Tuberculosis Society presently receives several requests each month from individuals needing help for respiratory care. Public health nurses now provide some service to pulmonary patients. The new home care program will place such service in nurses' hands and give them the opportunity to render additional home care, as needed, to the patients.

A patient will receive the treatment for a specified period to establish his need for the equipment. Patients will be referred by their physician.

The Tuberculosis Society will subsidize the salary of the LPN and provide the necessary equipment and machines to carry out the program.

Following the one year demonstration period, the Columbus Board of Health will decide whether or not the program will continue.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

The First Community Productions are noted for putting on an annual extravanganza known as Vaudvillities. This year, in addition, they are branching out into a scripted musical; to be specific, "Mame", by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee with music by Jerry Herman, based on the book by Patrick Dennis about his fabulous Antie Mame.

If you don't love her instantly, then you are just as bigoted and square as the Upsons, Ed and Irene Martin - definitely not type cast, whose daughter (Mary Lou Casanta) is engaged to marry Patrick - until Mame steps in and shows them up for what they are. But then that is the end of the story.

In the beginning Mame, played by Jevne Kessel, is a wealthy lady living in single bliss, giving parties and having a ball when suddenly she is faced with raising a ten year old orphaned nephew, Danny Weizenecker, who comes replete with a snobbish banker trustee in the person of Bart Loomis.

Then comes the depression and Mame is reduced to working as a clerk in a department store at Christmas time where she meets a wealthy southern gentleman, Beauregard (Dean Hutchings) Burnside who snatches her from the depths of poverty to make her his bride and widow in the [illegible].

Patrick does manage to grow up through all this and [illegible] portrays the young man, who temporarily looses touch with the open reality based philosophy of his aunt, but is brought back to it by one Pegean Ryan, played by Susan Icely.

One of the funniest roles in the whole show is that of Mame's frumpy secretary, Agnes Gooch, and Rebecca Richards will tackle this role.

Dr. George Crepeau of Ohio State University is directing and Lowell Riley is providing the musical direction. Dorie Cooper is doubling as costume designer and choreographer. Chris Moore is the scenic designer.

Production dates are December 15-16 at the Mershon Auditorium and I suggest you reserve your seats early by writing to First Community Productions, 73 E. Naughten St., Columbus, Ohio 43215. Their other productions have always been sell-outs.

Don't forget the other Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee production "Jabberwock" which premieres November 10 with performances from November 20th through December 2nd, except Sundays and Thanksgiving, at the new Thurber Theater on the Ohio State campus.

Twins Club Teaches Beauty In Home

The Columbus unit of the Ohio Federation Mothers of Twins Clubs, Incorporated, will hold its next meeting Nov. 16, 8 p.m., in the Maple Canyon Branch of the Huntington National Bank.

To aid members in learning to make some craft items to beautify their homes or to give as gifts, the program will be a demonstration of making several items.

Those participating will be: Mrs. Bill Rose, Mrs. Thomas Skipton and Mrs. Robert Weimer.

Those attending were: Mrs. Ed Bartlett, Columbus, president, Mrs. Stanley Morrison, Columbus Mother of the Year, Mrs. Thomas Skipton, state recording secretary, Mrs. Marc Benson and Mrs. Terry Holder.

The family Halloween Party was held, Saturday, Oct. 28.

This organization meets the third Thursday evening of every month. Any mother of a multiple birth is most welcome and can obtain more information by calling Mrs. Roger Pence, 891-5028.

Kidney Core First In Contest

Kidney Core I of Columbus were recently selected as first-place winner (category-with a membership from 21-80) of the 1972 Women's Club contest.

Awards which included a plaque, gavel, and check were presented to the two Co-Presidents of the group, Mrs. Leon Goldberg, and Mrs. Edward Karp, who, in the opinion of the judges made the most effective use for their time and resources.

A recent garage sale organized by Mrs. Sanford Scaperlo, held at the home of Mrs. Allan Lee, was very successful.

For its next fund raising project, the group has undertaken the sale of Entertainment '73 books.

THE WOMEN'S Club of Christ the King Parish are sponsoring a dance Saturday, Nov. 18, at Christ the King School, 2855 E. Livingston Ave. The event will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Square dancing will be part of the evening's events. Tickets are $5 a couple and may be obtained by calling 235-4778, or at the door the evening of the dance.

Capital Concert Band Opens Season Sunday

The Capital University Concert Band will open its season Sunday, Nov. 19 at 3 p.m. in Mees Hall Auditorium.

Under the direction of Richard J. Suddendorf, a faculty member in the Conservatory of Music, the 65-member band will perform "The Purple Carnival March," "Incidental Suite," "Elegy and Fanfare March" and "American Variations."

Also making its debut is the new 45-member Wind Ensemble, which will perform works by R. Vaughn Williams, Robert Bennett, Felix Mendelssohn and others.

Admission to the concert is free. Mees Hall Auditorium is located east of College Avenue on Mound Street, facing E. Main.

Tri-Corner Meet

The Tri-Corner Mothers of Twins Club will meet at the Hilltop Y, 2879 Valleyview Dr., Nov. 21 at 8 p.m.

Any parent or guardian of twins or multiple births is invited to attend.

An obstretician-gynecologist will be guest speaker.

East Hills Plans Boutique Auction

A professional auctioneer will conduct the proceedings. Good buys and good times are sure to be had by all.

The public is encouraged to come.

All profits go directly to the Organization for Rehabilation through Training which supports vocational schools throughout the world.

So while you will be able to get good buys on seasonal presents you will also be supporting the education of thousands of children.

If anyone has any questions, please refer them to Mrs. Barry Wolinetz, 861-1843.

Pilot Club Meets Nov. 21

The Pilot Club of Columbus, Inc. will hold its program meeting at the Fort Hayes Hotel, Tuesday, November 21 with dinner at 6:30 p.m.

The Public Relation's Committee is making the arrangements and the membership will participate in the program "Pilot P.R. Profile".

Opportunity Given To Learn Ancient Arts

With summer rapidly drawing to an end, and fall looming ahead, the Jewish Center's Adult Services Department is planning exciting courses to be featured this coming fall.

Women who wish to fill empty hours and days are being encouraged to come to the Center and learn the ancient art of beading flowers.

The unique hobby enables the individual to do her own thing - to express individual creativity.

Even those girls who think they are clumsy and double lefties will find this a very rewarding activity.

A second skill course will be offered in the ancient art of playing Mah Jongg.

Learn to play Mah Jongg in 5 easy lessons, at your own pace with other players of like skill. You will not be pressured to play fast enough to compete with experienced players until you are ready and well trained.

Both classes will meet at The Jewish Center, 1125 College Ave., and will begin Monday, Nov. 20.

Mah Jongg will begin at 8 p.m., flower beading at 9:30 a.m.

Each class will be 2 hours long.

New Members Day To Be Celebrated

Mrs. Harold Gall, 168 S. Cassingham Rd. will entertain the members of the Executive Board of the Bexley Woman's Club at 9 a.m. on Friday, Nov. 17th assisted by Mrs. Edward L. Hauff and Mrs. Howard W. Stegmiller.

New Members Day will be celebrated by the members of the Bexley Woman's Club on Tuesday, Nov. 21 at 12:30 p.m. at the Jeffrey Mansion.

Nineteen new members will be welcomed into the club. They are: Mrs. Harry W. Barr, Mrs. Gerald Bauman, Mrs. James E. Bloede, Mrs. John Blough, Mrs. Wesley Cooper, Mrs. Larry F. Donovan, Mrs. Jack Freeman, Mrs. Richard Holtfreter, Mrs. Walter Kropp, Mrs. Herman Lieverman, Mrs. Donald Matthews, Mrs. L.R. McLaughlin, Mrs. Richard Mohr, Mrs. Albert O. Meyers, Mrs. Walter O'Brien, Mrs. James L. Park, Mrs. Robert Ritchey, Mrs. John Sombronski and Mrs. Paul W. Walker.

CYNTHIA PUTCHAT

Bexley Girl Makes Top Five

Cynthia Putchat, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Putchat, was named fourth runner-up to Miss Teenage Columbus in the recent Sears Miss Teenage Columbus Contest.

Miss Putchat adds this award to many others. She has also won an art scholarship to the Columbus Art School, was selected by the Youth for Understanding to spend two months in Brazil last summer, and is presently a candidate for a National Merit Scholarship.

BESIDES BEING AN excellent student she finds time for many other school activities. She participates in Student Coucil, Student-Faculty Committee, Class Cabinet, the school newspaper and drill team and is an officer in her sorority.

She plans to attend college in September and major in art and psychology.

DAR Group To Meet

Columbus Chapter, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution will meet Monday, Nov. 20, at noon for a luncheon at the Royal Inn, 3232 Olentangy River Rd.

Guest Speaker will be, Miss Winifred Schamp, Lt. Governor, Society of Mayflower Descendents, Columbus Colony.

Think a thank-you-thought...

Send the FTD Thanksgiver™

There couldn't be a more perfect time to thank someone you love than at Thanksgiving.

And that's what the FTD Thanksgiver is all about. It says, "Thanks for being my mother or father." "Thanks for being my friend." "Thanks for being nice." "Thanks for memories we shared before you went away."

And it says it sincerely and beautifully with flowers. Lovely fall flowers elegantly arranged with golden wheat and slender cattails.

Sending a Thanksgiver almost anywhere is as easy as a call or visit to your FTD Florist (Most FTD Florists accept major credit cards).

Do it. And start a new tradition. It'll keep you close to friends and loved ones, no matter how far away. When you think about it, we all have a lot of thanking to do.

Usually available for less than $10.00*

Ask about new Speed-A-Gifts—flowers with silver, fine china, pottery or crystal. For that Extra Touch.

Loungewear Leads A Double Life

ARTHUR WILLIAMS FOR PERIFERY

VASSARETTE

FORMFIT ROGERS

SOME OF the cleverest shoppers are buying evening dresses in the loungewear departments these days—it's not surprising since loungewear has become so glamorous, there's no reason in the world a woman shouldn't be able to wear it for entertaining at home or out "on the town."

ARTHUR WILLIAMS, the top designer of at-home wear for Periphery, believes that fantasy and fashion should mix—the right combination makes a winner, and most important a big seller. "One night a woman may want to look like Ali McGraw and the next night Bergman. There's no reason why she shouldn't indulge her dreams, at a price she can afford."

In Arthur's Holiday collection, the accent is on total femininity. The lines are always clean whether the silhouette is long and slinky or full-skirted. His understanding of a woman's body is apparent in the long vests over jumpsuits, and the skill he uses in fabrics—polyesters the most outstanding. Colors range from black combined with white, to bright plaids and pale solids.

'IN' fashion

with Tess Stern

BEING A WOMAN inside and out is VASSARETTE'S message—it's what the 70's are all about. They prove it with a collection of 'Be A Woman' clothes for her private hours or out "on the town", to indulge her most feminine fantasies. Luxurious, sexy or even vampish gowns, to express the moods and emotions of the many women she is. They suggest, be a vamp in tones of blushing pink—add feathers and high platforms. Go to the opera, theatre, dancing, in a plush 'Velvelour' jumper with blouse of snowflake embroidery, or fanciful flowers. Go anywhere in the "Twin Toner" loungedress of polyester knit in matching floral and diamond prints—or a "Mandarin tunic" of rich colors.

DOROTHY POLLACK'S philosophy for Formfit Rogers is "dare to be different" which to her means fashion is freedom. Freedom to act your age—freedom to pick a style from anywhere in the world—freedom to be as bare as you personally want to be. Wear a slinky nightgown to a party—sleep in a slip—entertain in pajamas—anything goes. Fashion is personality—and that's what Formfit Rogers makes—things to wear in Tricot knit with personality.

Sock some away. (For next Christmas.)

After shopping for several years with too little money, Tommy started a Christmas Club a year ago. He recently got his check and bought great presents for everyone on his list. And now, he's started to sock some away for next Christmas.

One of the nicest things Tommy discovered about Ohio State Bank's Christmas Club was that when he made all 50 payments in the coupon book as scheduled, the bank made the 51st payment for him!

Now's the time to start your Christmas Club for next year. It's easy. Just stop by any of our 15 convenient offices.

Red Cross Volunteers Honored

Ohio Dominican Selected For Special Institute

Ohio Dominican College is one of six member institutions of the Regional Council for International Education (RCIE), which has been selected for an Institute on Intercultural Communications.

Ten to 15 persons, representing various segments of the Ohio Dominican campus community will participate in the day-long institute, scheduled in Erskine Hall at Ohio Dominican, Nov. 17, according to George Hertrich, executive assistant to the academic dean at ODC, and coordinator for the Institute.

The institutes, aimed at developing and expanding curricular and co-curricular programs in intercultural communications, will be staffed by RCIE officials. David Hoopes of the University of Pittsburgh, and RCIE executive vice president, and his assistant, Miss Toby Frank, will direct the ODC institute.

The institutes are financed through a special grant from the National Association for Foreign Student Affairs and are focussed on programs and courses which to some degree base learning on the presence of and the interaction with persons from different cultures and countries.

After the institute at ODC, the participating group will be increased in size to 25, who will attend a two-and-a-half day session on the same subject at Hocking Hills State Park, Dec. 1-3, Hertrich said.

SUBURBAN INSTALLATION CREWS DEMONSTRATE PART OF FLEET WHICH HAS MULTIPLIED 34 TIMES.

Suburban 'New Look' Leader

Heating, plumbing, air conditioning and electrical work are generally looked upon as a prosaic area of commerce.

But that theory has become a part of the past with the construction of the Suburban Heating Company's newest facility-a "Do-It-Yourself" center-at 805 Marion Rd.

AN INDUSTRY which was once considered dull has introduced a touch of glamour. Sparkling fixtures and equipment viewed through the plate glass front at Suburban stop contractors and home-owners alike.

Suburban Heating, with Gene Severt currently serving as Chairman of the Board, was founded 18 years ago.

Growth has necessitated several moves during that period.

IN LATE 1969 Suburban purchased a tract of land at 809 Marion Road. Early the next year a 10,000 sq. ft. building was erected.

But before the year could run its course, growth dictated an additional 2,000 sq. ft. of space be added.

BUT SPACE still remained a problem, so-by mid-1971--a new 8,000 sq. ft. facility to house a Do-It-Yourself operation began taking form at 805 Marion Road.

The Do-It-Yourself center, which opened the following January, contains 2,400 sq. ft. of showroom with heating, cooling, plumbing and electrical supplies on display.

EXPANSION and growth seem to be bywords at the Suburban Heating Company-in more ways than just increased square footage.

One employe and one vehicle have since grown to 53 employees and a fleet of 34 radio-equiped trucks.

As Gene Severt says: "Don't be surprised if you see a Suburban Do-It-Yourself center in your area."

SUBURBAN officers (besides board chairman Gene Severt) include Jim Severt (president and Do-It-Yourself center manager), Harry Prior (first vice-president), Terry Norman (second vice-president and Columbus office general manager) and Patricia Carpenter (secretary-treasurer).

Suburban, which also operates two complete sheet metal shops for custom metal work, services Franklin, Delaware, Licking, Fairfield, Hocking and Pickaway counties.

OSU Symposium Planned On 'Life With Dignity'

The symposium, "Life with Dignity," concerning ways for the mentally retarded and other disadvantaged persons to achieve a better life, will feature views of several nationally known individuals.

The symposium is to be held Nov. 19-21 at the Fawcett Center for Tomorrow on the Ohio State University campus.

Speaking on the symposium theme will be Rep. Shirley Chisholm (D-N.Y.); Dr. Charles G. Hurst, Jr., president of Malcolm X College, Chicago, and Michael Harrington, New York City, social critic and author of "The Other America."

Congresswoman Chisholm ran for president of the U.S. earlier this year and ended her effort at the Democratic National Convention. She is the first black woman to run for president and be elected to Congress.

Harrington, who will deliver the keynote address, wrote of America's "invisible poor," describing problems of the poverty stricken in "The Other America" and two other books.

"The theme, 'Life with Dignity,' is a broad one giving speakers the opportunity to discuss problems facing all disadvantaged persons, whether they are black, mentally retarded, or poor," says Dr. William M. Gibson, director of Ohio State's Nisonger Center for Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities, which is sponsoring the symposium.

The Nisonger Center is a university-affiliated facility that educates students from 20 fields to work with the mentally retarded and develop mentally disabled and their families as well as communities and institutions.

"The symposium is an effort to draw the attention of many people to the problems and possibilities of the retarded and those with similar afflictions and to introduce the center's purpose of preparing university students to help these individuals create a better life," Gibson said.

Persons expected to attend the symposium include specialists working with the retarded and similar groups, parents of afflicted persons, and interested persons.

On Sunday, Nov. 19, the symposium will open with registration and a social reception. Scheduled Monday are speakers and tours of the Nisonger Center's new facilities in McCampbell Hall and an opportunity to discuss the center's programs with the staff.

Following four sessions Tuesday, the symposium will conclude at 4:30 p.m.

Also participating in symposium programs are: Ohio State President Dr. Harold L. Enarson; Tadashi A. Mayeda, consultant to President Nixon's Committee on Mental Retardation; Dr. Eugene Roberts, neurobiologist and director of neurosciences, City of Hope National Medical Center, Duarte, Calif.; representatives of federal and state agencies and private organizations related to mental retardation; university and college administrators at Ohio State, and Nisonger Center staff members.

For registration or further information, contact the Nisonger Center, McCampbell Hall, 1580 Cannon Dr., Columbus, Ohio 43210, telephone (614) 422-[illegible].

He is also The Spectator assistant advertising director.

Dinner Dance Aids Home

On Friday, Oct. 27th., the Board of Managers of the Hannah Neil Home for children had its annual fund-raising dinner dance at the Fawcett Center For Tomorrow. The theme this year was "Children Are Forever."

All of the funds which were raised go to the improvement of the program at the residential treatment home at 727 E. Main Street which provides a temporary home for children six to 12.

One of the highlights of the evening was the silent auctioning of a signed engraving of the White House which was sent by Mrs. Richard M. Nixon. Music for the dancing was provided by the Andy Launer Trio and the Specialty Group of the O.S.U. Men's Glee Club under the direction of Norm Staiger entertained with singing.

Mrs. Charles Smith was chairman of the project.

B'nai B'rith Women Plan Fund Raiser

"Build a Better World" is the theme for the 1972 B'nai B'rith Women's Menorah Luncheon Thursday, Nov. 30, 11:30 a.m. at Scot's Inn.

Covert is $27 and proceeds go to B'nai B'rith Women philanthropies. Hot h'or douerves and sparkling punch will preceed the luncheon which includes favors, a skit, and entertainment provided by The Vogues. There will also be modeling.

The theme capitalizes upon the fhitials of B'nai B'rith Women and emphasizes the scope of activities they are engaged in to "Build a Better World." These include Dolls for Democracy, Hillel and B'nai B'rith Youth Organization, Operation Stork and volunteer work at Mt. Carmel Hospitals in Columbus; Bellefaire Home and Leo N. Levi Hospital on the national scene; and Children's Home in Israel.

The organization's expanse is world wide also, with 14,000 members in 960 chapters in North America as well as 120 groups in 22 other countries. There are five chapters in Columbus.

Chapter fundraising vice-presidents are engaged in various aspects of the planning of this event. For reservations or further information, call Mrs. Ira Ives(861-5566).

Speaking of Beauty
By John Nerny
YOU ONLY GET ONE CHANCE TO MAKE A GOOD FIRST IMPRESSION!

It could be pretty traumatic if you let that thought get you down. First impressions in business or one's important social contacts can actually decide everything. It's all in the way you look, and the confident way you smile and walk mark you for a winner. Hair and makeup that you know is exactly right have a lot to do with building that self-assurance. Making an appointment with us for a personality projection conference, could be your first important executive decision.

For an appointment or just to get acquainted we'd love to have you stop in, or just telephone if you like.

BARNETT SCENE

By

by Debbi Chambers

Christmas Crafts classes for adults and teens will start the evening of Friday the 17th at 7:30. Some of the projects will be a Santa server, a holiday banner and tree ornaments.

If you are planning to attend the first class, please bring a plastic bleach bottle and old tissue paper sewing patterns. Everyone interested is welcome.

Wrestling has started at Barnett Center. Elementary age boys wrestle at 4 on Wednesday afternoons.

New 1973 officers were elected by the Barnett Golden Age Club. The new president will be Marie Babbert; vice president, Margaret Watkins; treasurer Margaret Pennell and secretary, Catherine Fedack.

The Golden Age Club meets every Thursday from noon to 3 and welcomes new members.

Anyone 60 years old or older may become a member. The Christmas Party will be on December 21. So plan now to join the club and be part of the fun.

Special events coming up soon include the city shuffleboard tournamnet on November 21 and 22 and the city foul shooting tournament on November 29. See Mr. Ginther at the center for more information and for center elimination tournaments.

ODC Plans Course On 'Women'

"Women and Society" will be among 32 credit courses to be offered by the Continuing Education Division at Ohio Dominican College during the Second Semester, which opens Jan. 8.

Despite its name, it's not just "for women only!"

According to Richard R. Teaff, director of Continuing Education, men as well as women may enroll. The course will meet from 6:20 to 8:10 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays. It will carry four credits.

An interdisciplinary study, the course will emphasize the changing role of women in today's world. It will consider historical, social, cultural, psychological and vocational aspects of American womanhood. Sister Dolores Angelini is course coordinator.

Regular ODC faculty members from the various areas of study, two students - Miss Linda Curtis, a junior from Lorain, and Miss Lynn Loah, Falls Church, Va., a sophomore, as well as representatives of various women's organizations will serve as resource speakers.

To learn more about the course, Sociology 85 - "Women and Society," and other Continuing Education classes to begin in January, phone the ODC Continuing Education Division at 253-2741.

Eastmoor Purchases Recorder

As in previous years, any profit from the sale of candy has been used for the improvement of the school. It has purchased athletic equipment and instructional aids in the past.

VTR's are helpful in all phases of teaching. It can be used in the teaching of drama, speech, science, social studies, foreign language and other academic subjects. Video taping can serve as a help in taping television shows of educational value, guest speakers, and classroom lectures can be taped if a teacher must be absent from class.

Synagogue Will Host Travelogue Nov. 15th

Milan Biscayne, El-Al Airlines representative and a renowned world traveler, will conduct an Israel Travelogue today, Nov. 15, at 8 p.m. at Agudas Achim Synagogue.

He will present a pictoral portrayal of historic, religious, social and recreational sites of the Jewish Homeland.

A question and answer period will be provided to give interested persons an opportunity to learn more about the Holy Land.

The session takes on added relevance as Israel prepares to observe its 25 anniversary. New programs and activities are planned for the occasion which the tourist should find most satisfying.

Rabbi and Mrs. Samuel W. Rubenstein of Agudas Achim Congregation will host the Israel Bible Tour, February 19 - March 5, 1973.

Those who are participating in this trip should plan to attend this travelogue. Information concerning the February 19 - March 5 tour will be presented.

Kinder Key Plans Caroling

The members of Kinder Key are beginning to organize their 19th annual Christmas Caroling Drive which this year will be on Dec. 6th and 7th.

Tomorrow, Nov. 16, permission slips and homeroom sign-up sheets will be delivered to the schools throughout Franklin County. Kinder Key members hope that parents will encourage their children to participate and will volunteer to chaperone youngsters who wish to carol.

Kinder Key, an auxiliary of Children's Hospital will donate all of the proceeds of the drive to the hospital's Heart Laboratory for equipment and patient services.

Kinder Key members this year hope to organize 2200 singing groups with carolers from the fourth grade through high school, service clubs, card clubs, neighborhood groups, school clubs, and church groups.

Those who would like to join in the caroling should contact Mrs. James Anderson at 861-[illegible].

Dutch Officer Takes Tour

SAILORS gather wherever there is sea talk and the United States Navy Recruiting office at 2200 S. Hamilton Rd. was port for these three. Royal Netherlands Navy Captain Gerard T. Vermeulen center, got a thorough briefing as to why the local office is so excellent in recruiting. Flanking the captain are from left Petty Officer Terry Ford and Petty Officer John Mason. Both are assigned to the Hamilton Road office. Vermeulen told everyone he really enjoyed the tour and hoped to return someday (he has a brother in Westerville) to even see more. (Spectator photos by Ray Adams.)

PAMPHLETS AVAILABLE

Want to know more about emphysema, asthma, chronic bronchitis, TB, or other respiratory diseases? Call the TB Society at 228-6704 for a free brochure.

ROYAL NETHERLANDS Navy Captain Gerard T. Vermeulen was a guest at Eastland last week. He took the red carpet tour which everyone gets and was amazed at what Eastland had to offer. He was assigned to the North American Treaty Organization (NATO) conference last month. Here he gets the lowdown on Eastland's fine machine shop from Herb Chamberlain.

CONVERSATION was at a premium here as Royal Netherlands Navy Captain Gerard T. Vermeulen still managed to get a word in edgeways while Herb Chamberlain (center) and John Irvine were getting the Eastland story told. Vermeulen was also a guest for the afternoon of Spectator Executive Editor Ray Adams.

Items On Sale At Auction

One hundred phonograph records, a winter hike, a Mexican pure pewter ring, marble statuary from Rome, a candlelight dinner for four, a knit sweater, will be among the things to be auctioned off during the traditional Faculty Auction sponsored by the Religious Affairs Council at Ohio Dominican College, Nov. 15.

Sponsors of the Faculty Auction solicit contributions from members of the faculty and staff at Ohio Dominican and through auctioning them to members of the student body raise money for social service activities, particularly off-campus, according to Greg McNulty, a freshman from New Lexington, who is financial director for this year's event.

Senior Citizens Here's Action

The East High School Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Young will present a program at 1100 East Broad Senior Citizens Recreation Center Friday, November 17 at 2 p.m. Area seniors are invited to attend and hear this talented young group.

Shuffleboard players from 1100 have been invited to play at Linton Gardens Senior Center Thursday, November 16. Beginning at 1 p.m., any senior citizens may participate or just be there to watch the action.

Friday, November 17, is the last day to purchase tickets for the Thanksgiving Potluck which will be held Monday, November 20 at 5 p.m. The cost is 75 cents and a covered dish. Roast turkey, dressing, rolls and drink will be provided by the Party Committee under the direction of chairman Ann Spratley.

Following the Potluck, Pete France's combo will play music for dancing from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Candlemakers will have the opportunity to create some fine Christmas gifts and decorations in a four week Candle Class. Anyone interested should meet in the painting room Thursday, November 30, at 10:30 a.m.

Further information about the senior citizens program at 1100 E. Broad may be obtained by calling 252-2832.

Northland Columbus City Champs

Watterson Cops Mythical Class AA Grid Crown

THE TUMULT and the shouting will continue for only one area high school football team in the post-season era of the computer.

Bishop Watterson, champ of the Central Catholic League, was also rated the top team in Region Six Class AA and will play Cincinnati Reading Friday at Troy with kickoff time slated for 7:30 p.m.

Watterson (9-0) will meet a formidable Reading team that sports a 10-0 record.

THE WINNER of this game will face the Akron St. Vincent-Uniontown Lake winner Friday, Nov. 24 in Massillon for the first-ever AA state championship.

The Eagle QB Art Yarock has already been rated the best player in the Spectator area.

According to the computer the following teams rated highly in the area:

Class AA,, Region Six: Watterson (1), DeSales (6), Dublin (8) and Hartley (9).

Watterson will sell tickets at the school until 9 p.m. tonight and from 9 a.m. to noon Thursday. Student tickets are $1 and adults are $2.50 in advance. All tickets at the gate will be $3.

More than 4,000 spectators watched the Vikings and Scots wade through a sea of mud before the Vikings took advantage of a blocked kick to score then add a PAT for their margin.

By the statistics the Scots should have won. They outdowned the Vikings, 9-4, outran them 139 to 85 and in general did everything right except score.

MEANWHILE the roundballers start play in the area Friday.

But the bells will still be ringing for the following grid champs in the area leagues: Mid-8, Grove City; Central Catholic, Watterson; Ohio Cap Conference, Gahanna and Metro, Dublin.

Crandall, Cards Top OCC Stats

Worthington's Tim Crandall and the Worthington team were the only individuals or team in the Spectator area who led a department of the final Ohio Capital Conference league game statistics.

Crandall led in punting average with 19 kicks for 760 yards or a 40 yard per kick average.

The individual leaders in the various departments other than those two were: Gahanna, won 7 and lost none; team defense, Gahanna, 463 rushes and 328 passes against for a yield of only 791 yards or about a 113 yards per game defensive yield; total scoring, Jack Willyard, Gahanna, 10 touchdowns, two field goals and 17 points after touchdown for 83 points; Brad Corkwell, Westerville, most touchdowns, 11; pass interceptions, Mike Cornell, Delaware, 7; individual rushing, Brad Corkwell, Westerville, 115 rushes for 539 yards net and an average of 4.6 yards per carry; individual passing, Jeff Whetsel, Mt. Vernon, 111 passes, 49 completitions, for 587 yards, one touchdown and 11 interceptions; individual receiving, Rick Scott, Mt. Vernon, 27 passes caught, 323 yards and one touchdown.

Sock Hop

Robert W. and the Fox and Hounds will present an evening of rock and roll Friday, Nov. 17, 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. It will be a good old Rock and Roll sock hop with a dance contest, prizes and free refreshments.

A $2 donation will go to the Children's Hospital.

The evening of rock and roll will be held at The Fox and Hounds party house on Kenny Road between Henderson and Bethel.

Wild Bunch, Whitehall In Heart Ohio Grid Clash

The Whitehall Winers and the Worthington Rangers played to a 13-13 tie, leaving both their overall season records at 7-2-1.

Whitehall will, however, represent the Gray Division because of its earlier win over Worthington 12-13.

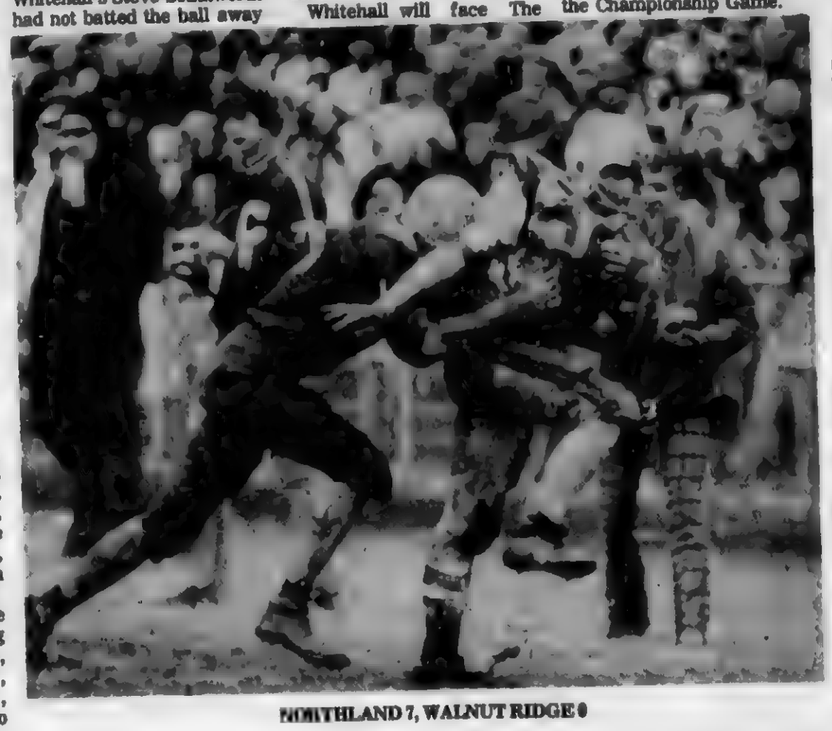
Worthington scored in the first quarter on a 5 yd run by Jack Roth. Al Sandberg added the extra point to give Worthington a 7-0 lead.

Tom Ucker's 20 yd pass to Charles Buckland in the second quarter and the unsuccessful two point conversion gave a halftime score of 7-6.

Worthington scored midway in the third quarter when quarterback Jack Roth completed a 35 yd pass to Randy Dorian.

Whitehalls Roger Brabb scampered 36 yards on a draw play to score the touchdown and then he added the extra point to tie the score 13-13 with 2:40 left in the game.

Jack Roth unleashed an aerial attack by hitting Randy Dorain and John Cooke to move the ball to the Whitehall 32 yard line. With fourteen seconds left on the clock, Ed Spiers was called in to attempt to kick a 37 yd field goal.



The kick had the line and it might've had the distance if Whitehall's Steve Southworth had not batted the ball away as it approoached the cross bar.

First Shrine Bowl Grid Classic Dec. 9

Football fans have a "post-season" opportunity to help fill Ohio Stadium Saturday, Dec. 9 for the first annual All-Ohio Shrine Bowl.

The NCAA-sanctioned football contest will feature two all star teams of more than 50 graduating seniors from 34 Ohio college and university football squads.

Outstanding seniors are being named to the East-West teams by a committee.

Proceeds from the game will benefit the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children, Cincinnati Burns Institute. The Burns Institute treats patients aged under 15 regardless of race, color or creed and whose parents or guardians are unable to pay for treatments.

About half the Burns Institute's $3 million annual budget is devoted to burns research in cooperation with the University of Cincinnati Medical School.

Ticket information is available at Ohio State Athletic Ticket Office, 410 W. Woodruff; Aladdin Temple, 34 N. 4th St.; Agler-Davidson Sporting Goods, 250 S. Hamilton Rd.; Roush Sporting Goods, 90 W. Schrock Rd. and Tarpy's, 1805 Kingsdale Center.

Ohio State will be limited to three players on each squad.

Schools providing other players for the East Team are: Kent, Ohio University, Oberlin, Baldwin-Wallace, Otterbein, Marietta, Cincinnati, Hiram, Youngstown, Ashland, Case Western, Akron, Muskingum, Mt. Union, Wooster, Kenyon and John Carroll.

Colleges with players on the West Team are: Bowling Green, Miami, Toledo, Defiance, Bluffton, Wilmington, Findlay, Dayton, Xavier, Ohio Northern, Central State, Wittenberg, Heidleberg, Ohio Wesleyan, Capital and Denison.

St. Charles Grid Future Promising

Last weekend was a successful period for the St. Charles football program. The varsity team rallied to beat New Albany 21-16 and the freshman team beat Northland 20-0. This is especially meaningful to the future of St. Charles football as Northland had previously defeated every C.C.L. team they played. These teams included Watterson, Hartley, Ready and DeSales.

Head coach of the freshman is Jeff Pharion, a former Aquinas football player. Assisting Coach Pharion were Ted Kurz, a former Ohio State guard on the national championship team and John Row, a 1968 grad of St. Charles. Coach Pharion was in charge of the offense and over-all co-ordinator, Coach Kurz was in charge of the line and co-ordinated the defense, Coach Row headed the defensive secondary. St. Charles scored 126 points to their opponents 42 for the season.

THE BEXLEY High School cross-country team ended the 1972 season with an 8-1 record and were the Central District Champions. They also finished 10th in the state meet. THIS PAST Sunday evening I did something that I have not done in all the years that I have been writing this column. Due to an extreme heavy schedule I went to the Ramada Inn - North last Sunday, and reviewed their set.

Sundays are for me - not for work.

But, did I learn a few things by stopping in at the Ramada Inn North, Sunday night. First of all, you wouldn't believe the action. The place was packed as if it were Saturday night. Honestly, I just couldn't believe all the people.

AS YOU may or may not know, all legal beverages are sold and the entertainment is going full blast. Management has told me, what swinging times are to be found at the Ramada Inn North on Sunday night, but I thought it was just their enthusiasm. Not true. The place jumps.

Now, lets get down to the business at hand. The main reason I stopped in at the Ramada Inn North was to catch a group that is out of sight; Ruben, Wanda and the Sweet Seasons.

I've heard and reviewed thousands of groups, but seldom do I find one that has it all together as does Sweet Seasons. This is one fine quintet, to say the least.

First, one member who caught my eyes and ears is Wanda Lee. Wow! What a singer. While she may have a little difficulty at times with her intonation, she comes on like gangbusters. She has more control than Jack Nicklaus.

When you hear Wanda, you will want to hear more and more. She sings with lots of drive. This is true with the entire group, plenty of drive, both instrumentally and vocally.

Then there is organist and trombone man, Dick Buts. This guy is a musician's musican. He has talent literally dripping from his body. He handles both organ and trombone with unique stylings. I could sit and listen to him play for hours on end.

Add Ruben Weitzel to the group, and things really begin to cook. Ruben is great on banjo, guitar and trombone. Wait until you hear some of the great sounds created by Dick and Ruben on some of their way out trombone duo. Fantastic.

RUBEN ALSO does a nice job in the vocal department. This handsome young fellow is a super performer. What a voice. He can also imitate Elvis Presley, Johnny Cash and several others.

Another fellow who turns in a fine job is bass man Ben Wiebe. He is strong and sturdy in the rhythm department.

Both Ben, Dick as well as Ruben and Wanda join in providing plenty of good four part harmony arrangements.

AS A GROUP they are superb. They offer lots of variety, both in material and sound. The outfit shows a high degree of professionalism. They own lots of stage presence, and are stronger performers than Woody's team showed last Saturday. Sweet Seasons score everytime they perform.

Rhythms are strong, yet simple. A heavy melody line is employed, keeping everyone aware what tunes are being played.

All in all, it is just one fine group. Sweet Seasons make any season, like the song, "Winter, spring, summer or fall," a happy time of year.

You'll have a happy time with a visit to the Ramada Inn - North, some Tuesday through Sunday nights.

I HAD A memorable dining experience at Stouffer's Top of The Center Restaurant the other night. What made it all so unforgettable was the food, service and atmosphere.

In my opinion, there is no other place to compare to the Top Of The Center. First of all, is the food, which is prepared in the finest manner. It is truly fit for royalty.

I believe elegance is the key word to their operation. All aspects, the food, service and decor drips with elegance.

First, let me tell you about the food. I started off my meal with a cup of French onion soup. This had a flavor with body to it. There was plenty of cheese and onion. This soup tantalized my taste buds and prepared them for better things to come.

And, come they did. Next was the salad, with their own homemade dressing. Out of this world. Next came the main course. I selected Flounder stuffed with crab meat. Now, I'm sure many of you have dined on this before. But, not like at the Top Of The Center. When they state that it is stuffed, they do mean stuffed. It was heaping. I could use all of the adjectives in the book, and still could not find enough adequate ones to fully describe just how delicious it all was.

My waitress was excellent. Somehow, I lost her name, but believe me, she, like all the rest are efficient.

AS I SAID before, the elegance is the key word to their operation. The interior decor, the beautiful view of the city all help to create one of the most elegant and romantic atmosphere you will find anywhere AROUND TOWN.

For you men, who would enjoy taking that favorite gal of yours out on the town, I have to recommend this place. The price structure is very reasonable. In fact, it is less expensive than many other restaurants in Columbus. During the week, The Top Of The Center offers specials that are "Two For The Price of One". This includes a bottle of good wine, also.

Dining at the Top Of The Center will be an experience you will talk about for days afterwards.

By the way the entertainment is of the same quality as is all of the aspects of the restaurant. The Dick Haines Quartet provide some of the finest, most sophisticated entertainment in the area. They alone are worth the trip. If you want just cocktails there is a bar and lounge, with the same great views and same fine entertainment.

THE FOLLOWING is not a review, but a story about something you are all familiar with, The Ruth Lyons Christmas Fund. This is a fund started by the first hostess of the now famous 50-50 Club to raise money for the various children's hospitals for toys for all of the children in the hospital, well equiped play rooms and parties for the patients.

Ruth first started the Christmas Fund in 1939. Since her retirement in 1967 the duties have been turned over to the new host of the 50-50 Club, Bob Braun.

Since its beginning in 1939 nearly six million dollars have been raised. The Fund now serves approximately 100 Childrens Hospitals in the AVCO viewing area, which covers, Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana.

Your's truly has been familiar with the Christmas Fund and its purpose for many, many years. But, not until I toured our own Children's Hospital with part of the cast of the 50-50 Club did I fully realize just how much good the Ruth Lyons Christmas does for these children.

Each child is given a toy upon their admission to the hospital. Special parties are held on Halloween and Easter. A child receives a special toy if he or she is there on their birthday. Of course at Christmas, the children are given gifts.

A TRIP through the hospital will cause you to open up the pocketbook and give a little to this fund. Just stop off in the special burn section and see some of the sights. True, they are not pretty. But, you will understand the need for these children to have all toys and games possible to help keep them occupied. Most of these patients spend months in the hospital.

And, look at it from a selfish standpoint. Anyone who makes a contribution to the Ruth Lyons Christmas is eligible to win fabulous prizes, from cars, trips all over the world as well as special gifts, such as television sets.

So, drop a buck or ten or twenty to the Ruth Lyons Christmas, Box 50-50, Cincinnati, Ohio 45201. Then be sure to watch the special Holiday Hello Shows where the calls are made and the prizes are awarded. I'll give you one tip. In order to win, you must answer a question. I have been given a list of questions, which I will pass on to you, now. Who is buried in Grant's Tomb? Who is the host of the 50-50 Club? Is Marian Spellman a dancer, a musician or a singer?

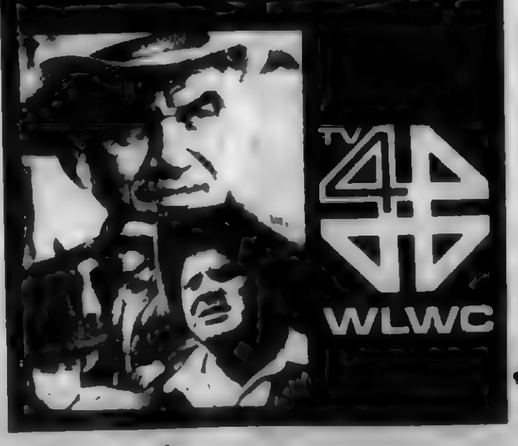
There are just a few questions. Make your donation, you may win a prize, but most of all you will win the hearts of thousands of children who are in the hospital.

Dog Show Is Sunday

The Central Ohio Kennel Club's all-breed dog show will be held Sunday, Nov. 19 at Veterans Memorial Building. The hours will be from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. A portion of the admission proceeds will be donated to several local charities.

Art Display At Library

The Columbus Public Library's November art display combines the talents of potter Jenny Floch and artist-photographer Arthur Efland. The works of the husband-wife team will be shown through Nov. 30 in the library's second floor lobby, 96 S. Grant Ave.



Jenny Floch has participated in more than 30 group, one and two-man art shows, primarily in Ohio and New York.

Donors Can Give Blood

Holidays are crucial periods for the Red Cross Blood Program. Increased emergency blood needs, continued routine needs and shortened blood collection schedules combine to produce a tight supply of blood.

As a result, the Red Cross Blood Center, 995 East Broad, will be open the day after Thanksgiving, Friday, Nov. 24, for the convenience of donors not working that day.

Blood Center hours the week of November 20 only, are Monday, 1-7 p.m., Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Bloodmobiles for the week are scheduled at Doctors Hospital North, 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. Monday, November 20; Ohio Bell, Kenney Road Garage, 12 noon to 4 p.m. Tuesday, November 21; Ohio State University ROTC, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday, November 22; and Anderson Concrete, 1 to 5 p.m. Friday, November 24.

Ex-Cardinal Atha West Point Passer

It's no secret that Army football teams of the past few seasons have been putting the ball in the air more often than did most of their predecessors. It's also no secret that those passing efforts have met with a good share of success.

One member of the current Cadet varsity who has distinguished himself in the annals of Army football history is senior (First Classman) Dick Atha of Worthington. He's name can be found under categories of single game and career passing records.

Atha, now in his third season with the Army team, has earned two varsity letters. He moved into the starting picture at quarterback late in his sophomore year, and held that spot until the midway point of the 1971 campaign, when he was replaced by then-sophomore Kingsley Fink. He has been utilized in a reserve capacity ever since, yet has managed to add his name to the list of passing elite at West Point.

Through competition of this two weeks ago when the Cadets dropped a 28-7 decision to Miami, Atha stands ninth on the career passing list, based on number of completions. He has attempted 230 passes, has completed 98 of those for 1,121 yards and six touchdowns, and has had 15 passes intercepted.

His name likewise appears under the headings of yards passing and total offense for a single game. In two contests late in the 1970 season, against Syracuse and Oregon respectively, Atha enjoyed superlative passing afternoons. Against Syracuse he passed for 224 yards (5th best) and finished with 245 yards total offense (7th best). The following week against Oregon he was just as sharp, passing for 221 yards (6th best) and 268 total offense (4th best).

It was in that Oregon game, which ended in a dramatic 22-22 tie, that Atha set an Army record which still stands. His 38 pass attempts and 14 rushes totaled 52 offensive plays, the most ever by an Army player in a single game.

OAPSE Elects New Officers

Mrs. Bonnie Bell, Newark, has been re-elected to another one year term as President of the Central District of the Ohio Association of Public School Employees (OAPSE). Mrs. Bell is a secretary in the Newark City Schools and a member of OAPSE Chapter No. 190.

Also re-elected at the district's annual meeting at Newark High School was First Vice President Mrs. Arlene Snyder, 1825 Sale Rd., Columbus. Mrs. Snyder is a cafeteria employee of the Columbus City Schools and a member of OAPSE Chapter No. 143.

Other officers newly elected were Second Vice President Harold England, 2764 Ruhl Ave., Columbus; Secretary Ms. Janice Stonerock, 103 Garden Hts. Ave., Columbus; and RTreasurer Mrs. Betty Strickland, 530 Toledo Ave., Marion.

England is a custodian for the Bexley City Schools and belongs to OAPSE Chpt. No. 123; Ms. Stonerock, a member of OAPSE Chpt. No. 529, is a secretary for the Columbus City Schools.

State Rep. Mack Pemberton, Columbus, was presented with an Outstanding Legislator Award at the meeting. The award recognizes outstanding service by a member of the Ohio General Assembly toward the well-being of school employees in Ohio.

A TWO YEAR PROJECT

Construction Plans Unveiled By Ellis

Columbus school superintendent Dr. John Ellis unveiled a huge two-year construction program at a special Committee-of-the-Whole meeting of the Columbus Board of Education last week.

Ellis said his proposals were designed to relieve the most serious facilities problems facing the school system and "to demonstrate immediate response to the high level of support given the schools by the people of Columbus at the general election last Tuesday.

"THE COMMUNITY mounted an all-out effort to pass our $89.5 million bond issue. Now, the Board of Education and school administration have the responsibility to respond with an all-out effort to see that the new and improved facilities promised during the campaign are planned and built without delay," Ellis said.

He added, "I'm pleased that the Board moved its Committee - of - the - Whole meeting forwarded by four days. We have an enormous task ahead of us. Every day we can gain now will mean that students will have the buildings that much sooner."

Ellis' proposals were spelled out in detailed exhibits, a staff organization plan, and a time line.

THE SUPERINTENDENT put a price tag of $55 million on the proposals and recommended a bond sale of $30 million in 1973 and $25 million in 1974 to finance "the highest priority projects in the total program approved by voters."

Observers noted that the proposals were record-shattering in magnitude. The largest annual volume of construction previously undertaken by the school system was the $12,650,000 program initiated in 1965, the first year of the last bond issue approved by voters before Tuesday.

During the campaign, Ellis had cited four top-priority needs: new schools and additions to relieve overcrowding, a career-vocational center at the Metropolitan Career Center (formerly Ft. Hayes), four developmental learning centers, and a new school for crippled children.

ALL FOUR AREAS were prominently mentioned in the last of 70 projects Ellis submitted to the Board.

Of the 70, five were described by the superintendent as being on "a contingency basis until legal proceedings instituted following the State Board of Education's transfer of area in the city of Columbus but in the Westerville school district are cleared up."

Ellis added, "We need a judicial decision soon if we are to plan properly for the education of the children in the affected area. We have the funds to build the schools these children need, but we cannot proceed until the court confirms the ruling of the State Board of Education."

ELLIS EMPHASIZED that delay in the court decision would not interrupt steps to relieve overcrowding in the area north of Route 161 that already is in the Columbus City School District.

He said, "Planning to provide new facilities for these children, both at the elementary and secondary level, should be well underway before Christmas regardless of the status of the court case involving their neighbors in the Westerville tract."

ELLIS RECOMMENDED that planning be started on the following projects immediately following Board authorization:

– Five new secondary schools – high schools to be located in the Bethel Road-Goodwin Road area and the Briggs Road-Eureka Avenue area and junior-senior high schools to be located in the Beechcroft Road-Route 161 area, Mock Road-Sunbury Road area, and Refugee Road-Noe Bixby Road area. The site for the new west side high school is yet to be selected.

– Four new developmental learning centers – replacement structure for Franklin Junior High School, conversion of Fulton School into a junior high school, replacement structure for Douglas Elementary School, and an elementary school in the Dresden Avenue-Arlington Avenue area. The Franklin and Douglas projects require site selection.

– Additions and- or remodeling at three high schools – Marion-Franklin, Northland, and Walnut Ridge.

– Additions and-or remodeling at four junior high schools – Johnson Park, Sherwood, Woodward Park and Yorktown.

– Additions and-or remodeling at 11 elementary schools – Alpine, Cedarwood, Deshler, Devonshire, Easthaven, Hudson, Oakmont, Parkmoor, South Mifflin, Sullivant, and Winterset.

ELLIS PROPOSED that planning be initiated on the following projects before the end of March, 1973:

– A new elementary school to be located in the Noe Bixby Road-Refugee Road area.

– Conversion of Clearbrook Elementary School into a school for the emotionally handicapped through the construction of an addition and remodeling.

– Additions and-or remodeling at seven junior high schools – Beery, Clinton, Dominion, Hilltonia, Linmoor, Monroe and Ridgeview.

– Additions and-or remodeling at 10 elementary schools – Avondale, Brentnell, Cassady, Duxberry, Main, Shepard, Stockbridge, Walden, West Broad, and Woodcrest.

ELLIS RECOMMENDED that the following projects be initiated in January, 1974:

– Site expansions at five schools – East and Eastmoor high schools and Avondale, Indianola, and Siebert elementary schools.

– Acquisition of four new secondary-school sites – to be located in the Brice Road-Refugee Road area, the Innis Road-Cleveland Avenue are, the Sunbury Road-McCutcheon Road area and the Williams Road-Parsons Avenue area.

THE FIVE PROJECTS placed on a contingency basis by Ellis included a new junior high school in the Cleveland Avenue-Kilbourne Avenue area; new elementary schools in the Beechcroft Road-Route 161 area, the Morse Road-Cleveland Avenue area, and the Schrock Road-Skyway Drive area; and a secondary school site acquisition in the Cleveland Avenue-Route 161 area.

To place the Board on record as requesting prompt court action on the Westerville transfer case, Ellis submitted a draft of a resolution that may be included on the agenda for the November 21 Board meeting.

OTHER EXHIBITS distributed by the superintendent dealt with the role of the Board of Education on critical matters involved in a construction program, administrative procedures governing the operation of Advisory Committees on Educational Programs and Facilities, and four job descriptions.

Only one of the four job descriptions, that of a contract compliance officer, would require an addition to the present adminstrative staff.

He also would administer the equal-employment-opportunity provisions of such contracts and agreements and the routine labor relations compliances required for wages, fringe benefits and related matters for such contracts and agreements.

OTHER JOB descriptions dealt with personnel currently on the central administrative staff who would be given special responsibilities in working with project planning committees.

Ellis termed the Committee-of-the-Whole meeting "indispensable in providing direction for the administrative staff as it prepares resolutions relating to the construction program for the November 21 Board agenda."

A Peace Treaty Is Signed

THE STORY OF THANKSGIVING is a well known one. It dates back to the pilgrims and their struggle to survive in the wilds of their new country, America. Plymouth Colony might not have survived if not for the help of friendly Indians, the only true natives of this country. In this picture, children portray the pilgrims and the Indians of Plymouth Colony. Singing a peace treaty are the Indians Massasoit, Samoset and Squanto along with Pilgrims Miles Standish and Governor Carver of the colony. Just as these children do, each one of us should look back o the original story of that day and be thankful that the Indians, a far greater group at that time, were willing to welcome the pilgrims into their country and to live with them in peace.

FOR MOHAWK STUDENTS

Educational Center Becomes Reality

A proposed educational materials center aimed at boosting reading skills and achievement levels among Mohawk Junior-Senior High School students will become a reality thanks to contributions from the Columbus Foundation and Battelle Memorial Institute.

Ted Turner, Mohawk principal, said the school has received $3,000 from the foundation and $1,000 from Battelle to help finance the project.

The contributions will be added to $2,500 in state funds awarded through the school system's Department of Special Program Development, providing a total of $6,500 for the materials center, Turner said.

The money will be used, the principal explained, to purchase a wide assortment of materials that Mohawk's 68 teachers can use to supplement their regular classroom instruction in ways that will help students improve their communication skills.

Mrs. Fredericka Miller, Mohawk instruction coordinator and developer of the project, said the materials will be suited to various levels of ability and will include paperback books, newspapers, magazines, tapes, slides, and filmstrips.

Mrs. Miller said the school's reading teachers will play a major role in the operation of the materials center. "They will serve as consultants to other teachers to help them use the new materials in ways that will encourage reading among students by providing them with books and pamphlets that match their interests and abilities," she said.

Mrs. Miller noted that the audio-visual material would prove especially helpful in helping younger students and poor readers by increasing their interest in subjects, making them more likely to read about them.

The materials, she said, will be "relevant and up-to-date" and will "deal in depth with issues and subjects that textbooks often only mention."

She believes that students will benefit from being exposed to more than just the one point of view expressed in texts used in classes.

She explained that the materials to be purchased will be chosen by a committee made up of Turner, herself, other members of the school staff, and Mohawk students.

"Some sample materials have already been ordered for review by the committee," she said, adding that the materials center, to be set up in storage rooms on the second and third floor of the school, will be in operation as soon as possible.

Two Columbus Men Elected To Committee

Two Columbus men have been elected as officers of the executive committee of the Capital University Board of Regents. They are Donald E. Broehm, 893 Plum Ridge, who will serve as vice-chairman of the board; and Robert Lazarus Jr. of 2094 Park Hill Drive, a representative-at-large.

The two local residents were among seven regents elected to the executive committee during the board's meeting Nov. 13 and 14 on the Capital campus.

ELECTED AS THE new chairman of the board was the Rev. Reginald Holle, presently of Detroit, Michigan but who will become pastor of a Parma, Ohio church after January 1. He succeeds former chairman William E.L. Young of 731 S. Remington Rd., a member of the board for 14 years.

In other action, the 26-member board of regents authorized the administration to implement an affirmative action plan at the university, employment practices in recruitment, hiring and promotion for all job classifications at Capital. In a related move, the regents also approved the establishment of a personnel office on campus.

During the two-day meeting, regents also were presented with the university's budget figures for the preceding and current academic years. The university ended the last school year with a balanced budget, the first in several years. In addition, revised 1972-73 budget figures show total revenues of $8.1 million, representing a nine per cent increase over last year. This also is projected to be a balanced budget.

IN OTHER AREAS, upon recommendation of the faculty, the regents authorized a new bachelor of fine arts degree program, effective with the current academic year. The board also authorized the adoption of a new academic leave policy for faculty members.

Promotions in rank were approved by the board for 16 faculty members, and tenure was granted to 10 members of the Capital faculty.

Faculty members promoted to the rank of professor include: Clark Dehne, chemistry; Bonnie Lisko, modern languages; Frank Hussey, music; Josiah Blackmore, law; Brian Freeman, law; and Jean Mortland, law.

THOSE PROMOTED to the rank of associate professor are: Thomas McCrystal, psychology; Herbert Schneider, education; Nancy Perrini, music; John Mitchell, music; Livingston Baker, law; William Bluth, law; and Robert Wade, associate dean of the law school.

Those promoted to the rank of assistant professor include: Donald Hunsinger, physical education; Ray Eubanks, music; and Elaine Schroeder, nursing.

The 10 faculty members granted tenure by the board are: Mary Cline, nursing; Richard Suddendorf, music; Paul Beach, physics; Bonnie Harmony, physical education; Jeannette Henney, sociology; Judith Sturnick, English; William Wright, education; Josiah Blackmore, law; William Bluth, law; and John Palmer, law.

Registration Begins For ODC Courses

Reflecting its determination to serve the broad Columbus area, the Continuing Education Division of Ohio Dominican College lists five new evening courses among 32-credit courses to be offered during the college's Second Semester. The semester opens Jan. 8. Registration is now open.

Richard R. Teaff, director of Continuing Education at Ohio Dominican, said today that in direct response to requests of local business and industrial leaders who attended last Spring's Business Forum at Ohio Dominican, the division will offer "Chemistry 60 - Analytical Chemistry II - Instrumental Analysis."

The course, to be taught by Sister Mary Hertrich, O.P., will meet Tuesday and Thursday from 4:30 to 5:20 p.m., with lab sessions to be arranged at the convenience of the students.

The prerequisite, "Chemistry 50 - Analytical Chemistry" was offered evenings during fall semester as a direct result of suggestions first aired by those attending the Business Forum.

In another area of service, Teaff's division recently completed canvasses of individual teachers and compiled results of surveys among Columbus Public School teachers of the educable mentally retarded (EMR) and those of other schools to determine course needs to help teachers of EMR qualify for State Certification required by 1974.

The Ohio Dominican Continuing Education Division has scheduled a special section of Ed. 62, which will meet Wednesday evenings from 5:25 to 7:05 beginning Jan. 24. The study will satisfy the State requirement for a course in curriculum and instructional material for the educable mentally retarded. The two-credit course will include language arts, arithmetic and social studies.

According to Teaff, computer science has come to Ohio Dominican. "Mathematics 86 - Special Topics: Fortran," is scheduled Monday and Thursday evenings from 7:15 to 9 p.m., with laboratories preceding class sessions.

Taught by Herbert Wright of the ODC Mathematics Department, the course will include an in-depth study of the Fortran (computer) language, including control statements; formatted, unfromatted, and auxiliary input-output statements; and specification and data statements. Prerequisite is Mathematics 34 or permission from Wright.

Another course new to the evening group is "Physics 86 - Special Topics: Astronomy." Taught by Robert Wright of the Physics Department, the course is a descriptive one, concerned with aspects of both ancient and modern views of astronomy.

It will include coverage of the solar system (planets), stars, galaxies and cosmology (the orgin and structure of the universe). No prerequisite is required.

Rounding out the new evening, credit curriculum will be "Sociology 86 - Women and Society." The interdisciplinary course, being coordianted by Sr. Dolores Angelini, O.P, will emphasize the historical, social cultural, psychological and vocational aspects of American women.

Registration is open to both men and women. The class will meet from 6:20 to 8:10 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Senior Citizens - Here's Action

Lunches are now being served Monday through Friday from 11:30 till 1 in the Canteen at the 1100 East Broad Recreation Center.

Soups, sandwiches, salads and casseroles are served by senior citizen volunteers. Self-service coffee and snacks are available from 9 to 4:30.

Many groups at 1100 are planning ahead for Christmas. Carols are in the air in the Singing Group under the direction of Ellen Judy on Wednesdays at 6 p.m. Gifts and flowers are being done in Emma Dickerson's Flowermaking class on Tuesdays at 10 a.m.

Candleholders may be made in Pottery on Tuesday or Wednesday afternoons from 1:30 to 4 with Candlemaking on Thursday morning at 10:30.

Sewing classes on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday are making holiday garments as well as gift items, and the Crafts Class on Wednesday afternoons from 1 to 3:00 is involved in making unique Christmas decorations. Senior citizens are welcome to come and participate in any of these activities.

The 1100 Recreation Center will be closed this Thursday for Thanksgiving

Parade In Columbus

Lazarus' Santa Claus Will Arrive Sunday

Santa Claus will arrive next Sunday, Nov. 26, in Columbus in a gala parade moving from Fifteenth Avenue and High Street south on High Street to Town Street.

The parade will begin at 11:30 a.m.

Joining the line of march in the annual event sponsored by Lazarus will be new floats depicting a giant whale, Frosty the Snowman and a fanciful pirate ship.

The floats will carry colorfully costumed storybook and fairytale characters including Humpty Dumpty, Old King Cole, Snoopy and Luci, and the Old Woman in the Shoe with all her brood. They will be joined in the procession by dozens of cavorting clowns, unicyclists, drill teams and marching bands from New Lexington, Groveport, Grove City, Mansfield Madison, Scioto Darby, Columbus DeSales and Huntington High School in Chillicothe.

As the band and drill team units reach Town and High Streets, they will present brief special performances for spectators. Santa Claus will be the final attraction in the parade and is scheduled to arrive at Town and High at about 1:30 p.m. when he will greet young onlookers and invite them to follow him across the red carpet on High Street and up to his holiday house on Lazarus Sixth Floor, where he'll be in residence until Christmas.

The Lazarus Downtown store will be open Sunday from noon to 6 p.m.

The parade is planned and executed by Lazarus personnel. Months of planning go into its accomplishment and Lazarus associates volunteer to be participants.

Why does the Lazarus store go to all this trouble? "It's part of our policy to participate in endeavors for the benefit of the community and we feel that Santa Claus is one of the few magical things in which the youngsters of Columbus still believe", says a Lazarus spokesman. "We do it because it's fun and because it's become a tradition in Columbus."

Mershon Will Have Shows

The Performing Arts Repertory Theatre (PART) Foundation will present a play for children, "Young Ben Franklin," at 2 p.m., Friday, Nov. 24 at Mershon Auditorium.

Tickets for this event are available at the Mershon Ticket Office, 30 W. 15th Avenue and are priced at $1 for all seats. For information and reservations, call 422-2854.

You're never too old to hear better

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid ever made will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Try it to see how it is worn in the privacy of your own home without cost or obligation of any kind. It's yours to keep, free. It weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. No wires lead from body to head.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Write to Dept. 0000, Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

It seems a crying shame that one of my favorite new plays will be here in Columbus with a terrific cast and I don't have a chance to see it.

"The Effect of the Gamma Rays on The Man In The Moon Marigolds" by Paul Zindel won the Pulitzer Prize, New York Drama Critic's Award, Obie Award and others. The place to see it is our own beautiful Ohio Theater and it is here only through November 25 at 8:30 p.m. with 2:30 p.m. performances Wednesday.

Teresa Wright has the role of the deserted mother of two rather strange teen age girls. There is also an elderly female boarder involved. It is a bittersweet comedy. Do me a favor and go see this one for me. For ticket information call 469-0939.

There are two productions for children coming up that I feel you should know about now, so that you can plan ahead to take the kiddies.

The first is "Noah and the Whale, Jonah and the Ark" which will be performed at the Ohio Theatre December 9 at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. The Performing Arts Repertory Theater of New York will present this play as part of this year's Columbus Junior Theater of the Arts Discovery Series.

The style will be somewhat similar to Players Club's presentation of "Story Theatre" for Junior Theater last year. The kids enjoyed that one, so why not take them to see this one, too? For ticket information call the Junior Theater at 224-6672.

The second is "Rapunzel and the Witch", a Prairie Players production, at Prairie Lincoln Elementary School December 9 at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. and again December 16 at Prairie Players, 6463 West Broad at the same times. I suggest you go down to the Ohio Theater and then out to Prairie Players. It is so convenient with our freeway system to get out west from anywhere in the area. Just get off 270 at Broad Street and head West.

The Newark branch of Ohio State University has a group called Lamplighters, under the direction of Dr. Robert E. Dorrell and they are doing John Patrick's "The Hasty Heart". This is a very heart warming drama, with touches of comedy, about a wounded Scottish soldier in a convalescent hospital in the orient - about his stubborness, his pride and his falling in love in his final weeks of life.

The play runs November 28 through December 2 at Founders Hall on the Newark campus. The number for tickets is 366-3321.

Dog License Sale Will Start Dec.1

The 1973 dog licenses will go on sale at the Court House Friday, December 1, according to Arch J. Warren, Franklin County Auditor.

They will also go on sale at Sears Northland, 1811 Morse Rd.; Sears Eastland, 2765 Eastland Mall and Sears Westland, 4411 West Broad St., the same day.

AUDITOR Warren is emphasizing the time-saving convenience of using the mail-order application which appears in this paper today.

Those not having an application form can still obtain a license easily by mail. All they need do is submit a description of the dog (sex, age, color, breed and whether it is long or short-haired), together with the owner's name and address to the Franklin County Auditor's Office, License Division, Court House, Columbus, Ohio 43215, together with a self-addressed, stamped envelope and the appropriate fee. All dogs three months or older on January 1, 1973 must be licensed.

LICENSES purchased on or before the January 20 deadline are $2 each; thereafter, a $1 penalty is added. Kennel licenses are $10 each through the January 20 deadline, after which there is an additional $5 penalty assessment.

Those purchasing tags by mail are urged to send no cash; rather, they should remit by money order or check.

This year, as a public service to their customers, the Sears stores are selling dog licenses for the first time. There is a twenty-five cents ($.25) charge for this service, over and above the regular $2.00 fee.

The offices of County Auditor Arch J. Warren are open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Fraiday. Licenses can be purchased at the Sears stores during their regular store hours.

Cartoon Is Film Subject

"Flicks," a history of the animated cartoon, is the weekend's free movie offering at the Ohio Historical Center, Interstate 71 and 17th Avenue, Columbus, under sponsorship of The Ohio Historical Society.

The movie is presented at 2 and 3 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday, November 25-26 in the Center's auditorium. Admission is free.

THANKSGIVING DAY THANKSGIVING

Today is Thanksgiving, a day to revere.

That we and our loved ones are all here,

To join in the blessings of this wonderful day.

In our Country, the land of the free and the ome of the brave

There are many Mothers with broken hearts,

So how blessed are we to be right here,

And close to the ones we love so dear

Thurburisms Delightful

'Jabberwock' Lights Drake Union Theatre

BY KATHY DEVANEY

"Jabberwock" proved a fitting opening play for the new Thurber Theatre in the O.S.U. Drake Union on the east bank of the Olentangy River.

The play by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee is about "the improbabilities lived and imagined by James Thurber in the fictional city of Columbus, Ohio."

People who live in Columbus or who are familiar with the university will enjoy the fun poked at both.

THE CAPACITY crowd at the 622 seat theatre laughed and applauded the "improbabilities" of, supposedly, the World War I period.

The jokes were surprisingly up to date.

Thurber's only daughter, Mrs. Frederick (Rosemary) Sauers, plays her own grandmother, Mary Agnes, who remains calm through turmoil but feins madness to drive out maids whose feelings she doesn't want to hurt.

THE PLAY warms its concrete and plastic setting.

The authors say the play is "a slightly off-key hymn to the beauty of nonsense and non-conformity."

Jamie and his family certainly don't conform to what most people consider normal family life.

His moves from then to now keep the audience laughing in wonderment.

The play was written especially for the new theatre which Thurber recognized as needed for the campus when he was a student.

On display in the luxuriously lobby overlooking the river are some of the 85,000 pages of original manuscripts and family mementoes that are part of the Thurber collection.

The play will continue through Dec. 2 under the direction of Dr. Roy Bowen, professor of theatre.

Getting Older Is . . .

...Ordering mashed potatoes instead of French fries.
...Walking past the penny scale.
...Walking around the mud puddles.
...Falling asleep while reading (?) Playboy.
...Keeping the bathroom door ajar.
...Looking forward to Spring when Winter still hasn't arrived.
...Passing up the big Saturday night dance because it's too much trouble getting ready to go.
...Not enjoying writing your name in the snow on your car window.
...Thinking of snow as a four-letter word.

Nine Years Ago

IT DOESN'T seem possible it's been nine years.

Most people know where they were, what they were doing and how they heard the news.

I WAS in next to the last period study hall when the principal made the announcement that "the president has been shot."

The praying and crying started. And probably the thought that it can't happen here. It happens in other countries.

Near the end of the period he announced the death of the president.

We had a horrible teacher last period who expected us to take shorthand dictation.

SHE couldn't understand why we couldn't. "Just because your pep rally was cancelled, shouldn't bother you."

"We don't care about any stupid pep rally," one of the girls screamed. "The president has been shot."

MY EMOTIONS exploded after school. I remembered how I used to rush home from school Fridays so I could see his press conference.

The weekend and beyond the nation mourned the loss of a president and, to some a member of the family.

Optimists Saluted

National Youth Appreciation Week has been set aside to pay tribute to the vast majority of youth so often overlooked or disregarded.

Optimist clubs have, for the past 15 years, conducted observances that recognize contributions and accomplishments of youth. These programs have recognized youth activities such as heroism, church work, tutoring of retarded children, serving as volunteers in hospitals, outstanding school achievement and many other acts of service. In times when much press is given to the foolish acts of a few, it is refreshing to learn of the solid and beneficial contributions of today's youth.

From a beginning in North Carolina, Youth Appreciation Week has grown to the extent that the Congress of the United States and the President issued a Public Law designating National Youth Appreciation Week.

Optimist International is proud of the fact that its members in more than 3,000 communities have promoted and developed Youth Appreciation Week observances.

The objectives of National Youth Appreciation Week are as follows:

-To recognize the accomplishments of youth in the home, school, church and community.

-To promote more active participation by members of families in the interest and activities involving the family as a unit; and to encourage parents to rededicate themselves to the responsibilities of parent hood.

-To encourage organizations and other groups to publicly show their respect for youth.

-To encourage the news media to recognize the accomplishments and contributions of youth through regular and special features.

-To provide the proper environment for youth, including opportunities for participation in recreational and social activities.

-To focus attention on the influence religion and morals have on the lives of youth and to encourage youths to actively participate in spiritual activities.

-To encourage a greater interchange of ideas between adults and youth leading to a broader understanding of each other's problems.

We at the Spectator have always been cognizant of the fact that youth are the most important commodity the country has to offer.

That we should guide them to grow straight and tall, and yet to be able to bend when necessary, should be our goal.

We salute the area Optimist Clubs and offer them our support in their programs to help the youth.

From Grass Roots

"THE LAST HURRAH" has been sounded, the gladiators have gone - the people have signalled "thumbs up" or "thumbs down".

The election is over. And we breathe a sigh of relief.

GOVERNMENT must function within itself and be responsible to the people's needs. In many areas decisions must rise above party affiliation. In some the party line will be followed. This is expected when the winning party must shore up its walls to pound out its policies with relentlessness so that they can project the ideas of the majority of the people into a form of government.

It seems as though we have always been at a crossroads of some kind when the political wheels started their churning toward election day with convincing messages seeking the majority vote.

THIS newspaper steered clear of political candidate endorsements. We found it refreshing November 8 when we had the opportunity to talk on an even keel with some of the winners and losers.

We sensed a strong vote this election for candidates at all levels of office as individuals and not necessarily party structure.

It is very obvious to us that there are no such things as "block votes" where a candidate can depend on a group of votes to put him over the top.

NOW THAT the election is over and the government must once again function "for the people, by the people and of the people" there must be support at the grass roots for the programs which the majority feel will best benefit the entire populace.

A FIGHT at close quarters can hinder the progress that is needed to keep our cities, county and state in the forefront.

WE ARE extremely pleased that so many of the school issues on the ballot in our area got favorable response from the voters.

It leads us to believe again that where education is concerned - if the people are properly informed they will support the issue.

WE HOPE the residents in Groveport-Madison will reconsider the bond issue there for improvements and give it a favorable response if the Board makes the decision to re-submit it to the voters. Several teachers and other residents are interested in how The Spectator can help better inform the residents. We will be glad to help.

THE STATE income tax decision came as no surprise. As we mentioned in last week's editorial - give the people an opportunity to express themselves on issues and they will respond to the needs without any "utter chaos" tactics necessary.

We are apparently in the midst of change and reform at all levels of government as it affects each citizen.

HATCHETS must be buried and old hatreds discarded at least until another election comes close and the hurrahs start sounding throughout the land again.

You're Telling Us

Superintendent Thanks Everyone

To the Editor:

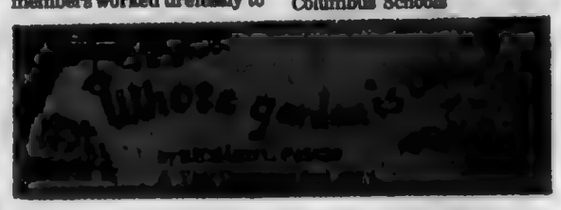
I am delighted that the voters of Columbus have approved the school bond issue.

This is a great victory for the thousands of youngsters who are depending on the schools to prepare them for a successful and rewarding life.

IT IS A victory, too, for the future of our community. The building program will enable the school system to be a valuable partner in the growth and progress of the city.

Many people have worked hard to pass the bond issue. Foremost among them is the Citizens Committee FOR Progress, its chairman, Tom Palmer, and deputy chairmen, Mrs. Pat DeWitt and The Reverend Johnny K. Bryant. Three more dedicated individuals could not have been found to stand at the helm of the bond issue campaign.

THE BOARD of Education and school personnel deserve commendations for their significant efforts. We are also grateful to the Columbus Council of PTAs and the scores of PTA organizations throughout the city whose members worked tirelessly to see that the bond issue story was told in every part of Columbus. The Chamber of Commerce and the business community rendered valuable assistance.



Our thanks also go to Mayor Tom Moody and the Columbus City Council for their unprecedented efforts supporting the bond issue, as well as to the nearly 200 other groups and organizations who supported the issue.

WE OWE a special debt of gratitude to The Spectator Newspapers who devoted substantial amounts of print space to informing the public about the school system's needs and the bond issue's benefits.

MOST OF ALL, I want to thank the individual citizens who voted for the Bond Issue. The voters have shown by their actions that they care about their schools.

They have listened to the needs and have approved a program of progress. They have demonstrated that Columbus has wonderful people and a great future.

Jimmy Stevenson: A Name To Remember

Saturday night, October 28, deep in the hills of Morgan County, eleven Ohioans received recognition for their tremendous contributions to the enjoyment of outdoor Ohio and the conservation of our natural resources.

THE OCCASION was the annual Conservation Hall of Fame awards banquet. The nominees to the Hall were: the late Ben Drayer, a long-time friend of mine, co-worker, and for fifty years a leader in organized conservation circles; Walter Tucker, for 25 years director of the Columbus Metropolitan Park system and responsible for its growth into the present beautiful green necklace around Columbus; Dr. J. Arthur Herrick, Kent State University, who more than anyone else in Ohio is responsible for the preservation of the unique biota of Ohio; and Ed Thomas, past curator of Natural History of the Ohio Historical Society and longtime author of the weekly nature articles and the "Professor Naturebug" series in the Columbus Sunday Dispatch.

OF THE SEVEN persons receiving Conservation Achievement Awards I know Jimmy Stevenson the best. For many years I have been privileged to visit with him at his apple farm high on the hill overlooking the gorge at Mohican State Park.

For most of his adult life Jimmy was forest ranger and, during the 1930's, he was director of the Civilian Conservation Corps in the Loudonville area that reforested the maples and white pines that today give us back such a rich heritage in breath-taking beauty.

TO KNOW JIMMY and his family is to love them. Lovers of nature, their homes are ringed with bird feeders and the myriad of feathered friends that go with them. I have tramped Jimmy's acreage and seen for many years the results of his industry. I sincerely believe he would have quit the apple business years ago except that he wanted to be sure the deer living close by would have their autumn treats from his trees.

ONE SUNDAY afternoon years ago I joked about hunting the deer in his orchard. His chilly response let me know that jokes were not to be made of such a precious subject. I never joked about them again.

Two more people receiving awards richly deserved were Evelyn Stebbins and Pat Smith, both of the Cleveland area, both a valuable part of Citizens for Clean Air and Water Inc., and both genuine bunzaws during the 109th General Assembly.

Having worked with them through the Ohio and Cuyahoga County tuberculosis and respiratory disease associations, I respect their tenacity and their talents. They were the two key people in the "Breather's Lobby" drive of two years ago that generated 1,800 people at the air quality hearings in Cleveland. This was probably the most successful citizens' demonstration for the environment ever staged in Ohio - and not one rock was thrown.

ANOTHER PERSONAL friend, Ralph Ramey, of the Columbus Metro Parks and also of the Nature Conservancy group, also received high recognition well deserved. Other awards were given to Victor Grote, president, Putnam County Sportsmens Alliance; Dr. Carl Johnson of the Ohio State University School of Natural Resources; and Stanley Rowe, of Cincinnati, founder of the Cincinnati Nature Center.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: When notices are given in the newspapers that nominations are being accepted for conservation awards, search your circle of friends and, if there is someone who has accomplished something for the outdoors, nominate him. He deserves recognition.

International Tree Lighting Set At COSI

A community event that always highlights the coming of the Christmas season for young and old alike is the annual lighting of the International Christmas Trees at the Center of Science and Industry, 280 East Broad St. This year the event will take place at 7:30 p.m., Friday, November 24. The public is invited to attend.

At 7:30 p.m. Santa Claus will enter the lobby and touch his magic wand to an electronic switch which will turn on the beautifully lighted Christmas trees of many lands including two new ones made by Ohioans.

After Santa lights the trees, there will be carols by the Strollers of Upper Arlington High School; a sing-along with Mike Williams at a Conn Theater organ; a movie, "Mr. Magoo's Christmas;" candle dipping and baked cookies in the Summer Kitchen of the Durell Street of Yesteryear, and an exhibit of early American toys and international dolls in the Street's Department Store.

Another highlight of the Center's pre-Christmas observances will be the first presentation of COSI's annual planetarium show, "The Star of Bethlehem." Here the audiences witness the many astronomical phenomena that may or may not have caused the star to be seen by the Wise Men.

Two new trees are being added to COSI's Christmas tree exhibit this year, which is sponsored by the Columbus Rotary Club. One is a tree that spins - a spiraled tree of plywood and tinsel that is in perpetual motion, created by Don Lord of Clinton Hardware. The other tree is called a "Calico Christmas" and is the work of Betsy Shambert of Lancaster.

Other trees on display this year include Victorian England, American Contemporary, Germany, Sweden, Switzerland, Denmark, Japan, Lithuania, Italy Old Russia and Poland. Trees in the unique category include a neon tree, an Ohio Tree, (Sponsored by Gorden Keith Originals), a metal tree, and an electronic musical tree which plays mod music as the mod lights flash on and off.

A Membership Tree will be featured in the main lobby since the annual tree lighting is a part of the Center's November - December Membership Drive. New members joining will be able to hang their own ornament with their name on the Membership Tree.

Benefits of a membership include, free admission to all planetarium shows, subscription to the Center's Reporter, reduced rates for science, and history classes, historical bus tours and field trips, monthly family night movies, use of library, and a ten percent discount in the new Discovery Shop.

ARC 14 supports this program entirely through its fund raising projects.

USO Needs Cookies

The USO of Columbus and Franklin County is in need of cookies for the holiday season.

If you like to bake cookies and would like to donate some for our area service men and women, please call 228-4170 between 7:30 and 3:30. We will arrange to pick up the cookies if needed.

Problem Drinkers

W. Richard Baker, executive director of Maryhaven, Inc., 1415 East Broad St., has announced the start of a new non-residential daytime program for women who desire to seek help for a drinking problem.

Maryhaven, Inc. is a Rehabilitation Center for Alcoholic Women, where women live for varying periods of time. They receive medical, psychiatric and alcoholic counseling which assists them to return to their homes and-or jobs.

The new program is designed for women who are homemakers or those who are not engaged in business, and are able to respond to early identification signs of a drinking problem.

Each weekday, Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the program provides, free of charge, such activities as group discussion, avocational and vocational training, and alcoholic counseling.

The leaders of the program have been thoroughly trained at Maryhaven, Inc. during the past six weeks to provide "hope with understanding" for women in Columbus and surrounding communities.

If you have a drinking problem or know of someone whom you can interest in this new program, please call, or have the person who is in need of help call, Maryhaven, Inc., at 252-2179 for immediate enrollment in the program.

ORT Chapter Plans 'Lox Box' Sale

Hamilton-Woods Chapter of Women's American ORT is sponsoring its second annual "Lox Box" on Saturday, Dec. 9.

"Lox Box", a traditional Sunday morning breakfast will be delivered to your home on Saturday evening, Dec. 9, between the hours of 8 p.m. and 11 p.m.

This treat, which consists of one-third pound of lox, six bagels, four sweet rolls, a small packet of cream cheese, an onion and tomato, will be delivered to your door, all for the price of $4.25.

The profit from this project will be used to support EPIC-Earning Power Improvement Courses. EPIC benefits the poverty stricken masses and enables them to move rapidly from poverty to a job and continued training.

Orders for the "Lox Box Breakfast" will be taken through Nov. 25.

You may place orders by calling Mrs. Sam Davis-861-5341, Mrs. Marvin Paine, 237-5026.

Furs On The Move

GALANOS GEOFFREY BEENE PIERRE CARDIN OSCAR DE LA RENTA

A WOMAN can spend so much time dreaming about a fur coat, some of the best years of her life are over by the time her dream comes true— so how about a few fur specifics to intrigue you and help you make up your mind?

FURS ARE setting a fast pace this fall, and the ones the buyers like best are those with easy, casual, almost sporty looks.

TOPPERS THAT swing out easily over pants—in everything from sable to rabbit. Jackets that lead a double life—shapely enough to look good over pants and short or long skirts. Big sleeve coats—dolmans and kimonos—that have narrow, slim bodies with vertically-worked skins. Tents, again in vertically-worked skins that fall softly to just cover the knee. Wraps that come in practically everything from mink to fox—some of the newest looks are the tone-on-tone borders that sweep down the front of the coat like a long tuxedo collar. Leather and suede highlight furs in bands and pipings for the sportiest looks around.

HOWEVER, THE PALES are the pace setters—making headlines are minks, sable, nutria and foxes.

GEOFFREY BEENE is thinking pale. Soft pearl mink (beige) takes on the four-pocketed safari jacket, snugly waisted with a leather belt, smock sleeve. Vertically worked, the skins are soft, lustrous and very warm, making the jacket versatile for all occasions.

OSCAR DE LA RENTA'S great fall mink is a revival of the majestic Oriental feeling—the fabulous kimono sleeve worked horizontally, while the body of this lustrous demi-buff mink is fashioned of vertically worked skins. A suede belt pulls it all together.

GALANOS LIKES the great coat for fall—wrapped, belted and sophisticated. Mink with the over-sized notched sable collar, full funnel sleeves—the big wrap sharpened up with a suede belt, that makes a woman look and feel even more feminine.

PIERRE CARDIN, in the first fur collection he has ever done, chose black and white mink to give a striped effect—in between, leather adds a textured contrast on side panels and piped details—pagoda sleeves and softly shaped skirt.

ACCORDING TO the designers—buy any fur—just so it's mink!

HOW TO FIND TIME FOR YOURSELF

Well you see, it's all in getting the right help to make the most of the little free time areas in your life. We have a patron who tells us that the time when she gathers herself together and relaxes best is under the dryer in our salon. There are no loud, distracting noises. The new, comfortable, cool dryers are certainly a far cry from the old torture chambers. For appointment please just give us a ring. Advice is free and you don't have to be a regular patron to be welcome here on any basis.

Church Sponsored Book Store Opens This Week

For the many people of all denominations who are interested in the present charismatic renewal in the church, there is a new source of information available to them. It is called the "Dove's Nest" and is located at 614 S. Yearling Rd. in a small shopping center near the Whitehall-Yearling High School.

This week, Nov. 20-25 will be the grand opening of this new Christian Library.

The library is staffed by approximately 30 volunteer workers who serve four hours each week assisting those desiring to use the books, tapes, cassettes, and magazines which are available.

There are facilities for reading, study, and listening to tapes and cassettes as well as a prayer room.

The books and [illegible] may be checked out to use at home. There is no charge for any of these services.

In addition the Dove's Nest is a center for the free distribution of literature. Each month a different book is given free to each family using the library. For instance, the current selection is Pat Boone's book, "A New Song."

The Library hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday; and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday.

The store is sponsored by the Redeemer Church, 1850 Courtright Rd.

NATIONAL DYN-A-VAC

National Dyn-A-Vac Has Unique Business Venture

Have you ever had a desire to be in your own business, either part-time or full time? If you have, then you should talk to National Dyn-A-Vac, Inc., 4147 E. Main St., Columbus, Ohio 43213, and get full details on their high profit vacuum forming plastic business.

THEY HAVE set up a large number of complete vacuum forming businesses in over one half of the United States for people who were looking for a business opportunity that could be started part-time at home and built into a full time business that the entire family could participate in.

Shown above is a picture of one of their show displays at an "Own Your Own Business Show". They travel all over the United States to acquaint people with this fascinating and profitable plastic [illegible].

THIS business is not sold as a franchise, therefore, you buy only the equipment and supplies. The entire investment costs no more than the price of an automobile, and you can recover over 75 per cent of your investment back with your original inventory.

Bank financing, for 36 months, can be arranged with a good credit rating. This can also be a perfect add-on to any existing business, such as; sign printing, silk-screen, rubber stamps, engraving, hobby or gift shops, for that extra profit you need.

SOUND GOOD? Stop in, or call - 237-7411 - for an appointment to see this business opportunity that may be just for you.

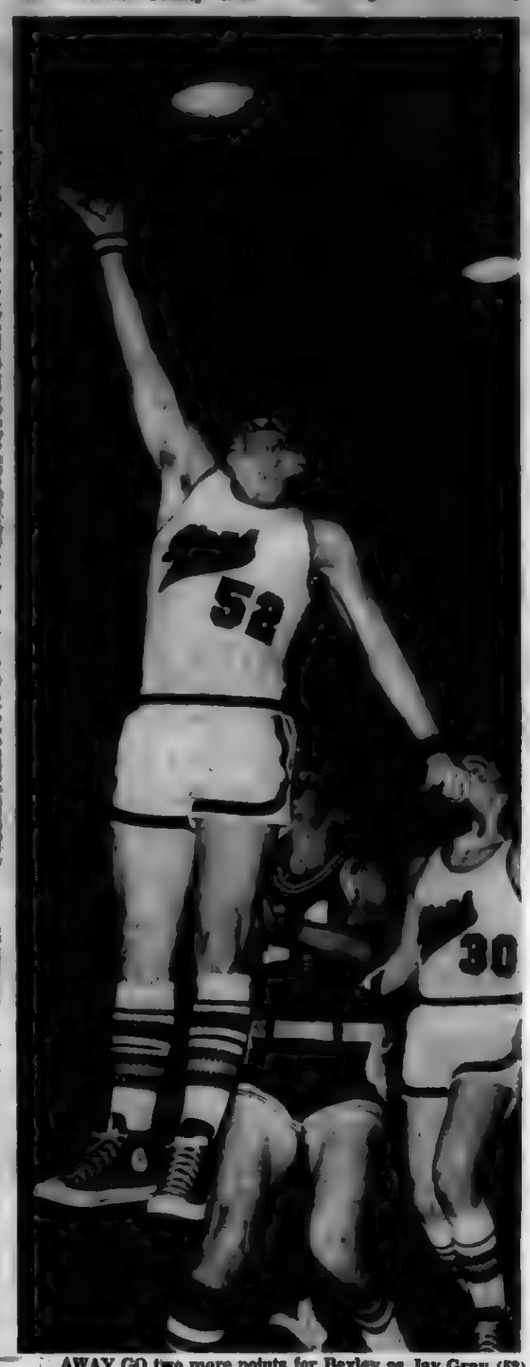
Watterson To State Title Game

WATTERSON still holds the key to a football title for the Franklin County area schools in the state championships.

The Eagles of Ron Shay proved they have plenty going as Cincinnati Reading's No. 7 ranked team fell 12-6 before a passing barrage of QB Art Yaroch.

The sloppy conditions at Troy's field (where pro fullback Bob Ferguson used to cavort) held the Eagles vaunted power running in check but Yaroch found wingback Chip Gentile open for two TD strikes to bring home the victory.

Watterson goes against Akron St. Vincent-St. Mary, Friday, Nov. 24 at 7:30 p.m. at Massillon High School's field.



Akron sports a 9-2 record to Watterson's 10-0 toll of victims.

Although Cincy won the battle of statistics the Eagles proved to be tenacious on defense (three interceptions of Cincy passes when TD land was in sight) and plenty of hard tackling that took the steam out of the Reading [illegible].

The same combination worked for a 60 yeard TD combination in the third period.

CCL All-Stars

Watterson's State Championship AA Eagles placed seven players on the 1972 Central Catholic League all-star team, announced this week.

DeSales placed six, Ready four, Hartley three and Wehrle two.

Eastland Vikings Win It

The Eastland Vikings defeated Reynoldsburg, 14-6, for the 90 lb. Tri-County League Championship last Sunday.

Keith Griffin scored on a 45 yard run and added the extra point for an 8-0 Viking lead in the first period.

Reynoldsburg scored in the second period on a 45 yard run by Brian Smith.

Golfer Will Play In Championship

Lyle Beaver, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Beaver, 4315 Sibley Ave., will play in the Orange Bowl International Golf Championship at Coral Gables, Florida.

The tournament is scheduled Dec. 26-29.

Crandall, Cards Top OCC Stats

Worthington's Tim Crandall and the Worthington team were the only individuals or team in the Spectator area who led a department of the final Ohio Capital Conference league game statistics.

Crandall led in punting average with 19 kicks for 760 yards or a 40 yard per kick average.

The individual leaders in the various departments other than those two were: Gahanna, won 7 and lost none; team defense, Gahanna, 463 rushes and 328 passes against for a yield of only 791 yards or about a 113 yards per game defensive yield; total scoring, Jack Willyard, Gahanna, 10 touchdowns, two field goals and 17 points after touchdown for 83 points; Brad Corkwell, Westerville, most touchdowns, 11; pass interceptions, Mike Cornell, Delaware, 7; individual rushing, Brad Corkwell, Westerville, 115 rushes for 530 yards net and an average of 4.8 yards per carry; individual passing, Jeff Whetsel, Mt. Vernon, 111 passes, 49 completitions, for 567 yards, one touchdown and 11 interceptions; individual receiving, Rick Scott, Mt. Vernon, 27 passes caught, 323 yards and one touchdown.

Leagues Under Way

Basketball Replaces Gridiron Action

THAT elusive round ball started getting chased last weekend as area teams got in a few warm up licks.

Bexley's Mid-8 champs handled Reynoldsburg with ease, Worthington took care of Whetstone and in the Columbus area Central managed to win with ease over Hartley.

The city league races start in earnest this weekend with plenty of action on all Franklin County courts.

Columbus South, the city league champ, goes against Bishop Ready's State AA champs and that should be a humdinger for season openers.

Ready dumped Buckeye Valley last week and no team usually dumps Buckeye Valley that hard on its home court.

Mt. Vernon's OCC champs get a taste of Gahanna and the Lions are among the pre-season favorites to go along with their undefeated grid [illegible].

Delaware at Worthington could be the second most interesting as these two are listed as title contenders.

The OCC darkhorse is Westland and Dan Andreas has his charges geared for a visit to Westerville.

Bexley gets its Mid-8 repeat hopes off the ground in an opener Friday hosting Grandview.

The season is off and running and we'll keep the photos coming your way with action the key word.

UP AND OVER went Bexley's Co-Captain Carl Kraft (34) as he spun in two of his 31 points against Reynoldsburg in Bexley's 81-60 win last Friday, the opener for both teams. That's the Raiders' Tim Murray defending. (Photo by Mike Stafford.)

Go For World Title Sunday

Wild Bunch Are Heart Champs

The Columbus Wild Bunch successfully defended its Heart of Ohio title by defeating the Whitehall Winers, 22-12. The Wild Bunch will travel to Lafayette, Indiana, next weekend to defend its world title by challenging the winner of the Heart of Indiana Adult tackle football league.

Joe McDonough, the Bunch's quarterback, suffered interceptions three times in the first half; however, Whitehall was unable to capitalize on any of them. Whitehall's Roger Brabb's unsuccessful 22 yd. field goal was the only scoring attempt in the first quarter. The Winers, who dominated ball control and field position in the first half finally took advantage of these statistics when Jim Parker scampered 32 yards on a draw play to Wild Bunch's 1 yd. line. (The same draw play which gained 36 yd. TD last week by Roger Brabb against Worthington). Jim Parker took it in on the next play for the score. The extra point was no good.

The next score came with 2 minutes to go in the second quarter when Whitehall's quarterback, Tom Ucker, completed a 35 yd. pass to Charles Buckland.

THE SECOND half belonged to the Wild Bunch, who scored on a 70 yd. drive when Jim Griffin scored from the 3. Behind 12-6 in the fourth quarter, the Wild Bunch showed their championship potential by scoring 16 pts. in the last period. Quarterback, Joe McDonough mixed very effectively, a superb aerial and running attack.

McDonough scored on a four yd. run after engineering a 63 yd. drive. He then followed up by completing an 18 yd. touchdown pass to League's leading scorer, Chuck Wright, followed by Todd Ortlip's PAT Kick, giving them a 19-12 lead, with less than 3 minutes left in the game.

Wild Bunch's defensive play by Grady Bobo, Skip Martin, Randy Walker and Jim Diller, stopped Whitehall's last series and scoring attempts.

The game was put out of reach with Todd Ortip's 29 yard field goal which cinched the game in the end.

Whitehall saw limited service of last week's gamesaver, Steve Southworth, who is recovering from a shoulder injury. He was also League leading pass interception king with 17 interceptions in the season.

Chuck Wright, Wild Bunch, gained League leading scoring honors, with 60 points regular season. He averaged 9.2 yards rushing per carry.

Worthington's Jack Roth led the league with 11 touchdown pass completions followed by Whitehall's Tom Ucker, with 8, and Wild Bunch's Joe McDonough with 7.

Worthington's John Cooke is the League leader in punts with over 564.1 yard average. Todd Ortlip, Wild Bunch, holds the record for the longest field goal.

Packers Were Sertoma Grid Champs

THE PACKERS were the champions of the Suburban Sertoma Football League and posed for this Sertoma photo shortly before the dessert banquet Nov. 12 at Christ Methodist Church where trophies were awarded. Most valuable trophies were awarded to Packers Scott Shaw, Ron Rickenbacker and Gary Miller. The winners Packer entourage are: 1st Row; Julia DeRosier, Kathy Jochem, Karen Skinner, Louvinia Sowards, Amy Kaiser, Marlane Benedum, Tammy Jochem and (not shown) Janet Bauchmayer; 2nd Row: Ron Herman, Geo. Sidner, Jr., Bruce Logsdon, David Bauchmoyer, Don Sheldon, Tony Borghese and Steve Lenart; 3rd Row: David Freeman, Ron Rickenbacker, Gary Miller, Craig Freeman, Tom Vance, Tom Rickenbacker, Jerome Bostic, David Stump, Head Coach John Rickenbacker and Paul Shaw; 4th Row: Paul Hobbs, Jim Rohr, Rob Gettys, Marcus McMillan, Chris Balsimo, Greg Wymer, Scott Shaw and Keith Helsel. Not pictured are Coaches, Geo. Sidner, Sr. and John Paity.

OSU-Michigan Scores Guessed

Who's going to win the Ohio State-Michigan game?

The experts (those are the business people who have predicted scores on a special page in today's paper) have made their educated guesses.

Who'll guess the exact or closest to the exact score?

Then...why not stop in later (or next week at your earliest convenience) and congratulate the winner as well as saying hello to the losers.

WE'RE RIGHT BEHIND YOU...

WHICH MERCHANT KNOWS THE BUCKEYES ? ? ?

AROUND TOWN

AFTER MUCH delay and anticipation, on my part, the new Longhorn Steak House and Cocktail Lounge has finally opened. Believe me, the waiting was worth it.

What a unique, beautiful place. Of course the decor is of the old west, mainly a cowboy motif. For those of you who dined at the old Longhorn you will feel at home in the new spot. The decor is basically the same, with the split rail fences, with the saddles on them. The dining room is larger in the new place, so that you can be served quicker. There is a big cozy fireplace that makes the dining room cozier.

You'll love the place, that's for sure. The lounge is larger and is separated from the dining areas. Both the dining room and lounge are done with very plush furniture. In fact, the entire interior is prettier and plusher than the old one.

SOMETHING that may interest some of you is that the Longhorn has separate banquet rooms that can accommodate up to 150 people.

The exterior of the Longhorn reminds me of a frontier town in an old western movie. It is almost breath taking as you enter their large blacktop parking area. I bet there will be thousands of pictures snapped of the front of the Longhorn Restaurant.

Needless to say the food is just as good delicious as ever. The Longhorn's steaks are just about the best you will find anywhere. And, the prices are very reasonable.

THE LONGHORN Steakhouse and Cocktail Lounge has to be a must on your dining out menu. The food is great, you'll love the atmosphere and the price is right. I know, I dine there often.

IT HAS been a long time since I have told you about the Vegas Club. The place is really off and running. If you have not been in there for awhile, take my advice and drop in soon. The place is really swinging, both day or night.

Let's start with the day bit first. There is a special cocktail hour, from 2 p.m. until 6 p.m. All prices are at rock bottom. But, even with the higher prices, you will want to stop in and take a look at the day mixologist, Ronnie Reed. She may have a boy's name, but there the similarity stops. Her vital signs are 39-22-36! Now, that's enough to make have two or three of your favorite beverages. Ronnie is a 5'7" beauty. This gal do help make the place jump in the afternoon. And, believe me, The Vegas Club does jump.

IN THE evening, beginning at 6 p.m., things definitely takes off for outer space. This is when the three live Go-Go Girls start to shake, rattle and roll. All three are beauties, providing a wealth of entertainment for the customers of The Vegas Club.

Then, at 9 p.m., the fabulous "Surprise" Band alternates with the girls. With men like Bob Hughes on guitar, Jim Luce at the drums, Jerry Rhodes, electric bass and lead singer Larry Strathut, it is no surprise the good music they provide. These boys play a lot of swinging music, that both young and old enjoy. You can catch this outfit Tuesday through Saturday. The Go-Go Girls are there every night.

Make plans to drop in soon. You're in, not only for a surprise, but one heck of a good time.

HOWARD Pestanio, better known to the night people in Columbus as Scratch, has been appointed general manager of the Apple Tree Restaurant. Located on Dublin Road, it is considered one of the finest restaurants Around Town.

Since Scratch has taken over the helm, or the trunk of the apple tree, it is going with live entertainment, Monday through Saturday, 9 p.m. until 2 a.m.

Currently appearing is The New Day.Love, a quartet that I believe to be outstanding. They play all types of music from contemporary to the old [illegible].

SCRATCH has even changed the luncheon menu around to better serve the business man. A couple of his specials are a steamship round of beef or baked ham served on a special made bun. There is also a salad bar which covers the width of the dining room, that has just oddles of goodies on it.

I'll give you more news soon on the Apple Tree

Moore's Stores Reorganizing

Moore's Stores, a 35 year old chain with headquarters in Newark, Ohio, has completed a reorganization according to William S. Moore III, new president of the company.

Moore's, recently experiencing financial difficulties, has reached an amicable accord with its creditors.

Moore's company-owned stores have been formed into four geographical divisions. Each division will be controlled by a district manager who will report directly to the president.

Promotional and buying functions of the company will be coordinated by J. A. Randis, newly-named marketing and merchandising manager.

Randis also will be in charge of Moore's franchise stores and wholesale division.

In addition to these changes, Moore stated, the company's overall procedures and policies have been modernized to such an extent that the firm is now known as "The New Moore's".

Nature Photo Contest Sponsored By Parks

Color transparencies and color and black and white prints 8 x 10 inches or larger of nature subjects that have been taken in Ohio are eligible.

First, second, third and honorable mention ribbons will be awarded in five categories: Black and White Prints, Color Prints, Slides of Plants, Slides of Animals and General Scenery Slides.

A "Best-of-the-Show" award will also be made.

Following the judging, all entries will be on display at an open house to be held in the Sharon Woods Nature Barn Sunday, December 10, from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

Entries, titled and identified with the owner's name, may be submitted anytime before 5 p.m. Saturday, December 9, by being taken to the naturalist at Beech-Maple Lodge, Blacklick Woods; Cedar Ridge Lodge, Darby Creek the Walden Refuge, Blendon Woods or Spring Hollow or the Naturalist's office at Sharon Woods.

They may also be mailed to Jim Stahl, Metropolitan Parks, P.O. Box 72, Westerville, Ohio 43081.

Entries are limited to five slides and five prints per person.

Club and organizational news should be sent to the Spectator by Thursday noon.

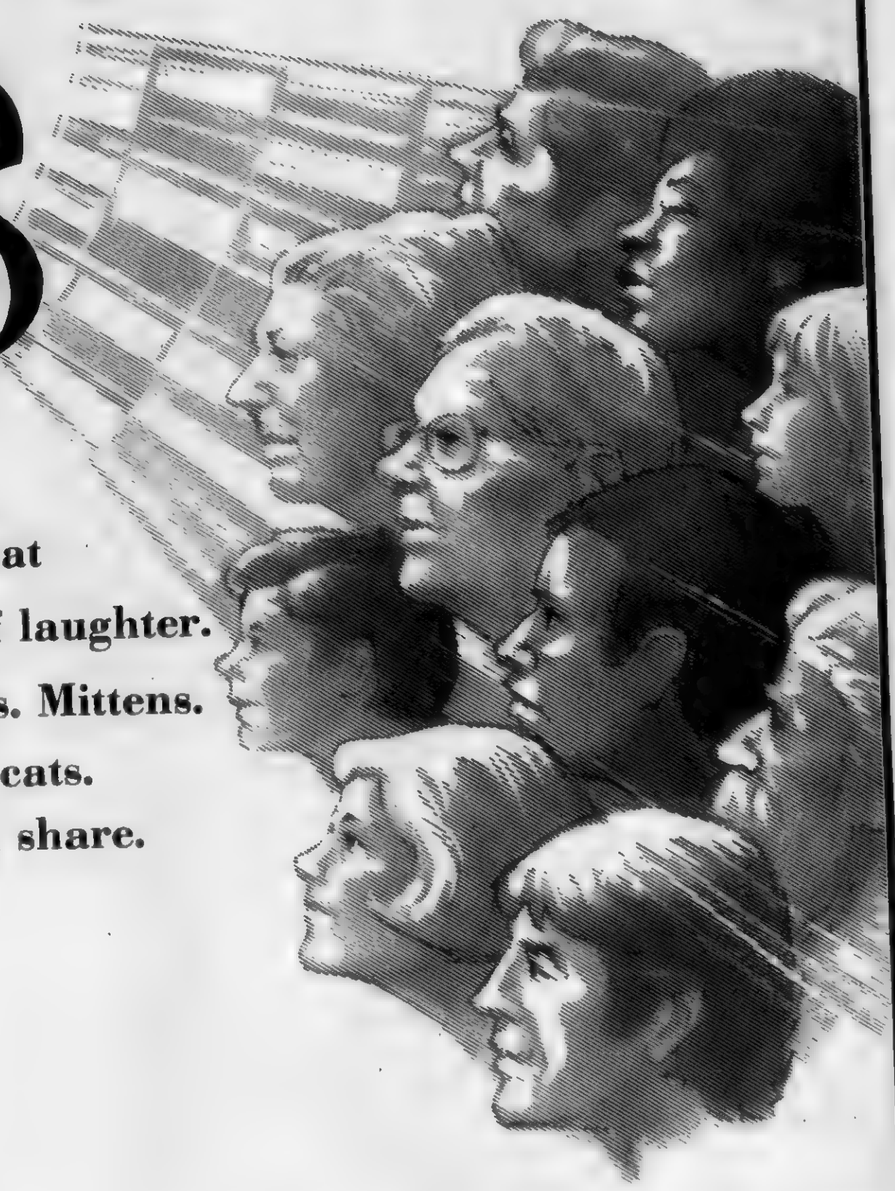
They'll Serve Great Pancakes

PANCAKES, sausage and all the trimmings will be the menu Saturday, Nov. 25 when the Reynoldsburg Shrine Club offers a menu rest for the weary Thanksgiving housewife. The club's annual event will be held at Herbert Mills School, 6826 Retton Rd., two blocks east of Rosehill Road, from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. It's all the pancakes you can eat for one buck ($1) and that's a real bargain for all those who have had thier fill of turkey and those trimmings. Mayor Richard Daugherty kicked off the ticket campaign by resolving that all residents should attend the event. From left are Shriners Bert Ebright, John Fry, Mayor Daughtery, Bob Sorensen and Art Helms. (Spectator photo by Ray Adams.)

Bexley Movie Nov.24

Bexley Parks & Recreation Department is sponsoring the showing of the movie depicting the dare-devil antics of the famous cyclist Evel Knievel, starring George Hamilton, at the Jeffrey Mansion Friday, Nov. 24.

Admission will be 50 cents per person.



There will be two showings - at 2 p.m. for junior high and senior high grades or at 8:30 p.m. for high school students only. The movie will be shown in the third floor performing arts room at the mansion.

The Mansion will also be open for youth center activities (pool, carom pool, table tennis, cards, etc.) from 1 to 4 p.m. and 8 to 11 p.m. on Friday, for all Bexley youth and their guests.

John Brennan, supervisor of recreation for the Bexley Parks and Recreation Department, will be in charge of an open gym program at the new gymnasium on Friday afternoon from 1 to 4 p.m. for Bexley youth in elementary and junior high grades only.

LET US GIVE THANKS

For All The Things We Take For Granted . . .

Let's be grateful now for small and simple blessings that brighten daily lives. The smell of coffee. The sound of laughter. A cloudless autumn sky. Fireplaces and favorite books. Mittens. Mufflers. Good warm socks. Crunchy apples. Purring cats. Work to do and time to rest. Thins to care about and share. Loved ones to share them with.

Restaurant. For now, take my word for it, the place was always considered an excellent place to go for food and beverage. Now, with Scratch there, I know the Apple Tree Restaurant will become "the place to go," in Columbus.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Princess Habeeba's new school, Habeeba's Dance of the Arts, has moved to 2650 N. High St. She has set up a beautiful studio, and has a few openings. Take it from me, all of you girls should check with Habeeba. She uses the techniques of the fine arts of belly dancing to get you to lose weight and gain more posie. It is great for figure control. As many of you know, Habeeba used to be a professional belly dancer, appearing all over the world, as well as many network TV shows, including the Johnny Carson program...

The Clock Restaurant is coming on real strong. Under new owners, Jack and Paul Smith, the place is rapidly becoming a first rate night spot. The food is great, and so is the entertainment. Here's the big news about the Clock, beginning Next Monday, the famous Don Bashman, the one man band, will be appearing there nightly. Don is one fine entertainer and performer. He plays organ, piano and trombone, sometimes all at once. Of course, in keeping with the Clock's policy, singers in the audience are always welcome to get up and belt out a few with Don... I caught Glenn and Bill the other night at the Anchor Inn. They are as great as ever. You'll laugh yourself to death with these two. Learned some interesting news while there. Bill Caldwell has sold out, and is building a place in Cleveland. New owner of the Anchor Inn is, believe it or not, Wayne King. No, he is not the famous waltz king. This one owns the Anchor Inn Motel, and is taking over the food and bveverage operation. Wayne plans some remodeling to make the place larger and give everyone a better view of the stage. Glenn and Bill has to be a must on your entertainment schedule...

Arthur Allis, General Manager of the Marriott Inn, 2124 South Hamilton Rd., has

New Manager of the Showboat Landing Restaurant is Raymond Weiss. Mr. Weiss who moved here from Cleveland previously owned and managed his own restaurant in Brecksville, Ohio.

New Sales Manager of the 166 room property is Mark Radzely. Mr. Radzely a native of New York City was with the Hertz Corporation for 3½ years, starting as account representative and more recently holding the position of District Sales Manager supervising eight sales - service representatives. Mr. Radzely will be active in arranging conventions, banquets and other functions at the Marriott.

The new Banquet Service Manager is Jay Brooks. Mr. Brooks started with Marriott in December, 1971 as desk clerk and has served as Banquet Sales Co-ordinator. He attended Hocking Technical Institute where he majored in Hotel and Motel Management.

Marina Hartings has been selected as Banquet Sales Manager. Miss Hartings is a June graduate of Ohio State University, where she received a B.S. degree in Economics. During college she worked part-time at the Marriott as Food and Beverage Auditor.

It's That Time Of Year Again

THOSE JINGLE BELLS you've been hearing since last Friday are real - and not in your imagination. They belong to Santa Claus and he belongs to all the wonderful little boys and girls whose eyes have been lighting up for centuries at the sight of the jolly man. This year is no different with many area stores and organizations sponsoring the visit from Santa Claus. Some we're immediately familiar with are Sears Catalog Store at 5465 Fisher Road on Columbus' West Side and Westland Shopping Center at I-70 and West Broad Street. Organizations sponsoring special one day visits from Santa are listed inside as we receive them. Meanwhile, be sure your child gets to see him. Remember when you were little and could hardly wait?

Columbus Takes Action

Drug Abuse Attack Launched By Board

By Thomas B. Comery
Special Staff Writer

The Columbus Board of Education attacked drug abuse among students by passing a resolution submitted by board member Virginia Prentice at their Nov. 21 meeting.

Mrs. Prentice said that the resolution concerns alcohol and various pills and medical remedies sold daily at pharmacies, as well as such drugs as marijuana.

"Watch television some night for two solid hours and you'll see nothing but commercials for cure-alls, but they don't cure anything," Mrs. Prentice said.

SHE SAID "Students and school personnel estimate that 5 percent to more than 30 percent of high school students are using drugs daily."

"Pollution of our children, our most precious possession, must be stopped," she said. "No one agency, class of people, or media can halt this destroyer of our children. It will take the cooperation of our concerned citizens to stamp out the pushers, the real villain."

In her resolution, Mrs. Prentice called upon others for help in stopping drug abuse:

-She asked school personnel to cooperate with agencies that are fighting drug abuse, be good moral examples, talk with and advise students, and update drug education programs.

-Parents, whom she said should determine if their children are involved with drugs in any way, and set an example themselves by "not relying on drugs to solve social problems."

-MASS MEDIA, which she said should monitor their advertising. "The constant advertising of pills that cure everything from sleeplessness, to lack of energy, to upset stomach, to nerves, is not in the best interest of all society," she said.

-"Students," she said, "you are the real losers. You must realize the ravage of your minds, and be willing to stop pushers by having the courage to identify them to the proper authorities."

Board member Dr. Watson Walker said he is "glad that the resolution includes such things as pills, aspirin, alchool, nicotene and such things that receive little publicity as drugs."

Board President Thomas J. Moyer said the board would consult with authorities on drug abuse and devote its entire session on Dec. 12 to investigating the role of the schools in the fight to control drugs.

IN OTHER action, the board approved a comprehensive plan for the education of mentally and physically handicapped children.

The plan is in response to a new state law that requires each Ohio school district to submit a plan describing the current status of its special education programs, as well as its future needs for providing special education to all handicapped students in the district.

The plan will be submitted to the State Department of Education by Dec. 1.

According to the plan, the Columbus schools now serve over 4,400 children in special education programs for the educable mentally retarded, and those with physical, neurological, emotional, hearing, and vision handicaps.

HOWEVER, this means that only 55 percent of the school system's handicapped students are in special education programs, and that an additional 3,500 handicapped children will need to be served.

Because of the low incidence of handicapped students in the other school districts in Franklin County, Columbus schools will participate in a county-wide cooperative special education plan.

The plan will involve all 17 of the county's school districts, and will be administered by the Metropolitan Educational Council and be governed by the Special Education Committee appointed by the area superintendents.

THE BOARD also assured other Franklin County school districts that the Columbus schools will continue to provide special education programs to their handicapped children.

Columbus schools now has 184 handicapped students from other county school districts. These districts pay $61.70 a month for each student they send to the Columbus schools.

IN OTHER business, the board:

-Changed its policy concerning maternity leave for teachers. Previously, teachers were required to take maternity leave 90 days before expected date of delivery. Now pregnant teachers may remain in the classroom for as long as a physician certifies that they are capable of teaching.

-Refused a request by William Buckel of 1641 Hess Blvd. to speak to the board concerning its policy on sex education and dismissal from school of pregnant students. Buckel has addressed the board on this subject eight times since February.

A Miniature Emergency Room

Medicopter Flies Mission Of Mercy

By Maureen Decker

"Columbus, this is Medicopter. We are in service and available for emergency calls. Do you copy?"

As a guest aboard Medicopter, I fervently hoped my ride would turn out to be merely a pleasure trip. One run later, I began to realize how necessary and important a service Medicopter provides.

Medicopter, a compact, mini-hospital, is housed in an Ohio National Guard UH-1 Huey Helicopter and serves as an airbourne emergency squad, for some, a heaven sent chance for life.

According to our pilot, Lt. Col. Robert P. Orr, the flight operations officer, the speed and expertise available on the Medicopter have saved many lives. The flying emergency squad, which also makes hospital to hospital transfers, eliminates the long and sometimes hazardous ambulance ride which the critically ill patient might have to endure.

The copter can provide a careful, smooth, orderly transfer from an outlying community hospital to University or Childrens Hospitals in much less time than it would take by ambulance.

ABOARD the Medicopter, I noticed that all the patient's vital signs could be monitered by the docter or nurse in attendance.

Drugs and other supplies and equipment are also aboard the craft which can be used to treat the patient in the air or at the scene of the accident I was told that the copter is also equipped with a portable incubator which was used last week to transfer a premature baby from Indiana to Children's Hospital for emergency care.

All the services of the Medicopter are provided at no charge to the patient by Ohio's Adjutant General.

THE OHIO Medicopter got its start in 1967 when a University Hospital doctor called the National Guard to ask for the use of one of its helicopters to transfer a critically ill patient from a rural hospital to University. The patient was successfully transferred and Medicopter came into being.

Since then, the flying hospital has made trips to West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Indiana and other surrounding states to save limbs and lives that otherwise might have been lost.

The miniature emergency room is always staffed by volunteers. The night I rode with them, the helicopter was manned by Pilot Col. Orr, Copilot Byron Edgington, Crew Chief Bob Chapman, Paramedic Lt. Brown of the Dublin Life Squad, and Willis Troy, a consultant for emergency medical services training from the Ohio State University division of Vocational Education.

DURING hospital to hospital transfers, a doctor and nurse are also aboard. The Medicopter is on 24 hour call for transfers, and is on emergency highway standby on weekends and holidays.

My Medicopter experience started with a run to University Hospital to pick up drugs and supplies. We then flew around the Columbus area scanning the major highways and waiting for a call, a "Code 4" (Highway Patrol called accident with personal injury) or a "Code 31" (Sheriff reported accident with personal injury.)

WHEN WE received a call, the crew plotted a direct course for the scene and raced toward the accident. As they travelled, they kept in constant communication with the Patrol as to location and condition of the patients by means of a mobile radio hookup which monitors all Patrol and Sheriff calls. The Medicopter is also equipped with a mobile telephone for ship to ground communications. This enables them to talk to the hospital so that someone can meet the helicopter at the heliport in cases of extreme emergency.

At the scene of the accident the doctors or paramedics evaluated the situation decided to transport the victim to the hospital emergency room.

THE MEDICOPTER can use only two Columbus hospitals University and Childrens, because they have landing facilities. The University Hospital heliport atop one of the medical buildings is marked by a large red cross and is equipped with landing lights.

The victim was removed from the helicopter on a stretcher and placed on a cart provided by the hospital, and wheeled through the "Tunnel" a long underground corridor linking the various medical buildings, to the emergency room.

While the Medicopter serves a nine county area with a radius of approximately 40 miles, it often makes out of state trips. The craft can hold five patients with a crew of six, and can eliminate crew members to accomodate more patients.

WHILE THERE are no specific regulations regarding the use of helicopters, the unit abides by the army rules for fixed wing aircraft and breaks them only in cases of emergency. Helicopters are flown only outside the outerbelt and at a minimum height of 1000 feet. Only the Medicopter can fly at lower altitudes over the city and then only in case of emergency.

According to Col. Orr, it costs about $300 per hour to operate the Medicopter. The equipment and the aircraft itself cost approximately $370,000. The National Guard pays for all this, and University Hospital provides drugs and some equipment.

Willis Troy, emergency medical services training consultant, serves as coordinator between the hospitals and the National Guard. He recruits the paramedics and doctors who fly as volunteers on Medicopter.

IN THE LAST few years, the Medicopter has served more than 100 patients, according to Col. Orr. Because the helicopter is so well equipped and so mobile it is reserved for only the most serious runs and transfers.

Stockbridge Enrichment Goal Of National Group

NATIONAL Humanities Faculty has selected Stockbridge Elementary school, 3350 S. Champion, as one of 20 in the United States to receive enrichment through a team of outstanding scholars and practitioners in the field of humanities to discuss ways to make education more meaningful to children from Appalachian backgrounds.

Thus far, they have had a two-day workshop in August conducted by Don West, ex-professor and preacher who has founded a folklore center in southern West Virginia. Dr. Alan Jabbour, head of the Archives of Folk Song in the Library of Congress, in Washington, D.C., spent three days in October in the school concentrating on the music of the West Virginia fiddler and sharing songs and stories with the children, parents and staff.

November 10 weekend, 17--including teachers and principal, travelled a "long six hours" south to Pipestem, West Virginia.

PIPESTEM, located in the southern highlands of West Virginia, is in a state park area near Hinton and Princeton. At one time the area was noted for its rich coal mines, but years of mining and automation have decreased the need for [illegible]

Modest farms dot the mountains and hilly terrain; cattle and sheep graze quietly on the grassy slopes. A feeling of serenity envelops the visitor and is reinforced when the mountain people share stories with them.

Staff members stayed in the bunkhouse on the 400-acre farm Don West is operating as a self-supporting Appalachian South Folklife Center. West teaches mountain history and traditions to young summer campers and mountain youths. By improving the self-image of the mountain young people, West hopes to bring pride and self-assurance to the community so that the need to escape doesn't take them away from the highlands.

TEACHERS AND their principal, Mrs. Julia Gump, were overwhelmed with the warmth and welcome they received. Hiking or traveling by pickup truck they visited the people and exchanged views on politics, education, and life. Dr. Rasmussen, M.D., discussed his research of Black Lung disease and other respiratory diseases under his close scrutiny in the area.

The next plan is a music study in December and a two-day workshop on arts and crafts in January.

The reason behind program is that 80 percent of children and surrounding community at Stockbridge come from Appalachia. Roots are still there; travel and vacation there. Families moved north in search of jobs and a living wage and settled in the south end.

Hopefully, more understanding will help "find the measure of worth so that each person's hidden talents can be expressed to greatest potential."

THE NATIONAL GUARD medicopter is based at Don [illegible] Airfield. Here any repair is done by National Guard mechanics. Old Sta, as it is affectionately nick named, is preparing for take-off.

Seminar Planned On Novel 'Future Shock'

Three key speakers have been announced for the Dec. 1-3 Future Shock seminar at the Shrine Center for Renewal, 5277 E. Broad St.

The seminar discussions focusing on the best-seller will be led by the Rev. Patrick Sorohan, director of the center; The Rev. Frank Maloney, special consultant at the center; and the Rev. James Kuhns, a visiting scholar at the University of Michigan who specializes in the subject of change in society.

THE LOCAL SEMINAR is designed to provide an extension of ideas found in Future Shock, which asserts that people generally are unprepared to deal with changes which surround them. The result, according to author Alvin Toffler, is a "dizzying disorientation" that affects every area of life.

Seminar planners intend to take the Future Shock workshop one step farther and introduce a level of Christianity into the discussions.

The three-day program is a pilot project in what is hoped to be a series of ecumenical "Workshops for the Future" at the center.

Maloney, who has conducted numerous workshops on Future Shock, will present an overview of change in society; and Kuhns will define change and the dilemmas it can present to the modern [illegible].

Major discussion topics will include "Are You a Victim of Future Shock?"; "Is There a Problem in Dealing with Change?"; "Organizational Upheaval--in Church, Society, Education, Business and Government"; and "Strategies for Survival."

ACCORDING TO Sorohan, the action-oriented church and lay leaders at the seminar can well be expected to take the insight gained during the workshop and translate it into a more productive pattern of living for themselves, their friends and neighbors, and their colleagues.

"What this seminar and others like it can do," he added, "is help establish a logical and rational framework for dealing with change in daily life--in government, in business, in education and in society as a whole."

The December workshop will be a pilot project which may lead to a series of seminars--to be designated "social future assemblies," after a term coined by Toffler--held at the Shrine Center.

A SUNDAY morning liturgy will be dedicated to seeking the inspiration and guidance needed to understand change and to deal with it effectively.

Further information on the schedule of events and registration details are available by contacting the Shrine Center at 866-1611.

TB Test Schedule Set For Columbus Schools

Skin testing schedules for eastern Columbus Public Schools have been released by the Tuberculosis Society of Columbus and Franklin County.

First, seventh, and eleventh graders will be given the free TB test through January 15.

In administering the test, a drop of germ-free "tuberculin" is inserted just beneath the outer layer of the skin. If the child has been exposed to tuberculosis and TB germs are present in the body, the spot swells. This means the test is positive.

POSITIVE tests are followed by further examination to determine whether or not the child has active TB. Skin testing programs detect tuberculosis in its early stages, thus preventing permanent damage to the child or infection of fellow-students.

Roosevelt Jr. High, Deshler Elementary, Southmoor Jr. High, Smith Road Elementary, McGuffey Jr. High, East Linden Elementary, Ninth Ave. Elementary, Broadleigh Elementary, Shepard Elementary, Mifflin Middle, Eastmoor Jr. High, Fairmoor Elementary, Eastgate Elementary, Everett Jr. High, Michigan Elementary, Monroe Jr. High, Trevitt Elementary, Milo Elementary, Champion Jr. High, Eastwood Elementary, Clearbrook Elementary, Franklin Jr. High, Douglas Elementary, Mohawk Jr. High, Sullivant Elementary, Bellows Elementary, and Barrett Junior High will be tested during the next two weeks.

Careers Conference Slated For December

Charles "Chuck" Johnson, 2899 Keystone Dr., has been named to a committee organized to plan and conduct the seventh annual Columbus Careers Conference set for Dec. 27-28-29 at Scot's Inn on Sinclair Road.

Johnson, who is administrator of corporate personnel for Borden, Inc., is co-chairman of the student contact committee.

The 1972 Columbus Careers Conference is open to college juniors and seniors and college graduates in military service whose permanent homes are in the Franklin County Area. Job interviews will be offered to them by leading area employers free of charge.

College students who are due to receive their degrees from four-year accredited colleges by Jan. 31, 1974, and military personnel who will be discharged by the same date are eligible to apply for interviews on the first day of the conference.

Career interviews will be given the second and third days of the conference by employers either based in Metropolitan Columbus, or with major offices in the community. The Conference is sponsored as a public service by the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce.

A record turnout of more than 700 students from 88 colleges and universities were given interviews at last year's conference by 36 participating companies and institutions.

Johnson, who's been with Borden, Inc., for two years, holds a degree in education from Central State University. He's a member of the Columbus Urban League and the Central State University Alumni Association.

A graduate of Circleville, High School, Johnson and his wife, Sandra, have four daughters – Debbie, Karren, and Pam, and Jennifer.

Day Care Center To Open Sunday

When the U. S. Flag is raised at 1 p.m. Sunday at Creative Child Care-East's official grand opening, a queen will be there for the ribbon-cutting.

Sandra Lee Downs, 1972 Reynoldsburg Tomato Festival Queen, will join the fun for the opening festivities at Creative Child Care-East, 3611 Westbourne Avenue.

Grand opening refreshments, balloons, gifts and a welcoming clown will also be there at the new day care center facilities, located just west of the Columbus Western Electric property off East Broad Street with ceremonies beginning at Noon and continuing until 3 p.m. for visitors.

Also visiting the CCC-East opening Sunday will be former Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner and Franklin County Sheriff-elect Harry Berkemer. Center owner-operators –Richard Sensenbrenner and Mrs. Elizabeth Schilling established CCC-East to meet child care service needs in the growing Western Electric, Mt. Carmel-East and Reynoldsburg neighborhoods.

All operations of Creative Child Care-East will be open for public inspection during the Sunday grand opening hours.

Senior Citizens - Here's Action

A tea will be held at the 1100 East Broad Senior Citizens Recreation Center Friday, December 1, at 1:30 to honor the ladies who dressed dolls for "Toys for Tots". All the lovely dolls will be on display. There will be special musical entertainment by Jim Mason and refreshments.

For card players, canasta drop-ins are Mondays at 1:30, pinochle Tuesdays at 1:00 and bridge Thursdays at 1:00.

Physical fitness activities Tuesday mornings provide mild exercise and lots of fun. Weather permitting, any senior citizens are invited to meet in the center lobby at 10 a.m. for a walk in the neighborhood. The exercise class starts at 10:45 in the auditorium.

1100 East Broad Senior Citizen Recreation Center, operated by the Columbus Recreation Department, has recreational activities and programs for any Franklin County residents over 60 years of age. Hours are Monday and Wednesday 9 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. and Tuesday, Thursday and Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. For additional information, call the Center – 252-2832.

Well, Doggone!

A DOG'S LIFE must be a lot of fun.

We have two. They're the ones who think they are people.

Her name is Char. His name is Cookie George.

Cookie George is the veteran. He was a Christmas baby six years ago. He came all bundled in a basket, tiny and cuddly and as lovable as a baby doll the youngest daughter had from Santa that year.

She is a miniature but has an appetite that knows no bounds.

Open a candy wrapper and she comes running.

Open the refrigerator and get a hand on the ice cream and she comes running.

WHISPER the magic words (or spell them out one by one) "outside" and she gets by the door and leaves more claw marks.

"Bedtime" is another of her favorites and she'll fuss unless Dad's favorite bathrobe is aside the bed where she can cuddle up on it and at least one slipper.

Human? I think so.

CHAR IS a dog of another color. She's a beautiful copper and brown and rust and black and white, etc. Her pedigree is collie and shepherd but she has plenty of our family in her pedigree now.

I wouldn't say she is spoiled but she is only six months old and we found out that you can teach a new dog old tricks. She, too, is an example of tolerance as she sheepishly heads for her master's room (that's our son Joe) when any look is but fond after she has made the room indisposable.

Char loves people (what dog doesn't whether it's to greet happily or to chew upon) and she's getting to know the regulars who come to the house such as the mailman, gas meter man, water meter reader and close friends.

LET A stranger come near, however, and she's ready to bare her fangs to protect the household.

Is there a moral to this story? Not really, because we know most of you have dogs you love (and they love you) and dog licenses go on sale December 1.

Don't forget your dog this Christmas. Make his first present that dog license that will tell him you love him dearly.

The Extra Care Season

AT HOLIDAY time people have wild and wonderful dreams and often they come true. Just suppose we dream that:

Every driver and every passenger fastened their seat belts. (The National Safety Council says: "Studies show that ejection, in contrast to remaining inside a car, increases the risk of instant death by 3,000 per cent")';

And we dream that all cars were driven as though driving conditions were terrible–in other words, were driven very carefully;

That people who drink were all considerate enough to insist that someone who hasn't had one should do the driving;

That speed and traffic safety laws were all precisely obeyed and that no one tried to second-guess the authorities or the other drivers, on the road;

That everyone left early to get where they were going, since being late encourages people to take chances which they otherwise might not take;

AND WE WAKE UP to find that the people who prepare accident predictions at holiday time did a bad job on the high side–because our dream really came true!

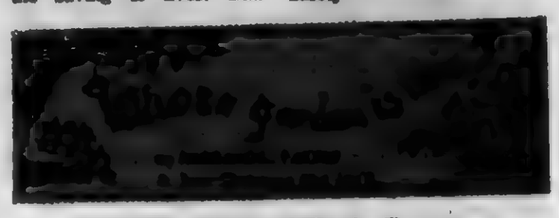
Safe Driving Means Lower Insurance Rates

To the Editor:

The Ohio Bureau of Casualty Insurers has recently asked the Ohio Insurance Department to lower auto insurance rates an average of $21 per car because of the decreasing frequency of bodily injury and property damage claims.

In two regions of the state, however, the Cleveland East area and in Youngstown, rates will go up because of the increasing number of traffic accidents and claims.



I would like to ask you to point out to your readers this angle of safety–that safe driving pays off in lower insurance rates, as well as in the saving of lives. Bad driving costs money because of increased rates. Please urge your readers to join in a drive to push the insurance rates even lower, with the accompanying result of saving lives and preventing suffering and injury.

For information on specific rates in your area, you may contact John Winchell at the Ohio Bureau of Casualty Insurers, 620 E. Broad Street, Columbus, 43215, 614-228-1593.

Thank you for your continuing support on behalf of highway safety.

Sincerely,

Eugene P. O'Grady, Director
Ohio Department of Highway Safety

Ohio EPA In Good Hands

PERHAPS IT was signs of things to come. At any rate, we were glad to find that when we phoned the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency the call was answered by Dr. Ira Whitman himself.

All environmentalists need a great deal of reassurance these days that our new state agency will be working when others are sleeping. It's not just a bureau or department, it's a whole new hitching up of tomorrow's world.

AS EXPRESSED before in this offering, Whitman is a career man, not a political hack. His assistants, Sam Bleicher (pronounced like football bleacher) and Alan ? (The Beard) Farkas of Task Force Fame, are both very involved in the structure strength. Sam is Deputy Director of Regulations while Alan is Director of Policy Development. Both at this writing seem to be very good appointments.

The Environmental Board of Review has two out of three excellent men. Stan Weissman was the Gilligan appointee from Monsanto Research to the Air Pollution Quality Board the Ohio Senate refused to confirm. He was instrumental in founding the Dayton clean air citizens group. The second board member, Dr. Earl Finbar Murphy, is a brilliant environmental law professor from Ohio State University. His interpretations during all the 14 week-long Task Force kept us out of many dead ends. He will function well and is a bargain at the price. The third member, Richard McCutcheon, is untried and must prove his merits.

WE ALL MUST agree that this team will have its problems getting steam up with only half a law to back them. During the information seminar for the Ohio EPA at Ohio State University on October 20, Dr. Whitman made heavy mention of the certain weaknesses of the Act, publicly acknowledging that the law as passed was less then enough. Whitman also left no doubt that as far as he was concerned, a lot of legislative "adjustments" need to be made.

As it stands, Ohio EPA has enough money to run them through the organizational period but operating expenses for the long run will depend on whether or not the income tax law is allowed to stand on the books. If the tax is repealed and the state thrown into another austerity program, the environment will suffer most of all. Federal mandates will not allow any cuts in the welfare programs and very little in public education. Being a new agency, EPA will get the biggest bite. By the time you read this, you'll know whether or not the tax will remain.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: We must all realize that cleaning up the debris of the past 200 years will take money out of our pockets. There is no way to hire technicians and inspectors without paying them. Consider the environment when you vote on money issues.

Agricultural Products Getting Less Dollars

AMERICANS are spending a steadily smaller portion of their after-tax income on agricultural products each year says Ken Rinehart, Area Dairy Extension Agent.

Ten years back, we spent nearly a third of our take-home pay on food, clothing and shoes, alcoholic beverages, and tobacco products, according to Rinehart.

Last year, these same items took not quite 28 percent of the average American's take-home pay, he indicated.

"That's not to say we didn't spend more dollars for these agricultural products. We spent 56 percent more money for these agricultural products than in 1961–$996 per capita compared with $642 in 1961. But average per capita disposable income–earnings after taxes–soared 81 percent between 1961 and 1971, far outpacing increases in prices and spending for agricultural products."

"OF THESE selected products, food took the biggest share of consumer's after-tax dollar—15.8 percent in 1971—but took 19.8 percent 10 years earlier. This sharp drop accounted for most of the decrease in percent of consumer income spent on agricultural procucts," Rinehart said.

Total spending for food averaged $567 per person last year, up 45 percent from the $391 spent in 1961; while income increased 81 percent during the same period of time.

ONLY clothing and shoes, of all the agricultural products, kept pace with rising income. Spending and prices advanced more than 80 percent over the decade, so clothing and shoes took about 7.7 percent of our take-home pay.

IT IS interesting to note that the American farmer's production costs and labor requirements have followed a pattern very similar to food costs. His dollar production costs are up but his labor requirements per unit of productions are down. By using larger equipment and more efficient management practices, the farmers have been able to produce quality food at a bargain price.

Income Tax Boosts Total

Ohio School Districts State Aid Increased

OHIO SCHOOL districts received State Foundation Program checks for November totaling nearly twice the amount distributed in November of 1971, Superintendent of Public Instruction Martin W. Essex said this week.

Superintendent Essex said that checks amounting to $41,396,311.34 will be received by districts this week. In contrast, a year ago at this time, before passage of the state income tax, $21,867,813.41 was distributed to the 600-plus school districts.

"These additional funds," Essex said, "will have a formidable effect in helping to blunt the spiraling welfare rolls due to their tremendous impact on vocational education and the habilitation of handicapped youth."

IN ADDITION, the income tax funds are a most important factor in relieving the pressure on the property owner as evidenced by the rapid decline in the number of new levy requests placed on the November ballot by Ohio school districts, Essex indicated.

Essex explained the state income tax legislation has enabled the largest expansion of vocational education and special education classes in history, with an increase of 1,006 job preparation classes and 846 classes for the handicapped this year. The income tax legislation nearly trippled the appropriation for these classes, boosting state assistance to $13,000 per class from the $4,400 rate which had prevailed in many districts.

The state's chief school officer said, "Career opportunities provide not only a significant boost for the economy of Ohio, but also a significant boost for the hopes and aspirations of these young citizens. Ohio leads the nation in providing job preparation to meet this need. In much the same manner, special services and learning experiences for the young handicapped provide these students with the confidence, self-respect and skills they require to lead useful, productive lives."

Care Cautioned In Firewood Purchase

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources urges Ohioans to buy their winter supply of firewood with care, and has offered some suggestions on what to look for.

"Firewood varies greatly in physical characteristics and price," Director William B. Nye said. "The best firewood is well-seasoned, heavy and free of insects and disease."

NYE SAID green or unseasoned wood has little heating value since most of the heat is needed to drive moisture out of the wood as steam. Unseasoned wood can be detected by the end cuts that are fresh. Leaves also may still be present on firewood if the pieces were cut from branches.

Wood density also is an important consideration in buying firewood. Dense woods, such as oak, beech, hard maple and hickory provide much more heat than lighter woods. The logs of dense woods also burn longer.

Firewood should be closely checked for evidence of insects and disease.

"IF LOGS are brought into the house and termites or carpenter ants are present, they may become active in the warm environment and the homeowner will really have a problem on his hands," said Gebhart.

Gebhart advised that wood be stored outside and that only as much firewood be taken into the house as will be used during an evening.

Wood that is diseased or punky burns much faster than sound wood. This rotten wood may also produce an offensive odor when burned.

BUYING wood will be much easier if only pre-split wood is considered. Although this wood is usually more expensive and averages slightly less weight per cord, it provides a view of the interior for the presence of insects or disease.

The split wood also burns better because of the increased surface areas exposed to the air, he said. Ryan is the urban forester for central Ohio.

Firewood costs vary in different parts of the state. However, the overall cost is governed by the distance the wood must be transported for sale.

Most firewood is sold either by the cord or by the rick. A cord sold by most dealers measures eight feet high by eight feet long by the length of the firewood, which may range from 16 to 24 inches.

A RICK or "short cord" is generally four feet high by eight feet long by the length of the firewood.

The buyer should realize that because the logs are round they do not stack closely together and in any cord or rick there is much air. For example, a standard cord usually contains about 100 cubic feet of wood rather than 128 cubic feet.

With a little knowledge and common sense, Ohioans should be able to supply their fireplaces with good quality wood throughout the winter.

Salvation Army Kettles Need Fill

The 1972 Salvation Army Christmas Cheer Fund raising effort is now under way and will continue through December 23.

Salvation Army Christmas Kettles are in the business areas and shopping centers for the collection of funds.

Donors may mail contributions to Christmas Cheer, c-o The Salvation Army, 138 East State St., Columbus, Ohio, 43215.

Applications for Christmas assistance will be received at three Salvation Army centers,.. 138 East State St., 28 East Goodale St., and 2661 Fredlac St.

The Christmas office at 138 East State St. is operated by volunteer interviewers under the direction of Mrs. Nelson Lancione weekdays from 9:30 a.m. untill 3:30 p.m. until Friday, Dec. 8.

Co-Chairmen of the 1972 Christmas Cheer Committee are Dayle Frazier, Jr., and Mrs. Nelson Lancione.

Charles W. Doser will serve as Treasurer and other members of the committee include Mrs. Leroy Almon, Robert D. Brown, James L. Graham, Dr. Frank P. Hall, Mrs. John G. Lambert, Harry E. Mayfield, William A. Pepper, Clarence V. Tittle and Dr. Watson H. Walker.

Seat Belt Evidence Convicts Non-Wearers

SEAT BELTS have been installed in all cars manufactured since 1966. They are a proven lifesaver and have a tremendous potential for mitigating injury in traffic accidents. Yet all the evidence points to a rate of use averaging less than 20 percent of all motorists and passengers.

Some erroneouly believe that seat belts cause fatalities by keeping people from being thrown free of a crash. The Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory's accident research branch recently studied more than 14,000 documented crashes and concluded that your chances of being killed are 30 times greater when you are ejected than when you remain secured inside the vehicle.

This same scientific survey, reported in the October 1972 edition of the National Safety Council's Traffic Safety Magazine, concluded from in-depth studies that failure to use seat belts increases the risk of instant death or serious injury by at least 100 percent and of minor injury by at least 40 percent.

SEAT BELTS won't prevent all accidents from happening. But they do enable the driver to stay behind the wheel in skids, sudden stops, and sideswipes, when his loss of control can easily lead to serious and often multiple impact accidents which cause one-fifth of all highway deaths. And belts keep others from being tossed about and possibly interfering with the driver's ability to maintain control.

Other studies bear out these effects. A survey by the University of North Carolina Highway Safety Research Center concluded that the combination of lap belt use and energy-absorbing steering columns reduces serious injuries in accidents by as much as 52 percent.

A REPORT prepared for the White House by the U.S Office of Science and Technology earlier this year drew from all available evidence the conclusion that 42 percent of collision injuries and fatalities could be mitigated if 80 percent of all vehicle occupants can be induced by warnings, interlock systems, or by law to fasten their lap and shoulder harnesses.

In fact, there is no one familiar with the data who argues against the proposition that seat belts save lives and reduce injuries. The American Association for Automotive Medicine and the American Medical Association's Committee on Medical Aspects of Automotive Safety have both recommended that all vehicle occupants wear belts at all times.

THE NATIONAL Safety Council and the American Safety Belt Council believe that belt use is so important that it should be required by law, a view drawing increasing support from traffic safety specialists and concerned citizens' groups.

Brooklyn, Ohio, has a seat belt ordinance which it has enforced since 1966. The Governor of Louisiana requires all state employees using official cars to wear seat belts. The mayor of Jacksonville, Florida, has mandated the use of belts by all city employees.

THE TREND is clear. As highway deaths and injuries take an increasing toll of human and material resources, safety becomes a societal concern rather than an individual matter. The U.S. Department of Transportation estimates that each accident fatality results in a loss of $200,000 and each injury resulting in permanent total disability costs $260,000. This enormous drain, quite apart from the shattered lives and the helpless greif of survivors, affects us all, either directly or indirectly. The overall economic impact on society, says DOT, amounts to $46 billion annually.

Recognizing society's stake in protecting vehicle occupants, the Federal agency charged with the responsibility for highway safety is considering expensive and complex systems that will restrain drivers and passengers automatically in sudden stops and collisions. The air bag, the air belt, and various other types of passive restraints are under intensive scrutiny now, both in government and industrial testing centers. But wide application of these devices are years away, and their reliability needs much more extensive certification than is presently available.

IN THE meantime, the simple unpretentious seat belt lays unused in probably four of every five cars.

AUTHENTIC GREEK PASTRIES will be on sale this Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the first annual Bake Sale at the Dr. Solomonides Center of the Greek Orthodox Church, 536 N. Park St. Baked goods such as baklava, regular and sweet bread and other pastries will be on sale. Christmas Concert Set By Chapel Choir

Three traditional Christmas concerts will be presented by the Capital University Chapel Choir next month: Dec. 8 and 9 at 8:15 p.m. in Capital's Mees Hall Auditorium; and Sunday, Dec. 10 at 4 p.m. in the Ohio Theatre.

This year's Christmas concerts will give central Ohio audiences a partial glimpse of the choir's upcoming European tour program.

The traditional Christmas performances will feature the full 70-voice Chapel Choir, plus the recenlty-formed Chamber Choir and the Renaissance Consort.

Joining the Chapel Choir in the holiday performances will be the Capital University Women's Chours, directed by Richard Johnston, and the Brass Choir, directed by Ray Eubanks.

The Chapel Choir, under the direction of Dr. Lewis E. Whikehart, is preparing for a month-long tour of Europe in January. The trip will combine ecumenical studies with performances in some 10 European cities, including Berlin, Slazburg and London.

Among the works to be presented to European audiences--and one which will be on the 1972 Christmas program--is Gabrieli's "Magnificat" in which the choiur divides into three choruses and sings from various parts of the auditorium.

Other works featured in the December concerts will focus on a theme of "the love of Christmas" and will highlight two works particularly well-received during the Chapel Choir's 1971 Christmas concerts: "Love Came Down at Christmas," which was composed by director Whikehart, and "Beautiful Saviour."

Another section will focus on the joy of Christmas and will include a number of secular carols. The audience will be invited to join the choir in singing this holiday music.

There is no admission charge for any of the concerts. However, past performances have been completely subscribed, and advance tickets are suggested to assure seats at a specific concert.

Tickets are available by sending a request for the number of tickets and the concert time desired to: The Chapel Choir, Capital University, Columbus, Ohio 43209.

In addition to the upcoming Christmas concerts and the European tour, the Chapel Choir also is featured in two new LP recordings: "Multiple Choir Music of the Renaissance and the Baroque Eras" and "Highlights of the 1971-72 Concert Season."

The "Multiple Choir Music" is one of only a few records on the market today which features 16th and 17th century works for two, three and four choirs.

The other recording contains selections from all five concerts by the choir last year, including a special performance of Charles Ives' "Psalm 90" for full chorus, organ and bells; and portions of the "Mass in G" by Vaughn Williams."

Discovery Series Continues Dec.9

Columbus Junior Theatre of the Arts' Discovery Series will present "Noah and the Whale, Jonah and the Ark", an amusing adaptation of several Biblical stories using the story-theatre technique, Saturday, Dec. 9.

The Performing Arts Repertory Theatre has chosen some of the best known Bible tales, Adam and Eve, Noah and the Ark, Jonah and the Whale, Cain and Abel, and Samson and Deliah for the basis of its performance.

The group of five young professional actors will come to the Ohio Theatre December 9. The two performances will be held at 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased at the door for $1 regular and $1.50 preferred.

Faculty Trio In Concert

The Capital University Faculty Brass Trio will present a recital on Tuesday, Dec. 5 at 8:15 p.m. in the Toledo Room of Bexley Hall.

The faculty musicians in the trio are: John Mitchell, trombone; Nicholas Perrini, horn; and Ray Eubanks, trumpet. The program will include works by Edwin Arril, George Masso and Robert Sanders.

There is no admission charge and the public is invited. Bexley Hall is located east of College Avenue on Mound Street.

Hen Party Planned For December 14th

The Twin Rivers Chapter of B'nai B'rith Women will be holding its annual Hen Party on December 14, 8 p.m. at the Ralph Rickly Lodge, 1120 Barnett Rd.

Admission to this game night is $1.50. Prizes will be awarded and refreshments served.

Ad Fed Will Hear Travel Talk

"Travel should be fun" says Tomi Abbot, American Airlines authority on travel for women, "but for any woman, a trip is a special event. She should enjoy every bit of it, from the initial planning to the flight home."

Miss Abbot is charged with the responsibility of making travel simple for women, offering travel tips, translating technical terms into language a woman understands. She describes a 747 Luxury Liner as a "Flying split-level house."

She will be the luncheon speaker for the Columbus Advertising Federation Friday, December 1 at the Neil House. The Federation, whose membership includes a high percapita of "flying women" offers a diversified series of programs during the every-other-Friday luncheon series.

Pilot Club Plans Christmas Party

The Pilot Club of Columbus will hold its annual Christmas Party Tuesday, December 5, at Columbia Gas of Ohio, with dinner at 6:30 p.m.

The arrangements for the evening are being made by the Safety Committee. Assisting is Mrs. Margaret Driver, 1436 Sherwood Forest Ct.

Entertainment will be provided by the Bexley High School Choral Group.

December 14, members of Pilot Club will give a party for Ward 20, at the State Hospital.

Silent Movie Shown

Lake Erie, the west of the Indians, the Eskimo, whaling, and a legend of the silent movies, are included in the December free weekend movies being offered at the Ohio Historical Center, Interstate 71 and 17th Avenue, under sponsorship of The Ohio Historical Society.

Mothers Plan Luncheon

The Capital University Mothers' Club will honor past presidents' and present charter members at its 20th Anniversary luncheon, Friday, December 8 at noon in the South Dining Room of the Campus Center.

Co-chairman for the luncheon are Mrs. Helmar Grimm, Mrs. Theodore Liefield, and Mrs. T.W. Wulber.

Gene Allen of the Music Conservatory will be guest soloist.

Reservations chairman is Mrs. Theodore Schalinske. Members may bring guests.

Salzgebar Class Will Meet Dec. 6

The Ola Salzgeber Class of the Ladies Oriental Shrine of North America will meet at Duffs, Graceland Shopping Center at 6 p.m. Wednesday December 6, for Christmas dinner and party. Husbands are invited. Mrs. Roy Ulrey, Mrs. Carlisle Bowles and Mrs. H. Guy Schneider are in charge of arrangements.

Music Program Is Dec. 4

The Columbus Music Teachers Association will have a Christmas Luncheon and musical program Monday, Dec. 4 at 10:30 a.m. at the Clintonville Women's Club, 3951 N. High St.

The following Columbus musicians especially skilled in the performance of ensemble works will perform: Rita Tybout, Violin; Maryalice Susi, Violin; Diane Elhers, Viola; Ferne Myers, Piano; Beth Ross, Violin; Maryalice Susi, Viola; Wilma Kraner, Cello; and Elaine Clark, Piano.

Star Mother's Hold Pot Luck

A pot luck dinner will be served at 6 p.m., followed by a Christmas exchange.

Plans for helping in the Christmas store to be held at Chillicothe V.A. Hospital, Dec. 6 will be completed.

Also, the election of new officers for 1973 will be held.

Foundation Gets Award

The Kidney Foundation of Central Ohio, headquartered at 261 S. Hamilton Road in Columbus, received an Outstanding Achievement Award from the National Kidney Foundation in a ceremony held November 18 at the Foundation's Annual Meeting in New Orleans, Louisiana.

Hannah Accepts Applicants

THE director of the Hannah Harrison School of the YWCA, District of Columbia, will be in Columbus, at the YWCA, Monday, December 4 and Tuesday, December 5, to interview applicants for the school.

Scholarships covering room, board and tuition are granted to women from 18 to [illegible] years of age interested in careers in Administrative Housekeeping and Food Supervision and Practical Nursing.

There is no charge to the student who meets the school's admission requirements.

The Hannah Harrison School, a resident vocational school for women, was endowed by Julius Garfinckel, who left the major part of his estate to the Young Women's Christian Association of the District of Columbia for the purpose of establishing a living memorial to his mother, Hannah Harrison.

A 6-MONTH course in Administrative Housekeeping and Food Supervision, which is certified by the National Executive Housekeepers Association and a 49-week course in Practical Nursing, which is accredited by the National Association for Practical Nurse Education and Services are offered.

The requirements for admission include age of 18 to 50 for practical nursing and 25-55 for housekeeping; two years of high school or certificate indicating its equivalent; evident of need for earning own livelihood and good physical and mental health and emotional stability.

Dickens Of A Ball By Symphony Club

When Junior Division of the Symphony Club of Central Ohio has its 37th annual Mistletoe Ball Saturday Dec. 2, a "Dickens of a Ball" is promised. Mrs. Carl Schwan, Jr. and Mrs. Robert Whetzel are heading the fund-raising event this year at Scioto Country Club with proceeds being used to donate symphonic instruments to Central Ohio schools.

Mrs. Jerry Hooper is Junior Division president.

Cocktails are scheduled at 7 p.m., a formal dinner at 8 p.m. and dancing to the music of the Bobbie Burke orchestra from 10 to 1 a.m. The favorite characters of Charles Dickens will decorate the club.

Tiny Tim, the Ghosts of Christmas Past, Present and Future, Oliver Twist, Pip and more will set the 19th century mood of merriment for this festive affair.

Mrs. Robert Zust and her decorations committee have designed from those of the Dickens era a paned-stained-glass window which will brighten and illuminate the foyer.

Old coach lanterns which are transformed milk cartons will be filled with greenery and decorate each table along with smaller Dickens characters made by members from felt, pipe cleaners and styrofoam.

A popular feature of last years' ball, the mini-boutique, will again be repeated under the chairmanship of Mrs. John McMillen and Mrs. Douglas McCarthy.

"Ye Olde Curiosity Shoppe" will have a wide assortment of Christmas decorations and small-scaled gifts for sale, hand-crafted by members.

Other ball board members are Mrs. Russell Morgan and Mrs. Charles Mattingly, Patrons; Mrs. Richard Dennis and Mrs. Donald Abbruzzese, Tickets; Mrs. Thomas Roper, Dinner; and Mrs. Richard Mylin and Mrs. James Ledman, Reservations.

Many members plan pre-ball cocktails. Local residents, the Robert Doaks of 85 S. Drexel, are carrying through with the mistletoe theme by serving Mistletoe Punch, lots of holiday decorations featuring mistletoe, and decorations from previous Mistletoe Balls.

Joining them will be Dr. and Mrs. John P. Minton, previous Junior Division president, the David Becks, the Robert P. Bermans, the James Hartleys, the Fred Johansons, the Kim Kelsiks, all of Columbus, and the Jack Dolls of Derby, Ohio.

Homemakers Of Tomorrow Will Take Test Dec.5

College scholarships totaling $111,000 will be at stake Tuesday, Dec. 5 when high school seniors here and throughout the country join in the written knowledge and attitude examination of the 1973 Betty Crocker Search for American Homemakers of Tomorrow. This year, for the first time in the 19-year history of the educational program, boys are eligible to participate.

Scores on the 50-minute test will form the basis for selection of a Homemaker of Tomorrow here. This student will receive a specially designed award from General Mills, sponsor of the Betty Crocker Search, and will, together with all other school winners, remain in the running for state and national honors.

State Homemakers of Tomorrow—one from each state and the District of Columbia—will be awarded $1,500 scholarships. To be chosen in judging centering on performance in the written examination, they will also earn for their schools a 20-volume reference work, "The Annals of America," from Encyclopaedia Britannica Educational Corporation. Second-ranking participants in each state will receive $500 college grants.

Late next April, the 51 State Homemakers of Tomorrow, each accompanied by a faculty adviser, will gather in Washington, D.C., for an expense-paid educational tour of the capital city and Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Personal observation and interviews during the tour will be added factors in the selection, from the state winners, of the 1973 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow and three runners-up. Scholarships of the four national winners will be increased to $5,000, $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000.

A $1,000 Nutrition Scholarship, instituted in last year's Betty Crocker Search, will be part of the program again this year. Recipient of this award will be the participating student who is planning a college major in nutrition or a related field, ranks among the highest in his or her state on the total Search examination and, from those meeting these two criteria, achieves the top score on the test's nutrition items. About nine million students have been enrolled in the Betty Crocker Search since its beginning in the 1954-55 school year. With this year's grants, total scholarships awarded will exceed $2 million.

The Search examination is prepared and graded by Science Research Associates, Chicago, which is also responsible for all judging and selection of winners.

Spectator Newspapers Executive Editor Ray Adams took the test last year and a letter later from General Mill confirmed that he had scored the highest ever among media taking the test in the 15 year history of the "Search for the Homemaker of Tomorrow."

He scored an 86 out of a possible 90.

Alumni Renunion

IF YOU'RE ALREADY STUMPED BY THE CHRISTMAS GIFT PROBLEM – HAVE YOU CONSIDERED THE ASTROLOGICAL APPROACH?

Let's begin with CAPRICORN, December 22 to January 19, since their sign falls closest to Christmas. Capricorns are the politicians, managers and executives – they are often conventional but concerned with getting ahead. They love antiques with a sentimental history, initialed handkerchiefs, anything initialed or monogrammed-anything that's been advertised.

AQUARIUS, January 20 to February 17, are likely to be humanitarians – so a person born under this sign would appreciate a contribution to charity in their name. They also like fancy gadgets, prefer either the very new or the very old when it comes to furnishings, objects or music. They're not conventional, so don't give them cliche' presents. Their symbol is the waterbearer–some Aquarians are mad about fountains.

PISCES, February 18 to March 20. Piscean people deal in illusion. Give something romantic-colorful. The ladies of this sign appreciate cosmetics, perfume, floating lingerie, magnificent lace shawls, furs. They also have an affinity for water – nature lovers. Give men bathing suits, skin-diving equipment, fishing equipment, bath accessories.

ARIES, March 21 to April 19, are leaders, pioneers and often warriors–alert, energetic, even aggressive. Give men books on hunting or guns, if they're sportsmen. Give women things for the head–hats, wigs, earrings. Pure Arieans never collect things–they look forward, not backward–give something new, not antique.

TAURUS, April 20 to May 19, are homebodies who love food, drink, music and art–often in large quantity. It's safe to give presents that feather the nest–a hi fi, records, or even a plum pudding. Give the practical as well as the frivolous.

GEMINI, May 21st to June 20th (since it's a Dual sign) often welcome things in pairs. They like the newest gadgets, read periodicals and current fiction. They're easy to find gifts for since they're interested in dozens of things at one time and likely to talk about all of them.

CANCER, June 21 to July 22, are lovers of the home with a flair for the dramatic. Give bed linens, colored bath towels. Cancer people are influenced by the moon so give them pewter, silver, not gold. Some treasure family and roots, and might like a genealogy. They are sometimes property hungry.

LEO, July 23 to August 22. Leo's get their impressive drive and energy from the sun–never give them anything ersatz. Jewelry must be real, not fake–gold not silver. Never try to impress a Leo by giving quantity instead of quality. They are often knowledgeable in the world of art, but not at the Contemporary level. They're also Zodiac enthusiasts, so give them a horoscope reading.

VIRGO, August 23 to September 22, like utilitarian things. There is a hard-core practicality in all earth signs, coupled with extreme idealism. Give them gadgets, but be sure they work. "How to do it" books, plants, closet organizers and good soap. If there's not a pet in their house, you'll be the best Santa, if you give one.

LIBRA, September 23 to October 22, represents balance. Librans are likely to be charming, so they are popular socially. Give party clothes and accessories–anything graceful and pretty. Libra people are sensitive to color, and usually prefer the luxurious to the spartan.

SCORPIO, October 23 to November 21. Since Scorpio is the detective sign, give jigsaw puzzles. Scorpio's are likely to be secretive and possessive–a jewelry box or handbag will be more appreciated if it can be locked. Scorpio is also a water sign–try bath oil. Sex is likely to be a pre-occupation –give a subscription to "Playboy".

SAGITTARIUS, November 22 to December 21, are travelers and gamblers–they'll take any chance. Travel books or clothes will please, as will binoculars. They are outdoor people who like cold weather as a rule–if athletic, they ski–so give ski accoutrements. Philosophy and religion are important to them–often they're extremely talkative–give a color telephone. In fact they hate to miss anything–give current and fashionable.

IF ALL ELSE FAILS–WHY NOT TRY THE STARS?

Women Voters Seek Answers To Disposal

The Environmental Quality Committee of the League of Women Voters of Metropolitan Columbus is conducting consensus meetings to establish a League position on the national problem of solid-waste disposal.

League members may attend any of two area meetings: Thursday, November 30 at 9:15 a.m. in the Y.M.C.A., 66 South Fourth Street (babysitting); and Thursday, November 30 at 8:00 p.m. in the Worthing State Savings Bank, 6995 North High Street.

Coffee drinkers are requested to bring their own cups. There will not be any disposables provided. For further information call the League of Women Voters office, 221-1743.

Spaghetti For All

The St. Charles Mother's Club is once again sponsoring a spaghetti dinner for the benefit of the St. Charles Preparatory School.

It will be held at the St. Charles School, 2010 East Broad St., Sunday, Dec. 3, noon to 6 p.m.

Proceeds will be used for improvements at the school.

Tickets will also be available at the door.

Jewish Women Sponsor Movie

Columbus Section of National Council of Jewish Women will present an afternoon of movies for children Saturday, Dec. 2, at 1-3 p.m.

Refreshments will be served and there will be many prizes.

Donations are 75 cents per child. The public is invited.

The proceeds of the afternoon are to aid NCJW "Ship-A-Box" program, whose goal is to provide deprived youngsters abroad with urgently needed work and play materials.

The project also accepts donations in the form of educational toys, sports equipment and musical instruments.

For information, call 235-9947.

Explorer Post Formed For Girls

Clyde Young, Organization and Extension Chairman of the Boy Scouts Northwest District, has announced the formation of a new Explorer Post, 447, sponsored by a group of citizens.

"What makes this Explorer Post unique," said Young, "is that all the members are girls. This is the first all girl Explorer Post in Central Ohio Council, Boy Scouts of America."

The post will meet the third Wednesday of the month at the home of William Henderson, Jr., the Post Advisor, 4740 Riverside Dr., Columbus. The special interest of the post is high adventure camping.

Miss Rayn, the newly elected President, said the post is open to new members 15 years or older, male or female. Anyone interested in joining should contact her, 451-2068 or Mr. Henderson, 451-4008.

Furnace Maintenance

The season is upon us when once again the heating system becomes an all-important piece of machinery in our homes. So, now is a good time to do some cleaning and any necessary maintenance work on your forced air heating system.

Start the heating season with a clean furance filter. Some filters can be removed, cleaned, and replaced, while others can be thrown away after a new filter is put in place. Extension Agricultural Engineer at the Ohio State University, Roger Miller, says it's a good idea to check the condition of the filter once a month.

'Yimai Hachanukah' To Honor Athletes

A unique memorial service in memory of the 11 fallen Israeli athletes will be held at The Jewish Center, 1125 College Ave. Sunday, Dec. 3 at 4:30 p.m., according to an announcement by Barry Zacks, Chairman of the Chanukah Memorial Program.

"THE THEME for this year's week of Chanukah at The Jewish Center", states Zacks, "will be 'Yimai Hachanukah - Days of Dedication'. It is therefore fitting that in this 25th anniversary year of the founding of the State of Israel, that we symbolize this dedication and the power of spirit so ably demonstrated by the athletes, by the planting of 11 trees in a viewable area of the center's spacious grounds.

Zacks said there will be total community involvement in the ceremonies, with the trees being planted by 11 different community organizations.

"Members of the Center's physical educational acitvity, 'Operation Rebound'," said Zacks, "and selected youth will run the Torch of Modin, recently presented to the Columbus Jewish community by the State of Israel, along the Center's new outdoor track to the area in which the 11 trees will be planted. Flares will be lit in the immediate area of each tree, so that the entire ceremonies may be witnessed from The Jewish Center parking lot."

AFTER THE tree-planting ceremonies, the Torch will be carried to the 18 foot high menorah adorning the Center's front lawn for the lighting and blessings of the fourth night of Chanukah. Rabbi Mark Raphael will officiate at this ceremony. Harold Edelstein, Center Vice President, who constructed and donated the giant menorah to the Center, will light the four "candles" commemorating the fourth day of the eight day holiday.

Zacks said the community is invited and encouraged to attend this symbolic event

Dance Group Will Perform

Capital University's 30-member Modern Dance Performing Group will present two evenings of dance Dec. 2 and 3 at 8 p.m. in Mees Hall Auditorium on the Capital campus.

The modern dance group is directed and choreographed by Dale Scholl, an instructor in Capital's physical education department.

Three major works will be presented by the dance troupe: "A Salad Burlesque," featuring Kay Wagner of 4460 Kimmsel Road in Columbus, and Gary Holmquist, who also serves as lighting and technical director.

Other works include "Perpetual Cycle" and "Up from the Roots" (from "Jazz Medley") which was choreographed by Rita Toles of 792 Berkeley Road.

The program will reflect a variety of dance styles and moods, including light comedy and jazz. There is no admission charge for either performance and the public is invited.

Also on the schedule for Capital's modern dance group is an upcoming performance at the University of Pittsburgh dance festival, which will include college dancers from four eastern states.

Plans Movies

Bexley Parks and Recreation Department is scheduling a series of "Saturday Afternoon Movie Matinees" aimed at the elementary-school-age children of the community.

The movies will be shown on Dec. 2, 9 and 16, and on Jan. 6, 13 and 20 in the Jeffrey Mansion (3rd floor) from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m.

THE SERIES will include feature films from the Disney Studio, and two comedies featuring Abbot and Costello.

Jeffrey Mansion will be open on these (and all other Saturday) afternoons from noon to 4 p.m. for youth center activities on the main floor, in addition to the movie matinee showings.

THIS SATURDAY the feature will be "Hold That Ghost" starring Abbot and Costello.

In following weeks the department will show "Emile' and the Detectives", "One Hundred and One Dalmations", "Old Yeller", another comedy - "Abbot and Costello Meet Frankenstein", and "Incredible Journey".

Set For Christmas Sale

THE ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION of the Columbus School for Girls is holding its annual "Christmas Greens Sale." The proceeds will be used to sponsor a scholarship to the school. In addition to balsam and boxwood wreaths, pine roping and mistletoe, red velvet waterproof bows are being offered for sale this year. Orders will be taken at the school, 56 S. Columbus Ave., 252-5587. Getting ready for the sale are Mrs. Stephen Halliday (left) and Mrs. G. Britton Durell.

Garden Club Plans Sale

YORKSHIRE GARDEN CLUB will have its annual Christmas Bazaar on December 9th at the Yorkshire Clubhouse, 1317 Noe-Bixby Rd. Items for sale will include home decorations, gifts and baked goods. Part of the proceeds will be used for the landscaping fund for a new project at Ohio State University called "Creative Living." Co-chairman of the sale are left to right: Mrs. Stephen Silbaugh, Mrs. Drennen Swickard and Mrs. Robert Knight.

Interfaith Program Opens Advent Season

The 17th annual Advent program will be held this year Saturday Dec. 2, at Saint John's Evangelical Protestant Church of the United Church of Christ, 50 E. Mound St. from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

The traditional pre-Advent program is sponsored each year by Church Women United of Franklin County and the Council of Catholic Women of North and South Central Deaneries.

The annual event is designed to encourage families to prepare for the Advent season and to keep Christ as the center of our preparation.

Pastor LeRoy Kutz Jr. of St. John's church will deliver the invocation.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Fillinger II of St. John's church and their children, Gwen, 8, and Clark, 4, will participate in the blessing of the Advent wreath and lighting of the candles. The wreath will be given to the YWCA, 65 S. Fourth St. where it will be lighted each evening during the dinner hour.

Christmas customs of other countries will be described. Mrs. Herbert Freitag, of Scottwood Community Church will tell about customs she recalls in Germany.

Music will be furnished by the Westminster Choir of Bulovard Presbyterian Church and a guitar group from St. Mary's Church of Groveport, under the direction of Mr. Richard Hilbert.

After the program children will be supervised by Mrs. Campbell Warren in making religious symbols to be used in the homes.

Holiday bake goods and their recipes will be displayed. Religious articles from Trinity House and UNICEF cards will also be on display.

A reception in the fellowship auditorium will conclude the afternoon. The public is invited with families especially welcome. Admission is free.

Mrs. Taylor Knight, assisted by Mrs. William Hetterscheidt will chair the program. Other committee members are: Mrs. Phyllis Trianso, Mrs. Kenneth Gruber, Mrs. Dale Rawn, Mrs. Barbra Hendrich, Mrs. Shirley Boston, Mrs. Campbell Warren, Mrs. John McGaff, Mrs. John Wilson, Mrs. E. . Patton, Mrs. Julius Owens and Mrs. David Russack, publicity.

Easthaven PTA Plans Dinner Saturday

The Easthaven Elementary PTA will sponsor a Spaghetti Dinner from 4 to 8 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 2 at the school gymnasium, 2360 Garnet Pl.

Tickets for children six to 12 are 75 cents and for adults $1.50. Children under six will be served free.

SAFETY BELTS

..Traveling to see friends and relatives? Well, no matter how short the trip, always use safety belts.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Many people will sacrifice to give luxurious presents to someone they love- and some gifts will be for people we'd like to take off our Christmas list.

Many gifts will be returned because they are not right- and surprisingly, some will be appreciated.

God gave us the most beautiful gift of all- He gave us the gift of love. His Son was willing to come to earth to die for us.

There is one gift we can give God- OUR LOVE - Come and learn how.

Cadet Honored For Latin Work

A class of Latin honor students, under the direction and leadership of Major Charles H. Wilson of the Tennessee Military Institute staff, presented a demonstration of teaching methodology for Latin to future teachers of Latin at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

The program allows each student to proceed at his own rate of speed and inspiration.

It utilized the facilities of the Modern Language Department laboratory.

The program was sponsored by the Department of Classics at the University College of Education.

Cadets King, Bowman, McReynolds, Seiler and Andrews were the honor students who demonstrated this very successful program.

YFU Seeks Homes For Foreign Students

"Youth For Understanding," an international teenage exchange student program is seeking average American homes for South American students arriving in January to spend six months in the U.S.

While here they live in the home as a member of the family, attending the local high school and participate in all family activities as well as chores.

The students own families in their countries pay for their YFU program fees which include transportation and medical insurance fees.

It is not necessary to have a teenager in the home, nor is it necessary to have a separate bedroom.

If interested, or more information is desired about the YFU student exchange program and how to become a host family, please call or write; Mrs. Wm. P. Dulin, Sr.; 4644 Wingate Rd., Columbus, Ohio 43227, phone 837-7701.

Eagles Demolished

Moment Of Truth Hits Watterson

The pround football Eagles of Watterson High School will fly high again - next year probably - but the every-ready eleven of Ron Shay, et al, learned one lesson last Friday at Massillon.

It was two defeats a winning season do make.

That was the case wiuth Akron St. Vincent-St. Mary two-time losers as their vaunted ground [illegible] crushed the Eagles and a sticky defense combined for a 28-7 victory to give the Akron school a Class AA title in the first-ever state playoffs at the high school level.

The Eagles made a game of it even though they were stymied time and again by the fleet Akron defenders and then hit hard by their offensive gestures.

The thorn in the claw of the Eagles was a 5-11, 185 pound blockbuster named Greg Thurman. Thurman only carried the ball 16 times from his tailback position but netted 144 yards before calling it a halt late in the final period.

Akron scored twice in the first period then added another in the third and capped it in the final period.

The Eagles lone TD came in the third period on a 9 yard burst by Chico Browning. That made it 20-7 but the Eagles went down eight more when Akron again scored.

Shrine Bowl Will Have Card Stars

Steve Traylor and Doug Thomson, two record setting Otterbein football players have been named to the All-Ohio Shrine Bowl Game, Dec. 9 in Ohio stadium.

Both senior co-captains have been selected to the defensive team of the Shrine Bowl's East Squad, Thomson as a linebacker and Traylor as a defensive back. Although offensive stars for Otterbein, both have also played defense throughout their careers.

Traylor, a 6-0, 175 pound senior from Westerville, broke four school receiving records this past fall, as he had his best year, catching 37 passes for 647 yards and six TD's.

Those receiving figures placed Traylor in second place among the Ohio Conference receivers this year. His school receiving set this year include: most yardage in a season (647); most career catches (123) and most yardage in a career (1890).

Thomson, a 6-0, 210 pound senior halfback-linebacker from Oakville, Ontario, finished his final season two weeks ago as the all-time Otterbein rushing leader.

The leading rusher for Otterbein the last three seasons, Thomson set the season rushing record in 1970 (859) and this year set the career rushing mark (2,248) and career attempts (520).

Ohio Dominican Will Field Veteran Team

Four returning lettermen - together with a fine crop of freshmen - will bolster the Ohio Dominican College Panther Basketball Team, Ron Lucas, the new ODC basketball coach, predicted as he prepared to select cagers for the team's 25-game [illegible].

"My biggest challenge," Lucas said today, "will be welding a squad together for the first six games. Transfers, additions, plus academic problems will keep ten candidates out of action for at least the first half dozen of our encounters."

Maurer, 6'2, averaged 19.1 points per game last year with the Panthers as he attained a 49.7 percentage in the field goal department and averaged 7.5 rebounds per game.

A graduate of Wehrle High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Maurer, 117 Frankfort St., and a Senior at Ohio Dominican.

Yuskewich, a 6'4 graduate of Watterson High School, tallied a 45.4 field goal percentage last season, along with a 6.5 per game rebound average. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. V.J. Yuskewich, 2814 Welsford Rd., and a Junior at Ohio Dominican.

Mizelle averaged 5.3 points per game last season. A 5'8 Junior at Ohio Dominican, he is a graduate of East High and the son of Mrs. Mildred Mizelle, 980 Caldwell.

WINTERS started many games for the Panthers last year and averaged 2 points per game. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Winters, 238 Richards Rd. A graduate of Watterson, he is a sophomore at ODC and stands 6'2.

Diedalis, 6'3 was named to the second All-City Team and won two letters as a forward on the Northland High School team. The son of Mr. and Mrs. John Diedalis, 5337 Poplarwood, he averaged 20.1 points per game in city play during his last high school season.

Schwendeman, 6'1, an all-around athlete lettered twice in basketball when he played guard for Dayton Chaminade and was a baseball pitcher there, too. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Schwendeman, 134 Alton Ave., Dayton.

[illegible]wer, 6'3, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Brewer, 696 [illegible] Orchard Court, played basketball at Bishop Hartley High School.

LISTING the potentials for [illegible] to the team, Lucas cited: Ken Richardson, 6'6, from Crooksville who is back at Ohio Dominican after a year's absence, and who two years ago helped ODC earn a trip to the Kansas City NAIA Tournament; and returning last year lettermen Calvin Booth, a 6'6 sophomore son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Booth, 772 Seymour Ave., from South High School, and Bob Cornwell, 29 W. California Ave., 6'4 senior and a graduate of Watterson High School.

In addition post-holiday player possibilities will include: Terry Holliman, registered at Ohio Dominican after attending Stanford; Lynn Stoner, 5'10 transfer from Otterbein, and a graduate of Walnut Ridge, and Craig Smith, an East High grad and transfer from George Washington University.

Holliman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Holliman, 963 Kelton Ave., was an all-City player and All District during his stay at Columbus South High School. Stoner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Stoner, 5016 Chatterton, Smith, at 6'5, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. Sawyer, 1710 Clifton Ave.

Basketball Teams Formed In Bexley

Boys in grades five and six are to report to their school gymns on Monday, Dec. 4 to register for the Boys Basketball League sponsored by the Bexley Parks and Recreation Department.

Practices will be held each Monday and Wednesday from 3:15 to 5:15 p.m. and games will be played in the high school gym on Saturday afternoons beginning Jan. 6.

There will be a $2 registration fee, payable at the time of registration (3:15 at Maryland, 3:45 at Cassingham, 4:15 at Montrose), for team shirts.

Boys living in Bexley but attending private or parochial schools should report to the public school closest to their home.

If there are any questions, call the office of the department week days before 5 p.m. at 258-5755 or 258-0709.

Registration for fourth grade boys basketball will be Saturday morning, Jan. 6 at the high school gym. This program is open to all 4th grade boys in Bexley, and the registration fee is $2.

Mrs. Jo Miller, Supervisor of Girls and Women's Sports in Bexley, will be in charge of the basketball leagues for girls, assisted by Bonnie Sanders.

Girls in grades four through eight should report to Montrose Gym for registration on Jan. 8th.

Teams will be established in two leagues - Junior (grades 4-5-6) and Senior (grades 7 & 8) with practices each Friday from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Games will be scheduled with other local teams such as Grandview, Westerville, etc. Registration fee is $2.

New Location Set For SBA

Frank D. Ray, Director of the Columbus District Office of the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), today announced that the agency has moved to the second floor of 34 North High Street, Columbus.

Ray and Robert A. Dwyer, Midwest Regional Director, officiated at ribbon cutting ceremonies November 24.

"Our new facilities are a result of expanded service to small business in the 46 county district", said Ray.

Title Races Start

Early Season Victories Clue To League Favorites

IF THERE are any clues as to who might prove to be victorious in the various area high school basketball races they are well hidden.

Only one league - the Central Catholic - might be a walkaway and that's with State Class AA champs Bishop Ready already showing championship calibre.

The Silver Knights have already polished off strong boys Columbus South and Central and usually strong Buckeye Valley.

Pat Penn's veterans might have another coast to the title in the CCL and at the state level f the blossoming bears fruit.

Westerville looks like a strong OCC contender. The Cats of Terry Yoakum have strided to three wins in a row including one in the OCC last week against Westland. The Cats have shown good board strength and balanced scoring power.

Whitehall's Rams, victorious over a yet winless Reynoldsburg Raider five, go to Delaware in a must win contest for the Rama.

Westerville entertains Gahanna.

DEFENDING Columbus city champs South head for Northland Friday then trek to Canton McKinley for a tout with the traditionally strong Bulldog cagers.

Mid-Eight action is off and running with Bexley again seeming to head the pack. The Lions have a Saturday afternoon tilt at Mifflin, the league darkhorse.

NETWORK: It's a long way to another grid season but don't be surprised if you see Groveport and Hilliard among the Ohio Capital Conference teams as close as the 1973 grid season or at least for the 1973-74 cage season.

More league status changes might include the Metro and Mid-8 where Grove City is reportedly headed for the Central Ohio League that includes Chillicothe and Upper Arlington among the regular strongees.

New Albany might become a Metro or Mid-8 leaguer while Mifflin is almost certain to become a member of the Columbus City League with its new Columbus school affilliation.

Increased enrollment and more central locations (less travel time and more equal school schedules) are the general reasons for the possible changes.

IN ANSWER to several queries: we will publish the Ohio Capital Conference and Mid-8 all star football teams when we receive official notification of the selections. We were aware of the Columbus City League selections and were invited to attend the photo session a week ago Monday.

Basketball Available At YMCA

An opportunity to play basketball is being offered to high school boys by the Suburban East Branch Y.M.C.A. and Brookwood Presbyterian Church at the Church gym, at 2685 East Livingston.

The gym is open from 4 - 6 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Friday for senior high boys and Tuesday, Thurday, and Friday for junior high boys.

The program will run until April of 1973. A $3 affiliate membership is required to participate.

A church basketball league for high school boys is also being planned.

OSU-Michigan Winners Divided

They scored the best in the OSU vs Michigan "Fun-Ates" scores guessed by area merchants.

Edward and Adams Carfagna, representing Carfagna's Cleve Meats, 1405-Dublin-Granville Rd., guessed OSU 12, Michigan 10.

The actual score, as if we need to tell you, was OSU 14, Michigan 11.

Seven merchants had the correct point spread, three points, and one guessed the score as a tie.

Forty of the guessers picked OSU with 119 selecting the Wolverines (boo) as the winner.

One thing for sure - the merchants spread the point spread around. Their scores were in last week's issue. Why not get the copy still in your home and let the merchant know what your score was!

AROUND TOWN

THE SMITH BROTHERS have taken over the famous landmark in downtown Columbus, The Clock Restaurant. No, these are not of the cough drop fame, they are Jack and Paul Smith. These two do not make those things that are soothing to your throat. These two Smiths make things that are soothing to your taste and ears, good food and good entertainment.

For the entertainment portion, they have brought into their spot one of the finest bands in the land, Don Basham. That's right, just Don Basham. But, he sounds like an entire orchestra.

Don plays organ, trumpet, trombone, saxophone, piano and sings. I probably have left out a few instruments.

He always has at least two, if not more instruments going for him at one time. This guy is phenomenal. That, my friends, is a word I don't use too often.

Close your eyes, and you will actually think you are listening to a group instead of just one man. While playing organ, Don will also play either the trombone, trumpet or piano, at the same time using an electric side man for his rhythum section and providing the bass sounds from the organ's bass pedals. This one man band comes right back on tunes with a voice that could keep him working fifty two weeks out of the year. Don sings in a very pleasant deep voice that is full of resonance and body.

Now, right away, you might think, based on past experience, that here is a fellow who plays at several different instruments. Not true. Don Basham is no micky mouse musician. He doesn't horse around. Be it organ, trumpet, or sax, Don gets down to business and handles each one as if he were noted for that particular bit.

Each time he picks up one of his many musical tools, he will thrill you with his style and talent. Don't ask me which one he plays best, because he handles them all expertly.

This is one act you, who are lovers of good music, must catch. Don plays all of the pretty things, the old standards, dixie contemporary and country and western. There is something for everybody. It all happens all week long at the Clock Restaurant. Don Basham is a fun act, and I'll guarantee you will have fun.

BETTY and The Boys are currently at the Olentangy Inn. This is a trio who have been there for several weeks. The group is loaded with talent, but are sadly lacking in stage presence and all-around showmanship.

For the limited instrumentation they do make a lot of good music. You have Ronnie Edens on guitar and electric bass played by foot pedals similar to the bass notes on an electric organ. Gary Cottrill is the drummer and Betty Hart is the female vocalist. And, what a vocalist.

Betty is the whole spark plug in the group. This gal has a voice that I would stack up against most of the "stars" in the business,, today. She also, is the only one who gives forth with any degree of stage personality.

THE TWO fellows also sing, both individually as well as providing plenty of good harmonic sounds with Betty. Believe me, you will enjoy listening to the group. But, when it comes to looking, that's an entertainer of a different color.

The guitarist doesn't wear shoes on stage. Now, he will probably tell you that it is because he plays the foot pedals on the bass. Ain't so. I've seen many musicians wear shoes while performing similar duties. The drummer's shoes were sadly in need of a good shine. Betty does not believe in shoes on stage either.

As I said, the group is talented, musically and vocally. They just do not have any idea of show biz. There is no professionalism in their act. In fact, there is no act. Just a nice delivery of a bunch of songs.

If someone would take hold of this trio, and they would listen, they could be one of the finest lounge acts around. I know their booking fees would climb.

Drop in at the Olentangy Inn this week. You will enjoy their music.

MARK THIS down on your calendar. Coming into Vic Vescoe's popular Vegas Club is Freddy Boom Cannon, a United Artist Recording Star. Freddy will be there just two big nights, next Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 4 and 5.

Cannon, who has seven gold records, is coming to the Vegas Club directly from a smashing appearance at the famous Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas. He will be backed by the Vegas Club's house band, Surprise.

Among Cannon's gold records are, "Tallahasee Tessie," and "Abigal Beecher", which he promises to perform next Monday and Tuesday.

The Vegas Club's own house band, Surprize, have also recorded a couple of platters for United Artist, "Denise," and "Black and White," which should hit the local record stands this week.

THE VEGAS Club is rapidly becoming one of the top swinging spots Around Town, Plan on visiting the place soon. Drop in for an afternoon taste and take a look at sexy Ronnie Reed. At night, there are several go-go dancers, and of course the great music of Surprize. Most of all, don't miss Freddy Boom Cannon next Monday and Tuesday. The guy is great.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

This week you have another big treat in store for you lovers of good country and western music. The Club House Restaurant is bringing in a big package show of Grand Ole Opery entertainers. The show features Lloyd Green, considered to be the top steel guitarists in the country.

This week you have another big treat in store for you lovers of good country and western music. The Club House Restaurant is bringing in a big package show of Grand Ole Opery entertainers. The show features Lloyd Green, considered to be the top steel guitarists in the country. Also, on the same bill is Shot Jackson, who is known as the King of the Grand Ole Opry. The M.C. for the show is funny man himself, Carl Hawks. This is something you can't miss. It all happens this weekend at the Club House Restaurant...The swingingest spot in town is Diamond Jim's. There is no question about it. With groups like Sail, who just closed, you can see why. This was a red hot six piece outfit that litterally knocked them dead. This week, Diamond Jim's has another great one going for them, Georgia Gay and the Ravens. For a good time, take my word and get out there this week. Diamond Jim's is one of the best places I know of to meet plenty of friends of the opposite sex. The place is always loaded with stag men and women.

Most of all, the entertainment is always super tops.....Worthington Community Theatre is presenting, "See How They Run." Auditions will be held at 8 p.m. this coming Tuesday and Wednesday at the Ohio State Bank, 666 High St. in Worthington. This is a smashing comedy and if you want a part plan to give it a try. You can call 888-1240 for additional information.... You people should get more in community theatre in order to obtain more experience. Because you may be in the movies soon. Just received word from movie producers Joe Watterman and Mack Gilbert that they plan on making their next movie right here in good old Columbus town. In fact, they have several movies lined up which will be shot in Columbus. Plans call for using a host of local people in various capacities on both sides of the screen. Both Watterman and Gilbert are local people, who went to Hollywood and made good. Their first movie, which premiered at two local theatres, "No Deposit, No Return," broke all records.Now, they plan to make Columbus the movie capital of America. Knowing these two, they will do it, too. More on their plans next week....While on the subject of movies, Westland Cinema will be showing, "Scrooge," for its special Christmas Matinee fare. This is a great movie bringing all the Charles Dickens' characters to life. It is a fine holiday musical and everyone young or old should see this one. There will be special group prices. So any school organizations, or any group or club wishing to see this movie call the management at Westland Cinema, now. The larger the group, the cheaper the tickets....For just a plain, old fashion good time, stop in at the Pipe Dream some afternoon or evening. You are never a stranger, that's for sure. Dixie take care of the duties behind the bar during the daytime. She is a good looking, personable gal. At night, Sylvia plays organ, and creates a host of good music and good times. Put the Pipe Dreams on your entertainment schedule. By the way, their food is delicious. A great place for lunch or dinner.

They're Winners

"CHET" Sharp, left "president of A "Chet" Sharp, Realtor congratulates Art Covan and Jo Graves on meeting their quotas and winning for themselves and husband and wife an all expense paid eleven days in Hawaii.

I spent last week in Cleveland, where I had two most enjoyable experiences which I would like to share with you.

One was sitting in on a play reading group. Now this is not reading plays for the purpose of choosing a theater season for your own particular group, although this would not be a bad idea either, but simply getting together once a month to read a play out loud.

There are ten members of the group I was invited to attend and we read "Private Lives". You would be surprised how enjoyable this can be if you are an audience most of the time - or all of the time - and not an actor.

You can emote in the privacy of your own living room, reading from a book and not memorizing pages and pages of dialogue. This group is evenly divided with actors and non-actors, but all read and relish their moment "on stage".

Why not get a few groups like this going here in Columbus? If you enjoy going to a play, I am sure you would enjoy reading one and they are available at your public library, so everyone can pick up his own copy for this occasion with no expenditure. Light refreshments can be served, topping off a fine evening of entertainment. Think about it.

There was another guest present, Louis Sgan by name, and he just completed his first book, at the age of seventy-five.

The title is "The Concerned" and it deals with education in America in the early 1900's. Mr. Sgan is an emigrant and education is very precious to him.

I read part of the book while in Cleveland and intend to finish it at the earliest opportunity. He has a lot to say about false values and prejudice and questions where we go from here.

Since it has just been released, it may not be available just yet, but look for it in your local bookstore.

Welsh Hills Players opens December 5 with "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof" and this runs through Dec. 9. Bob Stegmiller directs this Tennessee Williams classic. The address is 3 Wilwood Avenue, Newark and curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

"House Of Blue Leaves" is being produced at Players Club, 549 Franklin Ave. starting December 8. For ticket information call 224-6971. Look for more on this later.

Metro Parks This Week

Metropolitan Park Programs for the week of December 1-7 are.

Blacklick Woods: Film "The Olympic Elk" to be shown in Beech-Maple Lodge at 2 and 3:30 p.m. Sunday, December 3.

Blenden Woods: Walden Wildlife Refuge open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday and 3 to 5 p.m. weekdays.

Darby Creek: Film "Tuna Angling" in Cedar Ridge Lodge at 2 p.m. Sunday, December 3.

Sharon Woods: Films "Indians of Early America", "Nature's Camouflage" and "Birds, Baboons, and Other Animals" in Nature Barn at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, December 3.

CAR CURSERS

..Are you a car-curser? Do you swear at other drivers for making odd moves? How about your own driving habits? State Highway Safety Director Pete O'Grady ask that you check your own skills and attitudes before judging others.

Barracks Auxiliary Chillicothe Bound

Capitol City Barracks No. 461 and Auxiliary of the Veterans of World War One will meet in the Veterans Memorial Building 300 West Broad St. Columbus, Dec. 3, at 2 p.m. in Rooms 201 and 203.

A social hour with refreshments will follow this meeting.

Wednesday December 6, they will meet at 8 a.m. at Central Point Shopping Center to journey to the Chillicothe Veterans Hospital to help the Veterans in selection of their Christmas gifts to be mailed home. Those going should report to Sarah Stertzer 464-4291.

SAFETY BELTS

..It's a proven fact that safety belts can save your life or reduce the degree of injury if you should be in a traffic accident.

Slaughterhouse Ahead

OPENING at Westland Cinema Wednesday, Dec. 6, is the award winning movie, "Slaughterhouse Five." The German War movie picture stars Michael Sacks, Ron Leibman and leading Valerie Perrine. It is rated R.

Classified Ad Pays Dividends In The Spectator

..Classified advertising in THE SPECTATOR NEWSPAPERS pays dividends.

Mrs. Schenz advertised this: "Furnished, one bedroom cottage with garage. Near Grove City bus line. Adult person preferred."

She received two calls the first week then ran the ad again and the phone started a constant ring.

"Very happy with the success" was the way Mrs. Schenz reported it.

Yes, Classified Advertising in the SPECTATOR NEWSPAPERS does pay dividends.

The Gas Company urges you to use its competitor, the sun.

HOTTEST

We're still in business to supply clean-burning energy.
And we plan to be in business for generations to come.
The future looks bright. But, the problem is . . . now.
We've been telling you about it. The natural gas shortage.
So now we're going to give you some ideas for using less gas.
In fact, we recommend our hottest competitor. The sun.
Even on the coldest day, you should let direct sunlight in through your windows.
It will help heat your home.
When there's no sun, close your drapes to keep your heat from leaking out.
It will make a difference.
And here are some other ways you can conserve gas:
Insulate your home and seal the drafty areas around doors and windows.
Have your furnace checked periodically by your heating dealer to make sure it is operating efficiently.
Check your furnace filters often to be certain they're clean.
Turn your thermostat down to the lowest comfortable temperature and leave it there.
All these things will add to your comfort and you'll use less gas.
Write for our free booklet, "30 Ways to Save", for more ideas.

Gas is precious, pure energy... use it wisely.

BCA Announced Christmas Activities

The schedule of Bexley public holiday events sponsored by the Bexley Celebrations Association is announced by Mrs. Cleto Birhanzl, president.

BCA members will work two Saturday mornings, Dec. 2 and 9, decorating the trees in Bexley Circle at Drexel and E. Broad St. The traditional tree-lighting ceremony is set for 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 10, in the circle's northwest quadrant.

Residents will have until Sunday evening, Dec. 17, to complete their outdoor decorations and have them judged in the 12th annual contest. The finalists, as selected by neighborhood committees, will be judged Monday night, Dec. 18. In previous years the judging was on Saturday and Sunday nights, and the change was made for the benefit of weekend decorators.

Further information will be published in The Spectator, and the contest details also will appear in placards to be posted throughout Bexley.

Read The Spectator for interesting news of your local community.

Lots Of Love In A Letter

THANK HEAVEN for little girls...and little boys...and mailboxes not too high to reach. Wouldn't it be tragic if after all the time this little one spent writing that special letter to you-know-who that she couldn't reach the letter slot? You see, writing letters is special and mailing them is even more so. That way the little one knows the letter is on its way. Mothers and Dads are fine and so are brothers and sisters, but can I really trust them with this special mission? Well...no I think I'll mail it myself. Gee, that slot looks awfully high...but I'll stand on my tiptoes if I have to. There, the letter is mailed and now it's only 19 days until Christmas. Oh, my, goodness, did it need a stamp! For New Schools

Board Divided On Site Committee

THOMAS B. CONNERY
Special Staff Writer

A proposal to establish a committee to advise the school board on selection of new school sites divided board members along black-white lines at the Nov. 28 meeting.

Board member Marie Castleman introduced the proposal, which calls for the establishment of a 13-member "Advisory Committee on School Sites."

MRS. CASTLEMAN said that the committee would "assist the board in its effort to provide quality integrated education within the neighborhood concept. The committee would work to advise the superintendent and the board relative to the most desirable sites for new school buildings, keeping in mind the board's commitment to equality of educational opportunity for all children.

"One has but to look at where the overwhelming percentage of new private and public buildings are located," Mrs. Castleman said.

"These new structures have been built in suburban parts of the city which have clearly eliminated large segments of the population unable to travel to suburbia.

"ALL PEOPLE of good will have an obligation to see that allocations of money and construction be distributed more proportionately and equally among all people," she said.

The 13 members would consist of a board member and a representative from the board's central office; a representative of a lending or banking institution, or their association; a member of the business or industrial community; one from the Housing Commission; two from Real Estate Developers; one from the Metropolitan Area Council of Churches; and five from the community at large.

Among the five members at large, the university community, the Urban Coalition, and such civic organizations as the Civil Rights Council, Anti-Defamation League, N.A.A.C.P., and the League of Women Voters would be represented.

HALF OF THE committee would be appointed for two years, and half for three years.

Board President Thomas J. Moyer, and board members Virginia Prentice, Marilyn Redden and Paul Langdon said the proposal is not clear.

"There is nothing in the proposal that tells the committee what the board expects of it," Moyer said.

"ALSO," HE SAID, "I don't think a committee should come along and tell us to change sites that have been promised to the voters. I won't vote for it.

"But if the committee is concerned with future sites, not promised under the bond issue, then I'll go along with it," Moyer said.

"The proposal has fine general statements," he said, "and I agree with them. But specifically what should the committee tell us?"

MRS. CASTLEMAN said "Representatives on the committee would ensure that all people can buy homes in areas where schools are being built. The committee would find homes for people wishing to build in an area."

"I promised the voters on the West side that they would have a new high at Eureka and Briggs," Langdon said, "and I'm not going back on it."

He said that "the crux of the question is are we going to keep our promises to the public?"

Mrs. Castleman said a community changes, and that "Schools should be representative of the community at large.

"CONSTRUCTION OF some of the buildings proposed under the bond issue won't even start for at least three years," she said. "A community can change a lot in three years."

Mrs. Prentice expressed concern over promises made to voters and overcrowding.

"Will a site be changed to achieve integration," she asked, "even though that will make the school overcrowded?"

"I can't see waiting for racial balance in a community when it is faced with overcrowding," she said.

Walker said the committee would only advise. "The proposal allows for community participation, but it is up to the board to make a final decision.

"The proposal is concerned with an area of human relations that the board said it would deal with," he said.

WALKER ASKED: "What are you afraid of? It's only advice."

Mrs. Redden said that she does not see how the proposal deals with education.

"Don't new school buildings have something to do with education," Mrs. Castleman asked.

"I DON'T SEE how we can continue to use tax funds to build schools in areas that exclude elements because they can't buy a house," she said.

Mrs. Prentice asked: "Isn't that using the board, and ultimately children, as a lever to bring about social change?"

"As decision makers," Mrs. Castleman said, "we have an obligation to do all we can to make what is taught in the textbooks a reality."

Supt. John Ellis said that all promises should be kept for sites that are already chosen. He said, however, that advice could be used in the selection of sites not yet chosen, without breaking any promises to the voters.

SINCE THE meeting was not a business meeting, but a study and discussion session, a vote could not be taken on the proposal.

First Baby Will Be 'Gifted'

Gonna have a baby? Getting near that time when he or she is thought to be due about January 1, 1973?

Great!

That baby might be the lucky one (along with his or her parents) who will be the recipient of numerous gifts from area merchants.

If you've been missed please call Wendell Williams, 274-1155, for the details...meanwhile, what we can tell you is that your business firm name, address and gift you give will be included in each week's story starting with the Dec. 13 edition.

FOR SOUTH AMERICAN STUDENTS

YFU Program Seeks Host Families

By LYNN WILLIAMS
Eastern Editor

A group of Columbus residents are taking part in a "people-to-people approach" to better world understanding and they are looking for others to take part.

The group of residents have opened their homes to international teenage students in the Youth For Understanding Program, now in its fifth year in Columbus.

MRS. WILLIAM Dulin, area representative for the YFU, called the program a "Great learning experience for both the international students and the host families."

Mrs. Dulin, who has five children of her own, is presently hosting her seventh exchange daughter.

"I would say the benefits to a family are 1000 per cent. Education-wise, you can't get out of books what you can from having a foreign student living in your home. It's the best possible way to learn about their culture, the way they think and their philosphy."

MRS. DULIN'S present exchange student is Vjosa Dubrona from Prisjtina, Yugoslavia. "Our other students were from Greece, the Phillippines, Uruguay and three from Brazil."

The area representative for YFU said 50 students from South America will be arriving in January for six months and approximately 30 homes are still needed for these students

As to the kind of home the program seeks, Mrs. Dulin said, "we are looking for the average American home. Of course the ideal home is one where there are already teenagers, but this isn't necessary."

"WE HAVE students living in homes now where there are younger children and no other children "

She continued saying, "All that's really important is to find people who like people and are interested in learning more about others."

The program, which is 21 years old, operates in 50 countries

"THE PROGRAM is 95 per cent parent funded. Sometimes language clubs or classes in the school will help with the financing and sometimes there are scholarships available." Often clubs such as Lions, Kiwanis or Rotary clubs will aid with the financing.

"The host family provides room and board and the student usually takes care of his spending money."

Students are not selected on the basis of their wealth, but on the basis of their leadership potentiality and their capability as junior ambassadors for their own countries.

PRESENTLY THERE are 25 international students in the area attending high school as seniors for one year.

To qualify for the program the students must have three letters of recommendation, some knowledge of English and if they are to stay one year, they must have a grade point average of 3.5.

"We have sent seven students from this area aboard and we will have about 20 going next year," Mrs. Dulin said.

ONE LOCAL student who took advantage of the program is Mike Sigelmier who spent 14 months in Holland. His mother, Mrs. George Sigelmier is the Franklin County representative for YFU.

"I really enjoyed my year in Holland. I think you get a broader perspective on what's going on and it opens your mind to new ideas. You learn a new language and you learn to appreciate a new culture "

Mike's family is now hosting 18 year old Han Van De Ver from Dordrecht, Holland. Han is attending Wehrle High School and says he is enjoying his stay in this country.

"I THINK THE young people here are interested in the same things as those in my country. People are the same, they just have a different temperament."

Other host parents are Mr. and Mrs William Harrier who have their first exchange student, Monica Vielma from Acapulco, Mexico.

"We have two of our own children," Mrs. Harrier said, "And we will be getting another student from South America in January."

MRS. HARRIER called the YFU program a "wonderful experience" adding that "love and affection are the same in every language."

Monica attends Hamilton Township High School.

EXCHANGE STUDENT Alfonso Chunsin from the Phillippines lives with Mrs. Charles Rohr and attends Groveport-Madison High School.

Alfonso said he attended an all boys school in his hometown of Calocan, a suburb of Manila.

"I think the schools are about the same," Alfonso said, "but the laws here are stricter, such as the curfew and the drinking age."

ALFONSO SAID most of the stu at Groveport were friendly. "It t awhile to get to know people tho One thing he said he did like was dat "We can't drive in the program so w I go out they have to pick me up and th I like."

Alfonso said he had been on some trips outside of Columbus and had been to Canada since arriving in the states

"If I like it here I may stay and go to a university here in this country." He said he hopes to study engineering.

ALFONSO AND Suzanna Riesebeck, another Groveport-Madison exchange student, said they loved the football games

"I went to every game" Suzanna said. A native of a small town near Hamburg, Germany, Suzanna is spending the year with Mr. and Mrs James Green

"I would ask other students what was happening at the games and they wouldn't know. Many were more interested in the band and the cheerleaders "

SHE SAID SHE had taken six years of English before coming to this country, but still had difficulty understanding what was being said.

"It was the accent which made it difficult. I would have to have everything repeated several times."

Besides the required course, Suzanna is interested in studying math, chemistry and French. She said she was enjoying her stay and would recommend the program to friends at home.

WILIMETTE KNUCKLES of Careysberg, Liberia is living with Mrs. Bert Rosmond and attending Wehrle High School.

Wilimette said she likes school here because students can choose some of the courses they want to take. "At home we don't have a choice."

She is taking some business courses and said this is the field she hopes to study.

VJOSA DUBRONA also attends Groveport-Madison High School, which she said is completely different from the school she attends in Yugoslavia.

"At home we take more subjects and we don't change classes or have grade level divisions." She said after the four years of high school a student takes a course and if he passes he may then go on to the university.

She said at home things are more "old fashion" or traditional. "Under 18 you don't have a lot of rights."

Most of the six said they were enjoying American food and had gained weight since they arrived.

"I'VE HAD 15 things I'd never had before," Han said, "things like hot dogs, hamburgers and spaghetti. I love hamburgers best."

WHETHER IT'S eating a hamburger, attending a football game or experiencing the holiday season for the first time, these students are learning to better understand American life. And for their host families, there's the warm experience of making a home for an appreciative teenager and the satisfying knowledge that they've taken a positive step toward furthering International understanding.

IT'S A SMALL WORLD or so it should seem for this seven high school students. All from different countries, the teenagers share in common their participation in the Youth For Understanding exchange student program. Left to right the students are: Alfonso Chunsin from the Phillippines; Suzanna Riesebeck from near Hamburg, Germany; Mike Sigelmier from Columbus who spent 14 months in Holland; Monica Vielma from Acapulco, Mexico; Vjosa Dubrona from Prisjtina, Yugoslavia; Han Van De Ver from Dordrecht, Holland and Wilimette Knuckles from Careysberg, Liberia.

'Freethem Now' Theme For Rally

"Freethem Now", a city-wide family centered Soviet Rally will be held Tuesday, Dec. 12, 8 p.m. at the Columbus Jewish Center, 1125 College Ave.

It is being coordinated by B'nai B'rith Women in conjunction with the Committee on Soviet Jewry of the Council of Organizations of the United Jewish Fund and Council and Columbus Jewish Women's Organizations.

To commemorate Human Rights Day, Dec. 10, a national effort has been launched under the auspices of the Women's Plea for Human Rights for Soviet Jewish Prisoners of Conscience.

The National Conference on Soviet Jewry in cooperation with national Jewish women's organizations and the National Jewish Community Relations Advisory Council are planning activities and demonstrations in 50 major cities across the United States on Dec. 12.

The well publicized plight of Soviet Jews, including the most recent tactic to charge exorbitant exit fees for educated Jews, as well as the Soviet Jewish Prisoners of Conscience, are the focus of these events.

There are over 40 Soviet Jewish Prisoners of Conscience incarcerated in the Soviet Union.

Among the activities planned is a campaign to collect signatures on a declaration which asks that the Soviet Union afford basic human rights to its Jewish citizenry. The declaration also requests that the Human Rights Commission of the United Nations investigate violations of international standards by the Soviet Union and that the United States Government deny preferential economic concessions to the Soviet Union. On Dec. 12, in New York a representative group of women's leadership are seeking a meeting with Mrs. Helvi Sepila, Assistant Secretary General of the United Nations.

MRS. JOHN GILLIGAN (seated at left) is one of the honorary co-chairmen for the city-wide rally planned Tuesday, Dec. 12 on behalf of the Soviet Jews. Mrs. Tom Moody is also serving as honorary co-chairman. The rally, one of many being conducted across the country, will be at 8 p.m. at the Jewish Center. It is locally sponsored by B'nai B'rith women. Going over the details of the evening's activities with Mrs. Gilligan are Mrs. John Rusler, (seated); and standing are Mrs. Abe Green (left) and Mrs. Jerry Schwartz.

Senior Citizens - 'Here's Action

1100 E. BROAD ST.

Father George Fulcher of St. Anthony's Church will be the guest speaker at 1100 E. Broad Recreation Center Friday, Dec. 8, at 1:30. All area senior citizens are invited to hear Father Fulcher discuss his trip to the Holy Land.

December 11th is the last day to purchase tickets at 1100 for the coming Brunch being planned by the Party Committee. Tickets are $1 for a complete lunch featuring creamed chicken in patty shells. The Brunch will be Thursday, Dec. 14th, at 11 a.m.

Members with October, November and December birthdays will celebrate at a big party next Friday, Dec. 15th, at 2:30. A special program is planned along with refreshments and prizes.

It's not too late to make holiday gift items and decorations in the Center's classes. Christmas crafts class is Wednesday from 1 to 3; Pottery is Tuesday or Wednesday, 1:30 to 4; Beadwork, Needlework and Knitting is Wednesday, 10 to 4; and Candlemaking is Thursday, 10:30 till noon.

Additional information about senior citizens programs may be obtained by calling the 1100 East Broad Senior Citizen Recreation Center—252-2832.

Whitehall Recreation Roundup

WHITEHALL

Girls Recreation

A new program is opening up Dec. 7 for junior and senior high school girls. The program will be held on Thursday nights from 7 to 10 p.m. at Rosemore Junior High School. The supervisors are Teresa Frye and Nancy Sander.

The first phase of the program will be a volleyball league for both junior and senior high teams. Sign-up will be held the first few weeks of recreation.

Anyone interested in participating should come the first night and sign up either as individuals or entire teams can sign up. Teams will consist of six players and a substitute.

Other activities for recreation will be basketball, tumbling, and general recreation.

Women's Slimnastics

The women's program has resumed and will begin the round-robin badmitton tournament. This will be a doubles tournament. Badmitton rules, strategy, and playing techniques will be discussed before the tournament begins.

Other activities are slimnastics exercises, volleyball, hockey, and deck tennis.

General Recreation

All ages are reminded not to forget general recreation held Monday through Thursday from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Whitehall City Hall basement. Ping-pong, shuffleboard, and World-Wide Games are the activities for this program. This program is also held on Saturday afternoons from 1 to 4 p.m.

Elementary Recreation is still being held on Saturday mornings at Whitehall High School from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. Activities include basketball, volleyball, dodgeball, trampoline, tumbling, and games. The supervisors are Teresa Frye and Nancy Sander.

Airman Michael A. Alwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Alwood Sr., 3024 Langfield Dr., has been assigned to Lowry AFB, Colo., after completing Air Force basic training.

The Classic

HOW DO YOU put a lifetime of sporting thrills into one afternoon?

I did it last Saturday by seeing the Army-Navy classic.

I'm at a loss for words to describe the emotion that tingled my every nerve.

The Star Spangled Banner...the minute of silent prayer for the POW's and MIA's...the tradition that is more firm than the "Fiddler on the Roof"...the pageantry...the military bearing that turns into festivity at the kickoff...the more than 100,000 spectators...lean, hungry young men throwing their bodies at each other as if covering a grenade on a battlefield...the down to earth feeling you get from the coaching staff...the all for one and one for all attitude so evident in everyone you meet...all these and more are never to be forgotten for the manner in which they appeared.

I'm sorry, but my typewriter...like myself...is still speechless and all thumbs.

I thought the day had long since passed that something could move my soul with such ferocity.

Thanks, Army and Navy...my Zenith has been reached.

Sandra Lee Downs
and
Mrs. M.E. Sensenbrenner

A Love For Life

May and December were never more beautiful than they were last Sunday as Reynoldsburg's 1972 Tomato Queen Miss Sandra Lee Downs and former Columbus Mayor Maynard E. Sensenbrenner's lovely first lady were together for a few moments last Sunday at a ribbon cutting ceremony.

They are both exceptionally charming.

Miss Downs personifies the young people of today who are vigorous and exciting and accepting challenges with gratitude for the opportunity to meet them.

Mrs. Sensenbrenner has continued her graciousness and exudes a warmth that few people have.

It was a new, bright, shiny world for an afternoon as May's sunrise and December's twilight met for a brief moment and exchanged affection.

Wild Life Need Food To Survive The Winter

WITH WINTER here and a blanket of white in many parts of the country, we should give some thought to our feathered friends.

Invite birds to your home. You can do this by providing food for them. Birds live on insects, berries and other nature-provided foods. Insect activity stops when cold weather sets in, and often berry crops are short in some areas. So, our feathered friends often find themselves on a starvation diet during the winter months.

WHAT CAN WE DO? First we can take care of the situation at hand. If you do not have trees or shrubs that bear winter berries, then locate a feeder and keep it supplied with seeds, bread crumbs, small pieces of bacon, etc. for the birds to eat and for your pleasure in watching them. Second, and for the future, plant some shrubs such as Autumn Olive, Mountain Ash, Firethorn, and others to provide winter food for birds.

The Soil Conservation Service (SCS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture has a beautiful 4-color leaflet entitled "Invite Birds To Your Home." It shows pictures of and describes the various trees and shrubs you can grow that produce berries. Also, it shows pictures of birds we are familiar with and their preferred foods.

If you would like a copy of "Invite Birds To Your Home," drop by or call your local Soil Conservation Service office.

RABBIT FOOD becomes scarce during winter, too. And these critters may cause you a lot of damage, if you don't take certain measures to prevent it.

Rabbits girdle young fruit trees, particularly apple trees. They chew the bark off the tree near the ground, and that ends your chances of an apple crop the following year.

The oldest method, and still a good one, of protecting your trees is to fasten a piece of hardware cloth around the trunk. It should be large enough to permit the tree to grow four or five years before it becomes too tight.

HEAVY aluminum foil is good, too. This material may be purchased in strips and gently squeezed around the trunk. The foil will expand as the tree grows and may be left on for a number of years.

Also, there are chemical repellents available through local garden centers. When using these, be sure to follow directions on the label.

The Joys Of Christmas

ALL KEVIN wanted for Christmas was a new pair of shoes. A rather strange request for an eight-year-old boy. But upon investigation it was discovered that Kevin had never had any "new" shoes.

Terri asked for a typewriter so that she could learn a skill that would earn her a good job.

Knowing that she would enter college the next fall, Sharon "wished" for towels and sheets.

Without the help of individuals and groups in the Columbus area, Christmas would be just another day for these and 1000 other youngsters under the care of Franklin County Children's Services.

The agency attempts to make the holiday as pleasant as possible by coordinating each child's gift wishes with the interest of community citizens.

Each child's caseworker assists him in filling out his "wish" list. Then when individuals or groups call the Community Services office at 276-2924 wanting to help at Christmas they are read several "wants" and can chose the gift they wish to buy for a dependent child. The wrapped presents are then brought to the Community Services office at Franklin Village, 1951 Gantz Rd. in Grove City, before December 15.

Cash donations are also welcomed, as many needy families request money to buy Christmas dinner and older children prefer to make their own selections.

The agency is allowed to accept monetary and material gifts from concerned Columbus area residents who want all children to know the joy of Christmas.

Are you able to share your joy?

Where There's Smoke . . .

Trash Burning Rules Spelled Out By OEPA

"THE OPEN burning of trash and waste paper is now prohibited in practically every city and town in Ohio," Dr. Ira Whitman, Director of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, said this week.

In an effort to clear up some confusion as to who is affected by the state regulations, which became effective August 7, Whitman said all persons living in a "restricted area" are not allowed to burn.

A "restricted area" is defined as the area within the boundries of any municipal corporation, plus a zone extending 1000 feet beyond the boundries of any municipality having between 1000 and 10,000 population. For municipalities having more than 10,000 population, the restricted area extends one mile beyond the corporation limits.

IF A MUNICIPALITY does not have a collection service, then the residents would be allowed to burn, Whitman said. Open burning will only be allowed however, until a collection service becomes available or until July 1, 1975, whichever is sooner, he added. Many communities have already responded to the regulation by initiating collection services.

Farmers and other Ohioans who live outside of a restricted area are allowed to burn under certain conditions, Whitman said. These conditions include burning on the premises where the waste originated and 1000 feet from the nearest residential area; burning only when conditions are such as to readily dissipate the smoke; and only after certain wastes have been stacked and dried.

CARE MUST be taken to avoid causing a visibility problem if the burning is done near a highway, airport or railroad, Whitman said.

For large burning operations, such as landclearing projects, permission must be obtained from the Ohio EPA before any wastes can be burned. Anyone interested in obtaining permission to burn should write to the Ohio EPA and outline where and why the burning is to take place.

If air pollution is to be controlled, all sources must be covered by the regulations, Whitman said. "Many people do not realize that nearly 300,000 tons of air contaminants are produced by open burning every year in Ohio," he explained.

ALTHOUGH the majority of the Ohio EPA emission regulations apply to industry and other large, "visible" sources of air pollution, the open burning regulation literally affects every citizen in Ohio. "The Ohio EPA will be working very hard to control these larger sources of air pollution, Whitman said, but it is up to each citizen to do his part, if air pollution is to be controlled."

Happy Homecoming

The 31,410 Americans who died on our highways in the first seven months of 1972 were people just like you. Four out of five had never been in an accident before. Many of them were sitting on their seat belts, their best insurance against death or serious injury in a collision.

CHRISTMAS will be no happy event for the families of those who will never arrive. Their holiday will be remembered for the sound of sirens, for the vigil for a son or daughter they will never see again. The presents will lie unopened. Lives will be altered tragically and permanently.

The National Safety Council estimates the number of motorists who will die without reaching their destinations over the holidays. Thousands more are disabled, many for life. And tragically, we are wildly careening toward a record number of traffic fatalities and injuries in 1972.

WE CAN break this chain of human loss if everyone takes a few seconds to buckle up their safety belts. We need not suffer the 58,000 deaths and 3.8 million disabling injuries predicted for 1972.

Seat belts lessen or prevent injuries and save lives. They keep you from flying into the windshield in a crash or sudden braking. Or being thrown onto the road where chances are thirty tims greater that you will be killed than if you stayed in the car. They help you maintain control of your car in an emergency and avoid the multiple impacts that cause one of every five traffic deaths.

IT IS A simple act of love as well as self-preservation to buckle up and keep your name out of the obituaries. And to make sure that your passengers are buckled up too.

Play the percentages. Whether you are driving one or one hundred miles. Give yourself a chance to enjoy this Christmas.

Watterson Student Berates Coverage

To the Editor:

In your Nov. 29, issue, I came across an article concerning Bishop Watterson football game at Massillon.

In the first place the title had no reference at all to how the students, faculty, and the players themselves felt about the game.

All were very apprehensive about the Friday night game. Of course the game was a real tear jerker for Watterson, but we knew it was going to be tough.

Even though Watterson had lost the state championship, we did place second to a really great team.

We also were rewarded with the CCL Crown, and the UPI, and AP pole trophy, and placed first because of our 9-0 series and then our 10-1.

Your article seemed to crush the whole Eagles team and spirit. Especially the title, which there really was no call for, because it made Watterson sound like a bunch of stuck up snobs, which it isn't and gave the team a very poor image.

Even though we are now 10-1 we still have great backing from our students, coaches, and faculty, and next year we are going to go all the way.

I hope in the future you will be more careful of how you write and say things about the great people of our great city.

In that game we represented all of Columbus which includes Worthington, I might add the Eagles made it, no other team but Akron did.

The Eagles represented us all. We are disgusted to see that you don't have the courage to back our team, disgusted to see that you don't give us the credit due.

We still feel No. 1!

We worked hard for what we got.

I am sorry that you don't have the pride for the Eagles and the support you should continue to give them.

They fought for us all. Not just this school but for every one and if you feel you must put down the team, one that worked for you and fought for you, we would appreciate it if you didn't mention us at all.

Let the Great Eagles team keep the reputation that it has deserved. Number One and no less

(Ed. Note: Yes, we do like the great Watterson team and all the teams that represent the Spectator area. When Watterson made the title playoffs and was scheduled at Troy we called your high school principal and informed him we were unable to go to the game and had two sideline photographer and reporter passes. We offered these to your high school newspaper editor and assistant. They accepted them and after we asked them if they would care to cover the game for us they accepted. An offer was even made for possible photo coverage. That was the last we heard of the two high school correspondents and haven't heard from them since. Our tickets to the final game at Massillon went to waste. If you are a reader of the entire sports section you would have known that we named Art Yaroch the best player in our area for the season. And we would not have gone to the Army-Navy game last week except that a good friend of ours was the scout who selected Matt Wotell as a candidate for the Academy. Not even the daily newspapers were there nor was his excellent game mentioned in the daily papers. I'm sorry whoever you are (the letter had no name except Eagle Fan) that you don't understand that it is not the end of the world when you lose nor the pot of gold when you win the jackpot. With the many errors in your letter I would suggest you spend more time in your studies than berating a newspaper that DOES care for young people).

Medicopter Questioned

To the Editor:

Your front page article in the November 29th issue of The Spectator concerning the use of helicopter transport for the sick and injured contains a serious error of fact and omission. You state in the article: "The Medicopter can use only two Columbus hospitals - University and Children's - because they have landing facilities."

St. Anthony Hospital has a heliport atop its new 17-story tower and indeed, this facility was the first of its kind in Central Ohio. We are all the more puzzled by your omission of this fact because a few months ago you ran a front-page story, complete with photographs, of this Saint Anthony facility.

Charles Turner
Administrator

I talked to Col Orr and he said that the Medicopter is able to use the St. Anthony helipad but has never done so.

The services of the copter have never been requested by St. Anthony. Col Orr said "the helipad there was a fine helipad, well lighted, large and quite modern, with a ramp to the elevator. The National Guard Medicopter works in conjunction with University Hospital because they are both state agencys and are so funded. They work with Childrens because they have had many requests from doctors there to do so. They would work with St. Anthony if requested to transfer patients."

You're Telling Us

We Win Some And Then We Lose Some

To the Editor:

It is indeed fortunate that Reynoldsburg residents are not members of the United States Supreme Court. It is indeed unfortunate that a local news periodical features on the front page a biased editorial - masquerading as reporting - which is an affront to the integrity of not only the Court but to the legal status of the Constitution itself.

How dare The Spectator tell its readers that the Supreme Court erred in its ruling concerning the institution of Mayor's courts!

The Court's Constitutional function is to interpret the Constitution, not the personal desires of the populace.

Your attempts at sensationalism sicken me, Mr. Adams. It is dangerous to play to people's thrills and not to the facts. I am thankful there are two papers in Reynoldsburg.

P.S.: Re: Your Nov. 29 "Doggone" editorial - There are mail carriers (mailwomen and mailmen) and most likely gas meter women.

Jon Weatherman
1154 Roundelay Rd., E.
Reynoldsburg.

(Ed. Note: We only have men on our route as mail carriers and my wife, knowing my weakness for a pretty face, would probably refrain from letting a gas meter woman in the house but we don't have any of those in our neighborhood either and it was OUR dog and OUR neighborhood we were writing about. I pulled the cork as a supporter of women's liberation when our commode overflowed and all the femmes in the house pleaded [illegible])

Musical Comedy Review Questioned

To the Editor:

It seems unreal how months of planning and countless hours of hard work can be dismissed as a third-rate amateur performance by an obviously unprofessional "Mickey Mouse" review. I am referring to the review of Westland High School's "Man of La Mancha" which appeared in your paper last week.

The caption, "La Mancha A Success" was followed by eleven unorganized paragraphs which consistently left out critical aspects such as the fine acting and singing performance of Bill Carpenter, who portrayed "Sancho," and the outstanding performance of an eighteen-piece orchestra assembled solely for the play. Though there were many other outstanding performances, these were two that can't afford to be overlooked.

The writer stated that the audience could not hear some of the performers due to lack of microphones. This was a fallacy, because in reality the play was staged in a professional manner in which microphones were strategically placed off stage so as not to distract the audience.

The implication given in the last sentence was that the standing ovation came about as a result of the audience being "partisan." I would just like to say that "partisan" audiences do not give standing ovations - proud, overwhelmed audiences do.

I feel the cast and all who worked to make "La Mancha" a success were served a great injustice by your paper. I hope that through this letter, the public may realize and appreciate the work and effort it took from all that were a part of it to make the success it was.

Sincerely,
Timothy J. McClincy
Westland High School Student

(Ed. Note: Our Hilltop Editor Kathy Devaney called the shots as she saw them (and heard them.) Perhaps the fact that good seats were not provided her (most schools call and ask how many seats the reviewer might want and make certain that the seats, generally two, are good ones) made it difficult for her to hear. She is an excellent reviewer. Hard work and dedication do not necessarily make for an excellent performance. As for standing ovations, I have never been to a high school performance where this did not occur. You have an excellent director in Donald Bean. I am sure that he understands what a reviewer writes in his or her honest opinion. Newspapers generally do not review high school performances of any kind for the same criticism you mention in your letter.)

Floor Leader Knocks Column

To the Editor:

After reading the article entitled "Ohio EPA in Good Hands," in the column by Richard L. Paugh, appearing in your November 29, 1972 issue, I can't help but be amazed.

PAUGH indicates that when he phoned the Ohio EPA his call was answered by the Director, Ira Whitman, personally. This is certainly a different kind of experience that I have had. I started trying to get Whitman by telephone about ten days ago, was told that he was not in but that he would return my call. I have not yet heard from him, ten days later.

On November 27, I requested of an employee of the Ohio EPA, that I be sent a copy of the regulations which they are charged with enforcing in the field of air pollution control and water pollution control. The material was never forwarded to me. This employee seemed at a loss to understand the nature of the request, which was certainly very simple, and I can't help wondering if they really know in the agency what regulations they are charged with enforcing. If they do, in fact, understand this, the least they could do would be to furnish me a copy of them.

IF THE foregoing experiences with the Ohio EPA are any indication of their overall performance in this important field, considerable changes are needed.

The romanticizing of this new agency's level of performance by Mr. Paugh in his recent column is a gross departure from reality and, in my opinion, a disservice to your readers.

Yours truly,
Robert E. Levitt
Majority Floor Leader

(Ed. Note: Mr. Paugh has written the "Whose Garden Is This" column for The Spectator Newspapers for two years. We consider him well-versed in his subject matter and will continue his column. Since this is the first written complaint about his column he has a batting average of 103 out of 104 successes.)

Parade Was Successful

To the Editor:

Thank you for all your generous help in publicizing the Lazarus Christmas Parade.

It was the most successful we have ever had. It will be hard to top it next year.

Thanks again, for all your help.

Cordially,

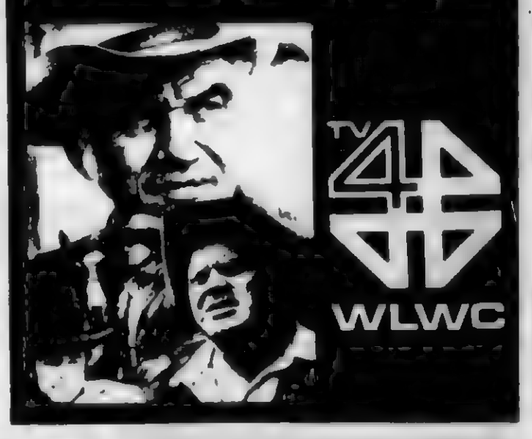
Kinder Key Donates Tree

Last Friday night, the Fifth Annual Kinder Key Christmas Tree was dedicated on the lawn of Columbus City Hall. The tree is a gift to the people of the Columbus area in appreciation of their support for the Kinder Key Heart Laboratory at Children's Hospital. Melvin Dodge, director of Recreation and Parks accepted the tree on behalf of all the participating communities in Franklin County.

Tonight begins Kinder Key's two day Christmas Caroling Drive. Everyone should be listening and watching for the groups of men, women and children who are singing carols and accepting donations of Kinder Key. All of these donations will go to the Kinder Key Heart Laboratory at Children's Hospital for equipment and patient services.



The tree was decorated by Kinder Key members with handmade ornaments, many of which are in the form of red hearts and gold keys to symbolize the unlocking of new hope for young hearts and the Kinder Key slogan - "Have A Big Heart-Help Save A Little One."

Dance Set At Mansion

The dance will be at the Jeffrey Mansion from 10 to midnight, with admission 50 cents per person for Bexley High School students and their guests.

House Of The Christmas Mouse Opens

"Funtastia 73" is the theme for this years House of the Christmas Mouse.

It will be held Dec. 9 and 10, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., at 1070 Tiffany Dr., Reynoldsburg.

East house will deal with all the beloved fairy tale characters that we have grown up reading.

The house will offer intriguing areas such as; The Enchanted Forest, Santa's Workshop and Snow White's Cottage.

The children have so many surprises in store for them and while they are busy discovering their favorite fairy tale character, and mom and dad can browse through Old Mother Hubbard's Cupboard (a bake shop) and in the interesting "booty" offered in Captain Hook's Treasure Chest (a boutique).

Free coffee and cookies, donated and baked on the premises by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company, will add that certain holiday cheer.

There will be a small charge for the wee ones, but mommy and daddy are allowed in free. Who says that you can't get anything free these days?

The House of the Christmas Mouse, operating under the auspices of Masks X, XI, XII, believe in the fight against Cystic Fibrosis.

Most of us take breathing for granted. But more than five million children can't because they have serious lung-damaging diseases.

The Cystic Fibrosis Research Center at Children's Hospital leads the fight to make early and proper treatment available to all children with lung-damaging diseases, as well as to discover, through research a preventive or cure for the inherited disease of Cystic Fibrosis and other related diseases.

Mrs. Rattlebee."

All of the fairy tale characters will make personal appearances at the Children's Hospital the Saturday following the closing of the house. They will be there to entertain the patients.

The people living on the east side who are portraying characters are: Mrs. W.B. Ingram as Old Mother Hubbard, Mrs. Jack Allen, Chairman, Mask XI, Little Bo Peep, Mrs. Paul Lambert as Snow White, Patty Lambert as Tinkerbelle, Apryl Allen as Mickey Mouse and Mrs. Tom Koetting as Cinderella.

The people from Reynoldsburg who are portraying characters are: Mrs. William Walters, Chairman of Mask XII, as Old Mother Hubbard, Mrs. Ferman Carr as Little Bo Peep, Mrs. Gordon Young, Chairman of Mask X as Snow White, Sherry Velliquette as Peter Pan, Paul Carr as Mickey Mouse, Heather Young as the dwarf, and Tina Kilmer as the fairy.

Speaking of Beauty

By Mary Ann Lafferty

YOU & HIM

Have you thought yet about what you would like to give him for Xmas? Maybe it should be a much more interesting you. On the other hand maybe you could help him to become more interesting. A HIS image is as important to him as yours is to you and who's going to give him the subtle little hints about nice or necessary changes he might make, if you don't! There's the matter of the way he wears his hair .... it could be too long or too short, or maybe he just doesn't have enough of it and a hairpiece would be an advantage. It can be ridiculous if he cares too much about the way he looks but it can sure ruin his chances for a care-free happy future if he doesn't care enough.

For an appointment or some beauty guidance please feel free to telephone us or come in anytime. You are always welcome.

Spring Fashion Vibrations

CREPE POLKA DOT dinner pajamas in turquoise by Morty Sussman for the Mollie Parnis Boutique.

PALE PINK satin organza jacket over a pale blue sequin slip dress—by Oscar de la Renta.

'IN' fashion

with Tess Stern

THERE MUST be some collusion among fashion designers, or how else could they all come up with the same looks, the same colors, similar fabrics each new season—the Spring Collections are no exception.

WORDS BANDIED around during last week's American Designer's Showings, that I attended in New York, were pretty, elegant, soft, feminine, short sexy, two-piece, blouson, chemise, caftan, candy colors, chiffon, satin, nun's veiling, pongee, string crochet, georgette, and ultra suede, to name a few—with each creative designer interpreting the "looks" in his or her original way.

PAULINE TRIGERE opened her collection with the remark, "my collection is fresh and interesting" and she meant it. Her day dresses looked newest with blouson bodice or full silhoutte gathered into a belt—even her tent coats are controlled. She showed the prettiest, cleanest prints—florals, spots, stripes, geometrics, scribbles, plaids and checks in springlike colors. For night she loves to bare one shoulder and covers it with a matching scarf. Her most dramatic cover-up is that superb long cardigan coat.

MORTY SUSSMAN, who designs the Mollie Parnis Boutique Collection, gets his pretty message across with soft, feminine fabrics—some with the look of hand crochets—lots of pleats, fullness and bare sexy looks for night. His newest dress is the short caftan in pastel Honan silk which he believes, "women will want to wear instead of pants". For night he loves the long looks—the casual dress with cardigan, and the dress "that is romantic but not overstated".

JOHN ANTHONY is in two moods for Spring. For day it's simple, skinny and severe—suits and coats in navy jersey. For evening he goes glamorous with soft tucked blouson, chiffon, satin and nun's veiling. He also shines with a group of navy and silver striped sequins which are spectacular—a short dinner suit and a long dress.

OSCAR de la RENTA believes "in the return to femininity, to pretty clothes". He does it in soft fabrics—mohairs, angoras, jerseys and wool voiles, crepes and ruffled organzas. His colors are always pastels especially pink, and he uses navy instead of black, teamed with white. He shows lots of shirt dresses—for evening he goes romantic with easy blouson crepes printed with circles and dots, and his spectacular evening caftans!

'Build A Better World' Say B'nai B'rith Women

By BETTY BROWN

The B'nai B'rith Women did it again with their elegant 1972 Menorah luncheon, held Nov. 30, 11-3, at the Scots Inn.

The spotlight that day certainly was on the BBW's and their fine, cultivating efforts in helping humanity. The luncheon was complimented by the fashions from Cole of Columbus, 4560 N. High, and six beautiful models. They wore everything from brightly colored tennis outfits, to full-length holiday fashions by Malcolm Starr.

All this lovely fashion co-ordinating was done by Mrs. Bernard Caplin, whom I had the privilege to talk with before the luncheon began. She told me that now the B'nai B'rith women numbered about 1200 in the Columbus Area. They evolved from Bazaars to an international Jewish women's service organization, with 140,000 members in 950 chapters in North America. In addition to this, there are 120 associated units in 22 countries outside North America.

This theme was followed through with globes as centerpieces, with dancing children cut out as paper dolls, wrapped around the globe.

The luncheon opened with the introduction of the chapter presidents. They are: Mrs. Stanley Wasserstrom, Pres. of the Zion Chapter, Mrs. Alan Ginsburg, Pres. of the Nitza Chapter, Mrs. Marcy Bobier, Pres. of the Twin Rivers Chapter, and standing in for Masada Chapter President, Mrs. Bruce Bigley, was Mrs. Stan Shayne, fund raising vice-president, and Mrs. Benton Bloch, Pres. of the Candlelight Chapter.

The welcome was given by Mrs. Ira Ives, Menorah Luncheon Chairman, and the opening prayer was given by Mrs. Milton Leeman, Chapter Member First Ladies Club.

The greeting was given by Mrs. Herschel Sigall, Council President.

Following the opening, was a skit presented by Mrs. Harold Borovetz, Mrs. Alfred Friedman, Mrs. Norman Garrop, Mrs. Larry Greenberg, and Mrs. Arnold Berman. The skit showed how much these women are fulfilling a need in the community by participating in projects such as: Operation Stork, Dolls for Democracy, BBW Youth Org., the Anti-Defimation League, the Franklin D. Roosevelt BBW library, Meals on Wheels, Chillicothe Hospital and help for the emotionally disturbed.

Their song, "Build a Better World," certainly brought out their goal, and I quote, "We seek to fill a need."

Donor Recognition was also part of the afternoon and it was initiated by Mrs. Ira Ives, Council Fundraising Vice-President. The donor system is a way of earning funds for BBW's philanthropies charities.

Their music plus the luncheon atmosphere that afternoon certainly proved that with the help of organizations such as B'nai B'rith Women, the age of peace will appear!!

Promoted

JOSEPH M. JESTER, 2369 Astor Ave., has been promoted to vice president of Ohio National Bank, where he is head of the operations division. Jester began his career at the bank in 1953 as a messenger. Following service as manager of the transit department, he was elected an assistant cashier in 1965. He was promoted to assistant vice president and named head of the operations division in 1967. He is a member of St. Philip the Apostle Church, and the Shady Wood Boys' Baseball Association, and serves as president of the Bishop Hartley High School Band Boosters Association.

Rounding Up The Rams

by Suzann Klayko

The Drama Department held their annual play festival on November 17 and 18. Featured at the festival were six one-act plays which were directed by the students. There were three comedies and three serious plays.

The Drama Department is holding tryouts for the Musical "Hello Dolly" during the middle of December. People trying out must be able to sing. Dancers will be chosen at a later date. The play will be presented on during March.

The Thanksgiving assembly was held in an unusual manner this year. Music was set to pictures depicting the various stages of a person's life.

The Marching Band held the awards banquet. The first and third year members received letters. The second year members got medals that can be put on the uniform next year. The senior members received a plaque with their name and year imprinted on it.

The sophomores took the Armed Forces Vocational Battery on November 27, This test reveals the aptitude of the student. The senior Girls participated in a questionaire about the person they most admire. This questionaire is going in a Doctoral thesis.

The Student Council is sponsoring various drives to aid the poor in and around Whitehall. The drives need serviceable clothes, food staples, and canned food items. These items can be left at the high school cafeteria before December 15. Your patronage would be greatly appreciated.

Kinder Key caroling will be held Dec. 6 and 7. The carolers will sing through various parts of Whitehall. The money earned will go to benefit Childrens Hospital. Y-Teens will serve hot chocolate after the caroling. Interested people meet at the high school cafeteria at 6:30 on Dec. 6 or 7.

The football banquet was held at the Desert Inn. The guest speaker was Bill Hess from Ohio University. Parents of students who participated in the football program and interested people attended the banquet.

The awards assembly was held. Both the football players and the cross-country runners received their awards.

SANITARY SEWER

Prerequisite Courses Set By Graduate School

Capital University's Graduate School of Administration will offer the first three prerequisite courses on the graduate level beginning Jan. 8, it was announced today by Glen R. Ferlemann, coordinator of the Master of Business Administration program.

The prerequisite courses which have been designed to provide background knowledge of basic business concepts and terminology are: Introduction to Quantitative Methods and Systems, Introduction to Business Subject Matter, and Introduction to Social Sciences.

NO PRIOR BUSINESS courses or experiences are required for enrollment in these courses. Two sections of each of these four-hour courses will be offered to provide maximum flexibility in evening scheduling.

Students will be limited to an eight-hour course load which means that two of the three courses may be taken during the 16-week semester. Although the prerequisite courses carry graduate credit, they are not included in the content of the Master of Business Administration degree program.

Qualification in areas of background knowledge may be demonstrated in one of three ways: through transcripts of prior college work, through taking prerequisite courses, or through proficiency examinations.

PROFICIENCY EXAMS will be offered on the evenings of Dec. 18, 19, and 20 from 7-9 p.m. in the Capital University Learning Center on Pleasant Ridge Ave. for interested enrollees to determine whether the prerequisite courses may be waived.

Credit courses toward the MBA will be offered for the first time in the fall semester beginning Sept. 3. Students admitted to the degree program will be required to progress through the curriculum sequentially with the possibility of earning the degree within 21 months.

The entire curricular design has been approved by the MBA Community Advisory Council, comprised of local business leaders and Capital faculty and administrators.

ONE OF THE MOST attractive features of Capital's home-based MBA program is the very close relationship between the business community and the academic community.

Begun initially to meet the expressed needs of the business community in the greater Columbus area, relevancy of the course offerings is assured both through the continued involvement of the community advisory council and through the use of professional businessmen to teach elective courses in coordination with members of the graduate faculty.

Further information including applications for admission and registration may be obtained by calling or writing Glen R. Ferlemann at the Capital University Graduate School of Administration (236-6679).

Gymnasts Schedule Dual Meet

Gymnasts in the beginner classes sponsored by the Bexley Parks and Recreation Department, and the downtown YMCA (both groups taught by Mrs. Kathy Sochor) will compete in a dual meet to be held this coming Saturday morning at the YMCA, 40 W. Long St., at 9:30 a.m.

Girls from Bexley who will be competing include Greta Anderson, Julie and Arlyn Goodman, Patty Conrad, Carrie Frederick, Amy, Gennie and Mary Wiseman, Martha and Catherine Paul, Heather Revis, Cheryl Froisy, Kathy Willcox, Sarah Bolon, Diana Cooke, Julie Clements, Betsy Briggs, Patti Tobin, Janet Conrad, and Debbie Sandera.

Eastmoor Girls End Undefeated Season

This was the first varsity tournament for the Eastmoor team. The team is coached by Miss Willa Chambers.

Other schools participating in the tournament were Brookhaven, North, Northland, Walnut Ridge and Whetstone.

Playing first singles for the team is Julie Tyrpak. Miss Trypak is a senior and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Tyrpak of 133 N. Chesterfield.

Playing second singles was Marianne Carpenter, a senior and the daughter of Mrs. Doris Carpenter of 1031 S. James Rd.

Mica Nastev, a senior, played third singles. Miss Nastev is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vasil Nastev of 1343 Picard.

Playing doubles were Betsy Neustadt, a senior; Nanci Jacobs, a junior; Kara Kerstein, a senior, Debby Cohen, a junior; Melanie McCualsky, a sophomore; Robin Stuart, a senior; Julie Block, a senior; Judy Kee, a sophomore and Gloria Jefferson, a senior.

No girl lost more than two matches and Miss Carpenter and Miss Nastev were undefeated all season.

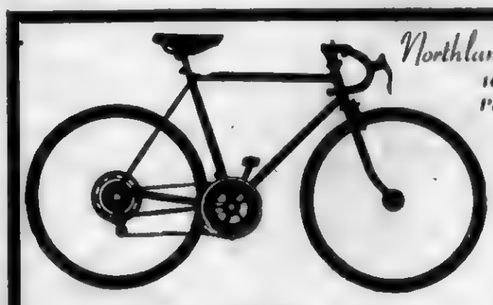
PTA Council Schedules Meeting

The Columbus Council of PTA's will meet Thursday, Dec. 7, in the Central High School auditorium at 1:15 p.m.

The Indianola Elementary School, which is an Arts Impact School, will be doing the program entitled "The Festive Season."

Participants in the program will be Rex Fuller, drama instructor, Mrs. Judith Ridzon, music instructor, Mrs. Rusario Kukla, art instructor, and Miss Karen Lustig, dance instructor. Mrs. Kay McGill, supervisor of vocal music for the Columbus Public Schools will be the chairman of the December program.

The Sherwood Jr. High PTA will meet Tuesday, Dec. 12, at 7:30 p.m.



A "Christmas Program" will be presented by the Music Department and after the program there will be a Holiday Bake Sale.

Coaches Are Appreciated

To the Editor:

I want to thank all of the coaching staff of the 1972 Reynoldsburg Broncos for the many hours they have spent with the boys of the Broncos football team.

You have taught them good sportsmanship and trained them to work together as a team.

Thanks also to your wives and families for their understanding of the time spent teaching our boys.

You are the kind of men and families that help keep our boys occupied and out of trouble and help make them better citizens in our community.

Also thanks to the cheerleaders who have been great throughout the season in all kinds of weather.

It Was Child Care Day

IT WAS A LOVELY Sunday with plenty of sunshine and people at the open house, ribbon cutting and flag raising for the new Creative Child Care center on Westbourne Road just off Taylor Station Road across from the Western Electric Company on East Broad St. There were numerous civic officials in attendance during the day. Some participated in the ribbon cutting along with several children. From left in the photo are Franklin County Sheriff-elect Harry Berkemer, Melissa Willard, 193 Retha Rd., Reynoldsburg; Reynoldsburg Tomato Queen Sandra Lee Downs; Eric Burgess, 1911 Brentnell Rd., Columbus and former Columbus Mayor Maynard E. Sensenbrenner. (Spectator photo by Ray Adams.)

Ray Adams
The Reynoldsburg Spectator

I want to thank the Spectator (which hereabouts is you) for your help in our attaining our first objective of 100 members which has been accomplished December 1 - thirty-one days ahead of our goal.

I'd like to ask your continued support for I'm firm in the conviction it is well possible to add another 50 members in a very short time. There is great enthusiasm in the business community which you have so graciously helped create.

Again thanks from an appreciative organization and its officers and members.

Sincerely, H.O. "Bud" Platter

Full Service And Quality . . .
The Jones Lumber Formula
For Customer Satisfaction

Since 1928, Jones Lumber, 57 N. Sylvan Ave., has been dedicated to the building needs of its customers.

There has never been a substitute for service and quality at Jones Lumber. To these high standards they give credit for their many years of successful operation and growth.

Jones sells to the contractor, remodeler and home owner. The latter accounts for many "do-it-yourself" projects where the extra Jones service makes the job easier.

Service at Jones means lumber and plywood cut to size, free delivery, millwork and a complete building material inventory.

Of course, you are served by qualified personnel who can consult with you about your problems. Charge accounts can be arranged.

Jones Lumber welcomes the visitor to their showroom. A call to 274-1109 will bring answers to your inquiries.

Christmas time and the giving is easy!
With a gift of Fine Portrature.

Shape Of Races Taking Form

South-Ridge, Cat-Card Cagers In 'Bigees'

AREA high school cagers have been setting their sights on titles although the season is just under way as far as the league action is concerned.

Westerville and Delaware, perennial title aspirants in the Ohio Capital Conference, are running tied in that loop with 2-0 records. The Cats of Terry Yoakum have also hit the 200 mark with six players in double figures in the century win over Hilliard last Saturday.

THE CITY league in Columbus isn't quite ready to take shape for the title pick although South is at its usual peak and Walnut Ridge looks good. They clash in a Friday tilt at South with the winner sure to get a shove toward the title throne.

Three Mid-8 league teams have yet to taste a league loss as Bexley, Grove City and Groveport are holding at 2-0.

Now that Brookhaven of the Columbus league has won its first league game in four years the thirst is there and they'll seek another at Marion-Franklin.

The Ohio Cap Conference feature could be the Westerville at Worthington tilt as the Cardinals are settling down into some showy patterns and are due for a "put it all together into one game" performance.

WATTERSON takes to the court against Bishop Ready's State Class AA champs and the Eagles will have to be at their best to stay with the Silver Knights.

The Grove City at Bexley match Friday should at least drop one of those two from the top rung and at this writing it could be either.

Reynoldsburg's sports (major) have taken a downward trend this year and after an 0-9 grid season the Raiders have gone to four cage losses. Mike Grayem's hustlers haven't been able to get consistency but are improving.

THE NETWORK: In answer to several queries for us to keep up with the happenings of former high school players now at the college level we'll be glad to report their activities provided someone takes the time to jot us a note about it.

If the 1973 high schol basketball playoffs are eventually computerized (similar to what happened to football) it would eliminate the improving team (that doesn't start winning until mid-season) from getting a crack at the state title. That's why the one loss and out tournament has been so successful. A team that develops over a season has a hot streak going and sometimes carries it into the tournament.

CITIZEN protest has been getting stronger in Cincinnati where all competitive inter-school sports have been eliminated since 1970 at the junior high and reserve level. One cry has been the increase in vandalism, etc. It seems as though parents are not taking their responsibility there and are blaming the lack of sports at that level as the cause rather than their own selves.

Former Reynoldsburg cage coach Cliff Rose is off to a 3-0 start at Jonathon Alder. Cliff was always one of our favorite area coaches and we hated to see him leave the Spectator coverage area.

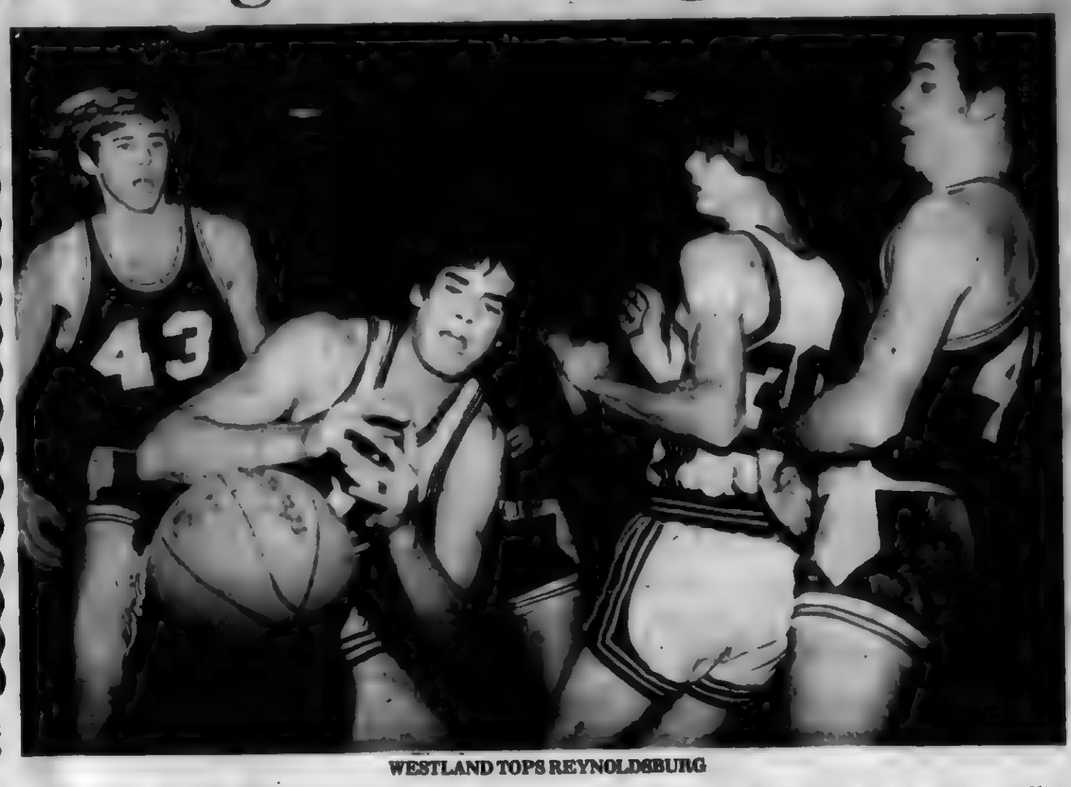
FCA Football Marathon Dec. 9

..The Westerville Chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) is sponsoring a 24-hour football marathon at the practice field at Westerville High School Saturday, Dec. 9 starting at 9 a.m.

..The marathon will continue until 9 a.m. Sunday, Dec. 10.

..All funds derived from the marathon will go toward Christmas presents for the residents of the Methodist Children's Home.



..All FCA members from other high schools in the area are invited to participate in the marathon.

..Any questions should be directed to Brad Corkwell, 882-4129.

..Contributions may be made at the playing field or can be mailed to The Fellowship of Christian Athletes, in care of Brad Corkwell, 2877 Youngs Drive, Columbus, Ohio 43229.

..Coffee and cookies will be available for the players who will play in split shifts. Anyone desiring to bring refreshments to the players may do so.

..Two years ago the FCA raised more than $2,000 for a family who lost two children and all their personal belongings in a fire. Last year's proceeds went toward carpeting the high school auditorium.

WESTLAND TOPS REYNOLDSBURG

AROUND TOWN

SHAKING the apples off the tree is Martin 'N Me, currently knocking them dead at the all new Apple Tree Restaurant and Lounge. Martin'N Me is a folk type duo that comes on with a burst of entertainment that is brighter than a Fourth of July firework display.

Tim Martin and Kathy Casa are the two who are responsible for all the fine music you hear nightly at the Apple Tree.

Tim sings and plays guitar. His finger work on the guitar strings make for some mighty interesting sounds, and really great stylizing.

KATHY'S voice is one of the most beautiful I have heard in a long time. It is crystal clear. Like most of the people in the room the other night, you will want to listen to her all evening.

Another thing I like about Martin 'N Me is the fact that they are not so loud that you can't hear yourself think. This duo certainly fits into the mood of the Apple Tree. Their music is just right for dining, as well as being very entertaining for the cocktail lounge crowd.

WHILE the twosome leans heavily in the folk realm, don't think for one minute they stay there all night. They mix up their tunes very well. The act keeps moving, and doesn't become a drag after listening for awhile.

I know one thing for sure, the crowd, and I do mean crowd, loved them. Drop in at the Apple Tree, Restaurant and Lounge, that is, and see what I mean.

BY THE WAY, I told you last week about the lunch served daily. I tried it last week. What a deal. You get either a roast beef sandwich, an juis, or a baked ham sandwich. Both are served on a special roll, with a very yummy fifteen item salad bar. The whole thing was excellent. They also have a delicious stew, named after their chef, Chef Scott Hesler. Out of this world.

Owners Jo and Karen Serian, along with host and general manager Scratch Pestano have made the Apple Tree one of the finest dining spots AROUND TOWN. They have some big plans in the making to make it one of the nicest night spots also.

OUR GAL of the Month is the daytime mixologist at the Vegas Club, Ronnie Reed. Ronnie is a 5'7" beauty that stretches the tape measure to 39-22-36. Even though she has a boy's name, Ronnie is all gal. She certainly helps make The Vegas Club jump in the afternoons with her warm smile and friendly personality. Ronnie says she loves her work and wants everyone to stop in and say hello. (Photo by Ray Adams.)

THE DUKE

Last Saturday night I decided to stop in at the Marriott Inn Motel for dinner and some fine entertainment provided by the Duke Jenkins Trio. Both are tops in their respective field.

First, let me tell you again about Duke Jenkins. This guy is, without a doubt, one of the best vocalists and organists I have heard in many a moon. His tonal quality and style is similar to the great Nat King Cole. What a voice! This fellow is just fantastic. What more can I say, after I tell you he sounds similar to Nat Cole. Normally, I do not care for someone who tries to copy a style from one of the "greats.;; But, you listen to Duke, and I'm sure you will agree with me, Duke sings with all his heart and soul. This is no intentional theft.

Duke is just doing what comes naturally, singing. And, it just happens to come out, Ala Nat King Cole.

Duke is backed by two musicians who are as good as he. Ralph Jackson on drums is superb. He can really handle the sticks and brushes. Ralph plays, not pounds. While furnishing strong driving tempos, Ralph maintains simple rhythums while remaining in the background.

BROTHER Freddie Jenkins does a marvelous job on the big baritone sax, the alto sax and flute. He is litterally a master at all three. Put them altogether and they spell music. That's real music that will keep you entertained for hours on end.

I know. Because I listened to Duke for three and a half hours. All through cocktails and dinner. What a meal I had at the Marriott Inn. The Oyster Rockefellers were simply delicious. In all my travels I have never tasted none any better.

The crisp cold tossed salad with their special pepper cream dressing is so good. I wish they'd bottle the salad dressing and sell it as a beverage. I could drink a gallon of it, that's how good it is. They serve the salads with an ice cold fork. Everything is done with perfection at the Marriott.

THAT INCLUDES the flaming of the Steak Diane. Take it from me, you have never tasted anything more flavorable than their Steak Diane.

In my opinion, the Marriott Inn is one of the finest restaurants in Columbus. We need more like them. For a double treat, excellent entertainment, excellent food, the Marriott Inn Motel cannot be beat.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

This week, the entertainment section of the Spectator Newspaper begins a new feature, The Girl of the Month, This is for all gals who work as waitressess, cocktail waitressess and barmaids in the various restaurants, lounges and motels Around Town. Elsewhere on this page you will see our first gal of the Month. Selections are made on ability, personality and beauty...I told you earlier, that I was at the Marriott Inn last Saturday night. I'm only sorry I was not there Friday. The one and only Nancy Wilson was a customer in the Showboat Landing Restaurant and Lounge. Nancy was dancing up a storm, then joined in with Duke Jenkins and belted out a few. The employees were raving about her fabulous show...A truly nice guy Ralph Smith, on the night scene, is on the mend in Mount Carmel Hospital East. Ralph has the Club House Restaurant, down in Pickaway County. Drop Ralph a card at the hospital. He is recovering from surgery and will be there for awhile yet...Speaking of the Club House, Raymond Weiss has leased the place and plans many changes, including a name change, entertainment at least five nights a week, and some added decorations. More on this after the first of the year...My favorite cocktail pianist, Sonia Modes, continues to keep things jumping during cocktail hour at the Holiday Inn-East. In my mind, this is the best cocktail hour in town. Sonia is a fine pianist, loaded with personality. Besides hearing plenty of good piano music, I'll guarantee you a fun time, when you stop in the Holiday Inn-East and give a listen to Sonia Modes...Held over again is the fabulous Mike Kamen Trio, at Marco Polo's Lounge. This is an outstanding trio, playing all types of music. You will love them for dancing, or just sitting back and enjoying their great sounds...Hey Moms and Dads, with Christmas rapidly coming around, be sure you cut out the coupon on this page and mail it to the Holiday Inn-Reynoldsburg, for a special message from Santa Claus for your children. Drop in also, and register for a Christmas Stocking for the little ones...Remember, after finishing shopping, stop off at one of the clubs or restaurants Around Town and relax a little. This is the time of the season that is really fun to go out on the town.

Columbus Civic Ballet Will Present Nutcracker

The Columbus Civic Ballet will present its annual production of the Nutcracker Ballet at the Ohio Theatre December 28-29, with a matinee and evening performance on each of these dates at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.

This year the ballet has been completely restaged and rechoreographed by Tatjana Akinfieva Smith, the Artistic Director of the Columbus Civic Ballet. Tatjana Smith was not only a student of the great Madame Olga Preobrajenskaya, who danced in the first production of the Nutcracker at the Maryinsky Theatre in 1892; but she danced many of the roles in the Nutcracker herself during her student days at the National Opera Theatrical Academy in Belgrade, and her years as a soloist and principal dancer with the Belgrade State Opera Ballet. She thus brings to the Nutcracker many personal reminiscences.

In addition to these personal experiences, Tatjana Smith has, in designing this year's Nutcracker, taken ideas from two great versions of the ballet which are not well known in the United States. She has styled the work so that it follows the basic format of the London Festival Ballet's 1968 production done by David Lichine and Alexandre Benois; and has used some of the choreography developed by Margerita Froman for the earlier La Scala production of 1954.

This Italian production was also done in collaboration with Benois, who saw the first Nutcracker production as a small boy in St. Petersburg.

Columbus audiences, therefore, will see in Columbus Civic's Nutcracker this year a new ballet with a combination of the old put together in a totally refreshing way, complete with the excitement of Christmas, and full of childhood fantasy. Tickets will go on sale at the Ohio Theatre Box Office the first week in December. Mail and phone orders are now being accepted at the Ohio Theatre Business Office. For information call 469-0939 or 469-1045.

Photographer Will Present Exhibit

The Shepard Branch of the Columbus Public Library, 2185 E. Fifth Ave., will display the work of free lance photographer Ben Chandler through January 9. The show features scenes of Thailand taken during Chandler's military tour of duty in that country.

Columbus AAA Club Elects New Officers

George D. Massar recently was elected president of the Columbus Automobile Club as the local AAA organization at its annual meeting.

Massar, a Columbus attorney, succeeds Dr. Judson D. Wilson, orthopedic surgeon, who was advanced to the office of chairman of the club board.

Other officers elected include: J. Edward Weaver and Charles Egger, vice presidents; Robert W. Irwin, treasurer; George C. Bobb, vice president and assistant treasurer; J. David Ryan, secretary.

Elected to three-year terms on the board were George C. Bobb, Cleo L. Dumaree, Robert K. Levy, Sr., J. Edward Weaver and James J. West.

Reporting to the Board as the club's new general manager, Ryan announced club growth during the past twelve months of 7,898 members, to a new record total of 77,131.

He revealed steadily increasing patronage for the club's four branches in Franklin and Delaware Counties. Other counties in the club's territory are Madison, Pickaway and Union. He stated that experience in present branches is being studied as a guide to establishment of officers in the three counties still served from Columbus.

The board noted retirement during the year of Russell H. Campbell as general manager and Mrs. Louise Ryan as head of the World Wide Travel Department and expressed its appreciation for their long-time service to AAA members in central Ohio.

Club and organizational news should be sent to the Spectator by Thursday noon.

German Village Has Plans

An additional activity this year, will be a cookie and live greens decoration sale Saturday, December 9, 10 a.m., to 4 p.m. The cookies are home-baked by Society members over recipes from the German Village Cook Book.

Monday, December 18 at 7 p.m., in the garden of the German Village Meeting Haus, 138 E. Columbus St. will be held the traditional Christmas tree lighting, and caroling.

The tree lighting will be by the Rev. Larry Hoffsis, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, and caroling will be by the Stewart Avenue School song group, under the direction of Patricia Walters and Mary Lockwood.

There will be a Santa Claus to dispense goodies for the kiddies, and refreshments for the adults.

Man Gets Hired By Classified Ad

Taco Bell, 400 S. Hamilton Rd., was looking for a "night man". The firm tried the Classified Advertising section of The Spectator Newspapers.

The manager had this to say. "We had more than seven calls after the paper had only been in the homes for twenty minutes. I hired a man from a good selection. If we have need for help we know we can always trust The Spectator Classified Ads."

Buckeye Federal Plans New Office

Removing the first shovels of soil during ground-breaking ceremonies at the new location of the Buckeye Federal Savings Bexley-Eastmoor office, East Broad and Lowell Streets, were Columbus City Council President Maurice Portman, Buckeye Branch Manager Clyde Martin, Hylas A. Hilliard, Buckeye board member, senior vice president and attorney; Charles L. Richards, Buckeye senior vice president; Jerry Shields, project engineer, John W. Galbreath & Co., the builders; and Roger Lott, project manager, Brubaker and Brandt Architects.

The new Buckeye Federal office, now under construction, will be a one-story brick building in keeping with the residential architecture of the area. There will be off-street parking. An unusual feature of this office will be a cash-dispensing machine that will make it possible for customers to withdraw from savings accounts 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, a first for a savings and loan in the Columbus area.

Other features of the new office building will include a community meeting room, a safe deposit box department and drive-in window.

When completed in mid-summer the Buckeye current Esquire Shopping Center office will be moved to the new location.

Police Chief Warns All Holiday Shoppers

DOWNTOWN shoppers are warned by Columbus Chief of Police, Earl Burden, that crimes of pocket picking, purse snatching, and larceny always increase during the holiday season.

Crowded stores and streets, the excitement of the season, and personal distractions are some of the reasons for the increase in these crimes, but an even greater factor, the Chief noted, is the unsafe handling of valuables by the shoppers themselves.

SHOPPERS who fail to use common sense in protecting their own money, merchandise, and other personal property are only asking for trouble, Chief Burden states, and are making it easier for criminals to operate. He urged all holiday shoppers to heed the following tips in order to prevent needless loss of property:

1. Do not carry large sums of money. Use charge accounts or pay by check. If necessary to carry a large sum of money, be careful how and to whom it is displayed.

2. Do not place billfolds in the pockets of outer garments such as topcoats, suitcoats, or sweaters. The best place to carry billfolds is one of the side trouser pockets.

3. Do not place purses on top of merchandise in shopping bags. Do not leave purses laying on a merchandise display counter. Keep them in possession at all times. Always be sure to close purses securely after using them. If possible, avoid using shoulder strap purses as these are the most accessible.

4. Always clasp purses tightly so that they cannot be easily yanked from the hand.

5. Avoid overloading with merchandise to the extent that no control can be maintained over purses or other valuables. Avoid leaving gifts, clothes, and other valuable merchandise in parked automobiles.

Chief Burden also warned shoppers to be extremely wary of confidence men. This type of criminal, he stated, is a good actor and a convincing talker. Don't be misled by persons who ask that a sum of money be put up to show good faith in order to share in larger sum which may have been found or obtained by other means. This is just an attempt to ply an old racket known as the "Pigeon Drop". The success of this racket, the Chief continued, depends on the con man's ability to convince his "mark" that they will get something for nothing. In all incidents of this kind, the Chief asked, that shoppers get a complete description of the individuals involved and notify the police immediately.

Calico Tree Is COSI Highlight

A brightly colored Christmas Tree with blue, green, red and yellow calico patterns tied in attractive bows is a new and artistic addition to the Center of Science and Industry's holiday decorations at 280 East Broad St.

The Calico tree is a creation of Mrs. Keith Kistler, formerly of Clintonville, now a resident of Lancaster. Mrs. Kistler said she spent about 150 hours making the handmade bows and fruit decorations plus another four hours to place the six dozen electric candle lights on the branches of the tree.

The Calico tree joins other original Christmas creations on display at COSI including a spiraled tree that is in perpetual motion, made of plywood and tinsel, the work of Don Lord of Clintonville Hardware. Another tree that has joined the original ranks is an electronic music tree which changes colors with the tones of Christmas music. This tree was sponsored by Town & Country Radio Shack and Charles H. Ackers, a COSI Trustee.

Highlighting COSI'S Christmas display are twelve international Christmas trees sponsored by the Columbus Rotary Club. Countries included in this tree display are Poland, Germany, Victorian England, Sweden, Switzerland, Denmark, Japan, Lithuania, Italy and Old Russia.

COSI Visiting hours are Sundays and Holidays 1 to 5:30 p.m. and Mondays thru Saturdays 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Dillon To Sell Homes

A new residential subdivision, known as Academy Acres in Gahanna, is being built by Whit Dillon Realty, Inc. in joint venture with Michael J. Dehlendorf.

The Subdivision consists of 56 lots on approximately 30 acres and is located south of the Columbus Academy, north of the proposed new Torah Academy on Cherry Bottom Rd. in Gahanna.

Builders Bob Coate, Dick Luchtenberg, Ed Linnaberry, Ralph Sahr, Harold Puchstein and Jerry Cantrell propose to start construction late this year with homes ready in the spring of 1973. Sales of the homes and the lots will be handled by Whit Dillon Realty, Inc.

Eastern Spectator

Vol VXI No. 1 Total 890 — Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday December 13, 1972 — 15 Cents

THE CORN was a bright canary yellow last week when the Eastland FFA harvested the efforts of their May 20 planting. Truckload after truckload of corn was taken to the Groveport Landmark for sale. In this handful of corn photo by Spectator photographer Ray Adams are Ag-Mechanics instructor Wilbur Stevenson (black hat and dark glasses) and students Robert Baker, Greg Taylor, Larry Woodruff and Brent Gibson. The Eastland FFA realized more than $800 profit from the planting.

At Eastland

Corn Harvest Yield Adds To FFA Funds

CORN that had passed the "knee high by the Fourth of July" stage at that point was harvested recently by the Eastland Joint Vocational Center Future Farmers of America (FFA) Agriculture Mechanics class.

The bountiful harvest plans had been delayed due to inclement weather that kept the gleaner (corn-picker) from getting into the 12 acre tract just west of the Eastland school.

CLASS advisor Wilbur Stevenson, along with Clyde Keathley and Franklin Miller of the Eastland staff provided the on-the-spot learning project for the students.

Stevenson said there are many steps to take to get the project underway.

"This is the second year we've had the project in the same plot. The corn was planted in north to south rows."

FFA EASTLAND Chapter president Gary Fenice said a soil test was taken last fall to determine fertilizer needs. This resulted, he indicated, in the following fertilizer: 128 lb. per acre of potash was broadcast in the fall; 200 lb. of nitrogen was applied with 3 and one-third lb. per acre of Atrizene for weed control in the spring; 240 lb. per acre of starter fertilizer was used at planting time of six percent Nitrogen, 24 percent Phosphorous and 24 percent Potash.

Miller said the ground was plowed in the fall using a Ford tractor and plow furnished by Franklin Ford Tractor Sales' Pete Blades. A disc and a drag were used to prepare a good seed bed.

The tractor used was one that had been overhauled by the Ag-Mechanics class.

"PLANTING is a very important part of the project," said Clyde Keathley. "The corn was planted May 20 by Neil Stevenson, brother of Ag-Mechanics teacher, Wilbur Stevenson. The rate of planting ranged from 25,000 plants per acre to 40,000 plants per acre."

Stevenson added that the seed used was as follows: one bushel of seed corn C50X, furnished by Groveport Landmark; one bushel of seed corn, Funk C4445, furnished by Glenn Lackey; one bushel of seed corn, RX 287, furnished by Ruff Seed Farm; one bushel seed corn, Pioneer 3369R, furnished by Faler's Feed Store.

FENICE said the following harvesting and marketing criteria was followed:

"No cultivation was given the corn after planting. The corn was picked and shelled by Neil Stevenson, Nov. 22. A total of 1260 bushels was marketed at the Landmark Grain Terminal giving the FFA a check for $1,360.

The staff gave this conclusion to the project:

"THIS gave the boys a good experience of a "brands on project" of corn production as well as a $646 net profit to go into the FFA treasury to further finance other FFA activities.

Board Okays Site Purchase

A resolution for the purchase of an additional school site was approved Monday night by the members of the Madison Local School Board.

The site is 35 acres located north of 14 acres presently owned by the district. The site is bounded on the south by Refugee Road, on the east by Big Walnut Creek, and the west by Noe-Bixby Road.

The land is owned by Herbert and Anita Bowman and the cost is $3,500 per acre.

The land will be paid for over the next two years and until the final payment is made, the present owner will retain the deed and pay the taxes.

In other action the board approved several building improvements for Brice and Edwards Elementary Schools.

The improvements at Brice include the installation of an acoustical ceiling in the library and the carpeting of the library floor.

The estimated cost for these two projects is just over $1,000.

The third project for Brice is the installation of storm windows on the west side of the building. This cost is not to exceed $638.70.

At Edwards the improvement approved is the carpeting of the library. This project will be paid for from the activity account with money earned by the pupils and the PTO through a candy sale.

The board passed a resolution of appreciation for Thomas Sexton. Sexton retired as Postmaster of the Village of Groveport earlier this month. Sexton had held that position for over 27 years.

Also approved by the board was the authorization for the planting of a tree at the high school in memory of Groveport graduate Fred Mick.

Mick was killed in Vietnam earlier this year.

An oak tree will be planted south of the school sign

A plaque will also be purchased.

Williams said the money was raised through donations and said about $600 had been received so far.

Liquor Permit Fees

CITIES in the Spectator circulation area and amounts received are: Bexley, $9.95; Columbus, $22,011.90; Reynoldsburg, $530.30; Whitehall, $198.88; Worthington, $139.20; Groveport, $4.98 and Franklin Township, $2,686.37.

Objections Remain Same

Racism Board Issue

THOMAS B. CUNNERY
Special Staff Writer

School board member Marie Castleman accused white board members of racism following the defeat of a proposal to establish a committee to advise the board on selection of school sites at the Dec. 5 board meeting.

Making the accusation after the meeting, Mrs. Castleman said the community "needs leaders who are humane."

"WE NEED NEW members on the board who realize the relation between society's problems and school problems," she said.

The three black members of the board, Mrs. Castleman, Dr. David Hammler, and Dr. Watson Walker voted for the proposal.

The proposal was a revision of a version which was presented for discussion by Mrs. Castleman at the Nov. 28 meeting. At that time Mrs. Castleman was advised by the white board members to revise her proposal and submit the revision at a future meeting.

A MAJOR OBJECTION to the proposal was that the duties of the committee were not clear. The four white board members said that the proposed committee would give voters the impression that the board was not keeping promises concerning building locations made during the bond issue campaign.

Mrs. Castleman's revision stated the purpose of the proposal: "No educational system is independent of the social, financial, legal, political and religious institutions of our society. Each affects the other and in turn are affected by the other institutions.

"This proposed committee would advise the superintendent and the board of education of these effects, and in turn the committee would communicate to these institutions the commitment of this board of education to provide quality integrated education within the neighborhood school concept.

"AT THE PRESENT time a disproportionate number of new structures both private and public are being located in areas of the city which have excluded large segments of the population.

"Therefore all people of good will have an obligation to see that allocations of money for construction be distributed more equitably among all people. This is imperative when public monies assessed from all people are involved."

In addition, the proposal listed four duties of the committee:

-PROVIDE A projection on the growth and probable composition of neighborhoods when new school sites are under consideration.

-Advise the board of the probable effects of locating a school on a particular site.

-Solicit assurances from lenders, developers, realtors, builders and employers that equal housing and employment opportunities be made a reality through affirmative action.

-BE AVAILABLE as a talent pool for the superintendent and the board, individually and collectively, for consultation and expert opinion.

According to the revised proposal, composition of the committee would remain the same, with members consisting of educators, lenders, bankers, businessmen, realtors and representatives of various professional, social and civic organizations.

The objections of the four white board members to the revised proposal were the same as objections to the original version.

-"IN THE FIRST place," Mrs. Prentice said, "we have an administration that consults with realtors and builders concerning sites. You don't wait and choose a site and buy it right before you build it.

"Second, this motion would withhold the building of schools for the purpose of bringing about social change," she said.

Paul Langdon questioned the feasibility of the third duty listed. "What assurances are we talking about?" he asked.

LANGDON SAID that because there are only six items left to be dealt with concerning bond issue funds he did not see a purpose for the committee.

Board president Thomas Moyer said that he still found the proposal "In direct conflict with our present building program."

"The committee would work hand in hand with, and be an extension of existing committees," Mrs. Castleman said.

"THE WHOLE TONE of the resolution," Moyer said, "is to look at school sites to say if they are good or not. I don't feel I'm acting in good faith by voting for it.

"I can't consider the advice of the committee if we already have chosen sites," he said. "Most of the sites have been selected, and we already have a process for selecting the other sites".

Dr. Hammler said that establishment of the committee would "just be a case of asking help of people who know more than we do. How does giving advice conflict?" he asked.

HAMMLER SAID the committee would fulfill another promise made during the bond issue campaign for quality integrated education within the neighborhood concept.

Dr. Walker said that the committee would ask a question: "Is this a good site to encourage quality integrated education?"

Mrs. Redden said the proposal "has little to do with education." She asked Mrs. Castleman to work with the Columbus City Council, the Chamber of Commerce, and other government and civic organizations "whose commitment is not to education. Let them carry the ball," Mrs. Redden said.

"WE ARE PART of the city," Dr. Hammler said. "If we want to have quality integrated education, we have to make the choice right now."

Candy Cane Ball A Sweet Affair

'EAGLE TO THE MOON' is not an ordinary painting. It was one painted by world renowned artist John A. Ruthven as commissioned by former Ohio Governor James A. Rhodes to be the official insignia of the Neil Armstrong Space Museum at Wapakoneta, Ohio. There were a limited number of prints made of the original. One of these prints appeared at last Saturday's Candy Cane Ball, a charity affair sponsored by the Women's Service Board of Grant Hospital. The print was then presented to 1972 Miss America Laurie Lea Schaefer and her fiance John Lurie as a memento of their being co-honorary chairman of the 1972 Candy Cane Ball. Acknowledging the presentation along with Miss Schaefer and Lurie is at right Mrs. Robert Sorgen, ball chairman. Mr. Ruthven has also presented the Ohio Historical Society with 200 copies of the painting. They are on sale by contacting Mr. Dan Porter at the Ohio Historical Center. Proceeds from the sale will go in part to maintaining the Armstrong museum. (Spectator photo by Ray Adams.)

Art Exhibit On Display

A retired principal of the Columbus Public Schools, Mrs. Deloache is an art major from the Graduate School of Ohio State University. She taught art at Champion Junior High School for 15 years before becoming its vice-principal.

Somewhat specializing in portraits, the Columbus artist has painted portraits of the Whittaker family, Mrs. Helen Carter Moses, the late Mrs. Inez B. Holmes and the Edward L. James family of Charleston, W. Va. Mrs. Deloache has also painted the portrait of noted musician and bandleader, Sy Oliver of New York City.

A mural depicting the life of Dr. George Washington Carver, hangs on the walls of Champion Junior High School.

Mrs. Deloache classifies her paintings as eclectic–ranging from formal still life to portraits, landscapes and modern themes.

She is especially proud of several students she taught at Champion who have become successful in their own right in the art field. Among them are Mrs. Betty Buckner of East High School, Mr. William Agnew, Mrs Leroy Jackson and Mr. Albert Martin, supervisor of art at Connecticut State Teacher's College.

Clowns Visit St. Vincent's

THE CHILDREN at St. Vincent's Orphanage received a visit from some clowns recently who put on a half hour magic show, played games and gave them gifts. The 11 children received NFL action books and stamps, a six-foot plastic football player and lots of fun. Some salesman and a driver for a local oil company arranged the visit. "The children really enjoyed it," Sister Claudia said.

Capital Presents Faculty Art Show

The 1972 Faculty Art Show at Capital University, which runs through December 15, reflects four distinct artistic styles.

The annual staff show in Capital's Schumacher Gallery includes works by faculty members Richard Bauer, David Campbell, Richard Phipps and Gary Koss.

Bauer, who is director of the Schumacher Gallery, is showing a group of transparent watercolors and opaque acrylic oils. Campbell is showing a collection of landscapes in transparent watercolors.

Phipps, chairman of the art department, is presenting a group of landscapes, created on recent trips, done almost exclusively in transparent watercolors. Ross has contributed a selection of recent life-size sculpture and portrait busts.

The Schumacher Gallery is located in Huber-Spielman Hall, just east of College Avenue on Mound Street. Gallery hours are Mondays through Fridays from 1-5 p.m. and on Sundays from 2-4 p.m.

Vision Center Offers Service

FOR THE first time in Ohio history, blind and visually handicapped people in the state can receive extensive evaluation and training on a live-in basis, without having to go out of Ohio.

The Vision Center of Central Ohio, located in Columbus, recently mbpened a residential wing with living quarters for 20 residents in training. Previous to the June opening, visually handicapped Ohioans seeking rehabilitation had to take their training out of state, usualyy in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

In addition to sleeping accommodations for 20, the residential quarters include private baths, lounges, game room, music room, kitchen, and dining room. Other facilities in the building include a workshop, exercise room, testing room, classrooms, cafeteria and library.

THE VISION Center's comprehensive rehabilitation program offers instruction to the blind and visually handicapped in these areas: Mobility–independent cane travel and sighted guide technique; Communication Skills–braille, telephoning, personal typing, use of abacus; Personal-Social Skills--table etiquette, grooming, housekeeping and cooking skills, leisure time activities; Vocational Skills–training in a variety of fields, inlcuding industrial, professional and secretarial.

After completion of the four to 16 week evaluation and training period, the visually handicapped incividual can seek employment through the Vision Center's placement office or work in the center's sheltered workshop, Vision Center Industries.

The Vision Center is a private, non-profit agency supported by industrial income from its workshop, private contributions, United Way funds and tuition for services paid by the referring agency, usually Bureau of Services for the Blind.

Caution Urged When Toys Are 'Turned On'

ALL around Ohio Christmas may mean vision injury and loss says the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Well meaning adults, buying Christmas toys and recreation equipment will pick up BB guns, archery sets with easily removable rubber arrow tips, dart games, missile-type toys, chemistry sets with inadequate or nonexistent caution labels...which are simply too dangerous for children.

The result, as the Society's files show, is that hundreds of children every year are blinded or otherwise severely injured by playthings whose manufacture or design renders them unsafe. The Society advises parents that despite the existence of the Child Protection and Toy Safety Act, a large number of potentially dangerous toys are still on the market.

Dr. Frank Weinstock of Canton, Chairman of the Medical Advisory Committee of the Society, urges parents to be careful even of innocent items; a toy airplane of brillet plastic if broken can cause almost as severe an injury as a knife blade; a teddy bear whose button eyes are attached by spikes or whose body is structured on a sharp wire frame is a dangerous toy.

THE Prevention of Blindness Society reminds us that with a little thought and in some cases a little extra effort we can go a long way toward avoiding serious injury to a child's eyes. Information materials on all aspects of eye health and safety are available. Write: Prevent Blindness, P.O. Box 2020, Columbus, Ohio 43216.

Gallery Of Homes Has New Service

Gallery Of Homes, Realtors, with six Columbus locations, is offering two free brochures for families on or planning to be on the move.

"When It's Your Move" lists 10 helpful check points to help you save time and money and take much of the work and worry out of relocating.

"What's New", the second brochure, discusses how to dispose of your present home or apartment and acquire a new residence in the most economical and expedient manner.

The brochures were developed by the Inter-City Relocation Service (ICRS), represented by Gallery of Homes. ICRS has more than 600 members covering key residential markets in more than 6,000 cities in this country and overseas.

Gallery Of Homes, 2074 Arlington Ave., has opened its sixth Columbus area Gallery office at 421 Industrial Mile Road, to serve the westside Real Estate market.

It's Almost Here

Unfortunately - it's beginning to look too much like Christmas to the less fortunate whose Christmas will be bleak.

However, God bless the many individuals and organizations who will make Christmas brighter for many families by charitable hearts.

Wouldn't it be great if this spirit of giving could last -year round instead of being centered on one day?

PEOPLE are needy year round.

We numbered ourselves among this group some years ago when nothing was going right. It was a happy Christmas, however, because Christ was in our household and the feeling of the season overcame whatever material shortcomings might have existed.

It doesn't take much from each of us to bring a little cheer into empty hearts and empty purses. Even pennies go a long way toward gift-giving.

THE SPIRIT of Christmas must remain with us year-round else all we do now will be for naught the other 364 days of the year.

Lynn Williams

Jolly Holly Time

IT'S CERTAINLY evident that the holiday season is upon us. I can tell because my sister and I went shopping last weekend and the closest place to park was our own driveway.

A lot of myths about it being a time of good cheer were destroyed on this little shopping trip.

As we searched for a place to park at one shopping center, we watched one driver wait patiently for a young mother to search for 15 minutes through her purse for her keys, then spend another 15 relocating three small children. When she finally backed out, another car on the other side pulled in and got the spot. It looked for a second like we might see the start of World War III. (In my opinion this could be one of the few real justifications.)

WHOEVER SAID, "Tis the season to be jolly," obviously did his shopping by phone. If the parking lot seemed bad, it was only a mild storm compared to the hurricane inside. The stores were wall to wall people.

The best outfit for shopping in a crowd like this is a crash helmet, shoulder pads and a hockey stick. There's really a trick to moving in this kind of madhouse--sort of like getting on to the freeway during five o'clock traffic. You have to watch for a break, ease yourself into the traffic and for heaven sake, don't make any sudden stops or you could get trampled to death.

THE SECRET is to move when the crowd does and stop where they stop. Of course your husband may end up getting a Marcus Welby Doctor's Kit but then they say its the thought that counts.

Once you're in and moving you are pretty much at the will of the masses. It took three laps around one store before we finally managed to break loose and leave.

If you find something you like you'd better be quick. I spotted one likely item and turned around to get my sister's attention. When we looked around again, it was being gift wrapped for someone's sister in Kalamazoo.

THE CHECKOUT lines are something else again. I bought a book in one store and had it half read before I paid for it.

But I guess I shouldn't complain. Christmas only comes once a year and I won't have to do this again until the week after Christmas--when it's time to exchange everything.

'Have a Green Christmas' Could Be Gift Theme

By Richard L. Paugh

INTERESTED in the future of the planet? Sure you are or you wouldn't be reading my stuff. Did you ever consider having a Hloiday Season with an environmental theme? It's fun to find how many ways you can improve your habitat in just a few days.

Begin by buying a live Christmas tree, keeping those roots well watered and then planting it right after the holiday. That tree will repay you many tiems over by beautifying you life and helping cleanse the air you are using.

FOR ORNAMENTS and household decorations, lean heavily on non-electric cut-outs, popcorn, etc. If you just can't live without lights, use them sparingly. The watt you save will mean some coal didn't get a chance to black the sky or yellow some stream.

The Good Gifts: Give lots of growing things like shrubs with berries the birds like, trees that will remind folks of you for years to come. Bird feeders bring nature back. Books on nature are good for young folks.

In an un-fancy, plain wrapper, the Dayton Museum of Natural History has written the best environmental handbook I have ever seen. It is calle "The Do-It-Yourself Environmental Handbook, and is researched and edited by E. J. Koestner, Joseph J. McHugh, and Ralf Kircher. The workbook has a complete outline for living sensibly with spaces to list local recycling centers, etc.

THE BOOK would make an excellent gift for anyone but especially for mothers, children, fathers, teachers, and businessmen. It sells for $1.95 and is published by Little, Brown and Company, Boston - 17504.

The Bad Gifts: Of course, anything electrical will ultimately smudge our skies and smear our streams. Stay away from the plastic-poly throwaway stuff. It will rust out incinerators or last forever in a landfill.

If you want to interest young folks in the environmental movements, get them subscriptions to various good periodicals or pay their first year's dues in a fine state or national group such as the Conservation Society (Box 50, Columbus, 43216) or the National Audubon Society (1130 Fifth Avenue, N.Y., N.Y. 10028).

Lifeline Suggestion: Do your planet a favor in 1973. Hand letter a sign for over your desk stating simply "I Will Notify The Pollution Hot Line Of All Pollution I See", then add across the bottom "Box 50 Columbus, Ohio 43216. ' This simple gesture will keep a constant reminder before you that someone awaits your information and will act on it.

The Press . . . How Free Is It?

OUR HOPES for the journalistic future of the weekly newspapers were buoyed last week as myself and Editor Lynn Williams participated in the career conference at Walnut Ridge High School.

The students who attended the conference were eager ... and we hope their eagerness will be leveled by the knowledge that the vocation they might chose is a noble one that needs young blood to keep its pulse steady.

AFTER reflecting upon what they had to say we reminded them that they will take on an obligation to be truthful that has no parallel in any other vocation.

After getting back to the office with zip from this shot of adrenalin we chanced upon an editorial in the Pella Chronicle Advertiser (Iowa) that gave some of the responsibilities of a weekly newspaper.

WITH LAST week's heavy flow of "Letters to the Editor" we feel it is worth reprinting here.

It is titled "The Press ... How Free Is It?"

The Nov. 26 Des Moines Sunday Register carried the story of the sale of the weekly Alton-Orange City Democrat.

Perhaps it caught our eye because of a common interest in journalism or perhaps it was because the dateline was from Pella's sister community, Orange City.

In any event, it was not your typical story of the sale of a newspaper, and it set us thinking.

Many of our readers may know that newspaper and some may even know the ex-publisher, Frank Bowers. He is the last of his family to own the Democrat in a period of Bowers ownership going back 70 years.

The way the Register tells it, in Bowers' five years as publisher, circulation of his newspaper more than doubled and the Democrat won some 25 awards, among them the 1971 Iowa Press Association's trophy for "newspaper of the year."

What was the secret of his success? A vigorous reporting of all factors of community life, the bad as well as the good, and the honesty of focusing on the dark side as often as the bright. His controversial editorials hammered away and he had the satisfaction of knowing his newspaper had been judged "best" among all the weeklies in Iowa.

But things began to go wrong. His wife, who'd done most of the news-gathering, died. Bowers found it hard to keep up without her.

Then the death-knell sounded. Advertising dropped off and without its support, Bowers was finished.

"Our subscribers held steady when we printed a controversial story, but advertisers quit us," Bowers is quoted as saying," and in a small town like this, a few advertisers have a large amount of influence."

Is this to be the fate of all small town weekly newspapers? In order to survive, must they be bland, no-opinion mirrors of the image the community has of itself?

Must they resort to boosterism, looking only to those things that contribute to this image (frequently false) and seeing no evil?

The advertising support from local merchants is the one factor that can make or break a local newspaper. If the advertising is there, the newspaper is a healthy publication with many more pages for many more pictures and features and interesting facts about local people activities.

If it is not, the newspaper becomes a bare-bones chronicle of statistical fact with no room for the warmth and the compassion that truly tells the life of a community.

A small town weekly newspaper is not, and shouldn't try to be, The New York Times. But neither, it seems to us, should it try to be the sort of publication that tries to keep all segments of the public happy at the cost of its own integrity.

We think the people of Pella are realistic enough to see that some aspects of life could be improved. We'd like to lead public opinion as well as reflect it.

We anticipate no far-reaching crusades (for the simple reason that things, on the whole, are so right in Pella) but we would like to have the assurance that our community is sophosticated enough to stand by if we should take an unpopular position.

Our readers then, are invited to let us know what they want from their newspaper. Our letters to the Editor columns are open to your opinions. To be printed they must be signed.

Taped to the wall in the Chronicle office is the best description of a weekly newspaper we've ever seen. It says it should LOOK like the best daily, but READ like the best weekly.

We're devoted to that principle.

We owe you nothing less.

Legislator Alarmed In Fair Booze Sale

STATE REP. Alan E. Norris (R-Westerville) has expressed alarm that proposals before the Ohio Expositions Commission might lead to the sale of beer at the Ohio-State Fair, and called upon Governor Gilligan "to clearly state his intentions on opening up the state fair to alcohol, prior to budget hearings next year".

"The availability of beer and other alcoholic drinks at the state fair could jeopardize the greatest family entertainment attraction in Ohio and turn it into a cheap carny," Norris warned.

"NOW THAT the Governor has political control of the Commission, I would call upon him to repudiate any intentions on his part or through his appointees on the Commission to sell intoxicating beverages at the state fair," Norris stated.

Norris said he recognizes that some of the proposals being made to the Commission would allow the sale of beer only during non-fair activities. "But the Commission might decide that a fairgrounds concession selling food and beverages is a non-fair activity. The granting of a beer license on the state fairgrounds is only a short step from virtually unlimited availability of alcoholic beverages and carny hustlers who take advantage of drinking patrons."

NORRIS said that the Ohio State Fair grew to be the greatest in the United States because it is a family attraction featuring a free grandstand, wholesome entertainment and oriented toward agricultural interests. "This is no place to cater to those who must drink to enjoy themselves," Norris said.

Norris also noted that a survey conducted for the Commission pointed out that the free grandstand was the top attraction of the state fair bringing in crowds and gate receipts to pay for the fair's youth activities and FFA awards.

"THIS SHOULD prove once and for all that much of the success of the fair is dependent on a free grandstand. I would hope that the Governor would not take action as he did two years ago cutting big-name entertainment out of the state fair budget," Norris stated.

Man Of La Mancha Review Criticized

To the Editor:

Typical inaccurate newspaper reporting has given the people who participated in and those who saw the Westland High School production of "Man Of LaMancha" a first hand lesson in just how little the American public can believe what they read in the papers.

Except for the fact that excellent singing predominated, Jody Kidwell was outstanding, and the other characters mentioned were also superb, your anonymous writer was incorrect and inconsistant.

For instance, microphones were obvious right on the stage front. Other back-stage mikes helped the sound when action made it imperative to "turn the back to the audience".

Under some really professional directing from Mr. Donald Bean, choreography from Mr. John Learner and from the musical coordinator, Mr. Robert Petty, who also directed the outstanding orchestra (unmentioned in your article) these young people learned artful techniques of the theatre, including facing the audience as much as possible, not simply to be heard.

The set was rented from A. J. D. Productions, and is an authentic reproduction of the stage in the original show. The set was assembled by the 37 dedicated members of the cast and the large backstage crew.

Also unnoticed, I assume, was the fact that from the first downbeat of the orchestra, the audience, including children, sat spellbound for the 2 hours of acting and singing, obviously enjoying each scene and number. At the end, each of the three performances received standing ovations because the audiences were truly touched by some very fine acting, not because of being partisan as your article cryptically stated. In particular, the death scene brought tears to the majority watching, and that is the hallmark of good acting.

These youngsters were extremely busy for two months preparing this production, instead of being on the streets making headlines reporters seem to dwell on. It seems a shame to have a worthwhile project such as this, dealt with so unfairly and amateurishly. I suggest that the next time your staff is sent to review an offering, he view it from inside the auditorium.

County Veterans Receive $32 Million In Benefits

THE VETERANS Administration expended almost half a billion dollars in federal funds for Ohio veterans during the past fiscal year. A tabulation shows that $495,984,944 was spent for Ohio's 1.6 million veterans from all wars during this period.

This is an increase of $46 million over fiscal year 1971. Franklin county received $31,963,416 during the year.

Lucius M. Merritt, Director of the VA Regional Office in Cleveland, said over $390 million had been paid directly to Ohio veterans through his office.

NOT UNDER his jurisdiction are the state's five VA hospitals, and the remainder of the expenditures was for their operating and construction costs as well as the salaries of the employees in the Regional Office.

Veterans who suffered injuries in line of duty are awarded compensation regardless of any other income they may have. Older veterans and those totally disabled from causes other than active duty and who have limited income are awarded pensions. Statewide compensation and pension costs amounted to $272,693,699, of which $22,486,323 went to Franklin veterans.

EDUCATIONAL costs of the VA in the state amounted to $67,100,915. These readjustment and vocational rehabilitation expenditures amounted to $5,533,141 in this county.

Insurance and indemnities were paid to Ohio veterans in the amount of $47,828,660 with this county's veterans receiving $3,943,952.

Grand Opening Assistance Was Helpful

To the Editor:

Many thanks for your kindness in publicizing our Creative Child Care's grand opening. Also, thank you for securing the services of lovely Reynoldsburg Tomato Queen Sandra Lee Downs.

We are very pleased with the results of our efforts and wanted you to know how much your assistance helped us in having a successful afternoon.

Again, thank you, and best wishes always.

Sincerely,

Hilltop Civic Council Appreciated Assistance

To the Editor:

The Hilltop Civic Council's Board of Directors would like to thank you for helping to make our Second Annual Benefit Show a success.

There is no doubt that without the excellent coverage which you helped to provide, it would have been very difficult to reach the large segment of the community which is necessary to gain the great support for our important efforts.

Be sure that the many people across the city of Columbus who directly or indirectly benefit from the many varied services offered by the Hilltop Civic Council, have been helped just a little bit more by your helping us to help them.

We are now in the planning stages for a bigger and better show for next year and we would appreciate your continuous support.

May we be the first to wish you a "Merry Christmas" and a prosperous New Year.

Sincerely,
Roger Germany, Dirceter
Hilltop Civic Council

You're Telling Us

The Spectator Newspapers welcome letters from readers, expressing their views on subjects of interest to them -- whether initiated by news stories or editorial expression in this newspaper or not. Because of space limitations, we prefer letters which do not exceed 300 words. All letters submitted for publication must be signed with the writer's name and address, although -- upon request -- the name of the writer can be withheld. Letters should be marked: "To the Editor, Spectator Newspapers, 3421 South Boulevard, Columbus, Ohio 43204" and must be received by Friday noon prior to publication date for possible publication in that week's edition.

We "Blew It" By Answering Letters

WE "blew our usual cool" last week in this column by editorializing in "Editor's Notes" and defending positions we had taken in regards to the contents of the letters.

They involved (1) A letter criticizing our review of the Westland High School musical "Man of La Mancha" that appeared in our Hilltop Spectator; (2) A letter concerning a story we had written on "Mayor's Court" and an editorial titled "Doggone" that appeared in the Reynoldsburg Spectator; (3) A letter concerning the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency that appeared on our editorial page; (4) A letter that dealt with a Medicopter story that appeared in all papers as a feature and questioned our facts and (5) A letter from a Watterson student regarding our coverage of the championship football game.

ALTHOUGH at the time we felt our reasons were justified in defending our positions it reflects on our editorial judgement when we use these columns in this manner.

To quote an oft-used phrase "we blew it".

We sincerely hope this will not keep our readers from writing letters to us on any subject as outlined in the guidelines for our Letters To The Editor.

Watterson Letter Writer Identified

To The Editor

In last Tuesday's edition of the Worthington Spectator there appeared an article titled "Watterson Student Berates Coverage" on page 4.

This student decided to remain nameless because of the fear of being reprimanded by the school.

I disagree, and I am sure Monsignor Spires and the students of State AA Football Champion Watterson High School would like to know who this dedicated 'Eagle Fan' is.

You say you want a Clue! Well all right.

She faithfully reads the Sports Section of the Worthington Spectator.

Another one, alright!

She has attended all the football games including the playoffs in Troy and Massillon.

If you haven't guessed aby now this little 'Eagle, happens to be a fifteen year old junior by the name of Jill de Roche, 512 Park Blvd., Worthington, Ohio 43085.

In my opinion she happens to possess an overabundance of enthusiasm for her school which many young adults do not have anymore. Needless to say, I am very proud of this girl and she just happens to be my sister-in-law.

Very truly yours,
Gary Mally

West Student Asks For More Coverage

To the Editor:

I have enjoyed reading the Hilltop Spectator for the past few years, but there is one outstanding quality I have repeatedly noticed, especially in the sports section.

A certain school, namely Westland, which is new in the West-Hilltop area, has had outstanding publicity not only in sports, football, basketball especially, but in most school activities.

Of course, any school deserves credit where credit is due, however, I am a student at West High School and I feel that the sports and activities of all schools, especially Hilltop and Westgate schools should be recognized with articles and pictures and that no school should be given extra publicity without sufficient reason.

I believe my feelings are expressed not only at West but i.. other area schools.

I have lived on the Hilltop all of my life (15 years) and for this reason I find the Spectator interesting. In it I can usually read about the people I know and associate with, however, if I cannot read about my own school in some way, I soon find that The Spectator has no reading value for me.

I would like to suggest that if you, the editor, want The Spectator to be appealing to all Hilltop-West Side residents, you should start giving more publicity and pictures to all Hilltop-West side schools.

Sincerely,
Leslie Geshwilm

Football Marathon Had Many Helpers

To the Editor:

The Westerville Chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) last Saturday sponsored a 24 hour football marathon with the donations geared to purchase extra Christmas presents for the children at the Methodist Childrens' Home.

Although the proceeds did not meet our expectations we know that the boys who played and the people who contributed to the event either through donations, food for the players or moral support by appearing at the game site feel that their contribution was worthwhile.

Some of the donations, we know, came as a result of the publicity given in your seven area papers.

It is refreshing to know that a newspaper cares about what the young people in the communities are doing to support the less fortunate.

To Westerville Recreation Director Richard Rano (for turning on the lights) to FCA advisors Sam Kegley and Les Randolph (for their faith and leadership to our cause) to Spectator Executive Editor and Mrs. Ray Adams for their contribution of sandwiches and fresh fruit to feed the hungry players through the night and to the many who contributed with donations and time we say a grateful 'Thanks' and hope your holiday will reflect the atmosphere of your gift.

Sincerely,
Westerville Chapter
Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Tele-A-Friend Service To Begin

A new telephone reassurance service directed at the elderly, who are shut-in, lonely, or disabled, is being activated in Franklin County. The program is call TELE-A-FRIEND.

It was developed by the Franklin County Council on Aging and is directed by Lois is A. Kuhn, a member of the Columbus Area Community Mental Health Center.

The TELE-A-FRIEND office, located in the Jaycee Arms 114, is a community service project of the North Columbus Jaycees.

Elderly persons, whose isolation and-or precarious physical or mental condition and those who are simply alone and lonely, will be able to receive a daily telephone call at a pre-arranged time from a TELE-A-FRIEND volunteer. Should the volunteer not reach his client the central office will be alerted to give emergency service.

Home visits and referrals to backup agencies will be made when necessary to handle problem situations.

The central office is open 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the present. The service goal of the project will be to give 24 hour service sometime after the first of the year.

Referrals to TELE-A-FRIEND may come from the person desiring the service or any professional person, agency, relative or friend.

Anyone wishing to volunteer a few moments of his time to make a daily call to an elderly person or those desiring the service may call TELE-A-FRIEND at 224-7444.

Thoughts On Selecting Your Honeymoon Site

How do you pick a honeymoon spot? It's a question that's probably been asked since the Scandinavians hit on the custom, centuries ago, of hiding their newly marrieds away for a month and serving them a portion containing honey on each of the first thirty days of their marriage.

Take the case of Beverly, a young secretary friend of mine. She's twenty-three, warm, laughs easily and is now happily married to her husband, Peter, whom she met while working in the same office building-waiting for an elevator. "He offered me some of his coffee," she laughs, "and six months later, we were engaged and about to be married."

"Where to go for a honeymoon? We agreed almost without having to talk about it. We wanted to be with people our own age, have privacy, yet the pleasure of the company and conversation of other people. We also wanted some trees, swimming...sports. So, we decided on the Poconos of Pennsylvania. We had read about it somewhere."

Among newlyweds, Beverly has lots of company in the desire to be among other honeymooners. They look for resorts that have year-round swimming pools, gymnasiums, bowling alleys, tennis-courts. It supports what psychologists say about the first days of marriage-intimate times balanced by other activities in a fun-filled setting.

In the Poconos, which has become the honeymoon capital of the world, the door chimes on the cottages, for instance, play "Here Comes the Bride." There are large, luxurious, oval tubs in huge rooms with wall-length mirrors. Such things help newlyweds achieve what psychologist Abraham Maxlow describes as the ideal love relationship of healthy people-"...the intimate life of funfilled people, at times, might be compared to games of children - frequently humorous and playful." Trees, mountains, lakes, streams, exotic skylines-yes, atmosphere is important. For instance, says Vance Packard in his book, "The Sexual Wilderness," "Young couples will be greatly assisted in enjoying their transition to married life if they can make the transition through a stimulating locale." Some tips for honeymooning: Don't let "first night jitters," control your plans-both bride and groom usually find their wedding day too exhausting to really ever think much about sex that night. Plan at least several days for the arrival of that "great moment." Do plan a location that offers activities you both enjoy, whether it's swimming, bowling or just walking through the woods. Don't cut your honeymoon-short - consider getting time-off without pay if necessary, to give you sufficient time together. Do check out facilities thoroughly.

"Yorktown Junior High School P.T.A. will feature the annual Christmas Concert at its Dec. 15 meeting at 8 p.m."

MRS. RICHARD PAUL FISHER, JR.

Fisher-Chappell Wed

Miss Deborah Sue Chappell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Chappell, 4890 Calvin Dr., was married Dec. 2, at the Eastview United Methodist Church, to Mr. Richard Paul Fisher, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Paul Fisher, Sr., 1033 Westphal Ave., Columbus.

The rites were performed by Rev. David Sheen.

The bride wore a high-waisted gown of chiffon and taffeta. It had full sleeves, and was accented with rows of seed pearls at the waist and wrists. Her head was draped in an illusion veil.

The gown was made and designed by Mrs. Chappell. The bride also wore pearls that her grandmother wore in her wedding 60 years ago.

The bridesmaids wore burgandy and navy flowered, empire, crepe gowns. They wore Juliet bonnets also.

The maid of honor was Sheri Basham.

The bridesmaids were: Rebecca and Elizabeth Chappell, both sisters of the bride, Debra Shalosky and Julie Dimond.

The best man was Mr. Stan Burak, the groom's brother in law.

The ushers were: John Hollingworth, Ron Zemic, and Chris and Eric Alexander, both cousins of the groom.

The bride is employed by Lease-A-Plane, as a secretary. She is a graduate of Walnut Ridge High School, and then attended Columbus Business University.

The groom is employed by Silverman's Sportswear.

He is also a graduate of Walnut Ridge High School, and he attended Ohio State University.

The reception was held at Eastview Methodist Church.

They will reside in Channingway.

Christmas For Your Pet

Have you considered a Christmas gift for your dog this year?

What would make a more practical or suitable gift than a dog license? It's licensing time anyway and the tag is a portection for both you and the dog.

Holiday Tea For Bexley Women

A Holiday Tea will be held by the Bexley Woman's Club on Tuesday, Dec. 19, at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, 211 N. Meride Rd.

The Christmas Message will be given by The Reverend John C. Kromer, Pastor, and the music will be furnished by the O.S.U. Harp Trio.

Mrs. Paul Stehle is Chairman. She is assisted by Mrs. Theodore Horst, Mrs. Bernard Click, Ms. Otto Ebert and Mrs. Irwin Haller.

Singing Moms Preform At Tea

The Ohio State University Mothers' Club, Group R, will hold its annual Christmas Tea at the Jeffrey Mansion on Monday Dec. 18, at 12:30 p.m.

Gifts for University Hospital patients should be brought to this meeting.

A program of holiday music will be presented by the "Singing Moms."

Hostesses for the tea will be Mrs. Anthony Persi, Mrs. Harold Poth and Mrs. Joseph Toephner.

Pot Luck For Mineral Society

The Columbus Rock and Mineral Soceity annual Christmas Party will be held December 15 in Beech-Maple Lodge at Blacklick Woods.

A pot luck supper will start the meeting at 6:30 p.m. The program will include an optional gift exchange, $1.00 value, and a silent auction.

Twin Club To Hold Christmas Bazaar

Congratulations go out to the new officers for the Tri-Corner Twin Club's new officers for 73. They are: Pres., Mrs. Bev. Thomas; Vice-Pres., Mrs. Bonnie Coleman; Secretary, Mrs., Barb Millington; Treasurer, Mrs. Linda Welch. This election was held Oct. 16.

The Tri-Corner Twin Club will be holding a Christmas Bazaar for its members on Dec. 19, 7:30 p.m., at the Hilltop Y.M.C.A., in place of its regular meeting. All parents or guardians of twins or multiple births are welcome.

The Twin's Club would like to express their appreciation to Dr. Robert W. Brannon, specialist in the field of gynecology and obstetrics. He provided them with an interesting evening filled with facts and discussions on twins and other multiple births.

Mary Lou Shelly and Mrs. Elenore McGuire accepted designated labels, tags and stamps to be taken to the Columbus State Hospital and put into the Gove Hall Fund. The sorting provides work and therapy.

The income is used for luxury items for the mentally retarded children; field trips, and hot meals in restaurants, also batteries for battery operated materials.

Lables will be collected and donated at each meeting.

A letter of appreciation was received from Mrs. Pat Hooffstetter, thanking all the girls for the shoes and clothing donated to the Welfare Department. They have already been distributed among those in need. With the information gained from the Welfare Dept. and the exceeding response from the girls, the Twins Club will be able to provide a needy family with a 12 lb. turkey and 200 lbs. of food.

A new committee has been formed called the "Reference Discussion Committee." It will provide the club with unusual facts about twin problems. Mrs. Mary Evans, Mrs. Margaret Nelson, and Mrs. Michelle Mateo have been appointed to head this committee.

Hostesses were named for the up-coming year.

The January hostess will be Mrs. Carolyn DeMarie.

January will be the Poison Control month. There will be a doctor from Children's Hospital as the guest speaker.

Goodies for all at the Christmas Bazaar. Anyone wishing to attend may contact the Hilltop Y.M. C.A., 276-5306, or Sue Radcliff, 878-2714.

Women Hold Dinner

The Ohio Chapter of the American Business Women's Association will hold a Christmas Dinner meeting at Christopher Inn Dec. 20 at 6:30 p.m.

The Ohio Chapter has elected new officers for the coming year. President Mrs. Jean Mullins, Vice President Mrs. Carl Ruder, Recording Secretary Mrs. Norman McKenzie, Corresponding Secretary Miss Winnie Cottle, Treasurer Mrs. Helen McGinness.

Party For Eight and Forty

Mrs. Helen Ross, La Petite Surintendante of Franklin County Salon No. 333, Eight and Forty is chairman of the Christmas party and Potluck Supper, scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 14, at 6:30 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Building, Room 201, 250 W. Broad Street.

She will be assisted by Mrs. James Terry and Mrs. E. C. McCarley, reservations chairman.

There will be a Christmas gift exchange followed by the regular monthly business session conducted by Le Petit Chapeau, Mrs. Thea Burns.

VISION CENTER

Twenty-two blind and visually handicapped teenagers in the Columbus public schools and the Ohio State School for the Blind receive paid job experience at the Vision Center, 1393 N. High St., Columbus, through its work-study program.

"An executive must know something about everything. A technician must know everything about something. But a switchboard operator must know everything."—Clarin D. Ashby, Uintah Basin (Utah) Standard.

'IN' fashion

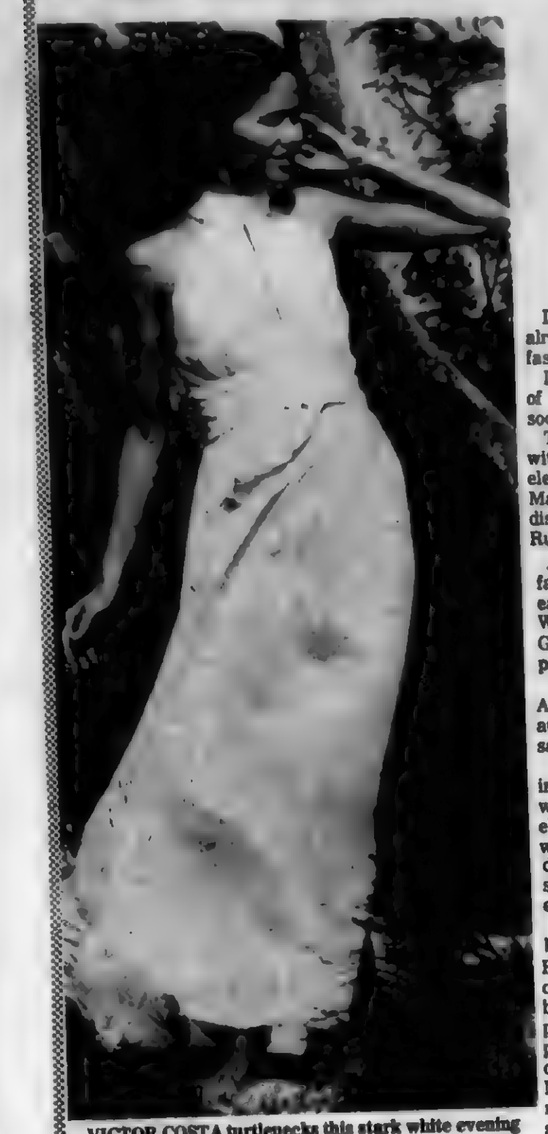
The Eating Binge

I'VE JUST RETURNED from the New York Spring fashion shows, and already people are asking me, "Don't you get tired of going to all those fashion shows and looking at all those clothes?"

Little do they know that looking at clothes is the very least important part of a fashion show these days—my dear, it's the eating, sipping and socializing that goes on.

The most modest breakfast show leads off with a beautifully set up buffet with a choice of juices, croissants or Danish, and coffee. If it's a top brass elegant breakfast show like Maximilian's Fur Show—even a few Bloody Marys and glasses of cold French champagne are unostentatiously distributed before the tough job of looking at priceless wild minks and Russian Sables.



A FASHION reporter hardly has time to walk off the Danish before a fashion luncheon is on. Monsanto Textiles came right out and admitted the eating binge the fashion industry is involved with, when they launched their Waikiki Luau last week during the American Designer's Showings. The Grand Ballroom of the Plaza was transformed into a tropical setting with palms everywhere towering over ancient Hawaiian tiki totem poles.

We were all presented with leis of vanda orchids by muu-muu clad United Air Lines stewardesses, while the Fun Birds of Aloha Airlines played authentic Hawaiian melodies and dancers performed in colorful printed sarongs.

DIET-CONSCIOUS EDITORS who try to shave things close and arrive just in time for the show sometimes get fooled. Tempting Polynesian delicacies were served in the parlor before we entered the dining room—followed by an elaborate luncheon. Pupus cocktail, Fish Laulaus, Mock Kalua Pork Roast with bananas, Ono Ono Rice, Mimosa Salad, and a Waikiki fruit boat for dessert which was a culinary work of art—fresh pineapple served in a half shell, piled with lime sherbet and grated coconut. Of course we didn't need to eat a bite—but what else could we do?

WHAT DO you wear to a Luau? Models showed carefree clothes in fabrics by Monsanto Textiles (what else) that carry their unique Wear-Dated label. For travel to Hawaii, pants ensembles of navy Acrilan double knit, with companion printed shirt by Cintura; or Kelita's sophisticated pants and bush jacket. Norman Lafer's palazzo pajamas of polyester and cotton printed with tropical flowers—Bobbie Brooks long Acrilan double knit pinafore. For nightclubing, exciting gowns in sinuous knit nylon by designers Giorgio DiSant'Angelo, Scott Barrie, Victor Costa and Leo Narducci. For sailing, white stag's red polka dot "fanny pants" topped by a red clipper jacket. Waikiki's own Kahala Sportswear to take you surfing; or swimming with the merest bikini of stretch terry.

However, the way editors are eating professionally in fashion—there soon won't be an editor small enough to slip into a model size!

VICTOR COSTA turtlenecks this stark white evening dress of texturized Monsanto nylon, slashes it low and wraps it at the waist—from the Suzy Perette Spring collection.

JOSHUA TREE'S sleeveless jumpsuit of Acrilan doubleknit is teamed with matching cardigan—available in pastels.

MRS. BARBARA WERN JONES

Miss Barbara Wern Wed To Mr. Tom Jones

Miss Barbara Ann Wern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Wern, 1434 Yorktown Rd., was married Dec. 2, at St. Philip the Apostle Church, to Mr. Thomas James Jones, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jones, 2470 Daily Rd.

The bridesmaids were Miss Susan Jones, sister of the groom, Miss Lynne Jensen, cousin of the bride, Miss Nan Alexander, Jr. bridesmaid, Miss Christine Voit, cousin of the bride, flower girl, and Beth Voit cousin of the bride.

The best man was Mr. Thomas J. Jones, father of the groom.

The reception was held in the Fraternal Order of Ploice Hall, in Gahanna, following the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Walnut Ridge High School and is employed by the John Deere Company.

The groom is also a graduate of Walnut Ridge High School and is employed by the bureau of Motor Vehicles.

The couple is presently honeymooning in the Gulf coast of Florida. They will reside in Columbus.

Service To Aging

A new telephone reassurance service directed at the elderly, who are shut-in, lonely, or disabled, is being activated in Franklin County. The program is call TELE-A-FRIEND.

It was developed by the Franklin County Council on Aging and is directed by Lois A. Kuhn, a member of the Columbus Area Community Mental Health Center.

The TELE-A-FRIEND office, located in the Jaycee Arms 114, is a community service project of the North Columbus Jaycees.

Elderly persons, whose isolation and-or precarious physical or mental condition and those who are simply alone and lonely, will be able to receive a daily telephone call at a pre-arranged time from a TELE-A-FRIEND volunteer. Should the volunteer not reach his client the central office will be alerted to give emergency service.

Home visits and referrals to backup agencies will be made when necessary to handle problem situations.

The central office is open 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the present. The service goal of the project will be to give 24 hour service sometime after the first of the year.

Referrals to TELE-A-FRIEND may come from the person desiring the service or any professional person agency, relative or friend.

Anyone wishing to volunteer a few moments of his time to make a daily call to an elderly person or those desiring the service may call TELE-A-FRIEND at 224-7444.

Fire-Safe Holiday Ahead

Fire Department Public Information Assistant Jim Caldwell talked some more last week about holiday safety and came up with these hopefully helpful suggestions:

Fire-retardant materials should be purchased when extensive amounts of decorations are needed. Flame resistant paper and cloth products are available for this purpose.

Only U.L.-approved artificial trees can be used in places of public assembly. They are excellent for use in the home, too!!!

When purchases of decorative electrical fixtures, lights, and other decorations are made, be sure that the box or the cord sets are labeled U.L.-approved. Beware of the many dangerous imports finding their way into the retail market.

A live or cut Christmas tree presents an extreme hazard when used in the home, even when freshly cut and in a water-filled tree holder!!!

Install live or cut trees away from stairways, exit ways, fireplaces, heaters, and any other source of ignition.

Old electrical cord sets and decorative fixtures may arc, spark, or cause electrical shock when the insulation is cracked and wires are bared. Inspect them closely for defects and discard them when they are damaged!!!

Candles should be lighted only when installed in a safe holder, away from small children, and away from flammable materials.

Most fire deaths in Columbus over the past two years have been caused by careless smoking, alcohol, and children playing with matches!!!

Speaking of Beauty

By Betty Pieckruhn

HOW TO HANDLE A MALE EGOMANIAC

There's no use us wasting time in feeling sorry for you if you're hung up with a guy like that. Let's just call it fate, and tell you some of our secrets for coping.

In the first place you have to be all that he admires in a woman becuase he thinks he's entitled. That means you have to find a beauty salon that will work with you to help you keep "the look" he admires whether it be suave or casual. But you can't let him have it all his own way or he'll get bored...Surprise him from time to time with some little glamour idea of your own. If he doesn't like it you can change back again, but at least let him know you do have a mind of your own when you want to use it.

All For Grant Hospital

Candy Cane Charity Ball Was Gala Affair

By Ray Adams

DELICIOUS, delightful and delovely barely describes the annual Candy Cane Charity Ball last Saturday in the Presidential Ballroom of the Neil House.

This ninth annual ball is the project of the Women's Service Board of Grant Hospital.

They asked us to "please have an enjoyable evening". What we enjoyed far surpassed that of any affair we have attended this year.

THE GAILY decorated ballroom was made festive with bright and colorful angels hanging from the ceiling. Candy canes (what else) were throughout the area and the attractive centerpieces complimented the tables.

A singular highlight was the fabulous display of wildlife paintings by noted artist, writer and lecturer, Mr. John A. Ruthven.

FORMER Ohio Governor James A. Rhodes commissioned Ruthven to execute a work to be the official insignia of the Neil Armstrong Space Museum in Wapakoneta, Ohio. His production, "The Eagle to the Moon", depicts a Bald Eagle, life size in flight, with the moon in the background and also a branch of the Buckeye tree signifying the state of Ohio.

Mr. Ruthven is also the official artist for Colonial Williamsburg.

1972 Miss America Laurie Lea Schaefer and her fiance John Lurie were co-honorary chairman for the ball and acted as MC's for the program.

The program included a reception and cocktails on the Mezzanine and West Center Ballroom, the art exhibit by Mr. Ruthven, dinner in the presidential Ballroom, music by the Duke Jenkins Trio, a presentation of distinguished guests and special awards and dancing, plus

AN EXCITING printed program was beautifully coordinated by Mrs. Donald L. Barr and she received many compliments including this one from Grant Hospital Administrator Donald Ayers.

GRANT HOSPITAL Women's Service Board President Mrs. Harold Daumler enjoyed the certificate she received for being among the top advertising sellers for the program book. Here she looks on with pride as her husband admires the certificate.

Lions Donate Dog

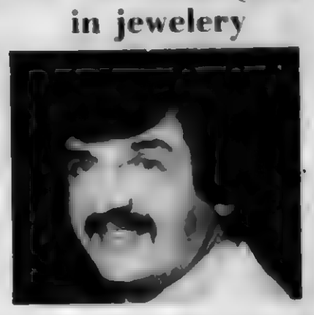
The Reynoldsburg Lions Club recently presented a Pilot Dog to Andy Falb of Akron.

Velvet, a labrador retriever, is Falb's second dog. Wayne Mathys, Director of training at Pilot Dogs inc., accompanied Falb to the meeting.

This year the Reynoldsburg Lions have given $1815.00 (cost of Dog) to Pilot Dogs Inc., $200 to Ohio Eye Research and $200 to Care.

These are the three state projects of Lionism.

Jaycee Wives Plan Movie



"Haunted Palace" a movie starring Vincent Price, will be shown at 11 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. at the Centre Cinema Wednesday, December 27. Admission will be 75 cents.

This show is sponsored by the Reynoldsburg Jaycee Wives, and the profits will go to establish a Reynoldsburg Community Service Fund.

This will be a cash on hand fund to be used for the needs of the members of the community of Reynoldsburg.

This new venture by the Jaycee Wives Club needs support.

Explorers Have First Woman Advisor

Exploring, the young adult division of the Boy Scouts of America, registered the first female advisor in the Central Ohio Council nine county area at Mt. Carmel East Hospital's organizational meeting Saturday, Dec. 9th.

Mrs. John Krupko has a B.S. degree in Life Sciences and is working on her Masters in Zoology. Mrs. Krupko has taught Biology and Chemistry at Bishop Hartley School.

It was announced recently by the National Exploring Division that women could register in any capacity in Exploring. This was a natural result of having coed members for over a year.

Through surveys, the Exploring Division has the names and addresses of over 10,000 Columbus high school students and their first and second choice of 90 different careers.

Because 84 per cent of these students want and need more adult help in their career interest, Exploring is attempting to match them up with concerns, businesses and professions that have like talents.

These sponsors then furnish the place and professional leadership necessary for about two meetings a month exposing the Explorers to the facets of the concern.

Arrangements Set For Symphony Ball

The 10th annual Symphony Grand Ball, a highlight of the Columbus social season, will be Saturday, January 13 at the Sheraton.

John W. Kessler, 212 Park Drive, is serving as chairman and John G. McCoy, 230 Ashbourne Rd., is the honorary chairman.

Theme for the Ball is "The Beat of Columbus." The evening will begin at 6:30 p.m. with cocktails and hors d'oeuvres. Dinner will be served at 8 p.m. and a program of popular music will be presented by the Symphony, under the direction of Evan Whallon.

Bill Harrington and his orchestra from New York will be playing for dancing.

Area chairmen are John F. Wolfe, 112 Ashbourne Rd., business management; Marvin Glassman, 360 N. Columbia Ave., protocol; Mrs. Alice Bentley, 485 S. Parkview Ave., public relations; Mrs. Roy Wentz, Jr., 2237 Bryden Rd., invitation mailing and William Bennett, 422, Parkview Ave., liason conductors committee.

Others in the area serving on committees include, reservations and hostess committee, Mrs. Robert Lazarus, Jr., 2092 Park Hill Dr.; Mrs. William Ferguson, 2355 Commonwealth Park South; Mrs. John Wolfe, 112 Ashbourne; Mrs. Frederick Laird, 260 S. Parkview Ave. and Mrs. Miriam Schwartz.

Assisting Mrs. Wentz with invitation mailing are Mrs. William R. Davidson, 247 Preston Rd.; Mrs. Sidney Blatt, 330 Stanbery; Mrs. Paul Curtiss, 86 N. Cassady; Mrs. Robert Turton, 2186 E. Broad St.; Mrs. A.F. Miller, 385 N. Parkview Ave.; Mrs. Thomas Langevin, 805 Francis Ave. and Mrs. George Slater, 301 N. Columbia Ave.

Senior Citizens - 'Here's Action

A Birthday Party will be held at the 1100 East Broad Senior Citizens Recreation Center this Friday, Dec. 15th, at 2:30.

Honored will be members with birthdays in September, October, November and December. Special entertainment is planned along with prizes and refreshments.

All senior citizens who purchased tickets for the Brunch are reminded to attend Thursday, Dec. 14th, at 11 a.m.

A walking tour of the American Education Publications is scheduled for the Physical Fitness class on Tuesday, Dec. 19th at 1. This is the largest printing establishment for school papers in the world and the tour will include a step by step guide through designing and photography to the actual preparation for shipment. Since transportation will be provided by a CMACAO bus, members must sign up in advance.

Further information about the senior citizens program at 1100 East Broad may be obtained by calling 252-2832.

CLYDE LOOKS A little lonely in his small enclosure, but sometimes he comes over to look at people.

Clyde The Rhino Waits For Visitors

BY KATHY DEVANEY

time because they were doing everything but jumping over the bars.

The family had to jump back several times to avoid the waves of water.

They came to the zoo during the winter because there are no crowds. People can take their time and not feel pushed or rushed.

Clyde the rhino is also waiting quietly for visitors Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Clyde knows guides who work at the zoo. Mrs. Eleanor Ormerod, a member of the Docent Association, called him over for a chat.

They seemed to enjoy people watching as much as the people enjoyed ape watching.

On the other side of the zoo is the children's zoo where the animals are very tame and like to be petted. (This is the only area where animals should be touched. All others are wild and dangerous).

If the kids are lucky they'll see an otter swimming around in his clear cage. He doesn't show off for everyone.

The zoo's babies are also in this area. The children can see the newest additions to the zoo family.

Two baby leopards and three baby apes (in play suits and cribs) are behind the glass of the nursery.

To warm up after that area there's a tropically warm home of fish.

Some are so sensitive that if a light is turned on near them, some die. Others die if a person walks past their tank.

Most of the fish are sold in order to provide for new exhibits.

The staff builds the aquariums as well as preparing and distributing food and diagnosing and treating disease and parasites, according to A.M. Hegeclus, curator of the aquarium.

People are surprised to learn the aquariums are constructed of wood with a waterproof coating.

The aquarium has 13 display tanks which would have been financially prohibitive to buy.

There is a 15 year plan to replace the present zoo buildings. New construction includes the development of the 70 acres on the other side of SR 257.

A futuristic cage for the zoo's bald eagle is under construction. A pachyderm building is also planned.

It has its own water wells, water plant and tower, sewer lines and sewage treatment.

The diet kitchen is the distribution point for all animal food. All food used is good quality and is fit for human consumption.

The city of Columbus owns all lands and buildings. The Columbus Zoological Park Association (Society) operates the zoo for the city.

Operating funds come from the city and from gate, ride and consessions income.

The zoo strives for conservation, education and recreation, in that order, according to Judith Birky of the zoo office.

"From the time of Christ until 1800 one species of mammal became extinct every 55 years because of man.

"From 1800 until 1900 one mammalian species was eliminated every year and a half due to man.

"From 1900 until the present one species per year has died and the rate is increasing," according to Mrs. Birky.

Hunting and destructin of habitat by man are the main reasons for the loss of animals.

The emphasis is now on housing animals in natural habitat settings in groups or pairs so that mating will result.

The offspring can be used to supply other zoos as well as help to insure there are adequate numbers of each species so that it may survive, Mrs. Birky said.

The Association was organized in March, 1971. There is a 10 week training course, one day a week, conducted by Zoo Director James Savoy.

Docents are expected to put in 50 hours volunteer time a year, according to Mrs. Ormerod.

A new Docent (which means teacher or lecturer) class will begin in late February. Those interested may call Mrs. Lonnie Smith at 228-2205 or Mrs. Judy Birky at 457-1559.

A new volunteer organization is also being formed to help the zoo in non-teaching ways. For information call Sue Weid at 221-5008 or Mrs. Smith.

Memberships for 1973 went on sale Dec. 1. It entitles the family unlimited zoo attendance for the family, free parking and the zoo publication for $10.

In the spring and summer they are anxious to answer questions from the information both besides where the restrooms are and how to get out of the zoo.

WATCHING SEALS is fun but hazardous. On a cold day a person could be covered with ice after watching them splish, splash and swim.

COLUMBUS HAS perfect weather--ice, snow, sleet and freezing rain. Who could ask for anything more. Too bad its only five months till spring.

Parties, Film Planned At Mansion

Bexley Parks and Recreation Department will show the Disney feature, "101 Dalmatians" this Saturday afternoon on the third floor of the Jeffrey Mansion, starting at 12:30 p.m.

This is the third and final movie in December. Another series of three movies for children will be shown at the mansion on Januarv 6, 13 and 20.

For more information, call the department office, 258-5755.

A dance for Bexley High School students and their guests will be held at Jeffrey Mansion on Saturday, Dec. 23 from 8 to 11 p.m. featuring the music of "Stone Spirit".

Admission for this special dance will be $1 per person, and refreshments will be available.

Parents of all Bexley pre-school age youngsters are invited to bring the children to the Jeffrey Mansion on Wednesday morning, Dec. 20, at 10 o'clock for a visit with Santa.

Special entertainment has been planned, and there will be treats for the little ones.

The event is one sponsored for this age group by the Bexley Parks and Recreation Department and will be over by 11:30 a.m.

Hobby Shop Ready For Christmas

He who buys at the Golden Hobby Shop is thrice blessed.

He is blessed by those to whom he gives because he has taken time to select a truly personal gift.

He is blessed by the sensitive senior citizen who has lovingly handcrafted that gift. And he is blessed by the Spirit of Christmas Present because he has used so well the quality of Christmas Joy!

Let these blessings of Christmas be yours. Come to the Columbus Recreation Department's Golden Hobby Shop, 906 E. Broad Street, not only for your Christmas shopping but all year long. Enjoy yourself-the senior citizens of Columbus would like that.

Open Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Free parking available front and rear. If you have a question - call - 461-8329.

Students In Tour

The group toured the facility and made presentations of gifts and baked goods.

The purpose of the trip was to find out how an institution such as this is operated.

Student comment was that it was a moving experience and they felt fortunate to have their health, family and home.

Visit the Columbus Zoo this week.

Key Games Dot Loop Schedules

South-East, Ram-Cat Are Cage Headliners

KEY GAMES continue to dot the schedule in the area leagues with each week providing a new "big one" that could juggle the standings.

This week is no exception.

WHITEHALL'S surging Rams go to the Westerville Cat lair Friday to challenge the Cats of Terry Yoakum. The 3-0 Ohio Capital league and 6-0 overall Cats have plenty of spread-out firepower in their starting lineup to give fits to any team trying to defend against any one particular player.

Whitehall bounced back with a win over Mt. Vernon last week to come to a 2-1 loop and 4-1 overshot spot.

Ohio Capital conference co-leader Delaware (3-0 loop and 4-0 overall) travels to Westland while Worthington treks to Gahanna and winless Reynoldsburg goes to Mt. Vernon in other loop games.

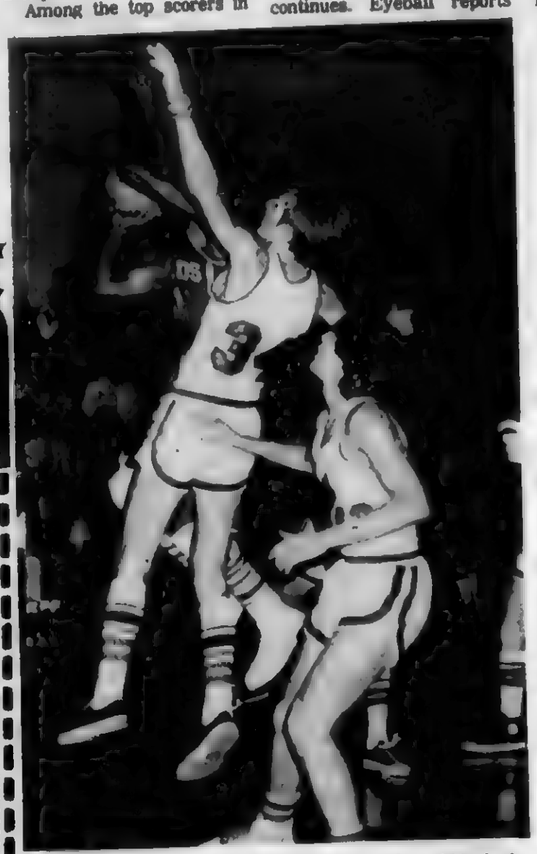
STRONG-powered Grove City (the Mid-8 leader) gives Worthington a shot at its record in a non-loop affair at Worthington Saturday.

League leading Grove City also holds fort Friday with visiting Grandview the foe in a Mid-8 clash.

Bishop Ready's State Class AA champs go after consecutive win No. 29 with a trip to DeSales while the clash between the W's (Watterson and Wehrle) at Watterson adds to the Central Catholic loop lustre.

THE Columbus city leagues will find the title-seekers active Friday. League undefeated South and East (at East) meet in one of the headliners and undefeated Linden McKinley clashes with Walnut Ridge at the Fairgrounds Coliseum in another highlighter.

EAST is on a 4-0 overall binge and has the balance that could mean it is heading a city title.



Among the top scorers in last weekend's games were Williams, South, 28; Peake, Marion-Franklin, 24; Askins, Delaware, 26; Jones, Gahanna, 28; Hammond, Central, 25; Cloud, Linden McKinley, 27; Fontanarosa, DeSales, 23 and Whitehead, Pickerington, 30.

THE NETWORK: Crowd behavior has been excellent at most basketball games this season. It is hoped that the good sportsmanship continues. Eyeball reports also indicate that the majority (as much as 70 percent) of the spectators are students.

Drifting off from the cage game for a moment and going to wrestling: there is a Central District Coaches clinic at Reynoldsburg Thursday, Dec. 14 starting at 7:30 p.m.

In another drifter the last Saturday 24-hour football marathon at Westerville had its usual bad weather but early reports indicate spectators appeared and contributed about $50 to the fund that will go toward buying Christmas presents for the children at the Methodist Home on North High Street. The marathon was sponsored by the Westerville Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Donations can still be made by sending a check or money order to Brad Corkwell, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, 2877 Youngs Drive, Columbus, Ohio 43229. The muddied players got off to a late start but played under the lights and finished at 9 a.m. last Sunday. Included in the players were some from area schools besides Westerville.

Our congratulations to all those players who placed on the All-Ohio football teams at various positions. It shows that Central Ohio football continued to be among the best in the state. One position that we feel should be clarified is the system of selecting teams for the playoff. Gahanna, Grove City and Dublin had to be among the best in the state this year yet couldn't get into the playoffs because of the sections they were in. We don't know what the answer is but we hope a solution is found before next season.

Cohagan, Susil Lead Bexley Loop

Susil and Cohagan are co-leaders with 3-0 records in the Bexley Men's Basketball League.

In last week's games Susil beat the Bearal, 71-57 with the Bears' Larry Metz leading with 28 markers.

Cohagan downed Ackley, 84-62 as Jeff Schmidt totaled 26 points for the winners.

The Old Times ran up a 78-49 win over the G and H Concessions with Mike Hill's 22 points the leader for the winners and in the fourth game Continnental downed the Redskins, 51-42 with John Rohyan topping in 17 points for the winners.

High School Basketball Schedule

TUESDAY, DEC. 19 - Franklin Heights at West (5:45 p.m.).

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 20 - East at Linden McKinley.

WEST'S COWBOYS got caught in the saddle too often against a strong Eastmoor team in the Columbus City League play and the Warriors won it going away, 80-65. The unidentified West player is getting checked by Eastmoor's No. 35, Rick Ohanian. No. 42 for West is Tim Thrush and No. 41 for Eastmoor is George Haenszel. Photo by Mike Stafford.

SPECTATOR NEWSPAPERS

THIS WEEK, and next at Lincoln Lodge, exists a real surprise package of entertainment. Their names are The Happy Company. The trio consists of three talented, and I do mean talented, fellows.

Dave Wood really wows the audience with his imitations of Elvis Presley, Johnny Cash, Johnny Mathis and many others, including a couple of girl artists. This boy you have to hear to believe his abilities. Besides being someone else, Dave does a nice job in the vocal department with his own voice. And, he is no slouch on the guitar either. Dave Wood is an all around entertainer.

Next on the list is Donnie Wilson. Donnie plays electric bass and sings. What a singer. He has a tone and style that will almost send chills up and down your back. This fellow is something else.

DRUMMER John Clark is also something else. He has a nice style, and is certainly a professional at the sticks and brushes. He doesn't beat the things to death. Donnie knows how to play them; to provide the most out of his set of drums and cymbals.

As a group, they are pretty tight. You are well entertained, yet, the group doesn't over-power your conversation. They are there if you want to listen, and not, if you don't.

Their music runs the whole gamut, from the oldies to the "new sounds" of today. Their vocal harmony will more than please you.

Throw in a few jokes, and you have an all-around trio.

Now, for the punch line, I think it is a very strong, solid group. Not bad, for three fellows who just got together a few hours before I heard them. This is a sign of true talent and showmanship. You will love them. Catch this trio, The Happy Company, this week or next at Lincoln Lodge, I think you will thank me.

WHILE I don't normally review events that have passed through the gates of our city, I feel that the Broadway Company of, "No, No, Nanette" needs a few words.

This particular company should have changed the name of the show to "No, No Entertainment". In all my years in life, I have never seen a more boring Broadway musical as was this production.

It had about as much spark as the Old Model T driving up the Grandview Hill. "No, No, Nanette," was as thrilling as a kid having his first appendectomy and almost as painful. Consequently, the Ohio Theatre house last Wednesday night was comparable to the attendance of synagogue on Sunday morning.

The industry has been complaining about low attendance. But, when you lay down $8.50 per seat for a main-floor seat, I feel the public deserves better than what was received from, "No, No, Nanette."

IT MAKES it very difficult for men like Danny Deeds to continue to try and bring this type of entertainment to Columbus. When the Ohio Theatre is only half full, the main loser is the promoter, in this case Deeds.

The show's book is good. There are good lines, that are laugh provoking. Music is solid. There are some great old time favorites, such as, "I want To Be Happy," and, "Tea For Two."

Don Ameche, Ann B. Davis and Evelyn Keyes kept the pieces held together. Without them, I'm afraid there would have been walkouts. But, as I said, the over-all production was terrible. Numbers were way too long, making too long of dull spots between the bright ones.

THINGS really picked up when the curtain fell and everyone rushed out to the cold invigorating air. I certainly hope that for the people of Columbus, and for Danny Deeds who tries to bring, good cultural events to our town, that 1973 brings much better quality of theatre. And, by the way, your support is needed. "No, No, Nanette," is a rare exception. I don't feel there are anymore like it on the schedule. Next, is Sada Thompson in, "Twigs." It will be a great one.

I stopped in at the Golden Putter the other evening. All I can say is that I had a nice experience. Located at 1600 Northwest Blvd., at King Ave., this is one of the nicest places you can go for a drink, lunch or dinner.

Owned and operated by Herman D'Ascanio, who is an ole pro in the business, the Golden Putter specializes in Pepper Steak, and good Italian food. Take it from me, the food is well worth the trip.

There is also an intimate bar, where you can set and have a darn good time. Everyone is a friend, as soon as you walk in the place.

HERMAN is assisted by his son, Arthur, who is the Chef. Food is served from 11 a.m. until 11 p.m. Drinks until the bewitching hour, 2:30 a.m.

What I like, is the warm, friendly atmosphere and decor. The Golden Putter seats about 100 people. The decor is rather contemporary, yet it has a touch of the old world.

You golfers will love the spot. When asked how it got its name, Herman said, "Every Golfer has a golden putter, which brings him lots of luck."

The Restaurant and lounge is designed to feature all of the famous golfers from Columbus. There are pictures of all of them. Golfers take note, if you want to improve your game, here is a good place to go, for Golf is the main topic.

Be it good food, a place to meet friends, a chance to improve your golf game, or just a plain old fashioned good time, the Golden Putter is made for you.

Throw away your clubs, and just enjoy some good food. It all happens at the Golden Putter Restaurant and Lounge, every night.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Opal Alexander has been appointed manager of the popular Diamond Jim's. Opal, a gal loaded with personality, was in charge of the daytime activities behind the bar. I understand she has some great things planned, one being a real Dutch Treat. More on that later. But, you don't want to miss it, that's for sure. Meanwhile get out there this week and catch their entertainment. What an excellent group. They are called De Ja Vu, four guys and two sexy, talented gals. Don't miss them... Make sure you head for the Vegas Clubsoon. Things are really happening there. I'll guarantee you a fun time. There is a band called Surprize, which is way out. Rock and Roll is their bag, and they burst it every night. Lots of sharp, good lookin' girls entertain there nightly, also. Then, Our Gal of The Month, Ronnie Reed, takes care of your thirst during the daytime. It all happens at the Vegas Club...For great dining, The Dobb's House has to be one of my favorites. Their food is delicious. You will not find any better anywhere. Service is excellent and the atmosphere is the greatest. You will enjoy taking your favorite gal there, Dobb's House At The Airport is a fine family dining place, too. They have a children's menu, and the kiddies love to watch the planes come and go. All of your favorite cocktails are also served...The fabulous Mike Kamen's Trio still holds forth to pack crowds at the lovely Marco Polo's Lounge. However, it is not a fabulous trio anymore, it is now a super-fabulous quartet, with the addition of Wayne DeMarcus. Marco Polo's is really a good time place with always lots of action. The music is tops, and the place is always loaded with plenty of fun type people...The Apple Tree is coming on like gangbusters. Food is excellent, entertainment is the same. Scratch Pestano has some big, interesting plans for entertainment come the first of the year. Right now, I'm sure you will enjoy what's going on. The atmosphere is quiet, and very friendly. You can have a good time at the Apple Tree...With Christmas fast approaching, make sure you take the kiddies to the Holiday Inn-Reynoldsburg, to get their message from Santa Claus. Make sure they register for a free eight foot Christmas Stocking. While there, you might want to have a bite to eat. The food is fine. You can order a complete dinner or just a sandwich. Then for the Moms and Dads, The Dave Hopkins Trio provide the smoothest, prettiest music Around Town, Thursday through Saturday. What a smooth trio. Dave plays trumpet as if he were one of the name trumpet players of our time. The group is not loud. Their music is made for dancing, or just easy listening.

Frostbite Signs Say: 'It May Not Be Love'

IF YOU feel a tiny tingle this winter, you may be in love.

Then again, you may have frostbite.

That little throb in your icy nose or chilly toes is actually Nature's way of telling you to warm up. If you ignore this warning, you could develop an extremely painful, if not acute, case of frostbite, cautions Aetna Life & Casualty.

FROSTBITE is no less than a freezing of body tissue. Prolonged exposure after the initial tingling brings numbness and eventually total paralysis to the affected tissue. If left untreated, serious frostbite can result in the loss of your favorite toes, ears, nose and fingers (in about that order).

The chance that you'll develop a case that severe may seem remote as being snowbound in the Youkon. Still, if you spend a lot of time outdoors during cold weather--while skiing, hunting or working, for example--frostbite is a real possibility.

IF YOU experience any of the symptoms of frostbite, take this advice from Aetna:

Seek medical attention at once. Treatment can vary depending upon conditions that may be apparent only to a physician.

IF NO medical aid is immediately available, allow affected areas to thaw gradually. Do not massage with snow. This age-old folk cure is extremely dangerous.

Similarly, do not apply extreme heat, either before of after thawing takes place.

A PARTING WORD: This winter, try not to spend long hours in the cold. Stay inside, Stay in love. And stay warm.

SANTA CLAUS came to Reynoldsburg last week and plans to stay awhile at the Holiday Inn East at I-70 and Rt. 256. He'll be greeting young and old from 5 to 9 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, Dec. 14-16 and 21-23 in the lobby of the Holiday Inn. One of the beautiful gifts he'll be giving someone is an eight foot giant filled stocking. Young ones can register for the prize at the Inn. Showing off the stocking and some of Santa's goodies are Fran Lockhart (holding the stocking) and Kayla Sayre (occupying Santa's lap. (Spectator photo by Ray Adams.)

Santa Arrives At Holiday Inn

Since the weather did not cooperate, Santa Claus recently arrived at the Reynoldsburg Holiday Inn in a modern contemporary way by motorcade with a police escort. (Riding through a cloud of dust with a hearty Ho Ho Ho, Santa Claus rides again!

In his traditional holiday manner, Santa greeted the awed and excited children and listened intently to their requests for Christmas gifts before presenting each one with a box of candy and a balloon.

A brass choir of 13 Reynoldsburg High School students performed in the gayly decorated lobby of the Inn for the children and their parents. Their program consisted of many of the popular Christmas season songs such as "Winter Wonderland", "Silver Bells", and "Joy To The World". Keeping the music moving at a lively pace, the band played the favorite selections of "Here Comes Santa Claus", "Jingle Bells", and "Rudolph" which attracted the visitors that strolled in to see Santa and listen to the music.

So pleased was the Holiday Inn with the band's performance, that they invited them to return at a later date, treated the students and their director Daniel Nawrocki to a lunch, and presented them with a donation to the band fund.

Energy Is Topic

"In what ways can we conserve our energy resources?" will be the topic on Columbus Town Meeting Sunday, December 10, from Noon to 1 p.m.

An audio tape of the program will be rebroadcast Sunday evening from 10 to 11 p.m. over WBNS-AM Radio and again the following Saturday morning from 7 to 8 a.m over WBNS-FM Radio.

John Gray will moderate.

Guest speakers will be: David E. Young, VicePresident, Columbia Gas of Ohio and Ohio Valley Gas Company; M. E. Carruthers, Director of Process and Special Metals Research, Armco Steel Corporation, Middletown, Ohio; Richard J. Anderson, Director of Research Promotion, Battelle Memorial Institute; Dr. Richard A. Tybout, Professor of Economics, OSU and Chairman of Central Ohio Sierra Club and Representative from the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company.

Blood Donors Needed During Holiday Times

The Red Cross needs an adequate blood supply during December.

While fewer elective surgeries are scheduled, blood needs continue with increased traffic accidents, family fires, seasonal illnesses, emergency surgeries and "routine" blood requirements.

Adding to this strain on the blood supply, fewer collection days because of the Christmas and New Year's holidays have in the past limited the Red Cross. The loss of these days for collection will be partially overcome, with the Red Cross Blood Center open Saturday, December 23, and Saturday, December 30, and extended weekday hours.

For the two holiday weeks, December 17 through 23, and December 24 through 31, the Red Cross Blood Center, 995 East Broad St., will be open Wednesday, December 20 and 27, from 1 to 8 p.m; other weekdays, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Saturday, December 23 and 30 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Vision Center

The Vision Center, 1393 N. High St., Columbus, reminds you when dining with a blind person, be sure to read the menu and prices to him and tell him the position of the food on his plate.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

"The House Of Blue Leaves" by John Guare, at Players Club, 548 Franklin Ave. through December 16, is billed as a tragi-comedy.

Frankly, I saw very little in it I could term "funny". It was too real to me. Oh, there are exceptions, like the three hilarious nuns played by Linda Lee Buck, K thryn Rhode and Lori Gottemoeller - do unlike the stero-type naun and yet in formal old fashioned black and white garb, much resembling a trio of penguins. And there was Pat Santelli as Corrinna Stroller, a starlet with a hearing problem. But then even her side splitting bit, when she lost her hearing aid and was giving inane answers to stupid questions was spoiled by the fact, she, along with two of the nuns, was killed on an elevator by a bomb meant for the Pope.

Now to go to the beginning. This is the story of the day the Pope came to New York to talk to the United Nations in an attempt to stop the war. It takes place in the apartment of a middle aged couple, a very immature song writer who insists on singing and playing his own material and is having a serious affair with his neighbor and his wife, Bananas, who has a mental problem (probably caused by living with a conceited, unfaithful, untalented failure for twenty-three years).

Cole Jackson plays the man (?), Artie Shaughnessy, with all the uncouth brashness needed for this character. Lil Strouss handles the transitions from sanity to madness with seeming ease - and there are times when you feel the madness is quite sane, indeed, in comparison to the crazy broad with whom Artie is now involved, Bunny Flingus.

At first I thought Virginia McIlwain was a terrible actress. I could not stand her voice, her gestures or her pattern of speech. After I got home, I began thinking about it and realized this was perfect for the character.

Any woman who can stand in the home of another woman and tell her she must give up her husband and fly to Mexico for a quick divorce because she is in love with the husband has got to be the most vile, irritating person alive. Therefore I throw roses to director Jerry Ness for making me dislike this female.

By the way, although Bunny succeded in persuading Artie to have Bananas committed, she didn't stick with him. She ran off with his best friend, the famous movie producer, Billy Einhorn, very nicely protrayed by Dan Pae. The ending is a surprise.

Players Club has the best facilities in the city, and the director, actors and crew do justice to their plant by putting on a most professional play.

I highly recommend it. Perhaps you won't find the plot as realistic as I di, and will get a big laugh out of it.

Rounding Up The Rams

By Suzann Klayko

The Cooperative Office Education or C.O.E. sponsored a Flea Market Saturday, December 9th. Space was rented out at $4 if you had your own table, or $5 if you did not have a table. The individual set his own prices and kept all the money he made. There was all kinds of articles sold.

The Voice of Democracy Contest will be sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The contest theme this year is "My Responsibility to Freedom." The contest is open to any high school student. Each student writes a speech then tapes it. It should be three to five minutes long. The speech will be graded on content, originality, and the delivery of it.

The winner of the district, which includes Eastmore and Bishop Hartley High Schools, get a $75 bond. The state winner gets $500 bond and a free trip to Washington D.C. The contest ends today.

The Student Council canvassed the Whitehall area for usable clothing. They plan to start a drive to clean up the school. They are painting barrels for trash now.

Eastmoor Assembly Honors Students

A number of Eastmoor High School students were honored at a high school assembly recently.

Ted Brown and Martin Brundage were named the National Merit Scholarship Semi-Finalists. Michael Montgomery was named the National Achievement Scholarship Program recipient.

Nine students received the National Merit Scholarship Letters of Commendation. They were: Julian Chasin, Charles Emerman, Janet Forchheimer, Michael Globe, Steven Gordon, Gregg Marx, Lorri Mathless, Denise Miller and Jeffrey Supowit.

Commended students in the National Achievement Scholarship program were Pamela Moore and Michael Eads.

Sheila Walls, Julie Tyrpak, Brenda Sue Banta, Joel Alexander, Greg Marx, Kathleen Schumacher, Crystal Kiefer, Marc Bandman, Mary Copeland, Julie Weyl, Darline Arnette, Karen Miller, James Eads, Pamela Moore.

James Bauchmoyer, Theodore Bloom, Leslie Wasserstrom, Craig Cohen, Jimmy Yee, Margaret Noteman, George Haenszel, Karen Ford, Bruce Friedman.

ACLU Director Guest Speaker

Benson A. Wolman, Executive Director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio (ACLU) since 1969, will be the guest speaker for the Tifereth Israel Men's Club Prayer Breakfast in the congregation's social hall Sunday morning, Dec. 17.

Wolman has entitled his remarks, "The Folly of Obscenity Laws: What You Always Wanted To Know about Smut But Were Afraid to Ask!" But Wolman rates the subject matter GP!

In his capacity as ACLU executive--and before that as the ACLU's legislative agent at the Statehouse--Wolman has become well-known throughout Ohio as an advocate of individual rights. He is in charge of the statewide activities of both the ACLU of Ohio, Inc., and its associated litigative arm, the ACLU of Ohio Foundation, Inc.

He heads the ACLU's state headquarters in Columbus which has a combined staff of seven, including a Staff Counsel.

The group also maintains full-time satellite offices in Cincinnati and Cleveland for its 5,500 Ohio members.

Wolman, included in the current edition of Outstanding Young Men of America, resides at 3107 Midgard Road in Columbus. He is married to the former Jerilyn Lazear (of Columbus) and has an eleven-year-old son, Robert.

Reservations for the Dec. 17 prayer breakfast as well as free baby sitting reservations may be made by calling [illegible] 7021.

Men's Club Prayer Breakfasts are also open to guests in the general community with telephone reservations suggested.

K Of C Plan Christmas Party

CHRISTMAS will come a little early this year for some 500 mentally handicapped children.

The youngsters, students in special Community Classes for the trainably mentally retarded, will celebrate Christmas Wednesday, December 20, at parties sponsored by two Councils of the Knights of Columbus.

Members of the Father Hohman Council 5352 of the Knights of Columbus of Reynoldsburg will be hosts to more than 300 students from classes which meet at Holy Name and Alum Crest Schools.

THE PARTY will be held at Valley Dale Ballroom, 1590 Sunbury Rd., from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. and will include a festive lunch, entertainment, and Santa's presentation of gifts to each child.

Entertainment will be provided by Ronald MacDonald, of hamburger fame; Ron Steelman and Leslie Podkin, stars of WBNS-TV's "Friendly Junction;" and Ray Beebe and his monkey Chris.

JUNIOR Girl Scout Troop 627 and Cadet Scout Troop 61 helped the auxiliary make gifts for the children.

Hosting a party for the 110 students at First Avenue School will be the members of the Assumption Council 3727.

The event will be held at the Council Hall, 4611 Glenmawr Ave., from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., and will include movies, singing, lunch, a visit from Santa and a magic show.

Frank Contos, 1134 E. Cooke Road, is general party chairman. Assisting him are: The Rev. John T. Dittoe, pastor, St. Patrick's parish; Mrs. John W. Noble, 1429 Fowler Dr.; Mrs. Anthony Panico, 6196 Parkdale Dr.; and Mr. Dexter N. Blais, 349 Madison.

CONTRIBUTING gifts and support to the party effort are: Westgate Furniture Co.; Pepsi Cola Co.; Schottensteins North; Columbia Gas Co.; Sears, Northland; Columbus Air Conditioning Corp.; Ohio Steak and Bar-B-Que Co.; Tastee Bread Co.; DiSantis Florists; The Hill Co.; and Tom Enright, Clerk of Courts.

About People

EDWARD J. CRUTTENDEN of 925 Mayfield Pl., in Bexley, has been named director of evaluation for the Ohio Regional Medical Program, according to Coordinator Wallace B. Dorain, MD. The appointment became effective Nov. 20.

He will direct the planning and implementation of evaluation mechanisms for the overall program and individual health-improvement projects.

MISS DEBBIE AIKEN daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Robert Aiken, 5636 Knollwood, has been honored with a scholarship award to attend Nationwide Beauty Academy in Columbus.

Miss Aiken was selected on the recommendation of her high school counselor, Nationwide Awards Committee and her sincere interest in the cosmetology profession.

Sharing The Joys Of Christmas

THE BROWNIES IN TROOP 487 decided to share their Christmas spirit this year with an elderly couple on the east side. The sixteen troop members and their leaders had their Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fornof of 3428 Roswell last week. The girls brought along the Christmas tree and decorations and lots of cookies. They sang songs, opened presents and enjoyed sharing the excitment of the holidays.

Gasoline Tax Funds Distributed

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said this week a total of $8,763,215 in gasoline excise tax revenues were distributed in December to Ohio's 88 counties, 1,320 townships and 936 municipalities.

The bulk of the distribution totaling $4,539,215, went to the municipalities on the basis of $1 per motor vehicle registered within their boundaries. Each township received $1,200 for a total of $1,584,000, while each county received $30,000 for a total of $2,640,000.

Ferguson said the distributions from the 7 cents per gallon gasoline tax must be used for street and roadway purposes only.

Distributions to the Spectator area governmental bodies were:

Job Prospects Explored At Career Conference

More than 500 college students and college-trained servicemen are expected to explore current and future job prospects in the Franklin County area at the seventh annual Columbus Careers Conference next week, according to Charles "Chuck" Johnson of 2899 Keystone Dr., co-chairman of the student contact committee.

Johnson said personnel representatives of 42 leading employers in Metropolitan Columbus will interview the career-minded registrants at the Conference

REGISTRATION WILL be held from noon until 5 p.m. Wednesday. Personal interviews will be given from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 28, and from 9 until noon on Friday, Dec. 29.

College juniors and seniors from the Metropolitan Columbus area, attending four-year accredited schools here or elsewhere, are invited to the Conference so long as they expect to graduate by Jan. 31, 1974. College graduates in military service also are invited if they are scheduled for discharge by the same date.

No fee is charged students or military personnel, and there is no other obligation for their participation. The Conference is held as a public service by the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce.

EASTERN KIWANIS Club members will handle registrations and perform other essential duties at the Conference. They'll be assisted by the Sigma Kappa Phi Fraternity at Franklin University and Ohio Dominican College's Circle K Kiwanis Club.

John Corven, conference chairman, said the three-day event "serves to aquaint students with the kinds of career opportunities available in our community. Students can make important contacts with many leading employers in a relatively short time and at a convenient time – during their Christmas vacation.

Corven said that the Careers Conference "is an ideal arrangement for employers because it's the quickest, most economical way for them to recruit college students from the Columbus area."

HE ADDED THAT "The general community also benefits because the Conference helps encourage college graduates to pursue careers in their hometown. This is important because college-trained people are a valuable resource for the community."

Interviews will be given in a wide range of fields, including research, banking, retailing, engineering, data processing, electronics, government, insurance, psychology, personnel, and others. Students can sign up for as many interviews as they have time for.

The following firms will offer personal interviews:

AETNA LIFE & Casualty, Arthur Andersen & Co., Ashland Chemical, Automotive Parts Co., Big Drum Inc., Borden Inc., Buckeye Steel Castings, Chemical Abstracts Service, Citizens Financial Corp., City National Bank, Compu-Serv Network Inc., Copco Papers;

Defense Construction Supply Center, Deffet Companies, Dun & Bradstreet, Ernst & Ernst, Huntington National Bank, Industrial Nucleonics, Jeffrey Manufacturing Jeffrey Mining Machinery Co., Kal Kan Foods, Inc., The Kroger Company, Lazarus, McDonald's System of Ohio;

MASSACHUSETTS LIFE Insurance, Metropolitan Life Insurance, National Electric Coil-Division McGraw-Edison Co., Nationwide Insurance, North American Rockwell Corp., Northwestern Mutual Life, Ohio Bell Telephone, Ohio Department of State Personnel;

Ohio National Bank, Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., Price Waterhouse & Co., Ross Laboratories, Sears Roebuck & Co., Tempo-Buckeye Division Gamble-Skogmo Inc., The Travelers Insurance, Warren-Teed Pharmaceuticals, Western Electric, Westinghouse Electric Corp., and Xerox Corporation.

The annual Columbus Careers Conference – this will be the seventh – is sponsored by the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce. Participation in past conferences has ranged from 250 the first year to a record 640 last year.

You're Telling Us

The Spectator Newspapers welcome letters from readers, expressing their views on subjects of interest to them -- whether initiated by news stories or editorial expression in this newspaper or not. Because of space limitations, we prefer letters which do not exceed 300 words. All letters submitted for publication must be signed with the writer's name and address, although -- upon request -- the name of the writer can be withheld. Letters should be marked: "To the Editor, Spectator Newspapers, 3121 South Boulevard, Columbus, Ohio 43204" and must be received by Friday noon prior to publication date for possible publication in that week's edition.

Editors Assisted At Walnut Ridge

To the Editor:

Let us take this opportunity to thank two members of your staff, Ray Adams and Lynn Williams, for giving of their time and talent in speaking to our students on Career Day, Dec. 7.

Many students have interests in careers but vague notions about the realities of specific occupations. The information you provided was helpful to them in clarifying their ideas.

We sincerely hope that you enjoyed coming to Walnut Ridge and if you have any comments to feed back to us, it would be appreciated.

Again, thank you for helping us in our endeavor, also thanks for the news coverage.

Sincerely,
Thomas F. Schluch

Paugh's Batting Average Questioned

To the Editor:

If you are keeping score on Richard Paugh, writer of the Spectator column "Whose Garden Is This?" I can help reduce the batting average you gave him on December 6 in answer to a letter from Mr. Robert Levitt. Who is going to believe that lack of complaints on 103 out of 104 columns is any true measure of success, as your reply indicated? Editors just don't hear from those who know the situation, even regarding Mr. Paugh..

There are others like Mr. Levitt who would measure Paugh's so-called success in other terms. Paugh's reputation around the Statehouse is that he is an antagonist and a cynic. He claims to represent several different organizations, depending on the issue of the moment. He makes a lot of assumptions which go unchallenged by many legislators as well as most newspaper readers.

Especially obnoxious was Paugh's October 25 column commenting on the report given by executives of General Motors as to the extent of auto emission reductions in Franklin County. I attended that report meeting and heard the same facts Paugh heard. His gross skepticism was evident in the barbed question he posed at the meeting and in the self-serving column he wrote. Your "well-versed" columnist too often lets his obvious biases take over.

Other recent "Garden" columns also should have been challenged, but then most of us find too little time to even read worthwhile material much less beat down every distortion.

Sincerely,
Donald W. VanTuyl

. . . And Family

...And family.

That's what I like the most about Christmas.

The thought came to me again this week when our Hilltop-West Village Editor Kathy Devaney glowed all over when she received a card personally addressed to her.

Kathy had remarked how she had almost answered "And .. Family" to someone who asked her her name long ago. That was the only name on the address of a Christmas card except that of her parents and, I suppose, I used to feel the same way.

But...isn't it great to be a part of a family that will be sharing togetherness that, hopefully, will make family ties more meaningful the year round.

I COME from a large family. Mother and Dad have passed away - as has my second father whom I knew more personally since my own Dad died when I was three.

There are four brothers and four sisters each older although the women never want to admit it and claim now that I am no longer the 'baby' in the family, a claim to which I am the rightful heir.

WE'RE all in reasonably good health but the one great thing that we have going for each other is just that - EACH OTHER - and isn't that what "And Family" is really all about?

There aren't as many entire family get-togethers as there used to be since the four corners of the country have enveloped the family tree. When we do get together its a party within a party. That's happening December 29 and the family circle will again come to life with all its meaning.

...AND FAMILY ...gee, I'm glad I'm not a loner, but you who are, why not find a friend?

Lynn Williams

Peace? On Earth?

Our executive editor, Ray Adams asked each of us to write a column for this Christmas issue of the paper.

I thought about it, but I couldn't get very cheerful because I don't believe I'm going to get what I want for Christmas this year.

I wanted for the war to end and for the fighting men and the prisoners to be reunited with their families.

In October Henry Kissinger said "Peace is at hand." Families of men in Vietnam and families of prisoners of war must have heard this news with excitment and hope. For the first time in years they thought they might be seeing the light at the end of the tunnel and real hope spread across the country.

But now, just one and a half months later, we hear that peace is not at hand and the hope and the gladness die.

Once again we will spend a Christmas without peace on earth, goodwill toward men.

Kathy Devaney

In The Spirit

LONG AGO and far away the spirit of Christmas used to come easily, and weeks before the big day.

Santa Claus. Surprises. Finding just the right gift for very special people.

Lately the feeling has come harder and nearer to Christmas, usually Christmas Eve with the visit of family and friends.

THIS YEAR the spirit of love that is Christmas came early again because of the goodwill and actions of others.

Santa was brought to children who might never have seen him by the West Side Kiwanis men who probably remember how the children feel.

THE CHILDREN were so excited they ran for blocks in the cold air and bright sunshine to catch a glimpse of Santa on his train float and to be given a bag of candy by clowns who were helping.

Even parents were excited to see the caravan which included a truck load of carolers.

The children weren't pushing or grabbing or displaying other signs of selfishness. They were filled with joy and excitement.

Thursday I learned there are a lot of people with big hearts.

THE STUDENTS of Westland High School, along with other members of the community, have adopted children in Franklin Village.

They bought each of the children what they wanted more than anything.

The children searched catalogues and commercials for a week. Every effort is made by the staff to make their wishes come true.

THEY MAY not be able to spell their names but they know the joy of creating beauty.

There is such pride in their accomplishments that not one display has been disturbed.

A friend asked me to bake cookies for a party on the east side for children in need.

SUNDAY in the bitter cold the children of Columbia Heights church created the first Christmas to bring to mind the real joy and significance of Christmas.

Maureen Decker

All That Glitters

The first time he saw the Christmas tree, his eyes grew large, and he backed away in awe of its gigantic splendor. The tiny colored lights twinkled and the shiny ornaments reflected the wonder in his face.

THE TREE was covered from top to bottom with tinsel and popcorn strung one late night just to surprise him.

He approached the tree cautiously, stretching out one small hand to see if it was really real, not some fairy vision that would melt in his hand.

Suddenly he saw the angel on top of the tree, smiling down at him, a smile of peace and serenity, a symbol of the joy of Christmas.

SO CAUGHT in the spell of the tree was he, that he didn't hear me call him to breakfast. Gingerly, he reached for a shiny ball, and seeing his reflection in it, drew back from the distorted illusion, the big nose. His suddenly tiny forehead frightened him a bit.

But as he drew back, the splendor of the tree again engulfed him, and he turned to me and pointed to it. "Pretty," he said.

RELUCTANTLY he followed me into the kitchen to his now cold breakfast, back into the everyday world of wet diapers and soggy cereal, but once again, he gave a backward glance to see if it was still there, his beautiful, beautiful first Christmas tree.

Christmas Time

C- is for Christ who is our Lord,
H- is for help that Jesus gives us,
R- is for red that goes with green,
I- is for ice that Santa slides on,
S- is for silent that the night will be,
T- is for tree that we decorate,
M- is for Mary the mother of Jesus,
A- is for angels that look over us,
S- is for snow that falls on Christmas night,
T- is for twinkle that little stars do,
I- is for icicle that hangs from the house,
M- is for Merry that Christmas will be,
E- is for everyone who is wished a Merry Christmas.

This is an original poem that is being submitted by Mrs. Margaret Hyatt's Special Class, West Franklin Elementary, Southwestern City School District

Christmas In My City

By Carol J. Kehlmeier

SANTA came to town on a red and green float with silver reindeer the first Sunday of December. Preceded by high school marching bands and big rubber balloons of Mickey Mouse and Pluto, he came in all the lavish and splender of a fairyland king. Drum majorettes in high boots and short skirts twirled their glittering batons. Beauty queens and football teams rode in yellow convertables with the tops down. Christmas was coming to my city!

Santa would sit in the big department store downtown and listen to every child's wants. Mothers would whisper to their little ones, "Now, don't ask for too much there are many children for Santa to visit."

MANY TRIPS were made downtown for Christmas shopping. The trolley wheels seemed to sing, "Santa Claus is coming to Town!" over and over.

As the trolley crossed the Scioto it was obvious the river was asleep under a crust of ice. Low hanging clouds coughed snowflakes to the earth, making Christmas more exciting.

The sweet scent of pine filled the city streets along with spicey aromas. Red and green lights shone on the thoroughfares and holley wreathes with bright red ribbons caught snowflakes in their branches. Colorfully decorated evergreens were everywhere.

MECHANICAL Santas were in every shop window surrounded by little mechanical elves. Bride dolls, shiny red wagons and electric trains begged to be wanted.

People laughed and shouted greetings. The elevator operator, the trolley conductor and the smiling policeman at the corner of Broad and High Streets all shouted "Merry Christmas!"

THE WONDERFUL story of that starlit night in Bethlehem was told over and over. Tiny nativity sets were in windows and every home displayed some memory of the Christ Child's birth.

The week before Christmas school and church programs were held to honor the Christ Child. Carols were sung, pieces said and big juicy oranges given to every child. Christmas was joy in my city!

SNOW covered my city like thick rich cream. Carolers sang the story of the Christ Child. Old folks blinked back tears of happiness and memories while youngsters squirmed with excitement.

Baskets of food were gathered for the needy. The firemen repaired old toys and made them look like new for the poor kids. The traditional shoe fund was collected in the schools. "No child will miss school because he has no shoes," the teacher assured the children.

CHRISTMAS EVE candles glowed in every sanctuary and carols filled every avenue. The star filled night glowed in a blanket of snow. Cookies were set out for Santa and carrots for the reindeer. Children tossed and turned, snug in their beds, listening for Santa's sleighbells. "Happy birthday, Jesus," they whispered before drifting off in slumber.

CHRISTMAS in my city was joy and laughter, love and chairty and faith and hope. Christmas in my city was people loving people in true brotherhood. Christmas in my city was CHRIST!

Taxpayers Will Continue Issues

To the Editor:

In the recent December meeting of Worthington Taxpayers Committee, reports were made on the results of the recent election in regard to City Income Tax Issue. Even though repeal of the Tax was not carried by a sufficient majority, the Committee felt much good was accomplished by giving the public the right to vote on their taxes.

Members of The Worthington Taxpayers Committee believe that there are issues of concern to Worthington taxpayers and therefore they have planned to meet on a formal basis and study the uses of our tax dollars.

Very truly,
George R. Silcott
Chairman
Worthington, Taxpayers Committee

African Coverage Appreciated

To the Editor:

We all sincerely appreciated the excellent article in your newspaper about our African assembly.

The reporter stayed for the entire program and wrote a very accurate and interesting article.

Sincerely,
Merrill Stevens, principal
West Mound Elementary School

Worthington Editor Helped Out

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Worthington High School Student Council I would like to thank your Worthington Editor, Mrs. Maureen Decker, for acting as one of the judges for Cardinal Queen at the Christmas dance. She really helped to make the evening a success.

Sincerely,
Audrey Bullar

Worthington Jaycees Were Helped

To the Editor:

Just a brief note to let you know that I certainly appreciated your Worthington editor's cooperation and assistance to the Worthington Jaycees in our recent "Boots For Kids" project. You will be interested to know that the project was an unqualified success.

It is pleasing to know that the Jaycees have a friend like yourself in the local news media.

Santa Still Needs Help

Sometimes overlooked in the application of the "Christmas Spirit" are the patients from our County at Columbus State Hospital. Recent data indicates there are 918 such patients from Franklin County there at this time.

A way to help make Christmas more enjoyable for these people has been worked out. Mrs. A.J. Spratling, 385 North 18th St., Columbus is serving as this County's Christmas Representative of the Volunteer Service Council at Columbus State Hospital.

If you wish to express your Christmas Spirit, in a tangible way, for the enjoyment of these patients from our County, you can still do so by contacting her at 253-4458. Your gift will be taken to the Hospital where it will be wrapped and presented to a patient from your county at Christmas time in your name.

Your County Christmas Representative has a list of suggested gifts for both men and women that are most welcome and useful.

Wishing you every happiness at Christmas and in the New Year

New Playwright Emerges

OAKMONT ELEMENTARY SCHOOL may have a budding new playwright. Scott Jorgensen, 9, of 1851 Bairsford recently had his play selected to be performed by his fourth grade class. Scott, seated, goes over the script, about a man who doesn't like Christmas, with cast members, Lisa Penke, Mark Critelli, Danny Redman and Doug Turle. Scott also directed the play which was performed for parents earlier this week. Scott may just be carrying the Spectator Newspaper now, but perhaps writing is in his future.

Senior Citizens - 'Here's Action

1100 EAST BROAD

Plenty of choice entertainment is planned - a special "Twas the Night Before Christmas" skit by the notorious Broad Street Players will be performed plus a musical medley of three inter-national Christmas carols by 1100's Melody makers.

Delicious homemade cookies contributed by all our members will be served and Santa Claus will make a special guest appearance.

1100's "Mistletoe Ball' is Wednesday, Dec. 27th, from 7 to 9:30. The Goldenaires Band from McDowell Center will play music for dancing. Special refreshments are planned and semi-formal dress is recommended.

Area senior citizens are invited to bring their grandchildren to a party at the Center on December 29th at 2:30. Cartoons will be shown and popcorn, pop, ice cream cones and fruit cake will be served.

The 1100 E. Broad Center will be closed Dec. 25th and January 1st but regular hours will be followed throughout the rest of the holiday season.

Additional information about recreation activities is available by calling 252-2832.

Gay Nineties Cosmetics Were Intriguing

NINETEENTH century Ohio women may have had an easier time beautifying themselves for the holiday festivities. At least they didn't have to consider warnings such as those issued recently on the dangers of certain ingredients in cosmetics.

Though earlier women could not rely on such protective actions as the Food and Drug Administration proposals of last summer, to remove mercury, Red No. 2 dye, and hexachlorophene from cosmetics, they did compound their own beauty preparations from numerous recipes found in popular magazines and medical books.

AT LEAST by mixing her own, the nineteenth century Ohioan was at an advantage to today's purchaser, who usually has no idea what ingredients are in her cosmetics and which ones may cause skin eruptions, loss of fingernails or hair, or inflammation of lips. Thousands of such complaints have prompted considerable comment this year by Virginia Knauer, the President's special assistant for consumer affairs, and members of Congress and have led to voluntary listing of cosmetic ingredients with the FDA.

Perhaps the complaints have given rise too to the crop of organic cosmetic recipes in current teen magazines, which employ such exotica as zucchini, avocado, blueberries, and papaya juice in homemade beauty preparations that somewhat resemble what great-grandma concocted.

CONTEMPORARY commercial creams containing the controversial mercury, which have been used for years to remove freckles and brown spots, had their earlier counterparts in alkaline and sulphur baths, which were recommended in 1868 as certain cures for removing skin discolorations. After the bath an ointment of one drachm (dram) of tannin, one ounce of tallow, and eithteen grams of tincture of canella (cinnamon) was applied at night to the spots. Or one might have resorted to virginal milk made of one dram of tincture of benzoin and one pint of rosewater.

If the 1868 Ohioan was wrinkled rather than spotted she was advised to make a lotion of essence of turpentine, gum mastic, and fresh butter, However, Harper's Bazaar a century ago admonished that the real answer to wrinkles was preventative – "good living is unfavorable to wrinkles." Avoidance of depressing emotions, frivolous diet, and too much work was their counsel.

Long hair could be kept soft and supple for the elaborate coiffeurs of 1869 by applying "a pomatum made of one ounce of ox marrow and 2½ drachms of oil of bitter almonds." Harper's Bazar, January 16, 1869

KEEPING the skin fresh and soft could be achieved by applying at bedtime a thick paste made of three ounces of ground barley, one ounce of honey, and the white of one egg, according to an article on "Beauty as an Art, How to Get It and Keep It," which prescribed treatment for individual parts of the face, as "teeth, ears, nowe, cheeks, eyebrows, eyes, hair &c."

The latest fad of 1872 was to color the nails and palms of the hands "a delicate vermillion color, which is a pretty contrast to the delicate white of the outside," a newspaper noted.

HAIR problems were common in 1885 when the Family Medical Scrap Book rexommended that the head be anointed with a mixture of "four ounces of castor oil, eight ounces good Jamaica rum, thirty drops oil of lavender, or ten drops oil of rose" to promote hair growth. Loss of eyebrows could be prevented by applying an ointment of vaseline, castor oil, gallic acid (from tree galls), and oil of lavender twice daily, noted the Physical atlas of 1903.

Dr. T. H. Burgess in Godey's Lady's Book in 1877 advised against using the then common hair dyes – oil of cade (juniper), lye of vine branches, raven's eggs, and putrified swallows. He preferred a dye made from nitrate of silver, cream of tartar, ammonia, and lard, which was left on the hair overnight under a gummed taffeta cap.

IF ONE had any hair left after that application, it might have been wise to wash it in a shampoo made of rosemary leaves which had simmered with a half pint of rum for two hours.

Justification for today's hair lengths might be found in the Cincinnati Enquirer in 1868: "There is a common but false notion that frequent cutting of the hair is favorable to its health and growth" but "this is an error." A Dr. Cazenave is quoted as stating that "the most beautiful and abounding heads of hair I ever saw were those which the scissors had never touched." Elaborate descriptions for dressing long hair in chignons, puffs, frizzed short curls, and waves were regularly provided by the beauty columns of Harper's Bazaar and other magazines.

AFTER all the lotions and shampoos had been applied, however, beauty was still more than skin deep, cautioned the publications of the last century.Readers were reminded that real beauty could be achieved only by having good health and avoiding "everything which may discompose the mind or disorder the body." In the last analysis, a happy holiday season awaited those who wisely followed the advice to "take life easier" and shun "excess of every kind, both mental and bodily."

'IN' fashion

VICTOR COSTA always opens his fashion showing with a vocal selection from one of his favorite operas, nursing his early ambition to sing opera—he even looks like an opera star with his dark good looks and thick head of hair.

VICTOR UNDERSTANDS contemporary fashion and how to do it at prices that range from $45 to $169, which makes his collection the mainstay of fashion-at-a-price departments in more than 1500 American stores.

"We think in terms of the woman who puts fashion in its place," says Victor. "That means she wants it to be important but not expensive. I don't think women want to look casual and sporty as if clothes didn't matter. A sweater topped dress, for instance, should fit rather tight and moulded, never sporty—and I believe in adding a cardigan sweater that obviously belongs with it."

THIS ADVENTUROUS designer never does things halfway. His plunge necklines really plunge—his circular skirts are full-circle—his pleated skirts cover the entire scale, from sharp wide box pleats to fine and delicate crystal pleating—reminiscent of the great Fortuny pleating that originated in Paris in the 1920's.

ONE OF the important themes in the Suzy Perette Collection is the slim long two-piece dress with tunic top over a pleated skirt—short or long. Special mention should go to his evening caftans that float over slim matching silk sheaths—the black and white chiffon float blooming with pink roses; and ombre and white geometric printed chiffon over matching sheath, that changed patterns as the model came down the runway.

VICTOR thinks of everything—and at Suzy Perette down-to-earth prices—he should have a fantastic Spring season!

Regina Elkins Wed To Paul Badgett

Miss Regina Rhae Elkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Elkins, 1125 Billie Dr., was married in the Meade Station Church of God, Ashland Ky., Nov. 24.

She was married to Mr. Paul R. Badgett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Badgett, of Ashland Ky.

Rev. Henry Hughes officiated the ceremony.

The best man was James Badgett.

The ushers were Doug Elkins and Sam Burton.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white silk organza, fashioned with an empire bodice, high v-neckline and camelot sleeves extending into cuffs and outlined with Venise lace.

The a-line skirt was accented with a chapel train. Her chapel length mantilla of silk illusion was attached to a white lace Juliet cap and she carried a nosegay bouquet of white carnations, pom-poms and lily of the valley.

The maid of honor's gown was formal styled with a candlelight crepe smocked bodice featuring a high neckline and long weeves.

The A-line skirt was of emerald green velvet. She wore a floral headdress and carried a nosegay of orange carnations and gold and yellow pom poms.

The bridesmaids wore gowns and headdresses like those of the maid of honor attendant, but carried nosegay bouquets of fall flowers.

The reception was held in the social room of the church.

The groom is employed by the Ben Williamson Supply Co. and is a graduate of Eastern Kentucky University.

Speaking of Beauty

By John Nerny

PRECIOUS HAIRCOLOR

Does your haircolor remind you of bone china or lustrous amber? In all modesty we have to say that our haircoloring work has the translucence and strength that is even more beautiful than natural hair colors, and as rare to find as a diamond mine or an emerald mountain. To appreciate the difference let us turn you into an expert. A fine haircolorist never makes the hair all one color. Instead, it has little radiant flashes of different colors like the points of light reflected by a beautifully cut diamond.

Zena's Supermarket For The Unique

When you enter a gift shop you expect to find the unique. But at Zena's Gift Shop, 887 S. Hamilton Rd., you are literally overwhelmed by the unusual.

Owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Tom "Yonnie" Licavoli, the shop features cards, pictures, figures, carvings, glassware and antiques from Early American origin and all over the world.

OF SPECIAL interest are the large coin and stamp collection, the antique doll collection and a doll "hospital."

The coin and stamp collection is operated by Mr. Licavoli, a recognized authority in stamp collecting, and Charles Lephart, a long-standing and active member of the Columbus Philatelic Association.

Although all of the stamps have not as yet been unpacked, Lephart explained that the collection includes complete sheets of United Nations, Vatican and Israel releases plus all first-day covers and most imprint blocks and plate blocks.

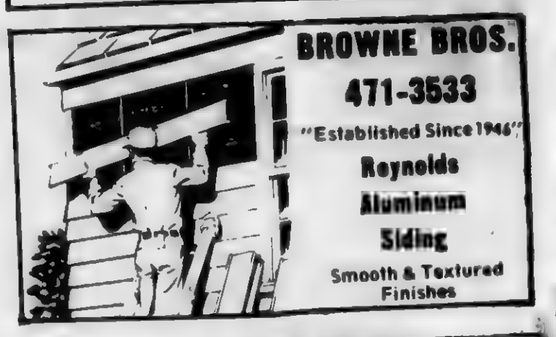
THE SHOP also has a good collection of early U.S., early mint U.S. and older U.S. stamps including plate blocks.

Other assorted foreign collections plus all types of postcards and envelopes make for an assortment that will interest even the most avid collector.

The coin collection (although only partially displayed as of now) is quite extensive, assures Lephart. Features of the collection are an early-run 1795 half-dollar and an unidentified 1672 German coin.

THE DOLL "hospital" is a first-time public service for Columbus. Madame Perri has previously only worked for private collectors.

All repairs on dolls are done by hand and then only after researching to doll to insure repairs and new costumes are authentic.



Repairs can be quite time-consuming and Madame Perri will not release a doll until she is completely satisfied with the repairs.

IN ADDITION to rejuvenating antique dolls, Madame Perri offers reproductions of antique dolls, Bisque and china.

Papier mache, wax and cloth reproductions will be abailable at a later date - and original creations as time permits.

If you're looking for that unusual gift — possibly something with the continental touch - a rare addition to your stamp or coin collection or just enjoy browsing through aisle after aisle of unique creations, try Zena's.

ONE WORD of caution, however. If you plan to stop in during a lunch hour, you had better dream up a good excuse. There's so much to see, it's likely you'll be late getting back to work.

Jeffrey Mansion Sets Special Holiday Hours

Bexley youth are invited to come to the Jeffrey Mansion weekday afternoons during the holidays (except Christmas & New Year's days) between the hours of 1 and 4 p.m.

An attendant will be on duty to check out games and games equipment (free of charge) including skittles, box hockey, table shuffleboard, cards, chess, checkers, pool, bumper pool, table tennis, and many others.

The Mansion will also be open on both holiday Saturdays (December 23 and 30) from noon to 4 p.m. for youth activities.

Teens are reminded that "Stone Spirit" will be playing for a dance at the Mansion on Saturday evening, the 23rd, from 8 to 11 p.m.

Admission is $1 and the dance is for high school students only.

Bexley elementary and junior high students can attend open gym sessions at their nearest school gym on each afternoon from 1 to 4 p.m. the week between Christmas and New Year (December 26, 27, 28 and 29) under adult supervision.

All youth are reminded that they must bring gym shoes to wear while in the schools (do not wear the gym shoes from home, please).

Both the open gyms program and the Jeffrey Mansion Youth Center are being operated by the Bexley Parks and Recreation Department.

Receives Service Award

FRANKLIN COUNTY MENTAL Health Associations Distinguished Service Award in the form of the National Association Bell was presented to Mrs. Lewis R. Basch by Dr. Jaime Smith e Incas, F.C.M.A. President at the Annual Meeting, Tuesday, December 12. The award was in recognition of Mrs. Basch's volunteer service for fifteen years as founder and director of the "Remembered Patient Program" at Columbus State Hospital. The program has grown to the point where donors provide personal mail and gifts and visits on a year-round basis to over 600 patients.

Big Ones Continues In Basketball Action

"THE WEEK of the big one that was" can almost be used every week now in area basketball league races.

Last week it was Whitehall and Westerville (won by the Cats 51-47 to keep their Ohio Capital Conference lead), South and East (won by South to keep its Columbus league record unblemished), Ready vs DeSales (won by the Silver Knights to keep their Central Catholic League record intact) and Groveport tackling Grove City (that found Grove City remaining unbeaten in league and overall play in the strong Mid-8).

This week's card stacks up the same.

EASTMOOR will test South's powerhouse at South, Mt. Vernon locks horns with Delware there in an Ohio Capital second place battle and Grove City travels to Urbana in a traditionally tough game in a Mid-8 tussle.

A real match starts the week tonight (Wednesday) as Ready goes to Eastmoor in a non-leaguer that should test the State Class AA champs' mettle. Ready has only been extended in its opener against South and this could be the test that could give Pat Penn's hustlers the game thay need.

THE OHIO Capital Conference race still finds Westerville and Delaware knotted at the top with 4-0 records while the Cats are one of the top area teams with 7-0 to their credit. Balanced scoring continues to be the Cats strong point.

Reynoldsburg is still winless (0-4 loop and 0-7 season) and with former Westerville coach Mike Grayem at the helm of the Raiders it could be an incentive for the Raiders to come up with a super effort against Westerville Friday.

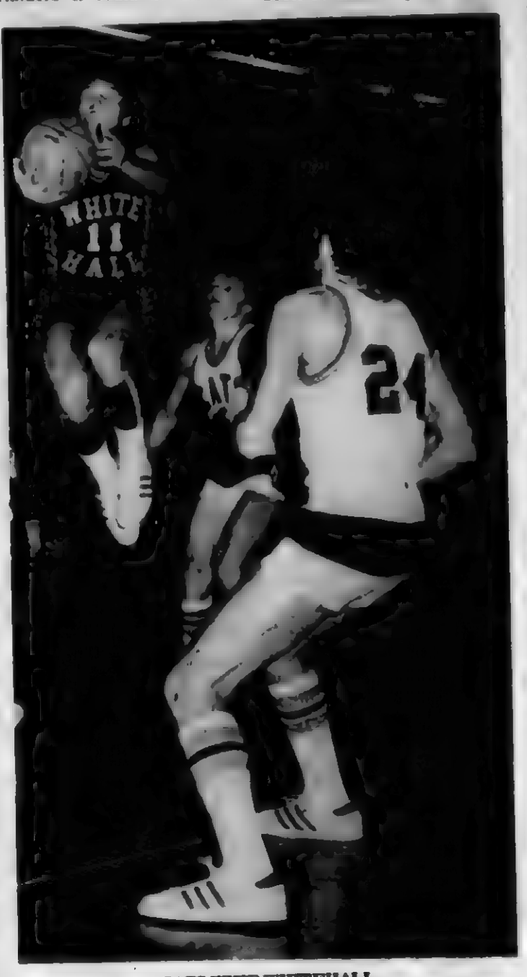
Worthington's league-winless Cards tackle Westland at Worthington in a battle for the cellar dweller spot.

Non-league tilts this weekend include the Toledo Scott at East fray and Watterson at Big Walnut clash Friday while on Saturday Mohawk goes to the lair of Canton Lehman and Groveport visits Canal Winchester.

THE NETWORK Floyd Courts' bombing of the nets for 46 points for North in a losing cause against West (66-65) set a new city league record. The 5-8 speedster broke the record of 45 held jointly by East's Ed Ratleff and Larry Jones, West's Jerry Spears and South's Brian Williams.

Other high scorers in last week's games were: Williams, South, 29; Wood, Northland, 29; Peake, Marion-Franklin, 22; Jones, Ready, 25; Gardner, Ready, 20; Boulware, Watterson, 27; Bramlage, Bexley, 22; Tumblison, London, 20; Dennis, Delaware, 22; Williams, Reynoldsburg, 25; Jones, Gahanna, 22 and Ferst, Franklin Heights, 21.

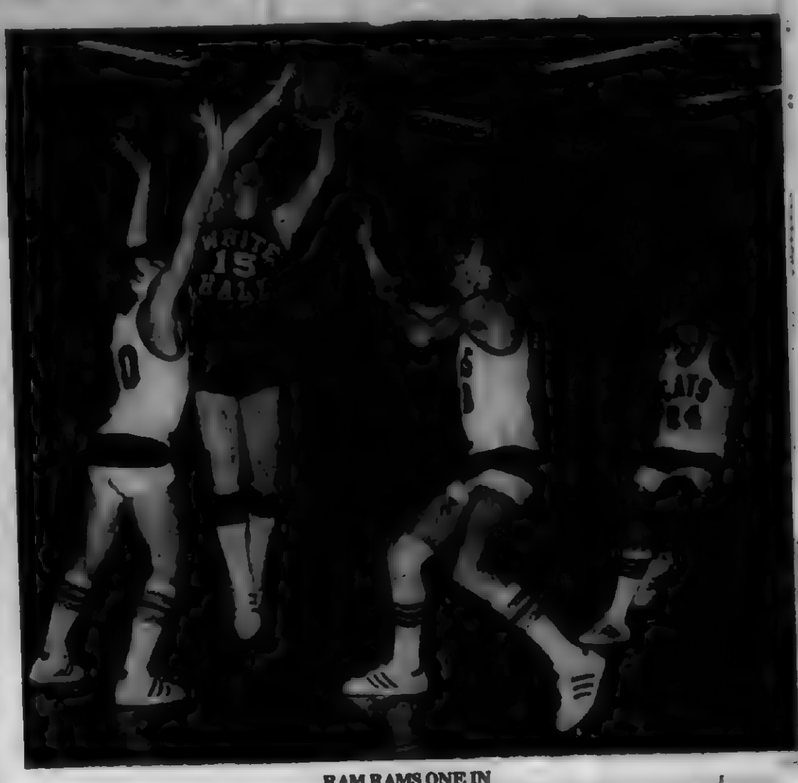
That game won by South over Celina last Saturday might have lost some its lustre due to the Class AAA semi-finalists (Celina) having lost all its starters this year but South outplayed what was supposed to have been one of the better reserve teams in the state last year.



FORMER Reynoldsburg Raider coach Cliff Rose has his team all steamed up and Jonathan Alder (Plain City) has made it to 7-0 with close wins over tough teams from Mechanicsburg and Fairbanks.

Grove City's Mid-8 leaders had little trouble disposing of Worthington while Whetstone surprised Columbus North in a 53-43 win while holding Floyd Courts to 23 points, just over half his Friday total, also in a losing cause.

High Saturday scorers in the area included Criner, New Albany, 26; Murray, Jonathan Aider, 24; Cox, Mohawk, 29; Williams, South, 31 and Courts North, 23.



WITH THE Spectator deadlines being advanced the next two issues due to the holidays we'll swing into some photo coverage of the mid-week games and also provide some of the regular weekend tussles even though they might get to you a week later.

Meanwhile, be good sports and have yourself a Merry Christmas.

WHITEHALL almost outlasted the Westerville Cats in a gigantic Ohio Capital Conference struggle last week. Here, the Rams Tom Sickmeier goes up for one as Cat defenders Brad

Wrestling Schedule

Wintertime May Bulge Waistline

WINTER-TIME inactivity may give rise to an occasional joke about your bulging waistline, but the extra load on your heart is no laughing matter.

Don't let winter be a period of dormancy, cautions Aetna Life & Casualty. Regular exercise belongs in your daily routine all year, no matter how or where you get it.

Naturally your age and physical condition have a lot to do with what activities you should take on. Your family doctor will be able to guide you in a sensible exercise program.

But whether you ski and skate in the great outdoors, or bend and stretch in your living room, what matters is that you keep from doing nothing.

Good health is not a seasonal affair. That's why keeping fit demands year-round attention.

Leaky hot water faucets waste water and gas and money.

And if the leak is hot water, it wastes another vital natural resource —the natural gas used to heat the water.
Not to mention the money used to pay for the gas to heat the water.
A leak that fills an ordinary cup in ten minutes wastes 3,280 gallons of water a year.
Fix your leaky faucet. With a two-cent washer.
Natural gas and water . . . and money . . . are too valuable to waste.
There are other ways you can conserve gas. Keep the thermostat on your water heater set at the normal temperature. Avoid partial loads in your washing machine and dishwasher.
Don't use an excessive amount of hot water in your bath or in the shower.
Keep your water heater working efficiently by draining about a bucketful of water a month from the faucet at the base of the heater.
This prevents mineral deposit build-up that makes the heater work harder.
Use the gas you need in your home. But not a penny's worth more.
Write for our free booklet, "30 Ways to Save", for more ideas.

Gas is precious, pure energy . . . use it wisely.

AROUND TOWN

SUSPENCE will keep you in a pleasant musical suspence when you hear them at the popular Apple Tree Restaurant and Lounge. This you can do every Tuesday through Saturday. Leader is Bobby Taylor, who is no stranger to the night people of Columbus. Bobby is simply fantastic in the vocal department. You'll flip over his well modulated tones. What a voice. He comes on with a style that is as good as any of the top male singers in the business. His rich, deep tones will keep you captivated. Jump or slow dreamy ones, Bobby handles them all in expert form. Entertainment is the name of the game, and that is just what Bobby and his group provide, Plenty of it. Each member is loaded with talent.

Take eighteen year old Barbara Rutledge. Barbara also sings, as well as playing guitar. This gal is truly something else. It is almost impossible for me to describe her voice in words. You have to hear it to believe it. She has one of the finest tonal qualities you'll hear. A tremendous amount of control mixed with a deep feeling for her music, are only a couple of her vocal attributes. Her interpretations shows that Barbara certainly put a lot of feeling into her work.

This gal is loaded with a vivacious stage personality. She is so much at ease on stage, giving the impression that this is where she was born and raised. The dinner crowd really get a special treat, because Barbara does a host of solo work, accompanying herself on guitar. Fabulous, fabulous!

There are two other equally talented men, lead guitarist Billy Raymond and rythm guitarist Eddie Reedy. These two give out with plenty of voice and instrumental help. Without their musical abilities, both Bobby and Barbara suffer.

Just wait until you hear their vocal harmonies. Great sounds, that's for sure, with their very close harmonics. All four play and sing as one. So, if you want to hear four people singing and playing music as it should be performed, with a nice soft volume, a highly talented style, Suspence is your answer and your host Scratch Pestano is all smiles. So will you, when you hear them at the Apple Tree.

THEY CALL themselves Surprize, but they are no surprise when you hear them perform. Surprize is a quartet appearing Tuesday through Saturday at the very swinging Vegas Club. You'll love their solid arrangements and sound.

They are strictly a rock and roll band. But, they do it all with finesse. Their approach is strong. There is no messing around with this outfit.

Comprised of leader, Bob Hughes, who sings the devil out of a tune and plays lead guitar, Larry Stahlhut, the lead singer who by the way, has one of the best contemporary voices to come down the pike, Jim Luce doing a fine job at the drums and Gerry Rhoades coming on with a real wild voice and also turns a good job with the electric bass. Add up the four fellows and the answer is one of the most enjoyable and entertaining rock and roll bands you want to hear. And, I'm not a great lover of this type of music, but, I sure did like this group.

THEY keep things moving at a fast pace. Never a dull moment. All four are sure of themselves on stage. It shows, too. Even it be a rock and roll band, their style is show class. They play with good rythms and use a rather heavy melody line. You can almost always recognize the songs they are playing. Surprize do not get way out in left field. They keep the volume within reason for this type of music, another aspect I dug about the quartet.

For a real surprise, especially you who never have been lovers of R&R music, stop out to the Vegas Club soon. You will be surprised. Also, you men will enjoy all of the beautiful professional dancers there every night. It is always fun time at the Vegas Club. Take it from me, that's one place I go to have a ball.

TO MANY PEOPLE in town, when you mention a club or restaurant in the Ohio State University area, everyone thinks it is strictly for the student body. With some, and especially The Ohio Stater Inn Motel, this is far from the truth. If you want to enjoy some really good food, and hear some of the finest entertainment Around Town, make it a point to pay a visit to this popular motel, located across from campus.

This week, you will hear a darn good group playing Tuesday through Saturday in the Gridiron Lounge. They call themselves Stringtown Road. No matter what road they are on, including High St.you will want to hear more and more of their music.

Featuring a lovely, young talented gal by the name of Toni Holcomb, this gal is so refreshing. She has a beautiful blend of youth, talent and enthusiasm. Toni sings and plays electric piano. Her exciting vocal renditions will capture your ears and keep them entertained all evening. Her range and style will practically send chills up and down your back.

TONI HAS lots of help from two able individuals, Mark Harbold at the steel guitar, doubling on electric guitar, and vocals, and Marc Moriva playing lead guitar and working in the vocal department, also. When all three join in on vocals, you really hear some mighty pretty harmony.

IN THE instrumental department, you can't take anything away from any of them The Stringtown Road provides good, happy music. While they lean toward the contemporary vain, both with material and sound, they are a versitile threesome, dishing out all kinds of music.

Appearing in the Gridiron Lounge makes them sound and look good, because this is one of the nicest lounges in town. The way it is laid out, everyone can see the stage. The lounge is intimate, with a circular bar in the center of the room. I'll bet most of you have never been there. You don't know what you are missing. There is plenty of free parking on the premises. General manager Dick Tucker has made lots of improvements. Take my word for it, a good time is in store for you at the Ohio Stater Inn Motel.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Be sure to read next week's column for our complete listings on what's happening New Year's Eve. We will have a complete list of all the clubs, restaurants and lounges Around Town as to what is going on, if a package deal is offered and what entertainment available. Also, since New Year's Eve falls on a Sunday, most of the places will hold their festivities on Saturday. Only a handful, of those who have a license to sell alcohol on Sunday, will be swinging on Sunday. This will be noted in next week's column, also.

So while you and I are busy skipping Around Town doing our last minute Christmas shopping, attending Christmas parties and going out to our favorite spots for dinner and entertainment, let me take a few minutes to wish all of my readers, club owners and managers and all of the entertainers the most wonderful Holiday season ever to each and everyone of you. May all of your wishes and dreams come true this Christmas, and here's hoping Santa fills your stocking with everything you asked for this year. But, let's not forget the real meaning of Christmas. A very merry, merry to all.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

Prairie Players presented "Rapunzel And The Witch" last Saturday at their theater, 6463 W. Broad Street. Now, I know it was a cold day and a great chance to sleep in, or talk the kids into watching TV or baking Christmas cookies - but only 16 children in the audience and four of them mine?

Really! Why should our local groups bother to rehearse for productions to entertain our children if show time comes and no children? Lee Bender directed this offering and Lee Rader, editor of the contemporary poetry magazine "Reach Out", stage managed it. The talent on stage ranged from a very professional actress from the Cleveland Playhouse, Lou Kinford, as the Witch, to a man who had never been on stage before, Lloyd Middleton, also from Cleveland, Pplaying Rapunzel's father.

Rapunzel was Pate' Huffman who has appeared on stage at Players Club and Gallery Players. The mother and son team of Ginny and Larry Dunton played the Queen (whom the witch had turned into a plant), and the Prince while Jim Wilkes was the King, turned into a tree.

The reason I am bothering to mention all of this is there is a possibility the show will be available for performance at schools or other large groups. The fee to be charged is still up in the air, but for further details call Lee or Don Bender at 279-5313. Here is an opportunity for your PTA to make some money and afford your children the opportunity of seeing a live performance all at the same time.

Tryouts for Curtain Players production of "Tobacco Road" to be directed by Barb Boylan and to be presented February 9, 10, 16 and 17 will be held December 28 and 29 at the Worthington office of the Huntington National Bank, 800 High St., Worthington. They need six men and five women from 30 to 60 and three teenagers (boys and girls).

The December meeting of the delegates of ACT Columbus will be in the form of a holiday party at my house, 2500 West Granville Rd., and is for ACT officers, delegates, alternates, wives and husbands or dates. Time is 7:30 p.m. Please bring a dish or hors d'oeuvre plate and your own beverage.

The best wishes of the Season to you all, and remember, a unique gift for this holiday that will make you remembered all year round would be a theater subscription or a membership to one of our local groups.

At The Parks

Metropolitan Parks Program for the week of December 23-29 are:

No special programs are scheduled for Christmas week and there will be no Sunday movies in the parks on Dec. 24 or Dec. 31.

All parks will be open every day during daylight hours and the Walden Wildlife Refuge at Blendon Woods will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays and from 3 to 5 p.m. on weekdays.

Alternative To Drugs Discussed By Board

THOMAS B. CONNERY
SPECIAL STAFF WRITER

The Columbus Board of Education conducted its first discussion and fact-finding session on drug abuse in an attempt to develop a more effective drug education program in the schools.

The Dec. 12 session was a result of a resolution expressing the board's concern with drug abuse that was passed at the Nov. 21 board meeting. Board President Thomas Moyer said that the purpose of the discussion was the first step in determining "what we, the public schools, can do."

Several persons not connected with the public schools joined the board in the discussion: William George, Franklin County Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board; William G. Heimlick, public relations committee chairman, Academy of Pharmacy of Central Ohio; Curtis Jewell, project director, CMACAO Rehabilitation Program; Captain Frank A. Peterfy, Columbus police narcotics squad; John Potts, Juvenile Court; Dr. John Randall, psychiatrist.

PETERFY SAID that drug use by 14 to 26 year olds is increasing in Columbus. "I don't feel the problem is serious in grade school," he said, "although there have been instances."

Heimlick said that the problem of drug abuse can only be stopped by starting drug education in grade schools.

Peterfy agreed with Heimleck: "Once the 13 or 14 year old child has made up his mind whether he is going to use drugs or not, it is too late for education. Education would be more valuable from ages 6 to 12."

DR. RANDALL said that studies indicate that half of students above 13 years of age have used some chemical in the preceeding 12 months, with only 20 per cent regular users.

Randall said fear and facts are not enough to stop drug abuse because the decision to take drugs is made on an "emotional rather than a rational basis."

"Facts are essential," he said, "but the board must come up with alternatives to drugs. Drugs do work, they do provide relief to life's frustrations, although they do not solve any problems."

RANDALL SUGGESTED that the schools teach "meaningful ways to experiment with life." He said that instead of getting high on drugs, students with alternatives to drugs would "get high on life."

Jewell suggested that teacher workshops be conducted in the schools. "Teachers must become more sensitive to what is going on in schools. Teachers and administers are unaware of the effect of individual, daily problems on kids."

He said if the students really know that people care, "then they can be taken away from drugs. Teachers need sensitivity."

BOARD MEMBER Virginia Prentice said that parents are largely responsible for today's attitude toward drugs. She said parents are encouraging children to turn to pills for remedies to all their problems.

Mrs. Prentice said it is not unusual to see parents "with a cocktail in one hand and pills in the other."

SHE ALSO CRITICIZED advertising in the communications media. "Media must be aware of their responsibility, so that kids are not taught to think that there is a pill for every problem," she said.

Several students, teachers and administrators were observers, and were asked to react to certain points made in the discussion.

Two unidentified students agreed with Jewell's comments and said that love and trust are needed in dealing with students. One student said that having someone to relate to is the first step in solving the problem.

AN UNIDENTIFIED TEACHER said more mental health is needed in education. She described it as "psychology for living."

She said that type of education is necessary because "teenagers are notorious for downgrading themselves.

"They are young adults with problems," she said, "we must quit treating them as children."

All participants in the discussion agreed that the board should place emphasis on rehabilitation and not law enforcement.

PETERFY SAID THAT police should be used "only when other methods have failed."

Mrs. Prentice said that the police should deal with the student who is pushing drugs and not those who are the occasional users.

Supt. John Ellis said education "should concentrate on helping students be successful people." He said that the administration would organize a drug education program, and present it to the board.

Crown Yearbook Queen

IN EAST AREA

Cooperation Aids Fight Against Drugs

As the spread of drug experimentation and abuse continues across the country, two local police departments have found that through cooperative efforts, some progress can be made.

The Columbus and Whitehall police departments combined efforts recently in a program called "Operation Uptight." Purpose of the two month effort was to detect and combat drug related problems in the eastern section of the city.

JOHN WOLFE, Whitehall safety director, said "Operation Uptight" was formulated to deal particular with juveniles.

"We did not take our investigations into the high schools as such, but rather investigated complaints received by both departments."

Wolfe gave as an example complaints received about a certain spot in Whitehall which is a hang out for young people and believed by police to be a place where drug contacts may be made.

THE TWO MONTH investigation ended on Nov. 16 with the arrest of 19 persons on charges of sale of narcotics. Of the 19, nine were reportedly Whitehall youngsters.

Wolfe said the oldest person arrested was 20 and the youngest was 15.

Only an insignificant amount of drugs were confiscated at the time of the arrest, Wolfe said.

"THIS WAS a 100 per cent cooperative effort of both our department and the Columbus police," Wolfe said, adding, "we exchanged information concerning the two areas and leads which eventually resulted in the arrests."

He said the project originated in Whitehall and "We approached the Columbus police about the joint effort. I think this type of investigation will be used in other suburban areas."

The safety director said due to the limited resourses of the smaller departments this type of project was advantageous to cities such as Whitehall.

AS TO THE success of the project, Wolfe said, "This may tend to make a few people nervous. With a mass arrest like this you hurt the supply and make the sellers worried. It could be that we've made a dent in the machinery in the selling of drugs in the east Columbus and Whitehall areas."

He said now that the project is officially over the city will continue to keep the pressure on. "You have to keep at it and not let these people find an easy target or a place to move into a community."

The two most prevalent drugs found in the investigation were marijuana and methaqualone or sopors. "We haven't found hard narcotics to be a problem yet," Wolfe said. "But if we don't keep the pressure on and stop the spreading use of these two drugs, then young people could start to experiment further and move on to the hard drugs."

WOLFE SAID in the investigation police had gained some information as to the source of the drugs but added taht "Suspecting and proving are two different things."

He said cutting off the source is the primary goal and said this was why the project was aimed at the sellers.

"We do have a drug problem in Whitehall. We don't have a monopoly on the problem but we do have one and the police can't solve the problem alone.

"THE WHITEHALL POLICE probably investigate as many as 10 to 12 drug related cases a week and this involves youngsters in the middle teens. So far we don't seem to have a real problem in the younger age groups, but we could if we don't get the support we need."

Wolfe said the problem is one which must be dealt with by the entire community. "Parents need to be more aware of their own children. A lot of parents don't know what the symptoms of drug use are and they should."

He said parents should note changes in behavior or attitudes and in appearance.

"THE POLICE can go out and investigate cases of drug abuse and make arrests, but for any department to be really effective they have to have 100 per cent cooperation of the parents and citizens in the community.

"A lot of people think this is a problem for other people and not for them. But even if it's someone down the street, everyone has to cooperate and take an interest. There is too much apathy."

Wolfe said the biggest tool for fighting the drug problem is education. "We have to educate not only the young people but the parents too. There has to be a reason why kids are experimenting with drugs and we've got to find out what these reasons are."

WOLFE SAID he was definitely in favor of such organizations as the Community House which operates in Whitehall, counseling those involved with drugs. "We need more people as concerned as these people are. "It takes everyone."

As to Whitehall's support of the fight, Wolfe said, "There is some but we can always use more help. We're making headway, but it's a continuous battle."

New Vocational Staff Positions Added

Something new has been added to Columbus Public Schools this year, Vocational Guidance Coordinators.

"We're attempting to make an impact by working with students to make them aware of the wide variety of job opportunities," stated Roger Street, supervisor of the program.

THE NEW PROGRAM established by the Department of Guidance and Student Counseling in cooperation with the Department of Practical Education is partially funded by the State Department of Vocational Education.

The goal of these coordinators is to make all students aware of the vast assortment of available careers and give them a better understanding of necessary preparation for various jobs.

Each of the seven coordinators is assigned two high schools plus their feeder schools. The main thrust initially was to recruit new students for the existing vocational programs.

NOW THE TRAVELING seven work with counselors in each building to help teachers plan vocational activities both in and out of the classrooms, obtain resource people and materials for the students, and arrange and conduct field trips.

Mrs. Evelyn Cummins, vocational guidance counselor for the Bookhaven-Northland area says, "Right now we're trying to make contact with every junior high student through classroom visitation. We explain what vocational training is available in our schools and how to go about getting into the program."

Since vocational programs begin in the eleventh grade and college preparation in the tenth grade, students do well to have background information early to help with their career orientation.

IN ADDITION to counseling, coordinators work with business and industry in setting up interviews, field trips, and job opportunities. By serving as a vital link between industry and the school system, coordinators can find out what business wants and how to better prepare students.

With the passage of the bond issue and the promise of expanded vocational programs, the coordinator's job becomes more relevant.

As Dr. S. P. Marland, U.S. Commissioner of Education, states "Career education must prepare one to think and to care about social responsibility. and personal intellectural fulfillment, but education that also equips all learners, at whatever age, with satisfying and rewarding competencies for entering the world of work in the field of one's choice."

Special Pages Are Featured

THERE'S plenty to be excited about this week in The Spectator.

Two special pages should attract the attention of readers as excitement mounts toward the end of the year.

Not necessarily in the order of their importance are:

(1) The Rose Bowl - you'll have a chance to match guesses of the Ohio State vs Southern California final score. Area merchants are competing for the title of "Armchair Expert" and "No. 1 Monday Morning (evening in this case) quarterback. Theyve tried their hand at predicting the outcome. How about you?

Starts Double Sessions

Marion-Franklin Senior High will become the 10th Columbus school operating on split sessions when the second semester of the school year opens Jan. 29, according to C.L. Dumaree, deputy school superintendent.

Four other senior highs and five junior high schools currently operate on the sessions, used to ease overcrowding in schools where enrollment far exceeds building capacity.

Under split sessions, also known as double and half-day sessions, the number of hours students attend class each day is reduced so that half the student body goes to school in the morning and the remainder in the afternoon.

Dumaree said that under the new scheduling juniors and seniors at Marion-Franklin will attend classes in the morning, sophomores in the afternoon.

The senior high school – built to house 1,000 students, but with an enrollment this year of 1,376 – currently operates on an extended schedule, a lengthened school day in which the times students begin and end the day are staggered.

James Boster, Marion-Franklin principal, said overcrowding remains a serious problem at the school despite the extended schedule, making necessary the switch to split sessions.

Boster said students now meet in the teachers' lunchroom, adding that English classes must be held in the band room, health classes in the drafting room, and special education classes in school office areas.

The principal also said excessive time is now required when classes change because the overcrowding results in congested school hallways.

He noted that a projected enrollment increase of 200 more students next year adds to the need for placing the school on split sessions.

The recently passed Columbus school bond issue provides for expanding the senior high, but the additional facilities are not expected to be completed for over a year, Boster pointed out, forcasting that Marion-Franklin will remain on split sessions for at least the next two years.

Under the split session schedule, Boster said, each student will have a total of seven periods of class work each day. Students who want to take additional courses will be allowed to expand their class schedules into the other half-day session, he added.

Propose Budget Hike

THOMAS B. CONNERY
SPECIAL STAFF WRITER

A budget calling for the spending of $95.7 million to run the Columbus schools was presented to the financial committee of the board of education Dec. 21.

This will be an 11.5 per cent increase over 1972 expenditures. The largest part of that increase will go for salary increases.

According to Myron Kirpatrick, budget director, a five to eight per cent increase in operating funds is "a fact of life today." He said it is a reflection of the nation's economy.

IN SPITE OF increased spending, the board will continue to operate in the black in 1973. This is possible because of a 1972 balance of $8.4 million.

Projected income for 1973 is $90.2 million. Therefore the $8.4 million balance will be reduced to $2.9 million. Projections indicate that spending at current levels in 1974 will eliminate any balance, and a sizeable deficit will be incurred if additional income is not obtained.

"Many needs exist in the school system and most would require spending more money," Supt. John Ellis said. "But money is scarce and the board must make some hard choices about operating the school system."

The 1973 appropriations do not include funds for elementary guidance counselors; art, music and physical education specialists; additional aides; foreigh language, reading and physical education supervisory staff; additional librarians; additional nurses; and certain data processing and plant maintenance positions.

EXPANSION OF BUS transportation and the school lunch program beyond current levels also was not included in the 1973 appropriations.

Personnel costs comprise 88.7 per cent of the spending, with only 11.3 per cent for non-personnel items. Administration cost is 2.3 per cent.

Ellis described the appropriations as "a prudent, practical program."

"It does not provide for many services constantly requested by the staff and public," he said. "Money simply isn't availbale to honor the requests."

ELLIS SAID THAT it is clear that alternative sources of funding will be required in the future.

"Since resistance to further property taxes is high," he said, "the board of education should seriously consider what can be done to obtain additional state monies and a federal revenue sharing program similar to the one that will bring the city of Columbus approximately seven million dollars per year."

Ellis explained that according to law bond issue money can only be used for building construction and not to operate the schools.

THE SUPERINTENDENT said that a case can be made to justify a 1973 local property tax levy. However, he said that he does not believe a levy should be requested in 1973.

"The needs are important and serious financial arguments can be mounted to support a 1973 levy," Ellis said. "But I believe we should first exhaust all other possibilities for increasing revenue before requesting more from the voters."

The budget resolution will be voted on at a January board meeting.

Special Gifts For Needy

THESE SACKS AND BOXES OF food, toys and clothing were collected by the students at Johnson Park Junior High to be distributed to needy families over the holiday season. Each class took one family and provided the items needed. The project was sponsored by the Student Council and 10 Columbus area families were aided.

A Bright New Year

SO HAVE a happy new year - all of you. We sincerely hope you get out of it what you put into it.

What did you get from 1972 that you put back for others to enjoy? Something, I hope.

We have fallen short, too, on what we had planned for 1972 - perhaps our goals were too high or perhaps they were really low and we still fell short.

THAT'S something that my conscience and I will have to discuss and I very seldom have come out ahead after discussions with that little voice that keeps telling me to "get with it."

There's very little these days that goes unnoticed by a newspaper. Whether or not we print it and how we treat the story is always subject to criticism. We enjoy the type of criticism that we get from our readers. (Honest, we do.) It's a great equalizer and just about the time our head starts to swell from what we think is a great accomplishment someone levels on us and brings us down to earth again.

WE'VE had lots of highs and lows in 1972. That's to be expected. A newspaper is sort of like a roller-coaster. We have our peaks and we have our valleys of depression.

One thing we do have, though, and this we emphasize again and again - we have the doggonest, most loyal readers in the whole world.

YOU are the newspaper. You deserve the best we can give you. We try and sincerely hope what we offer you in 1973 will reflect your loyalty and our belief in the fine communities in which The Spectator resides.

Happy New Year - May God bless all of you.

'MIND IF I CALL THE TUNE?'

New Faces Of 1973

NO, this is not the name of a new musical comedy or review, but it does encompass space, time and harmony.

The stage is set in Columbus. The feature is the new 110th General Assembly.

Time and space have taken their toll. New faces and voices will be seen and heard in the House and Senate.

The committees, the workshops of the General Assembly, will be recast and a new political libretto may have to be pounded out, more attuned to the new faces while at the same time placating the old.

It will be more important than ever before for all of us to become involved in government in order to provide the legislators with the essential information necessary to make wise decisions.

You have sent your representatives to Columbus. Now it is up to you to call the tune!

You're Telling Us

The Spectator Newspapers welcome letters from readers, expressing their views on subjects of interest to them -- whether initiated by news stories or editorial expression in this newspaper or not. Because of space limitations, we prefer letters which do not exceed 300 words. All letters submitted for publication must be signed with the writer's name and address, although -- upon request -- the name of the writer can be withheld. Letters should be marked: "To the Editor, Spectator Newspapers, 3121 South Boulevard, Columbus, Ohio 43204" and must be received by Friday noon prior to publication date for possible publication in that week's edition.

Westland Student Appreciates Paper

To the Editor:

I am writing in rebuttal to a letter published in the December 13, issue of the West Village Spectator, titled, "West Student Asks For More Coverage."

It stated that a certain school, namely Westland, had received outstanding publicity, not only in sports, but also in most school activities. It also stated that all schools should be recognized so that no certain school should be given "extra publicity without sufficient reason."

Firstly, I was not aware that Westland was receiving any certain "outstanding publicity." Secondly, I think any school deserves credit where it is due.

In the December 6, issue of the West Village Spectator, Westland did receive outstanding coverage of the previous basketball game and had pictures of the cheerleaders. I feel that because of one issue's coverage of our school's activities, the Spectator should not be critized for unfair publicity. I feel that every school receives equal coverage, not only Westland.

I would like to thank you for the West Village Spectator and it's enjoyable reading material. I will continue reading your paper and hope to continue finding articles of equal coverage on all schools.

Sincerely,
Sophmore, Westland High

Big Brother Week Needs Some Helpers

BIG BROTHER Week will be observed throughout the United States and Canada, January 1 to 8.

The Big Brother Association of Columbus, Inc., 2104 Tuller St., is joining with the International Association of Big Brothers of America in observing the week as a means of interesting more men in the work of Big Brothers.

Big Brothers of America is a non-profit organization, whose general purpose is to spread the Big Brother movement through the United States and Canada.

IT ENABLES local Big Brother Associations to cooperate more effectively for the general growth and advancement of Big Brother work.

The Big Brother Association of Columbus, Inc. was organized in 1933, for the purpose of "giving individual boys personal attention, guidance, friendship, and aid, so as to help in their development to the highest type of American citizenship".

DURING the year, 870 men have been active members of The Big Brother Association of Columbus, Inc., and served 1,132 boys who have lost their fathers. Twelve hundred Associate Members are needed each year to lend their support and strength to the work of the Association. The organization also operates a summer camp in the Hocking Hills, attended last summer by 2,202 campers from Columbus and Franklin County.

A BIG BROTHER is a volunteer who, under the guidance of a trained Social Worker, accepts the responsibility of looking after a boy who is fatherless and lacks adult male companionship and guidance. During the past several years, the need for Big Brothers in Columbus has constantly increased. Men of good moral character are needed now to serve as volunteers.

There is an urgent need for men in the South, East, West, Southeast, and Southwest sections of our city and county. Big Brothers need your help.

FOR INFORMATION, contact The Big Brother Association of Columbus, Inc., 2104 Tuller St., Columbus, Ohio 43201, or call 294-4423.

Statewide Taxpayer Assistance Promised

GOVERNOR John J. Gilligan announced plans for a statewide taxpayer assistance program designed to aid Ohioans in completing and filing their first personal income tax returns.

Gov. Gilligan said agents of the Ohio Department of Taxation will be at various locations in all of Ohio's 88 counties between January 2 and the April 16 filing deadline to provide taxpayer assistance.

"WE INTEND to do everything possible to assist Ohio taxpayers in completing their returns," Gov. Gilligan said. He noted the Department of Taxation will provide both a "short" and "long" form (IT 1040) printed on a four by eight and one-half inch card.

Tax Commissioner Robert J. Kosydar said his department will begin mailing the forms and instruction booklets, with return envelopes, around January 1.

KOSYDAR said the "short" form is printed on the front of the individual return and involves only nine lines. The "long" form, required by those taxpayers with some type of tax credit, such as retirement income exclusion or the $25 tax credit for persons age 65 or older, is on the reverse side of the form and involves only 11 lines.

"The starting point for completing the Ohio individual return is the adjusted gross income figure listed on the taxpayer's Internal Revenue Service Form 1040," Kosydar said. From this point it should be very easy for an Ohio taxpayer to deduct his personal exemptions and then compute the tax, the commissioner said.

Kosydar said taxpayers who have overpaid their quarterly estimated tax or those who have been over withheld by their employer will qualify for refunds and these refund claims iwll be the first processed.

Kosydar said forms and instruction booklets will also be available at the department's eight destrict offices including Columbus.

FORMS will also be available at various banks and savings and loan associations and from tax preparation firms across the state. Agents working in the taxpayer assistance program will also have all required forms when visiting in the various counties.

IT IS estimated the state willl mail nearly four million returns and instruction booklets to Ohio residents. Persons who do not receive the form by mail can obtain a formm by writing the Ohio Department of Taxation, P.O. 2476, Columbus, Ohio 43216.

ERMA Purposes Are Outlined

To the Editor:

In September of this year a new organization was chartered in the Columbus and Franklin County Ohio area under the name of "ERMA", Emergency Radio Monitoring Association. "ERMA" as we know her is dedicated to monitoring Channel 9, whose sole purpose is based on the idea of assistance to the traveling public by radio communications.

"ERMA" members are licensed C. B. operators who donate their time and equipment to monitor Channel 9. Each is required to have a telephone and be willing to perform certain scheduled monitoring service.

We are not ambulance chasers nor do we monitor the police channels looking for excitement although many times we will have the information on an accident before the police do.

Our job is to relay the message and they will take charge. Any member found guilty of running police calls or equipping their cars with lights in any fashion with that of the proper authorities, will be dismissed immediately.

Membership is now on the national level and associate members are being solicited from all over the country.

It is our desire to really be the emergency monitoring team in the nation. This can only be done with the help of all who are really concerned about the help they can give and the desire of really doing a good job.

As an example, if a motorist should become stalled on the highway, freeway, county road or city street, and a signal that help is needed such as raising the hood on the car or fastening a handkerchief to the car antenna, a passing citizens band operator can call for assistance they may need by calling an "ERMA" monitoring station and request the assistance needed whether it be a wrecker, emergency squad, Police, Fire or AAA or a call to their home or office.

We will report or relay any message to the proper authorities for the immediate preservation of public health, peace, property and safety for all. We do not go to disaster scenes unless assistance is requested.

If a member happens upon the scene of an accident he ascertains if there are injuries, make those as comfortable as he can within his limits, such as covering those injured to keep from going into shock, calls for the official agency of jurisdiction to be notified, places flares, and assists traffic past the scene. When the officer arrives, he will identify himself, offer further assistance and if officer desires the same, will give it. If not, he will leave the scene immediately. We will not transport any injured person to any hospital, under the call sign of our organization unless, sanctioned by the governing authority.

We have no desire to play policemen or firemen or to usurp their authority. But we do stand by ready and able and willing to assist in many forms of emergencies and to assist in all worthwhile community projects or activities in an emergency nature where manpower and radio-telephone communications can be utilized.

Meetings are held the first Sunday of each month at the Reynoldsburg Mobile Home Lodge, 7723 E. Main Street beginning no later than 2 p.m. and lasting no later than 6 p.m. Everyone is welcome. For further information call 866-7020, 837-2652, 878-4049 or 491-3725 or write 57 Estate Lane, Reynoldsburg, Ohio 43068.

Otis M. Hardesty

Snow Shoveling Can Be Dangerous For Men

BILL JONES stomped out of the house and angrily began to shovel his driveway. He was determined not to let the night's unexpected snowfall make him late for work. Ten minutes later he had a heart attack.

Why do snow shoveling and heart attacks so often go together? It's because snow shoveling, the hardest physical labor many men do all year, puts a great strain on the heart. The more a man shovels, the more blood his heart demands. When his arteries can't supply enough, he has an attack, explains Aetna Life & Casualty.

IN ADDITION, the shoveler often tackles the job in frustration or anger. This releases a stimulant into his blood stream which causes his heart to work even harder.

Snow shoveling victims are usually men in their forties or early fifties who have heart or circulatory defects which may have been undetected by physical examinations.

How can such heart attacks be prevented? The simplest solution: If you are forty or over, don't shovel snow. Get someone else to do it or use a mechanical snow remover.

IF YOU MUST shovel, take it easy. Should you tire, finish the job later. If you develop a chest pain, call a doctor, then lie down, cautions Aetna.

And always tackle snow shoveling in the right frame of mind. Don't let yourself become anxious or angry. You may be a few minutes late for work, but at least you'll get there.

Careers Conference Set For Dec. 27-28-29

COLLEGE students may sign up for as many job interviews as they wish at the 1972 Columbus Careers Conference set for Dec. 27-28-29 at Scot's Inn on Sinclair Road.

That's the word from John Corven, chairman of the event which is open to all college juniors and seniors who live in Franklin County area and expect to get their degrees by Jan. 31, 1974.

College graduates who expect to be discharged from military service by the same date also are invited. There's no fee or obligation of any kind for participation in the Columbus Careers Conference which is sponsored as a public service by the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce.

CORVEN pointed out that "an excellent variety of potential career opportunities with local business and industrial firms, and with social and governmental agencies, will be showcased" at the three-day conference.

Corven said that "although job opportunities seem to be more plentiful than last year, students nearing graduation would be prudent to explore career prospects early. This can do this at the Columbus Careers Conference."

"The Careers Conference," he added, "is convenient because college-trained people can explore many job opportunitites with a number of leading employers in a relatively short time, and in one location."

PERSONAL interviews will be given by 42 leading employers based in Metropolitan Franklin County, or with major facilities in the community.

Registration for interviews will be conducted from noon until 5 p.m. Dec. 27 by the Eastern Kiwanis Club which will also handle other functions during the three-day affair. Private interviews will be given all day Dec. 28, and from 9 to noon Dec. 29.

Corven emphasized that it doesn't matter where students are attending school – it can be at any accredited four-year college or university from Maine to California, or elsewhere – they're invited to the Conference so long as their permanent home is in Central Ohio.

INTERVIEWS were given to a record 640 registrants from 86 colleges and universities at the 1971 Conference. Ohio State University had the largest turnout with 321 students. Franklin University was second with 74, Ohio University third with 38, followed by Miami University and Otterbein College with 17 and 16, respectively.

Corven said the Conference would be beneficial to students from a wide variety of academic backgrounds. He said they can sift through a wide range of job prospects in finance, research, data processing, communications, social work, business administration, marketing, engineering, and others.

THERE were a record 92 different majors presented at last year's Conference. The five largest groupings, in order, were business administration, engineering, marketing, finance, and accounting.

Assisting the Eastern Kiwanis Club in running the Conference will be the Circle K. Kiwanis Club at Ohio Dominican College and Sigma Kappa Phi Fraternity at Franklin University.

Political Sign Cleanup Rated Governor's Award

Carl Wagner, General Manager of WTVN Radio, and William S. Guthrie, President of Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan, have received the Governor's Award for Community Action-a continuing award designed to recognize Ohioans for outstanding contributions to their communities.

Wagner and Guthrie were selected on the basis of a joint project they initiated to clean up Central Ohio of used political signs They paid 10 cents for each of 37,891 signs collected and redeemed at the Buckeye Federal offices.

ABOUT THE Governor's Award for Community Action, Governor Gilligan has said, "Thousands of our fellow Ohioans contribute their talent, time and energy to helping their fellow citizens, and most of them are never properly recognized for their contributions. Through the Governor's Award for Community Action, we hope to bring to many of these people the recognition and the respect in their community they so richly deserve.'"

Nominations for the Award are submitted by various state agencies, by members of the news media and by ordinary citizens who feel a fellow citizen deserves special recognition.

Governor Gilligan calls the award a "people's award", recognizing "important achievements that are all-too-often ignored in the bustle of everyday life".

January Deadline For Plate

Ohio Registrar of Motor Vehicles C. Donald Curry has issued a reminder that Jan. 1 is the deadline for reserving special 1973 Ohio auto license plates.

Registrar Curry explained that the deadline is part of an overall effort at the Bureau of Motor Vehicles to upgrade service to the public while saving tax dollars through increased efficiency.

"By establishing a time schedule, and sticking to it, we can guarantee a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of inconvenience to our reserved plate buyers."

Reserved plates, available only through the Bureau of Motor Vehicles in Columbus, consist of specially-requested combinations of from one to three letters and one or two numbers. These plates are available to any Ohio motorist (subject to prior reservation) for a $5 fee.

Curry said that in order to secure a new reserved plate for 1973, a written request should be received by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles no later than Jan. 1. He suggested that these new applicants submit a variety of preferred number-letter combinations; since the prospects of finding a single "most preferred" combination still available are not good.

All such requests should be addressed to P.O. Box 1199, Dept. 18, Columbus 43216.

Holiday Deadlines Are Set

The deadlines for the Jan. 3 edition of The Spectator have been advanced due to the New Year holiday.

So that Spectator employes may have time to spend with their families and friends this New Year weekend the following deadlines will be observed.

All editorial copy should be received at The Spectator offices by noon Friday, Dec. 29. We can't guarantee that any copy received after that time will be processed in time for the Jan. 3 issue.

The advertising deadline (retail and display) will be noon Friday, Dec. 29.

Although classified advertising will accept ads untill noon Tuesday, Jan. 2 we hope all who are planning to advertise in our very successful Classified Section will make every effort to get their ad placed as soon as possible. Call 274-1156 and a courteous classified advertising sales person will assist you.

Civic Ballet Plans Nutcracker

The Columbus Civic Ballet will present its annual production of the Nutcracker Ballet at the Ohio Theatre on December 28th and 29th, with a matinee and evening performance on each of these dates at 2 and 8 p.m.

This year the ballet has been completely restaged and rechoreographed by Tatjana Akinfleva Smith, the Artistic Director of the Columbus Civic Ballet. Miss Smith was not only a student of the great Madame Olga Preobrajenskaya, who danced in the first production of the Nutcracker at the Maryinsky Theatre in 1892; but she danced many of the roles in the Nutcracker herself during her student days at the National Opera Theatrical Academy in Belgrade, and her years as a soloist and principal dancer with the Belgrade State Opera Ballet.

In addition to these personal experiences, Tatjana Smith has, in designing this year's Nutcracker, taken ideas from two great versions of the ballet which are not well known in the United States.

She has styled the work so that it follows the basic format of the London Festival Ballet's 1958 production done by David Lichine and Alexandre Benois; and has used some of the choreography developed by Margerita Froman for the earlier La Scala production of 1938.

Columbus audiences, therefore, will see in Columbus Civic's Nutcracker this year a new ballet with a combination of the old put together in a totally refreshing way, complete with the excitement of Christmas, and full of childhood fantasy.

Tickets will go on sale at the Ohio Theatre Box Office the first week in December. Mail and phone orders are now being accepted at the Ohio Theatre Business Office. For information call 469-0939 or 469-1045.

Board Continues Model Cities

The Board of Education agreed to continue through next August a Model Cities program aimed at helping more students in the Model Cities area further their education beyond high school.

The program was established two years ago and is funded by Model Cities with the school system serving as prime contractor, dispensing the funds to a non-profit corporation that operates the program.

Under a contract to be recommended for Board approval Tuesday, the school system would receive $150,000 from Model Cities to the third year of the program.

A second contract to be recommended for approval would authorize payment of the funds to Tomorrow's Education Now, Inc. for the program's operation.

Previously, the program was run by Educational Resources, Inc., headed by Jack Gibbs, former East High School principal and now executive director of the Metropolitan Career Center.

Tomorrow's Education Now was selected to succeed Educational Resources as operator of the program by the Educational Task Force of Model Cities and the organization's Neighborhood Assembly.

In its contract with the school system, Tomorrow's Education Now pledges to continue a scholarship fund providing necessary financial assistance to 200 Model Cities area students placed in college through the program over the past two years.

At least 50, 1973 high school graduates will be placed in college and receive assistance from the fund this year, according to the contract.

In addition, the non-profit corporation pledges to provide tours of college compuses for at least 300 12th graders this year, to help at least 1,200 high school students prepare for college entrance exams, and to assist at least 500 students in selecting the proper high school courses to prepare them for college.

Tomorrow's Education Now, in the contract, says it will also provide follow-up service to Model Cities students previously placed in college through the program, will extend its service to Armed Forces veterans in the Model Cities area to help them with college placement, and will look for new sources of financial assistance provided by college organizations, such as fraternities, sororities, foundations and trusts.

THESE TWO CAPITAL UNIVERSITY nursing students, Karen Fire and Deborah Hendrix are helping with the T.B. Society's anti-smoking campaign. The two students and four of their classmates, take the mannekin, "Smokey Sam", around to area schools in an effort to illustrate to youngsters the dangers of smoking.

Cap Nursing Students Aid T.B. Program

Two Capital University nursing students are dabbling in a little preventive medicine in their spare time. Deborah Hendrix and Karen Fire are Seniors who volunteered to do anti-smoking presentations for the Tuberculosis Society.

Miss Hendrix and Miss Fire and four other classmates escort a smoking mannekin, Smokey Sam, to schools in Franklin County, showing students the after-effects of cigarette smoking.

Their instructor at Capital, Miss Olga Chernak, suggested the volunteer speaking program to her students as a public health project. The TB Society provided training for the girls in October.

Both Students gave their first program last month at Fair Avenue Elementary School for a group of fourth, fifth, and sixth graders. They used their nursing experiences to illustrate such smoking-related diseases as cancer, emphysema, and heart disease. The children also saw Smokey Sam's glass lungs fill with tar and nicotine and some real, diseased human lung tissue.

The girls found that their audience was enthusiastic about the program. According to Miss Hendrix, few of the youngsters had known how dangerous cigarettes were. They asked how many students had tried smoking and discovered nearly half had done some experimenting already. Most of the students said they were ready to kick the habit when they saw the smoke-damaged lung tissues.

Others delivering Smokey Sam Anti-Smoking programs are Susan Emch, Sharon Eyler, Deborah Wendt, and Krista Winter.

Emergency Service At Center

Southwest Community Mental Health Center, 854 W. Town-St., has begun a 16-hour emergency service, from 8 a.m. to midnight Monday through Friday.

Beginning Jan. 8, the crisis-oriented service will operate on a 24-hour around the clock basis, covering weekends, Sundays, and holidays.

The program consists of "crisis intervention, short term psychotherapy, and consultation and education. Acting coordinator of the unit is Pam Bombach, a psychiatric nurse, formerly the assistant director of nursing at University Hospital.

The service is available on a walk-in or call-in basis. The Center phone number is 224-4024.

Crafts Center Begins Class Registration

The Columbus Recreation Department's Adult Arts and Crafts Center is taking registration for the new term of classes which will begin on Jan. 8.

Enameling on copper is one of the classes available. This is a method of applying procelain enamel to copper and silver. Simple raising of bowls and plates, jewelry and decorative panels are some of the possibilities of this technique.

The ancient art of Batik, a method of fabric decoration using hot wax and dyes, is another class which is gaining popularity.

Weaving on large floor looms is offered at the Center, as well as macrame', braiding, dying and spinning.

A class in jewelry covers all techniques of working in silver and gold, semi-precious stones, and various natural materials.

Always popular are the classes in painting, drawing, sculpture and ceramics. There is, in addition to these, an Art Workshop which encompasses a variety of art media such as collage, assemblage and graphic processes.

Registration may be made by calling the Art Center at 221-8602, or by picking up a schedule during the hours of operation, from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Completes Training

Army Private Dan A. Simonds, son of Mr. and Mrs. A.S. Simonds, 4574 Grimsby Rd., Columbus, recently completed eight weeks of basic training at the U.S. Army Training Center, Armor, Ft. Knox, Ky.

He received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

He received the training with Company A, 8th Battalion of the 4th Training Brigade.

Who's looking after your interest?

If you're saving money, it's only natural that you re-examine and re-evaluate the amount of interest you are making from time to time. But this time around, try to look at more than the simple arithmetic of the matter.

The Ohio State Bank Cookie Jar Time Deposit Account, for example, adds up to a lot more than just 5% interest compounded quarterly. Sure, any deposit made by the tenth earns interest from the first. And the rate of interest is one of the highest you can earn from a commercial bank. But the real test of who's looking after your interest is the people you save with and how they serve you.

Visit your local Ohio State Bank office and find out about truly personal service. While you're at it pick up a free cookie jar for opening one of our Cookie Jar Time Deposit Accounts with as little as $50.00. It's bound to be in your own best interest.

AT LAST, the forgotten woman—who wears dress sizes 12 to 20—can now look chic and young and elegant!

A NEW FIRM, J S Limited, formed by Jerry Silverman and his partner Shannon Rodgers, is making dresses for the thousands of beautiful, elegant, young women who have larger frames, or perhaps more weight and height—but still like to show the figure they spend so much time and money to keep in shape. They want clothes with color, contour, drama, that transcend the years and the seasons.

"The thing we noticed most in our travels to stores was the sad lack of beautiful clothes for the woman who needed more help than the smaller types, who can walk out in anything," said Jerry Silverman. Jerry decided to do something about it.

THE RESULT is a collection for Spring 1973 that will make even the size 20 look like a size 10, with subtle fool-the-eye tricks to diminish, yet play up the larger figure—princess, chemise, and graceful floral shapes. Interesting necklines, the clever contrast of dark inserts down the center and sides of patterned fibranne dresses, elegant use of tucks and scallops, and stunning butterfly-tinted short floats of layered chiffon.

THE J S Ltd. collection is complete—daytime, cocktail and evening clothes—a new kind of magic from the Silverman empire!

Speaking of Beauty

By Martha Massey

WHEN A HAIRDRESSER GOES OUT OF BUSINESS!

And it does happen. Some gals get married and others retire. Whatever the reason it is always rough for the satisfied patrons who are left behind. There would be a lot of unhappy women in this town if we ever decided to take down our shingle, I know. We just want to let it be known that if you ever have to look for someone who will try to understand you like your old hairdresser did, that we're here, and we'll try like the dickens to please you. It would be a good idea if you'd just try us in an emergency sometime, when your regular gal or guy can't squeeze you in. That way you'll always have the comfortable feeling of having a spare around.

Oil On Troubled Waters

UNITED STATES Oil Week, the spokesman for the oil business, came up with some very interesting tax facts for 1971. The 18 largest oil companies in the nation earned over ten billion dollars and only paid an average of 6.7 per cent of their net income to the federal government. The average family of four with an income of $15,000 pays about twice that much.

Standard Oil of California paid just 1.6 per cent of their income, Standard Oil of Ohio paid a roaring 2.0 per cent, Conoco paid 2.1 per cent, and Texaco and Gulf both paid 2.3 per cent.

HOW CAN this happen? Very logically. Over the past few years the federal government wanted to encourage exploration for new oil fields. In order to do this, they made the oil-producing business almost free of tax burdens.

Yet, every newspaper we pick up and every tube we turn on now tells us that we are running low on oil supplies. Energy people are telling you that the environmental laws are too strict, the Environmental Protection Agency should be gutted, and the low oil and gas supply is due in the environmentalists.

THE LARGE, prime time ads are reportedly being paid for out of the shareholders pockets rather than out of the cost of doing business. I do not believe this. A friend of mine has owned shares in Columbia Gas of Ohio for years and to this day has never been asked nor assessed out of his dividends to pay for the ads. The only other place is to hide the cost of the massive ad campaign in the cost of the product.

(If anyone out there owns stock in a natural gas company and has been asked to forgo some of the profits, PLEASE advise me by writing to Box 50, Columbus, Ohio 43216. The Public Utilities Commission has not replied to my questions.)

If indeed there is a shortage of oil and gas, certainly, in the interests of the national well-being, all producers should stop wasting product at the wellhead, clean up their operations, and quit advertising for new business.

EIGHT YEARS ago an oil well was drilled on my property. Try as I might, I could not get the operators to stop the contamination of my stream by oil spillages and brine. If the well had not gone dry, the pollution would still be taking place.

Last month a friend of mine with a farm in Hocking County had an oil well brought in and brine was used to fracture the strata. When I asked him what he was going to do with a pond of saltwater, he replied, "Don't worry about THAT, the drillers flushed it into the creek. It's someone else's problem now."

It used to be the dream of the working man to own an oil well that would add to the material things of life. Nowadays, it is the ruination of wherever it is. With oil riggers in Ohio, there is no environmental ethic.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: Write to your natural gas or oil supplier. Tell them you like the federal EPA law just fine and for them to spend more money on environmental clean-up and less on lobbying.

Historical Society Announces Schedules

The Ohio Historical Society has announced a winter weekend schedule of free natural history demonstrations at the Ohio Historical Center, Interstate 71 and 17th Avenue, Columbus. The demonstrations are in addition to the regular free weekend movies.

The demonstrations, conducted three times each Saturday and Sunday afternoon in the natural history department's natural history mall laboratory, are at 1:30, 2:30 and 3:30 P.M. and conducted by Jacqueline Sams, demonstration laboratory teacher. All the demonstrations are designed to bring the outside into more comfortable surroundings.

In one of the late February demonstrations, partial skeletal remains of a giant mastadon unearthed in 1970 in Union County, are to be utilized.

The two-month schedule:

January 6-7, "Feeding Birds in the Winter;"

January 13-14, "Extinct and Endangered Ohio Birds," including the bald eagle;

January 20-21, "Biological Forms of Pest Control;"

January 27-28, "Non-Human Intelligence" and in which apes and dolphins are discussed.

February 3-4, "What the Glaciers Did to Ohio," in particular Ohio's glacial grooves at Kelleys Island;

February 10-11, "What the Glaciers Did to Ohio"-relates to Cedar Bog, Champaign County;

February 17-18, "1970 Mastadon Dig in Somersville, Ohio;"

February 24-25, "Ohio Minerals."

Demonstrations are additionally given by appointment on weekdays. The Natural History Department, The Ohio Historical Society, 469-5963, maintains an updated list of demonstration topics from which interested groups may choose. Visits to schools by the demonstration instructor can be arranged by contacting the same number.

Real Estate Course Is Set

A course, Real Estate Principles and Practices I, will be offered at the Lockbourne Air Force Base Educational Center during the Winter Quarter, 1973, through the Office of Continuing Education, Lancaster Campus of Ohio University.

The first class session will be held Thursday, January 4, 6:15 to 8:45 p.m. and will continue Thursday evenings for a total of 10 sessions.

The course is one of two required for the renewal of real estate salesmen's licenses issued after January 2, 1972.

Enrollment in the course can be completed at the Educational Building, LAFB Tuesday, December 19, 5 - 8 p.m. Those who are unable to register at this time should contact Anthiny Persi at the Educational Center, 492-3836 or Paul P. Mechling, Lancaster Campus of Ohio University, 654-6711.

The instructor for the course will be Don Fogg, Lancaster Realtor. Fogg received the designation, "Graduate, Realtors Institute," in 1970. He is a district Vice President of The Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards and is president - elect of the Lancaster Board of Realtors.

Further information regarding the course can be obtained from Persi or Mechling at the above phone numbers.

Sertoma Contributes To Center

Robert D. Shoemaker, public relations chairman, and Alan R. Weiler, president of the Board of Directors of the Hearing and Speech Center of Columbus and Central Ohio, recently joined Robert D. Stimpert, executive director of the Center, in accepting two checks totaling $2,000 from Robert Spung, president of the Downtown Luncheon Sertoma Club.

Speech and hearing problems and their treatment are projects which are supported by several Sertoma Clubs in the Franklin County area as well as nationally.

The Downtown Luncheon Sertoma Club has actively supported the Hearing and Speech Center, 1515 Indianola, for many years.

Christian Science Office Opened

A Christian Science Practitioners' office has been opened in the new Railroad Savings Building at 2000 W. Henderson. Sharing the office are Mrs. Gloria Hassell, Mrs. Marcia Huguelet, and Mrs. Harriet Holt, all members of Third Church of Christ, Scientist, Columbus.

Bad Weather Needs More Good Driving

WITH winter here, now's the time to be thinking about good driving in bad weather.

Aetna Life & Casualty, developer of a nationally-used driving simulator called the Aetna Drivotrainer system, has already thought about it. In fact the company has even made a film about it.

Here, from the film, are some tips to keep in mind:

IN BAD weather drivers often can't see as well as usual nor stop as quickly. So go out of your way to make your intentions known. Use hand as well as mechanical signals and pump your brakes when stopping or slowing. This makes brake lights more noticeable and gives you the added advantage of greater control on icy surfaces.

Drive more slowly than normally and leave extra stopping distance between your car and the one ahead. If the road is slippery don't turn, brake or accelerate suddenly, but develop a light touch on the controls.

HAZARDOUS conditions demand that you keep an eye on other people's driving, too. If a motorist's speed indicates he may skid through a stop sign, for instance, be ready to avoid the impending accident.

And, don't let poor driving conditions "shake you up." Anger or nervousness tends to make you accident prone. Take your time and try to remain calm even in frustrating situations.

State Employe Rolls Increase 5071 Over '71

AUDITOR of State Joseph T. Ferguson announced this week that the number of Ohio state employees has increased 5,071 over this time last year.

In November of this year the number of employees totaled 52,246 while last year there were 48,175 persons employed by the state of Ohio.

The three largest state employers are the Department of Mental Health and Retardation (created from the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction) 15,116, Department of Transportation, (created from the Department of Highways) 9,964 and the Bureau of Employment services with 3,723.

A SECOND department, now called the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction, also was created from the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction. The new Department of Rehabilitation and Correction employes 3,297 persons.

Only the Department of Mental Health and Retardation pays it's employes out of the state's general revenue fund. Salaries for employes in the Department of Transportation are paid from gasoline taxes and the Bureau of Employment Services salaries are paid from federal funds.

NOVEMBER employment and salary figures for the seven major divisions of state government (last year's in parentheses) were:

Supreme Court of Ohio 48 employes, $42,547.20 in slaaries (41 employes, $35,238.40 in salaries); Legislative, 288 employes, $257,830.31 in salaries (362 employes, $364,838.95 in salaries); Elected Officials, 1,223 employes, $922,191.82 in salaries (1,024 employes, $700,750.84 in salaries); Executive, 48,004 employes, $31,257,445.50 in salaries (43,495 employes, $24,676,239.51 in salaries); Education, 1,030 employes, $739,585.77 in salaries (956 employes, $603,353.89 in salaries); Regulatory Agencies, 1,764 employes, $1,142,831.80 in salaries (1,257 employes, $779,895.31 in salaries) and Special Agencies 516 empl;oyes $338,988.56 in salaries (572 employes $320,624.55.)

1040 U.S. Individual ... Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) Are there lower tax rates for widows or widowers?

A) Yes, a widow or widower who can qualify may use the lower tax rates to compute his or her tax. You are entitled to the benefit for certain widows or widowers if your husband (or wife) died within the two years preceding the year for which the tax is being computed and you meet the following requirements:

1) You must have been entitled to file a joint return with your husband (or wife) for the year of death—whether or not you actually filed jointly;

2) You have not remarried;

3) You have a child or step-child who qualifies as your dependent; and

4) You furnish over half the cost of maintaining your home, which is the principal residence of your dependent child or step-child except for temporary absences.

Q) I spent over $800 for an operation on my 22-year-old son. I can't claim him as a dependent because he earns over $750 and is not a student. Can I still deduct his medical expenses on my return?

A) Yes. You may deduct medical expenses paid for a person you could claim as a dependent except for the fact that he or she had income of $750 or more, or filed a joint return with his or her husband (or wife). This means that all other dependency tests must be met, including your furnishing over one-half of the person's total support for the year.

Q) I received a $2,000 Federal disaster loan to repair damage caused to my business by tropical storm Agnes. The loan was cancelled and the debt forgiven. Does this have any effect on my taking a casualty loss deduction?

A) Yes. You must reduce your casualty loss deduction by the amount of the cancelled loan. If you have already taken the casualty loss deduction by amending your 1971 return without taking into account the cancelled loan, you must include the cancelled amount in your 1972 income to the extent the deduction reduced your 1971 tax liability.

In case the cancelled amount of the loan, plus any insurance reimbursements, exceed your adjusted basis in the property, you have a gain from an involuntary conversion. For more information, see IRS Publication 547, "Tax Information on Disasters, Casualty Losses, and Thefts." It's available free by writing your Internal Revenue district office.

Q) Which of my home expenses can I deduct?

A) Homeowners who itemize their deductions may deduct the real estate taxes paid on their property and the interest portion of their mortgage payments. Utility costs, repair and maintenance expenses are not deductible.

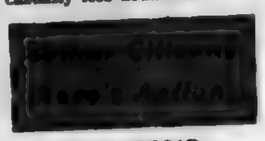
Improvements to a home or property are considered capital expenditures and are added to the property's basis.

Q) My child is co-owners of my savings bonds. Does this mean that he is taxed on one-half of the interest?

A) No. If a child is named as co-owner of U.S. Savings Bonds bought and paid for by his parent, interest on those bonds is taxable to the parent. This applies even if the parent permits the child to redeem the bonds at or before their maturity, and to keep the entire proceeds. However, interest on such bonds bought solely in the child's name is income to the child, even if the parent paid for them and is named as beneficiary. The interest is included in the child's income in the year the bonds mature or are redeemed, unless he has elected to report the interest income as it accrues annually. IRS Publication 576, "Tax Information on United States Savings Bonds," furnishes additional information. A free copy may be obtained from your IRS district office.

Q) What is the social security tax rate for 1973?

A) The current social security tax rate is 5.2 percent for both employers and employees. This tax rate applies to a maximum wage base of $9,000. This means that an individual will generally pay up to $468 in social security tax in 1973.



Q) My employer pays the premiums on a group-term life insurance policy providing $20,000 worth of coverage for each of his employees. Can I be taxed on the premiums?

A) No. The only time such premiums must be included in your income is if the coverage of the group-term life insurance exceeds $50,000 and then only the cost of the policy in excess of the amount charged for this coverage is taxable.

Q) Can a farmer's livestock qualify for the investment credit?

A) Yes. Livestock other than horses acquired after Aug. 15, 1971, or before Aug. 16, 1971 (if ordered after March 31, 1971), qualifies for the investment credit. For more information, see IRS Publication 572, "Tax Information on Investment Credit." It's available free by dropping a postcard to your Internal Revenue district office.

For more information, see IRS Publication 530, "Tax Information on Deductions for Homeowneers." It's available free by writing myour Internal Revenue district office.

ALCOHOL AND DRIVING

Most people know that just a small amount of alcohol in your body can affect your driving skills. Highway Safety Director Pete O'Grady warns all drivers not to drink before driving. The tragic cost is too great!

Carbon Monoxide Is Sudden Death

Headache? Tired all over? Upset feeling? If you're at home, reach for whatever the doctor orders.

BUT IF YOU'RE driving your car, reach for the window handle—and quickly. Those catch phrases for TV patent remedy ads are also prime symptoms for one of driving's most subtle hazards—carbon monoxide poisoning, warns Aetna Life & Casualty.

CARBON MONOXIDE, a colorless, odorless gas that lurks in engine exhaust, can kill you in the time it takes to drive around the block. Proper ventilation is the only sure way to eliminate the danger. Keep these tips from Aetna in mind:

In stop-and-go traffic, close forward fan vents. They suck in other cars' exhaust. Open both wind vents or windows a half inch or more. This permits cross ventilation away from the sources of fumes.

Don't rely solely on louvre-type ventilation systems to keep air fresh. They're good at drawing air in, but aren't designed to dispell it. Thus, harmful fumes may remain in the car.

In station wagons, never open only the tailgate window. Air currents created by the car's motion actually draw exhaust fumes in through a rear opening.

Perhaps most important, have your car's exhaust system checked twice a year. A stone or ice chunk can put a hole in the muffler, allowing exhaust to escape under the car and seep through the floor.

STARS FADE

Ever stop to think about those glamorous movie-stars of the 1930's and 40's who made smoking so romantic? Where are they now? A great many are dead—of lung cancer, heart disease, and respiratory problems. Don't join them. Kick the habit. Call the TB Society at 228-6704 and find out more about the Five Day Plan Withdrawal Clinic.

Silk Screens Create Card Design

St. Pius students enjoyed learning about the silk screening process in a pre-Christmas class workshop. The various steps were explained to them by Mrs. Pat Johnson, a Spectator Newspaper production department employe.

PICK A DESIGN and the colorful scene just doesn't show in blacks, whites and grays. The carefully done works of art had exceptional originality in design and color selection that had simplicity but directness. Although Christmas and the holiday season was predominant in most of the card designs the winter, football, and general thoughts of young people also prevailed.

Most of the designs created by the students depicted trhe holiday season with much concentrated on the winter wonderland that hasn't arrived.

The seventh and eighth grades projects were another in a series of projects created for the students to better understand how they can create from learning.

NOW, I WONDER how everyone will like my two special colorful projects might be what Sue Johnson is thinking about. Sue was very careful in the paper texture and design process she used. She gives more than an approving glance at two of her finished products.

Appointed Manager

Bernie Sully, 6504 Carriage Lane, Reynoldsburg, has been appointed manager of property development for Ohio National Bank, accordin to an announcement by W.C. Mercer, president and chief executive officer.

Sully will be responsible for all phases of real estate property development for the bank, including land acquisition or leasing of space for new branch offices. He will also supervise the leasing of space to tenants of the high-rise office building to be built by Ohio National at the corner of 4th and Broad Streets.

He is a past president of the Agonis Club and currently serves as treasurer of the board of trustees of the Godman Guild. In addition he is a member of the Charity Newsies and the American Institute of Banking.

NEW YEAR'S EVE
Ring In The New Year At The Biltmore

Fun is the password at the Biltmore Cafe for the New Year's Holiday.

The celebration starts Friday and lasts three big days and nights--nonstop!--for the New Year's Weekend. There will be great "live" entertainment at a No cover, no minimum price you can afford!

The Biltmore, a landmark in the Hilltop, is located at 2414 W. Broad St., and provides a 24-Hour meeting place for good friends, good talk and good food.

Regular prices will prevail on the New Year's weekend, owner Don Leppert confirmed. 3.2 beer will be served on Sunday until 12 Midnight; plus all legal beverages served from 12 to 2:30 a.m. Join your friends for late food service and stay until the bar reopens at 5 a.m. New Year's Day.

Plan ahead--plan now!--to ring in the New Year with the great crowd at the Biltmore. And one more thing--the staff and owner wish all their friends and guests a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, too.

Eastmoor Provides Area Cage Sparklers

THE BIG story in area cage circles last week was the double win that found Eastmoor taking Columbus South and Bishop Ready. It could be the big story of the cage year since it is doubtful that any team can come up with a better two-game parlay in such a short span.

The muscular and steady Eastmoor team proved itself more than flash-in-the-panners with clutch basketball that came at just the right time.

ALTHOUGH Rick Ghanian's last second basket was the clincher against South it was a team effort against strong South as well as against Ready that meant the difference in the won-lost column.

The Columbus schools take a holiday break from league action but traditionally tough non-league games will find plenty of action now through Saturday before the year-end break.

Some of the top-notchers should be the Ready at undefeated Canton Lehman clash Saturday and the East at Canton Lincoln battle Thursday.

THE OHIO Capital Conference first place is at stake tonight when Westerville (5-0 league and 8-0 overall) is host to Delaware (5-0 league and 7-0 overall). Terry Yoakum's Cats have proved themselves come-backers after winless Reynoldsburg took a 15-12 first period lead before the Cats stormed back to take a 63-50 win.

Delaware just managed to edge Mt. Vernon last week and the Cats will have to be at their best tonight.

ANOTHER slate of OCC games Friday has Westerville at defending champion Mt. Vernon in another must tilt.

Grove City, following up an undefeated football season with an identical unbeaten cage season, leads the Mid-8 pack with a 5-0 league and 8-0 all games record. The Greyhounds take on Mifflin in their only holiday game and should take the Cowpunchers provided all are up to par.

Bexley is idle this week and sports the second place spot

Friday, Dec. 29 - Marion Franklin at Mifflin, Central at Cincinnati Hughes, Eastmoor at Newark, Walnut Ridge at Salem, Dublin at St. Charles, Watterson at Delphos St. John and Pickerington at Indian Valley South.

UP, UP AND AWAY

READY IN KNOTS

SUPERB PLAY by Eastmoor's Jeff Voneida (32) among others was one of the reasons for the downfall of Bishop Ready's State Class AA champions last week. After 29 in a row without defeat Ready was unable to steadily halt plays like this. Ready players shown are Chuck Seipel (21), Robert Cumberlander (53), Jimmy Jones (13) and Don Gardner (25). WHICH MERCHANT KNOWS THE BUCKEYES ? ? ?

AROUND TOWN

BY NOW all the packages are unwrapped, hopefully you are rested from the hustle and bustle of Christmas, and are now enjoying this wonderful Holiday week. How it is time to start planning you big New Year's bash. That is, if you haven't already done so.

THIS year Around Town things look pretty quiet for New Year's Eve. Lots of house parties are planned. With the big night falling on a Sunday, there are onlya relatively few clubs open to help ring in the New Year. A few of the spots are celebrating Saturday night.

The majority of clubs, lounges and restaurants are not doing anything special Saturday night, and only those spots that have a Sunday liquor license will be ringing in the new Sunday night. These places represent a small minority of spots in the county.

SO, IF YOU are planning on going out to whoop it up, you had better find out if your favorite place is planning anything special, and, if so, what night. Also, if you are making plans to attend one of the night spots on Sunday, take my advice, make reservations early, because these will be sold out in advance that's for sure.

As in past years, here is our guide as to what is going on Around Town for New Year's Eve. These are the restaurants, clubs and lounges that I recommend. The only difference with this year's guide, is that it's much smaller due to the fact that New Year's Eve is on Sunday night.

Desert Inn. Sunday - Dining and Dancing in the Aztec Room. Entertainment provided by the New Shades. $5. per person cover. No cover in the other rooms.

Diamond Jim's - Saturday - $15. per couple. Starts at 7 p.m. until ?. Includes a Buffet Dinner featuring roast beef, turkey and chicken along with Champagne. Entertainment for dancing and listening by Pear, a fabulous show group.

Lincoln Lodge - Saturday, but have one, two and three day packages for those that want to check in and enjoy plenty of good food. Saturday night finds Paul DeJoya in the ballroom playing for dancing, including a meal of steak, prime rib, or fisherman's catch. Price with a room for one night is $15 per person. Without the rooms is $8 per person. The Keith-Charles Duo will be in the lounge with no cover or minimum. For two nights including all meals, price is $36.72 per person, and for three nights with all meals, the price is $47.72 per person. Take your pick and have a ball at Lincoln Lodge.

Marriott Inn Motel - Sunday - For $34.95 per couple, you get a gourmet dinner and a half bottle of champagne, with music for dining and dancing provided by the Duke Jenkins Trio. If you want a room with the above, add $10 per couple.

Ohio Stater Inn - Saturday - $15 per couple includes champagne buffet dinner with prime riband international dishes. Entertainment by Stringtwon Road, a very good group. For $10 more per couple you receive a room and a continental breakfast.

Ramada Inns. Read carefully. They have so many things going on for New Year's Eve. At Ramada North, it all happens on Sunday night. For $24.77 per person you get a lovely buffet dinner featuring a 20 item salad bar, ships round of beef, lobster newburg, pan fried chicken, a host of other items, including champagne and wine served throughout your meal. ALSO, ALL THE LIQUOR AND BEER YOU CAN DRINK. All top shelf. Special entertainment planned in the ballroom. No cover or minimum in the restaurant and lounge, featuring top in entertainment. Ramada Inns East and South have the very same deal, EXCEPT IT WILL BE HELD ON SATURDAY NIGHT. Rooms are $10 with a limit of four people to a room.

Westland Cinema - Both Saturday and Sunday night, Midnight shows, playing "Lady Sings The Blues," with Diana Ross, and "Up The Sandbox," Barbara Striesand.

So there you have it friends, take your pick and have a great time. Just one thing, do be careful driving after your celebration, because I would like to have all of you back reading this column next year.

To all of you, may 1973 be the most prosperous, happiest and best year of all for each and every one of you. HAPPY NEW YEAR!

They're Rewarded

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

The Worthington Community Theater is now doing "See How They Run" by Phillip King instead of "The Barker", as originally scheduled. Tryouts were held last week and Curt Meeks has announced his cast.

Bonnie Curley, Dick Waugh and Steven Black have leading roles, while supporting roles go to Bill Crawford, John Crawford, Bob Ratusz, Creston Reese and Susie Rhineholt.

Sister Barberine Hudock has one of the funniest roles I have seen in some years. She will be an old maid. tea-totaling, busy-body parishioner who gets very tipsy as the show progresses. This is a fun show, one to go to when you are in the mood for slapstick comedy and sore sides from laughing. It will be presented February 23,24, March 2 and 3. If you have never seen it, make room for it on your calandar. I intend to see it for the umpteenth time.

Rehearsals for "The Owl And The Pussycat" with Linda Browning and Mike McGee are drawing to a close. Jim Dippel is directing and performances are Jan. 5, 6, 12, 13, 19 and 20, at The Little Theatre Off Broadway, 3651 N. Broadway in Grove City. Have you ever been to a cast party for a two character play? Quiet, aren't they?

OSU College Of The Arts Announces Winter Schedule

A busy and well-balanced schedule of events for Winter Quarter has been announced by the Ohio State University College of The Arts. There are just under 50 events in the recently-published listing which includes faculty recitals, guest artist appearances, exhibits, clinics and lectures, dance concerts, plays, Great Artist Series events, and School of Music ensemble concerts.

FOUR recently-appointed faculty members at the School of Music will present their first local appearances during the coming weeks. They are Christopher Kimber, violinist; William Conable, cellist; James Mathis, pianist; and Mario Alch, tenor. The Faculty Recital Series also includes performances by James Jones, French horn; George Haddad, pianist; Marilyn Meier, soprano; Richard Burkart, trumpet; Paul Kiesgen, bassObaritone; Rosemary Platt, pianist; and the Brass and Wooodwind Quintets.

Performances in the Guest Artist Series at the School of Music will feature Joseph Tague, pianist; Malcolm Bilson, forteplanist; a multimedia presentation, titled "Crystals," which includes electronic music and slide projections of chemical salts; Clark Terry, jazz trumpeter; and Ronald Vardy, guitarist. Other guests in the College of The Arts will include Gerre Hancock, organist; Carlos Montoya, guitarist; and the guitar duo, Los Indios Tabajaras.

THE GREAT Artist Series will present three events: Shirley Verrett, saprano; Misha Dichter, pianist; and the Americana Dance Theatre.

University Theatre and professional company dramatic productions on the schedule include Shakespeare's "As You Like It," "Echoes," "Orpheus Descending," Aristophanes' "The Birds," and "Telemachus Clay."

THE OHIO State University Dance Company will present its 1973 concert series in late February. Three identical performances will feature the first performances of three new dance works.

The Hopkins Hall Gallery will present exhibitions of the works of Aidron Duchworth, Betty Collings, Erwin Heber, Lee Csuri, and Milton Osborne. The season will open with a showing of works from six centuries of art from the collection of the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts.

PERFORMANCES by the major ensembles from the School of Music will be presented by the University Chorus, Opera Theatre, University Symphony, Jazz Ensembles, Concert Band, Concert Choir, Black Choir, Percussion Ensemble, Brass Choir, Buckeye Bands, and Women's Glee Club. The first orchestra concert, on January 31, will feature two new faculty artists--James Mathis, pianist, and William Conable, cellist. Conable, also associate conductor of the orchestra, will direct the annual Concerto-Aria concert in March, which will feature outstanding student soloists.

THE GREAT Artist Series will present three events: Shirley Verrett, saprano; Mish

Clinics and workshops, special lectures, student recitals, and Laboratory Theatre performances will also occur throughout the quarter.

On The Street Where You Live

Dialects Differ When You Cross Your Street

WHICH SIDE of the country people live on has a lot to do with how they talk. In Columbus, it becomes a question of which side of the street they live on.

Broad St. (U.S. Route 40) divides two of the country's three major dialect 'stripe, according to Dr. Francis L. Utley, professor of English at Ohio State University.

"That's why you get such a mixture of dialects in Columbus," Dr. Utley explained. "According to the theory, those who live on the north side of Broad St. will probably tell you they live in 'ownayow.' Those on the south side should claim 'ahaya' as their home. Obviously, the boundry isn't that distinct, but most dialecticians have agreed upon arbitrary boundaries for dialect strips. Broad St. happens to be one of the major divisions."

HE EXPLAINED that the Linguistic Atlas of America first proposed three jasnor dialect areas during the 1930's, and scholars of dialect have accepted them. The Northern area begins in New England and New York, crosses the Mississippi River and branches out in the West. The Midland strip stretches from Pennsylvania across the Appalachians. The Southern strip can be traced from Virginia to Texas and the Southwest.

Broad St. marks the division of the Northern and Midland strips.

DR. UTLEY explained that the divisions are somewhat arbitrary, but are based now on settlement trends. Those who settled in the Northern and Southern regions generally came from southern England, while midland settlers came from Northern England and Scotland. Consequently, Midlanders have preserved a hint of a Scottish trill at the end of some words.

"This shows up in words like 'more,'" Utley said. "Midlanders say 'mor' while Northerners say 'mowa' and Southerners say 'mo'"

NOT ONLY is Columbus a combination of Northern and Midland dialect, it is also a conglomeration of several secondary dialect regions. The Western Reserve and the Ohio Land Company introduced the New England influence to northeastern Ohio and the Marietta region. In these areas, the New England influence is indicated in words like "fowa" for "four." The Virginia Military District, extending from the Portsmouth area up to Columbus, brought the southern dialect from the Tidewater area of Virginia. Consequently, some residents of Columbus say "fo" for "four."

Dr. Utley pointed out the big cities always have blurred dialects, being true to none of the three major dialect regions.

He attributed the loss of dialect to the influence of radio and television and the increasing mobility of most people. In his studies, he concentrates on small communities where the people grow up with a dialect and retain it. He added that most individuals have developed their own dialect by the time they reach the age of seven.

Dr. Utley is currently working on Phase 2 of Project DARE (Dictionary of American Regional English). Co-sponsored by the University of Wisconsin and the U.S. Office of Education, the dictionary is expected to be published by 1976 and has been accepted by the American Bicentennial Commission.

Phase 1 was the collection of 2,300,000 items of regional vocabulary. Phase 2 is the editing and fund-raising portion of the project.

DR. UTLEY has come across several "typically Ohio" words in his studies of dialect. For example, northern Ohioans call migrant harvesters "marshrats." People around Marietta refer to the land between the sidewalk and curb as "the devil's strip." A "work brickle" is someone who's lazy, according to southeastern Ohioans.

Members of the Central Ohio Committee on DARE are prepared to talk about Ohio regional English and DARE to interested societies or groups, according to Dr. Utley. The committee also includes Drs. Robert Jeffers and Dudley Hascall of Ohio State; Jeff Rackham of Capital University; and William Klein of Kenyon College.

A native of Wisconsin, Dr. Utley joined the Ohio State faculty in 1935. He has been a professor of English since 1947, serving as a visiting professor at Columbia University (1950), Harvard University (1956) and the University of California at Berkeley (1967). He was also a Fulbright lecturer at the University of Padua and the Instituto Universitario di Economia e Commercia in Venice (1954-55).

Snowmobile Trails Set For State Parks

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources will provide locations in eight state parks for snowmobiling this winter.

Designation of the areas will enable snowmobilers to enjoy their sport in safety, while private property owners can have their privacy and environmental damage can be kept to a minimum, Natural Resources Director William B. Nye said.

THE AREAS for snowmobiling have been designated under a recreational vehicle control law approved by the Ohio legislature in 1971.

Snowmobiles operated on state property must be registered with the Bureau of Motor Vehicles by January 1. Registration costs $5.50. The bureau has designated one deputy registrar in each county seat to issue registrations on snowmobiles.

Nye said the fee money will be used for future recreational vehicle projects.

REGISTRATION of snowmobiles operated only on private property will not be required.

"Snowmobiling is growing in popularity in the United States and Ohio has its share;" Nye said. "These citizens need land to enjoy their sport without bothering private owners, distrubing wildlife and damaging the environment."

The state parks in which snowmobiling areas have been designated are: Buckeye Lake, Fairfield County; Grand Lake St. Marys, Mercer County; West Branch, Portage County; Portage Lakes, Summit County; East Harbor, Ottawa County, Lake Loramie, Auglaize County; Indian Lake, Logan County; and Punderson, Geauga County.

Snowmobilers are subject to Division of Parks and Recreation rules, which limit operation to posted areas and during periods of adequate snowfall. The division recommends snowmobiling on lakes only when ice thickness exceeds five inches.

NYE SAID most areas are located in Ohio's snow belt near state and federal highways.

He said environmental factors such as soil stability, wildlife populations, vegetative cover, noise factors and compatibility with other recreational uses were considered in choosing the specific areas.

THE department is also publishing a map and list of the eight state-owned areas and 15 private landowners who will allow snowmobiling on their property. Most of the private owners will charge a fee. Copies may be obtained from the Publications Center, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, 1500 Dublin Road, Columbus, Ohio 43215.

'Dark Of The Moon' Is Next Gallery Production

Diane Disque will be seen in the role of Barbara Allen, the mountain girl who unwittingly married a witch boy turned human by a conjur woman, in the Gallery Players' production of "Dark of the Moon," the folk play with music which will open at The Jewish Center, 1125 College Ave., Saturday, Jan. 27.

This is the Howard Richardson-William Berney dramatization of the eerie legend of Barbara Allen and the mountain people of the Great Smokies of North Carolina.

The part of John, the Witch Boy, will be played by Rodger Gerhardstein. The Witch Boy, whose eyes have fallen on the buxom beauty of the valley – Barbara Allen, makes a bargain with the Conjur Woman to be turned into a human so that he can marry the girl.

It is a condition of the bargain that if she is untrue to him before the end of the year he will be returned to the Witch Girls.

Marcey Sapp will be seen as the Conjur Woman, George Cappell as Marvin Hudgens, Julian Barnett as a word-slinging Baptist preacher, and Glen Bittner as a ballad-chanting old reprobate.

Other roles have been assigned to Bea Roth, William Cupp, Muriel Gundersheimer, Harry Schubert, Helen Carmen, Michelle Hall, James Morris, and Kathy Graham.

The Gallery Players' presentation of "Dark of the Moon" will continue at The Jewish Center for six performances through February 4.

Harold M. Eisenstein is in charge of the staging, Glenn Bittner and Richard Northrup are supervising the musical direction, and John Crawford is designing the unusual settings.

Warriors Win Bowl

On Sunday, Dec. 10 the 5th annual Holiday Bowl was played on the Belle Memorial Gridiron, nin the heart of central Bexley.

On this actionpacked afternoon, the South Stanwood Warriors topped the East Alley Longhorns by a score of 47 to 46.

The Warriors captain and star sensation, Tom Taggart, scored the typing touchdown with a mere 11 seconds remaining on referee Mike Hill's watch.

Then on the extra point conversion, Taggart was called upon again, This time he sprang through the line and was met hard at the goal line by Longhorn captain Adam Knolls.

Taggart managed to overcome his attacker and surge past the goal line for the tie breaking point.

Knolls and the Longhorns took a commanding lead with 6 minutes remaining, 46-33. The Warriors would not give in, twice stopping Longhorn drives on the fourth down and inches.

After halting these two Longhorn drives, the Warriors marched down the field for consecutive tallies.

Lesley, being hit by five Warriors, went soaring into the stands where 39 spectators were viewing the classic. This was the largest Holiday Bowl crowd ever.

Receiving the MVP award for the 1972-73 season was Duke "George" Knolls, the younger brother of all-star Adam Knolls.

Duke played for the Inland City Generals, a team who finished in sixth place out of the eight teams in the Youngster's Football League.

Dark Days And Driving

During the winter months it gets light later and dark earlier. More persons are driving to and from work in semi-darkness. Your Highway Safety Department reminds you to use low-beam headlights when your drive in these half-light periods. It's a good idea to start for work a few minutes earlier than usual. And don't make a dangerous dash for home at the end of the day! Take your time. Use care, courtesy and caution at all times and make driving safer for all.

Paintings On Display

REYNOLDSBURG High School art students displayed their talents at the City National Bank this week with paintings, sculptures printing and Batik among the exhibits. Bob Pangborn and Lisa Pinkerman show off Lisa's painting in oil. Other exhibits were: Painting: Jim Moon, Lisa Pinkerman, Bob Pangborn, Rick Dressel, Glenn Ludwig and Ann Patterson; Batik: Meredith Krivda, Marsha Ankrum and Karen Lawrence and Printing: Chris Viagio. Bexley Women Host Interfaith Brunch

The Bexley United Methodist women will host an Interfaith Brunch on Jan. 9 at 10 a.m., in the Fellowship Hall of the Church.

This ecumenical gathering will be shared with the women of Zion Chapter of B'nai B'rith, the Sisterhood of Agudas Achim Synagogue, the Women's Clubs of St. Catherine's and Christ the King Catholic Churches.

The Brunch will be prepared and furnished by the women of Zion Chapter of B'nai B'rith, assisted by Bexley's United Methodist Women.

The presidents or chairmen of these guest groups are: Zion Chapter, Mrs. Stanley Wasserstrom; Sisterhood of Agudas Achim Synagogue, Mrs. Stanley Vogel; Women's Club of Christ the King, Mrs. John Murdock; and Women's Club of St. Catharine's, Mrs. Thomas Meyers. The president of the Bexley United Methodist Women is Mrs. Richard Anderson.

The theme of the program of involvement is "Exploration of Inner Space" and will be led by the Reverend and Mrs. Henry Gerner who are on the staff of the Ohio Council of Churches.

This program promises an hour of excitement, interest, and thought provacation.

The Coordinator for this event will be Mrs. Carl Falter of Bexley United Methodist Church.

Baby sitters will be available in the nursery of the church. Reservations should be made.

Vol VXI No. 4 Total 868 | Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday January 3, 1973 | 15 Cents

'Twas The Day After Christmas . . .

WELL, HE MADE IT back home after the joyous visit around the world to have the pleasure of having his own family Christmas in front of a warm fireplace. The jolly, but tired, old man couldn't wait to get in his favorite rocking chair, prop up his feet and catch up on reading his favorite newspaper, The Spectator. Santa Claus left a lot of gifts for Spectator subscribers the best of which is the new Spectator TV Times that is included with this issue. It came to you free with this issue and will continue to come weekly with your home delivery of your own neighborhood Spectator. It's now obvious, isn't it, that Santa probably sleeps with his beard under the covers...and maybe Mrs. Claus will knit that hole in his sock before next Christmas rolls around. Board Member Criticizes Magazine

THOMAS B. CONNERY
Special Staff Writer

The Columbus Board of Education passed a resolution at its Dec. 19 meeting directing Supt. John Ellis to write a critical letter to Newsweek magazine concerning the publication's "recent trend in news coverage and advertising."

Board member Paul Langdon, who introduced the resolution, described the trend as increasing use of sexually oriented material.

"Newsweek is attempting to become an adult magazine," said Langdon, "and is therefore less desirable for use by children in school."

He said that the magazine is "promoting sex to sell the magazine."

AFTER THE MEETING, Langdon gave as an example a recent issue of Newsweek in which a young couple was shown nude to the waist on the cover.

"The picture really had nothing to do with the story," Langdon said. The story concerned sexual therapy for middle-age adults.

Although Langdon said the story "in general was good," he said it is not the type of thing children should be reading. He said that if the trend continues he will recommend to the board that the use of Newsweek in the schools be stopped.

LANGDON DID NOT give examples of objectionable advertising.

Board member Marilyn Redden said, "We may go after some other magazines too."

A request for a bus by Joe Harmon, president of Milo-Grogan Council, caused a lively discussion among board members and members of the audience.

HARMON REQUESTED a bus for children walking to Monroe Jr. High who have to cross Leonard Ave. at St. Clair Ave., behind Bolivar Arms.

He said that the sidewalks are always dangerously icy, and that students must stand for long periods of time in cold or rain waiting for traffic to pass on a continuous right turn lane.

Harmon said that traffic is heavy on the continuous right turn lane and that it is hazardous for children to cross there.

THE CHILDREN WALK because they live less than two miles from school. It is board policy to provide buses only for children who live more than two miles from school.

Board President Thomas Moyer asked F. T. Rudy, assistant superintendent for business services, how that area compared with other areas.

Rudy said that there was nothing exceptional about the problem, and that the problem was no different than that faced by other areas of the city. Rudy said that the school system had a fund that could provide warmer clothing for the students.

FOLLOWING RUDY'S COMMENTS, Mildred Ford, 831 E. 4th Ave. said, "We came here for help, not to be compared or judged."

Moyer explained that he had asked Rudy to compare areas because he wanted to determine if the board's entire policy concerning bus transportation should be reviewed.

Moyer suggested that arrangements be made with the city to have the sidewalks salted at the viaduct, and then discuss and review the general policy at the Jan. 9 committee of the whole meeting.

SEVERAL MEMBERS of the audience objected to this, as did board members Dr. Watson Walker, Marie Castleman, and Dr. David Hamlar.

"The problem must be dealt with now," Walker said. "They've been after it for weeks and they need immediate relief.

"It's a fact of providing one bus, and that is the least we can do," he said.

Board member Virginia Prentice said that other areas would also say that they have the same problem and demand action.

"THAT'S WHY it should be deferred until the January 9 meeting," she said.

"It is the responsibility of the board to correct a hazard before someone is killed," Walker said.

Mrs. Castleman made a motion to provide a bus until the general policy could be reviewed at the Jan. 9 meeting.

Mrs. Prentice made a motion to table Mrs. Castleman's motion until the Jan. 9 meeting.

THE MOTION BY Mrs. Prentice was defeated, with Moyer Mrs. Castleman, Walker and Hamlar voting it down.

Mrs. Castleman's motion to provide a bus was then passed, with six members voting in favor and Langdon abstaining.

The board also heard from Roger Germany of the Hilltop Civic Council. Germany criticized recent black-white dissension on the board.

HE SAID THAT today's youth are "provided with a ready made excuse to cop out on life's responsibilities.

"If the board does not work together, how can we blame the youth for not working together.

"As conscientious adults we must provide positive leadership, the type that transcends race or color," Germany said.

He said that Columbus has a "unique opportunity to prove or show youth that promises are more than just words, and hope more than just a dream."

Germany asked the board to put away their petty prejudices and "come together in harmony to save our children."

Registration Begins For Adult Education Program

Registration for the Eastland Adult Education program is under way and mailed registrations must be in by Jan. 8. Persons wishing to register in person may do so at the school Jan. 9-11 between 5 and 9 p.m.

RON PATTON NEW SPECTATOR GM

Courtland Purchases Michigan Newspapers, Printing Facility

COURTLAND Communications Corporation Executive Vice President Eldon C. Gensheimer has announced the promotions of two Spectator Newspapers management personnel.

Spectator Newspapers General Manager Donald J. Dorsten has been named to an executive position with two recently acquired Michigan weekly newspapers and a printing company.

Spectator Newspapers Circulation Manager Ronald V. Patton, Sr. has been named General Manager of the Franklin County area Spectator Newspapers replacing Dorsten.

THE NEW Michigan properties are the Richmond Review (Richmond, Mich.) and the St. Claire County Independent Press (Marine City, Mich.), both weekly newspapers and The Industrial Printing Company of Richmond, Michigan.

The acquisition of the Michigan weekly newspapers brings the number of publications in the Courtland chain to 17.

Gensheimer stated, "We are enthusiastic about being in the Michigan area and we consider the newspapers and printing firm a major step in the growth of Courtland Communications."

Gensheimer also said Courtland Communications was pleased that the advancements were able to be made from within the Corporation.

Gensheimer announced that Donald J. Dorsten would be Vice President and Operating Manager for the Michigan properties. "We expect to continue the editorial and printing policies which have pertained and contemplate no personnel changes," Gensheimer said.

Harold Plass will continue as Manager of Industrial Printing and Ralph Sanderson as General Manager of the weeklies.

The new acquisitions bring Courtland's total newspaper circulation to over 245,000.

COURTLAND President Harry H. Stone said, "The acquisitions are another step in our planned expansion into the suburban community market and continued growth in the newspaper and radio communications industry."

Besides the Spectator Newspapers and the newly acquired Michigan properties, Courtland Communications Corporation, the Cleveland-based multi-media chain, also owns WFAS-FM and WWYD-FM in Westchester County, New York; The Rockland (New York) County Independent-Leader; three publications in suburban Cleveland; weekly newspapers in Bergen County, New Jersey and the Photo News newspaper group of four weeklies based in Warwick, New York.

Courtland also operates Gibraltar Publishing Corp., Columbus, Ohio; Collinwood Publishing Corp., Euclid, Ohio and Boulder Publishing Corp., Lake County, Ohio.

DORSTEN became General Manager of Spectator Newspapers in November 1971.

Patton joined Spectator Newspapers October 2, 1972. He previously had been in circulation positions with newspapers in Charleston, West Virginia and Gainesville, Florida and served in a circulation consultant capacity with Whitlock and Co., River Forest, Illinois, a nationally known circulation promotion firm.

HE IS A native of West Virginia and he and his wife, Juanita reside in Columbus.

Wayne Davis Honored For Years Of Service

Seeing that students have the best educational opportunity possible is the way Wayne Davis describes his job as president of both the Whitehall and Eastland Boards of Education.

And he must be doing that job well, as he was recently one of five from throughout the state selected to the All Ohio School Board, an event Davis called "quite an honor."

VITALLY CONCERNED with education today, Davis of 1071 Ross has been on the Whitehall board for almost 10 years and was on the original committee involved in the planning of Eastland Vocation School.

"I've always been interested in education and with two children in school, I guess I've had even a greater concern."

As to why he chose to run for the school board, Davis again referred back to his children.

"ONE OF THE children learned to read by sight and the other by phonetics. I asked the man who was then superintendent why there wasn't a uniform standard for teaching reading or uniform curriculum. He said to me if I wanted to do something about it run for the school board and so I did."

According to Whitehall school superintendent Gilbert Johnson, one of Davis' outstanding qualities is his interest in so many areas of education. "Mr. Davis is concerned with the total aspect of education. He knows the difference between policy making and administration and is certainly well deserving of the honor bestowed upon him recently."

ONE IMPORTANT AREA of involvement for Davis is vocational education.

"I'm very interested in vocational education and did serve on the planning group for Eastland."

"For awhile it seemed that everyone had to go to college. A lot of people started and didn't finish, some who should never have gone in the first place.

"THE SUCCESS of Eastland has proven that there is a place for those who don't want to go on to college. We have students who are hired in their fields before they even graduate."

He pointed out that Whitehall was one of the first schools to offer distributive education. "I'd say we are perhaps five years ahead of some other schools in our career oriented program."

He added that he did not feel vocational education would be stressed much more in the regular high schools due to financing.

"INDIVIDUAL SCHOOL districts don't have the wealth to provide this type. Textbook education is the cheapest kind. The equipment needed at a vocational school is very expensive. I feel that the answer is cooperation among districts the way we've done at Eastland."

He illustrated his point about the finances saying that the original building and equipment at Eastland cost three and a half million dollars. "The new wing will be about one and three quarters million more."

As to the financial position of the school districts, Davis said both Eastland and Whitehall are in good shape.

"WE LOOKED ahead several years in our planning at Eastland and we are in a good financial situation. Very few such schools are in such enviable positions."

As for Whitehall, he said since experiencing a decrease in enrollment, the financial picture here is also good.

"We are very prudent in our operation and we have a very good system."

AS TO THE question of more financial compensation for school board members, Davis said he has mixed emotions.

"Serving on a board is demanding more and more time and perhaps there should be additional reimbursement. However, if they start talking about $2,000 or some figure based on a district's enrollment there might be problems.

"YOU MAY THEN get people running for the board who are only interested in the money and not really concerned with education."

Whitehall board members presently get $20 per meeting for a total of 12 meetings per year as set by law.

"I probably spend more time than some because I'm serving as president to two boards and with the time spent working on agendas, signing checks and working with administrators, I guess I might average two or three hours a week." Davis is also involved in working with several state educational associations.

IN HIS TIME SPENT in the field of education, Davis said he has set certain goals and has developed a philosophy of education.

"I have always felt that it is the responsibility of the board to provide the best opportunity for students to be educated.

"There should be discipline and responsibility on the part of the students. The board should never replace the home and family as far as moral responsibility and discipline—that is learning to live within set rules or guidelines of society."

"THIS IS ONE of the problems we face. Many parents have left this responsibility to the schools," Davis said.

"Education today is more of a challenge. Students are more aware of what's going on and they question more. You have to have good teachers because you can't bluff these kids."

Davis said when hiring new personnel, he looks not only at academic qualifications but recommendations from professors and student teaching evaluations.

"I'D RATHER hire a B or C student who has proven they can relate to a class than an all A student who can't."

As to trends in education, Davis said, "This is an era of individual freedom and lack of discipline. I hope that it's just a cycle. I have very mixed emotions about this. I think the lack of discipline contributes to many of the problems in schools."

Continuing he said, "School is a place for education and it should be positive. There is too much of the negative. Too many students criticizing and down grading things."

AS FOR THE lack of discipline, Davis puts much of the blame on parents, again stating that the school should not replace or take over the obligations of the home.

"I guess I'm old fashion, but I feel the board and administration should run the schools and I disagree with the trend of having teachers and students decide how to run the schools."

As to drugs in the schools, Davis feels the board has done a good job in this area.

"WE RECOGNIZED we had a problem several years ago and instead of ignoring it we began trying to solve the problem. This is another area where parents also have to keep informed."

He said the administration and board had a good relationship with the city in dealing with the drug problem.

"I know we still have a problem, but I do feel we are doing something positive to help it because we are concerned."

"EDUCATION IS like a business. And our business is to teach these kids. They're the reason we're here and we want to see that they get the best possible chance to learn."

Christmas Tree Pick-Up Under Way

Christmas trees will be picked up by the City of Columbus from all residents on Jan. 2 through Jan. 10.

Columbus residents are urged to place the trees in the exact same spot where trash is ordinarily placed to assure that the trees will be picked p.

Columbus officials are quite concerned about the environment and this year, for the first time, the trees will not go into a landfill as has been done in the past.

Instead, after collecting from individual residences, the trees will be taken to a central point, checked thoroughly to remove nails, wire and all metal, and then run through a tree chipper. The chipped up Christmas trees will then become mulch and will be used at many parks.

Columbus residents are urged to cooperate to the fullest in this project by checking the tree thoroughly to be sure that all wire is removed, and to place the tree in the exact spot specified for ordinary collections.

Senior Citizens - Here's Action

1100 EAST BROAD

Another Spelling Bee has been scheduled for senior citizens at 1100 East Broad this Friday, January 5th, at 2:30.

A guest judge will again be on hand to call out words and act as arbiter in the contest. There will be prizes and refreshments.

Reading Circle will begin this Friday, January 5th, at 3 in the 1100 Recreation lounge. Anyone interested may listen to stories and books on any number of topics read through the Talking Book Program or by members.

Books can be biographies, adventures or thought provoking novels. Discussion will follow.

Bqwlers in the 1100 program have returned to New Olympic Lanes at 552 E. Broad St. Any senior citizens may join this group there on Mondays at 1.

Physical fitness activities resume January 9th. Everyone is invited to participate on Tuesday mornings — a brisk neighborhood walk at 10 and exercise class at 10:45.

Additional information about senior citizens programs may be obtained by calling the 1100 East Broad Senior Citizen Recreation Center — 252-2832.

Exercise Courses Planned

Bexley women who gained extra pounds over the holidays may want to take part in one of the programs scheduled by the Bexley Parks and Recreation Department.

Figure Control classes, under the direction of Eileen Kohn, will meet each Wednesday evening from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the old gymnasium at Cassingham School.

The 10-week course starts January 10th, with a $10 registration fee.

The class is for women who want to get back into shape before spring, or just to keep good muscle tone. Registration can be made by calling the department office.

Women's Volleyball sessions are scheduled at Montrose Gym each Tuesday evening from 7:30 to 9:30 under the leadership of Jo Miller.

The fourth Tuesday of each month husbands or boyfriends are invited to come along for couples' volleyball. This recreation program is offered free to the community.

Children in elementary grades are welcome to attend open gym sessions at Maryland from 9 to 11:30 a.m., and at Montrose and the Junior High from 1 to 4 p.m. each Saturday to mid-April. Check with the gym teachers at these schools for further information on times for various grade levels. These Saturday sessions start on January 6th.

Bexley teens can attend open gym on Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m. at the high school each week, starting January 7th.

Men in Bexley can play recreation basketball at the Junior High Gym each Tuesday evening from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. from January 9th through nid-March.

These programs are offered free to residents by the Bexley Parks and Recreation Department.

Classes Offered For Dogs

Now is the time for all good dogs to learn to be obedient, and the Bexley Parks and Recreation Department is offering classes to dogs (and their masters) at the Jeffrey Mansion starting January 10th.

These ten-week courses are taught by Jim and Roberta Morrison of Windy Acres Kennels in Westerville.

Classes are limited to a maximum of 10 dogs, and meet at either 7 p.m. or 8 p.m. each Wednesday.

The final week is graduation, and features judging of each dog by a show judge, and awarding of a trophy and ribbons.

Dogs should be at least six months old, and a record of shots given by a veterinarian should be brought to the first session.

Registration is $20 per dog for the course.

For further information call the department office.

Assigned

Airman David E. Gaulden, son of Mrs. Richard A. Ryms of 3056 Niagara Ct. E, has been assigned to Lowry AFB, Colo., after completing Air Force basic training.

Art Classes For Children To Begin

The second 10-week series of special art classes for children will begin next week at the Jeffrey Mansion.

Sonya Robbins will instruct students in such art projects as painting, woodblocks, wire sculpture, chalks, photos, ink, plaster and others, as well a planning an art tour for them.

Classes are limited to 15 students each. The registration fee of $10 includes cost of all materials used in the course.

Children ages six and seven will meet from 4 to 5 p.m. on Mondays, from January 8 through March 12.

Children ages eight and older will meet at the same time on Fridays, from January 12 through March 16.

G.L.M.® comes to snow trails

Graduated Length Method gets you up and skiing after just ONE lesson. GLM is a revolutionary new way of learning to ski. A system based on the simple proposition that shorter skis are easier to

Here's how it works. You start on four foot skis. Soon, you graduate to four foot six inch, then five foot three inch skis. And before you know it, you're skiing "parallel" on normal length skis.

GLM not only makes skiing simpler for the beginner, it also makes it more fun right from the start. And because it's simpler, GLM is also safer. In fact, the GLM system is being adopted by most of the leading ski schools across the country

Special GLM Program at Snow Trails cuts costs. This winter, you can learn to ski and save money in the process. Because Snow Trails, Ohio's first and finest ski resort, is offering the GLM program at a very special price of only $40.00.

Included in this special price is one morning or afternoon ski session each week for four weeks on weekdays, or a weekend program each Saturday and Sunday. Price also includes rental of proper length skis, boots & poles, and a 60 minute "small group" lesson each session.

One more thing. When you're learning at Snow Trails, you're in good hands. Walter Neuron, founder and director of Snow Trails Ski School, is a member of the Professional Ski Instructors of America. He's also certified by the Central Ski Instructors Association.

So why not make your winter plans around our new GLM program? Take a few minutes now to fill out and mail the coupon below. We'll send you everything you need to know

Bombs Away

"And the rockets red glare...the bombs bursting in air..."

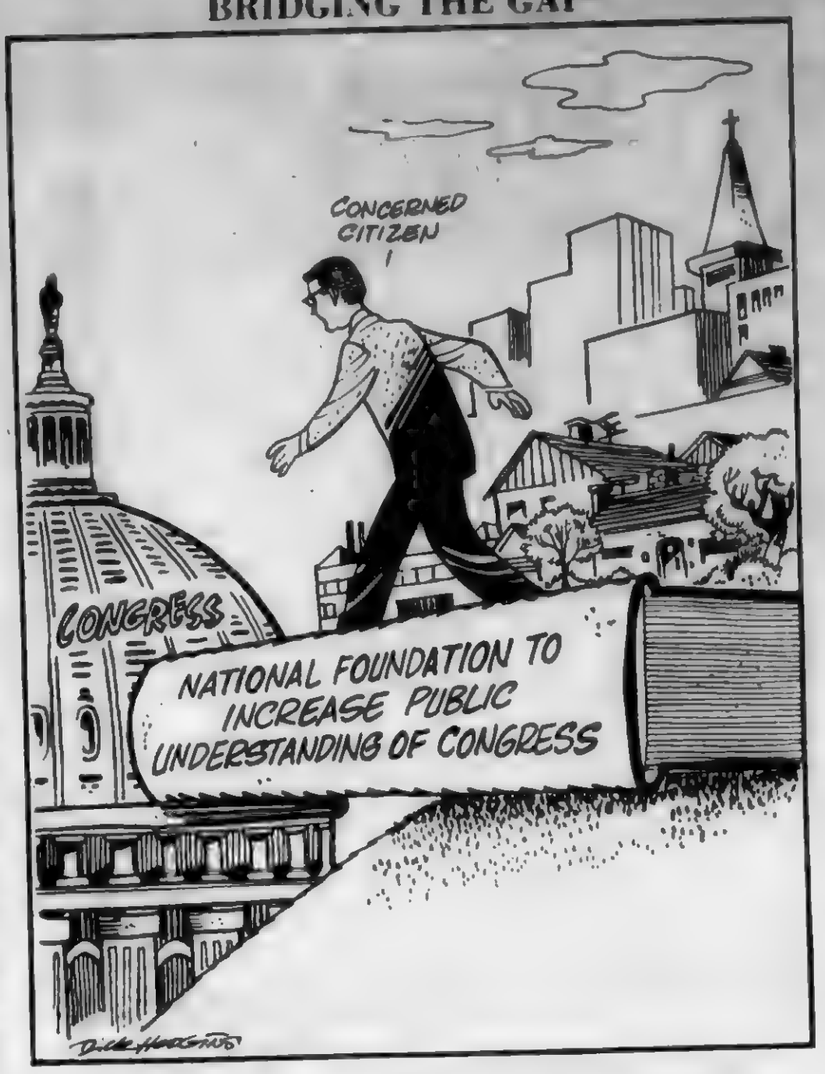
Twenty-seven years and four months apart the heaviest aerial bombardments of modern times are bound to etch their results in the annals of all historians.

TWO MEN... the late President Harry S. Truman and now President Richard M. Nixon ... have been faced with the awesome decision, as Commander-In-Chief of the Armed Forces, to destroy people.

Harry S. Truman's decision to use the Atomic Bomb in August 1945 against the Imperial Japanese Government is still a subject that is as controversial as the results of its drop.

Richard M. Nixon's decision to renew aerial bombardment by U.S. planes against Hanoi and Haiphong in an effort to bring the North Vietnamese Government to its knees will likewise be a discussion for historians for years to come.

THE FIRST bombardment - the A-bomb - did not result in man reaching a lasting peace with his neighbor.



The second bombardment - the Vietnam attacks - will probably not solve man's eternal problem of getting along on this planet so that all may share in its beautiful bounties.

THE FOR and against groups, likewise, have not been able to come to a mutual understanding of just what war - any war - is all about.

Perhaps, if we in this century are still fortunate to witness the planet's survival, some voice out of the wilderness will appear with no ax to grind, with no favors to seek, with no fortune to make, with no political stand to take and with nothing but love in his or her heart and take command.

IT IS a hope for the New Year. Peace for the world is as close at hand as our neighbor's hand - but until we are willing to talk about peace in a peace loving mood there certainly cannot be a hope for one that is lasting and just.

BRIDGING THE GAP

Understanding Congress

MANY Americans have not been given sufficient information about Congress and how it operates. A recent public opinion survey fournd that a serious and widespread gap of understanding exists regarding Congress' responsibilities, functions and procedures. Another national poll found that over three-fourths of our voting-age citizens know little about this basic American institution. In this poll, for example, only one-half of those questioned knew the name of their Congressman.

Now something is being done about it. A group of former members of Congress and other concerned citizens have founded the National Foundation to Increase Public Understanding of Congress.

THIS independent, non-political, educational organization is dedicated to one purpose; helping people become better informed about and more interested in their Congress.

Support is drawn from business firms, grants from private foundations, labor and trade organizations, and individuals. President Nixon has hailed the Foundation as an "important undertaking" and noted that, as an "alumnus" of both houses, "I would agree that the story of Congress needs telling."

WE CAN all benefit from listening.

You're Telling Us

The Spectator Newspapers welcome letters from readers, expressing their views on subjects of interest to them -- whether initiated by news stories or editorial expression in this newspaper or not. Because of space limitations, we prefer letters which do not exceed 300 words. All letters submitted for publication must be signed with the writer's name and address, although -- upon request -- the name of the writer can be withheld. Letters should be marked: "To the Editor, Spectator Newspapers, 3421 South Boulevard, Columbus, Ohio 43204" and must be received by Friday noon prior to publication date for possible publication in that week's edition.

Thanks For Publicity

To the Editor:

The parishioners at St. Mary Magdalene thank you and the Hilltop Spectator for the publicity you gave Father Bauschard in this week's edition of your newspaper.

Our very best wishes for a Blessed Christmas and a New Year filled with much happiness.

Sincerely,

Household, Family Hints Are Provided By OSU

The Ohio State University Cooperative Extension Service provides much information through household and other hints.

This is a continuation of information provided for the benefit of readers.

HUMIDIFIER

The humidifier is an important part of the heating system during cold winter months. It mixes water with air that circulates in the house and provides the humidity best for the house and its contents as well as for human comfort. Some attention needs to be paid to the humidifier, though, in order to receive full benefit from it, advises Roger Miller, Extension agricultural engineer at The Ohio State University.

THE MOST common difficulty leading to inefficient humidifier operation is caused by residues from minerals in the water. As water enters humidifiers it is deposited in a reservoir where it comes into contact with the device or devices that change it into a vapor.

These devices may be called panels, pads, wheels, discs, drums, plates, or belts. Regardless of what they are called, they collect some residue of minerals out of the water, Miller explains.

THE PARTS that collect residues can be removed and cleaned or replaced. How often this needs to be done depends on the condition of the water circulated. In many cases, replacement of these parts is the best idea and something the homeowner can easily do, the engineer advises.

HOME FURNACES

Wile we are talking about safety, did you know that homes are America's No. 1 fire hazard? Cold weather during the holiday season puts extra demands on your heating system...57 percent of all home fires are caused by defective heating equipment.

IF THE furnace hasn't been cleaned, maybe it should be cleaned now. Call in a professional if you don't know how to do it yourself. Check the chimney or pipes and flues. They should be clean. Use a fire screen or glass front in front of the fireplace.

Don't Get Cornered

J. David Ryan, General Manager of the Columbus Auto Club has reiterated the importance of following the safety rule: "Cross Only at Corners".

According to Ryan, we tend to forget the reasons for this rule since we have heard it since we were small children.

"Nevertheless," said Ryan, "corners provide a certain kind of protection for pedestrians in that drivers normally slow down when approaching intersections in order to be ready to stop for a signal or another car.

Also, drivers expect to see pedestrians at intersections. Corners, in addition, are sites of planned pedestrian protections. Crosswalks, traffic signals, special pedestrian signals, as well as policemen, are the results of the cornern of city officicls for the welfare of the pedestrian.

"Each year," continued Ryan, "many people of all ages are killed or injured as they cross between intersections. There are reasons people cross in the middle of the block-chiefly to save time and distance, but we of the Columbus Auto Club urge you to consider that the advantage of safety gained by crossing at corners far surpasses any minor inconveniences."

Senior Citizens Eager To Contribute Time

Many senior citizens have retired from gainful employment but are able and eager to contribute in a volunteer capacity to their community.

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) has been organized to recruit, train and place senior volunteers in a variety of community programs.

There are currently over 60 agencies in which RSVP participants may work, including area schools, museums, hospitals, libraries, and city government.

Assignments are carefully selected to match the needs of each volunteer. Although the senior volunteers are not paid, they are reimbursed for their out of pocket expenses incidental to their volunteer service, such as transportation and meals away from home.

More information about RSVP may be obtained by calling Don Zingale, Director, Volunteer Action Center, 131 East State St., 228-7306.

"Borrowing neighbors usually take everything but a hint."—Herman Gross, Tri-county (Mo.) News.

"A fellow we know is putting all his money in taxes. He says it's the only thing he is sure will go up."—William R. Lewis, The Lynden (Wash.) Tribune.

City Codes Need Updating, Enforcing

Air Pollution Task Force Holds Breath

The Committee on Air Quality Technical Advisory Task Force of the Tuberculosis Society of Columbus and Franklin County has completed its report that evaluates the City of Columbus' air pollution control program.

Although the report deals exclusively with Columbus the condition there could have far reaching results in the suburban communities.

The report has been presented to Columbus city officials.

It will be published in four parts

Part One

INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this report is to evaluate the effectiveness of the City of Columbus air pollution control program. To accomplish this objective and to arrive at the conclusions and recommendations contained herein has required an extensive study, review, and analysis of federal, state, and local air pollution control laws and regulations as well as a wealth of resource materials.

THE FORMAT of the report is based upon criteria contained in a document published by the National Air Conservation Commission, an affiliate of the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, entitled Appraisal: Guidelines for Evaluating the Effectiveness of Your Local Air Pollution Control Program, and is divided into the following sections: Recommendations, Legal Authority, Agency Structure, Enforcement Powers, Policies, and Procedures, Funding, Agency Interrelationships, Ambient Air Quality Monitoring, Public Information and Reorganization.

Technical Advisory Task Force Members were: Jack G. Calvert, Ph.D., Chairman, Professor of Chemistry, Ohio State University; Paul E. Carter, M.S.P.H., Program Director, TB Society of Columbus and Franklin County; Thomas A. Seliga, Ph.D., Director, Atmospheric Sciences Program, Associate Professor of Electrical Engineering, Ohio State University; H. William Sellers, M.C.P., Director, Environmental Health Planning, Mid-Ohio Health Planning Federation; Thomas L. Sweeney, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Chemical Engineering, Ohio State University and Francis W. Weir, Ph. D., Assistant Professor of Preventive Medicine, Ohio State University.

The Task Force members had the assistance of David J. Kramer, a senior student at Ohio State University, who made a major contribution to the report.

RECOMMENDATIONS

(A) Title 27, the Columbus Air Pollution Code, should be revised and updated to provide sufficient legal authority for the City to adopt and enforce rules, regulations, and any other measures necessary to prevent and control air pollution. As a minimum, this authority should provide the agency power to take the following actions:

Adopt emission standards and any other measures necessary to attain and maintain national ambient air quality standards;

Enforce all applicable laws, regulations, and standards and to seek injunctive relief;

Take emergency action to abate pollution which substantially endangers human health;

Prevent the construction, modification, or operation of any stationary source at any location where its emissions will prevent the attainment or maintenance of a national air quality standard;

Obtain any information needed to determine whether sources are in compliance with applicable laws, regulations, and standards, including authority to inspect sources, conduct tests, and require owners or operators of sources to keep emission records or any other specified records;

Require owners or operators of stationary sources to install, maintain, and use emission monitoring devices and to make periodic reports on the nature and amounts of such emissions with the monitoring data and reports to be correlated with applicable emission standards and the emission data and correlations to be made available to the public.

(B) Enforcement procedures should be streamlined to provide rapid and systematic handling of all complaints, citations, and violations.

(C) Specific procedures for the granting and renewal of variances should be adopted.

(D) Fines for violation of agency rules and regulations should be substantially increased to make compliance less costly than continued violation.

(E) Permit fees should be increased to reflect the total cost of administration of the permit program.

(F) As an alternative administrative structure, consideration should be given to abolishing the Air Pollution Advisory Board, Appeals Board, and Civil Service classifications for all Division of Air Pollution Control personnel and transferring all staff and operations to the Department of Health.

(G) If transfer of the air pollution control program to the Department of Health is effected, it should be contingent upon the following conditions and provisions:

Establishment of a five member Review and Appeal Board responsbile for all environmental regulatory functions. Membership of the Board should reflect engineering, environmental science, health, legal, and planning professions and should be appointed by the Mayor, subject to approval of City Council, for two-year terms, with reappointment to a maximum of six years;

Reorganization of the Environmental Health Division along functional lines rather than by problem area;

Creation of a planning section within the Environmental Health Division to develop the necessary interrelationships with other local, regional, and state agencies;

Assurance of adequate legal assistance;

Development of a public information and education section;

Continuation of the practice of assigning some staff to defined geographical areas; and

Arrangements for continuing education programs for all staff within the Environmental Health Division.

(H) Manpower allocations and funding should be increased to provide sufficient personnel and money to conduct a comprehensive program.

(I) State and federal funds should be sought to help increase the manpower, equipment, and other resource needs of the agency.

(J) The air monitoring function of the agency should be carefully evaluated to determine its adequacy and the validity and reliability of the data obtained, particularly in relation to established ambient air quality standards.

(K) Efforts should be made to provide citizens the opportunity to participate in rule-making, review of variances, permits, and compliance schedules, and in enforcement proceedings through public notice and hearings, within the limitations imposed by a law on information classified as confidential.

LEGAL AUTHORITY

The theory of the federal air pollution control program has been changed only slightly from the statement in the original law of 1955, which said: "The Congress finds...that the prevention and control of air pollution at its source is the primary responsibility of states and local governments." However, in line with the expanded authority contained in the 1970 Amendments to the Clean Air Act, the role of the federal government has been strengthened and broadened to include responsibility for enforcing pollution laws and standards if the states falter.

BUT, the states and local governments still bear the greatest responsibility for adoption and enforcement of air pollution laws and regulations and the implementation of control programs.

As part of its expanded responsibility under the Clean Air Act, the federal government required each state to demonstrate that it had the necessary legal authority to conduct a comprehensive program of air pollution control. The State of Ohio was able to show that it did have this authority.

WE BELIEVE the required state legal authority applies equally well to local agencies charged to conduct comprehensive air pollution control programs and can be used as the criteria for judging the adequacy of existing legal authority for local agencies, such as the City of Columbus Division of Air Pollution Control. Briefly, the requirements for legal authority are as follows:

1. Authority to adopt emission standards and any other measures necessary to attain and maintain national ambient air quality standards;

2. Authority to enforce all applicable laws, regulations, and standards and to seek injunctive relief;

3. Authority to take emergency action to abate pollution which substantially endangers human health;

4. Authority to prevent the construction, modification, or operation of any stationary source at any location where its emissions will prevent the attainment or maintenance of a national air quality standard;

5. Authority to obtain any information needed to determine whether sources are in compliance with applicable laws, regulations, and standards, including authority to inspect sources, conduct tests, and require owners or operators of sources to keep emission records or any other specified records, and

6. Authority to require owners or operators of stationary sources to install, maintain, and use emission monitoring devices and to make periodic reports on the nature and amounts of such emissions with the monitoring data and reports to be correlated with applicable emission standards and the emission data and correlations to be made available to the public.

LEGAL authority for the City of Columbus air pollution control program is contained in Title 27, Columbus City Codes, as amended January, 1969. This Code created the Division of Air Pollution Control and charged it with "a comprehensive and integrated plan of air pollution control." However, upon examination of the regulations adopted pursuant to Title 27, it is apparent that such a plan has never been adopted.

Instead, the regulations adopted pertain primarily to fuel-burning equipment, incinerators, some manufacturing processes, and vehicles. As such, they are almost exclusively concerned with visible emissions of smoke, dust, fly ash, soot, and nuisances.

The present Code contains no air quality or emission standards for gaseous pollutants such as sulfur oxides, nitrogen oxides, hydrocarbons, or carbon monoxide although State and National standards have been adopted for these pollutants.

IN EFFECT, Title 27, the Columbus Air Pollution Code, meets none of the legal authority requirements described above. The existing legal authority is simply inadequate to deal with the severity and diversity of the air pollution problem in Columbus. It has resulted in the development of a control program largely incapable of regulating many of the principal contributors to air pollution within the corporate limits of the City.

Council Sponsors Party At Columbus State School

Members of Columbus's National Council of Jewish Women evening branch and B'nai B'rith's Maccabee Lodge entertained approximately 50 residents of the Receiving and Diagnostic Unit of Columbus State School Dec. 17.

Christmas came a week early for these children as Council Women, with help from the men's Lodge, gave the residents their annual party.

The afternoon party began with a record hop, with residents and hosts being indistinguishable.

For those who wouldn't keep up this active pace, a game of "Pin the Nose on Santa" was held. The highlight of the afternoon came when Santa arrived, being played by chairmen for the Men's Lodge, Mark Schwartz. Gifts were donated by various area merchants.

Chairman for the party was Mrs. Arnold Alpert.

Those in attendance from the National Council of Jewish Women and Maccabee Lodge included Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Alpert, and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Schwartz.

Also present were Howard Harris, Lodge president, Gary Beim, Fred Kass, Steve Daniels, Alan Rosen, Lodge members.

Council members included Mrs. Harry Hirschinger, Joel Levenson, Edward Stern, William Gilbert, Ronald Solove, Mel Greenball and Miss Eleanor Fox.

Mario Alch To Appear

A lieder recital, featuring three song-cycles, will be performed by tenor Mario Alch, newly-appointed to the Voice faculty at the Ohio State University College of The Arts, Monday, Jan. 8, at 8 p.m. in Hughes Auditorium.

The second event on the winter School of Music Faculty Recital Series, the performance will also feature pianist Gertrude Kuehefuhs, of the Music Theory faculty.

Included on the program are "Christmas Songs," by Peter Cornelius; "Poet's Love," by Robert Schuman; and "An Die Ferne Geliebte," by Ludwig van Beethoven. Said to be the first song-cycle written, the Beethoven work was composed in 1816 and dedicated to his patron, Prince Josef franz Maximilian Lobkowitz.

A native American, Alch has spent 18 years of his professional life performing throughout Europe, having had operatic appointments in Austria, Germany, and Switzerland. He holds degrees from Juilliard and Columbia.

The public is invited to attend this performance. There is no admission charge.

Girls who can't decide on what kind of a career they want might be wise to go the secretarial route. Salaries are good, and so is the demand for secretarial services.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics, there are more than three times as many secretaries employed today as there were 20 years ago. In 1950 there were approximately 800,000 secretaries. Today there are 2.6 million.

The number of typists has increased also—from 275,000 to 636,000. However, the number of stenographers has declined some 63 percent over a 20-year period. This reflects the need for higher secretarial skills which are demanded by the growing complexity of business, and it also points to the declining requirements for stenographers as dictating machines are used more widely.

Salaries have increased right along with the number of secretarial jobs, too. In metropolitan areas secretarial salaries have risen 46 per cent while the national Consumer Price Index has increased 34 per cent.

The future looks bright as well. Between 1970 and 1980 it is anticipated there will be 308,000 job openings nationally for secretaries, stenographers, and typists. These openings, which are two-and-a-half times the number of openings in the next occupational category, will arise because of industrial growth and the need to replace workers leaving the labor force.

Collection Is At Library

A colorful antique toy collection–including china dolls and a china tea set, steam engines, and cast iron cars and trucks—is on display for the fourth year at the Columbus Public Library, 96 S. Grant Ave.

The private collections of several persons, the toy exhibit contains items dating back to 1880's and is located in the glass showcase on the library's lower level. Among the toys is "RadioRex," a dog who can be put into his kennel and will rush out anytime his name is called; a spring-driven "American Flyer" train that is still operable; and a 1909 "Old Black Crow" that rolled his head from side to side, opened and closed his beak and cawed when pulled.

Also exhibited is a toy stove used as a sales promotion by the Newark Stove Co. and presented as a gift to children when their parents bought a Singer sewing machine constructed about 1923; a china tea set made about 1880 and china dolls made about 1870. The exhibit will continue at the library through January.

1972—A Great Year In Fashion

VICTOR JORIS STAN HERMAN

JERRY SILVERMAN

HALSTON KASPER

IT HAS BEEN A SENSATIONAL YEAR IN FASHION. Some people say that nothing really happened, but they're so terribly wrong. Things did happen and the big news happened with the designers—not with the women who are the ultimate judges and juries for all the clothes from everywhere.

THE DESIGNERS realized that to please the ladies, clothes had to be pretty and feminine, so the midi was abandoned and daytime hemlines settled somewhere around the knee—women were happy to show their legs again.

Designers blessed the dress as an alternative to all the pants and sportswear looks around—dresses were prettier than ever before—flared and pleated with deep armholes and often a wide collar. Underneath, there was always the consciousness of a slim body veiled by meltingly thin fabric. Sleeves came in for their share of interest—Soliman sleeves and wide kimono sleeves the newest.

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

COATS were the great talking point of the year—the variety in shapes and lengths was endless—big coats wrapped up the top fashion news.

PANTS WENT merrily on their way—wide or wider, many cuffed—palazzo pants the hottest news. Sportswear, like all fashion, grew up to a soft new realm of elegance—pale and plush fabrics in a variety of trousers, vests and jacket shapings—cardigans and sweaters became important in all fabrics from angoras to sequins, for daytime and evening.

EVENINGS WERE short and sweet or long and sophisticated, with lots of skin showing. The bare back halter dress was the sexiest—the newest evening ensemble was the long gown with an evening sweater or fur trimmed jacket to match.

NOSTALGIA REARED it's fashionable head in the revival of the higher heel and platform sole—wedges made a comeback. Hosiery designers introduced black seams such as femme fatales of the cinema wore back in the 20's—but they just didn't catch on.

THIS YEAR will go down in history as the year of timeless clothes in a wide choice rather than a few fixed looks—a year of do your own thing, wear your own length, pick your own color—with a strong prediction of what's to come for 1973!

Pickerington Gets Kiwanis Club

Stoney Creek Country Club was the scene December 13, for the Charter Night Program of the Pickerington Area Kiwanis Club.

Over 175 Kiwanis members were in attendance to witness the presentation of the new club's official charter.

Eastern Kiwanis Club of Columbus was the sponsoring organization with Robert S. Rosencrans leading the recruitment drive into the Pickerington area.

Kiwanis Lt. Governor Bill D. Nole presented the Club with its' official banner. Many other gifts were also donated by various Kiwanis clubs of the 10-S Division.

Graafmeyer spoke to the audience on the importance of having a Kiwanis club in the community. "Kiwanis cares how a man leads his life." said the District Governor, "We believe in doing something good and making new and worthwile friendships."

Pickerington's Mayor, the Honorable Dale Huntwork, welcomed the new club into the community and expressed his interest in seeing the "cream of the area" striving to better the community and the way of life of its' residents.

Promoted

GEORGE K. KERR, a resident of Berwick, has been promoted to assistant vice president of the Ohio National Bank and assigned to its main office with responsibility for the savings bond program. He was previously manager of the bank's Berwick office at 2295 E. Students Contribute To School Shoe Fund

Columbus Public School students contributed $10,306.72 to the school system's Shoe Fund during a campaign conducted throughout the schools during the first two weeks of November, according to Norval Goss, director of pupil personnel and coordinator of the fund.

ESTABLISHED IN 1911, the fund is used to purchase shoes for less fortunate Columbus school children and is supported by the annual drive, the only fund-raising campaign for students sponsored by the schools.

Goss said the largest contribution this year came from students at Valley Forge Elementary School and totaled $407.12 He noted that only one other school collected over $300 -- Olde Orchard with $322.91.

THE LARGEST contribution from a junior high school was $257.92 from Hilltonia, while Brookhaven led senior high schools with a contribution of $219.03, Goss said, adding that 22 other schools collected over $100 each.

The pupil personnel director said contributions this year were about $2,000 less than last year, when $12,275.61 was collected. During the 1971-72 school year, 1,598 pairs of shoes were purchased from the fund, he reported.

PTA Council Will Meet

The Columbus Council of PTA'S will meet Thursday, Jan. 4, in the Central High School auditorium at 1:15 p.m.

The program will be a panel of Principals discussing "The Principals Challenge."

Included in the panel will be Mrs. Catherine Crandell, McGuffey Elementary School; Roger Dumaree, Johnson Park Junior High School; Raymond Trinter, Walnut Ridge Senior High School; James Teft, Supervising Principal of Regional Center No. 4; and Robert Carter, Executive Director of Administrative Service.

Chairman of the January meeting is John Mulherin, principal of McGuffey

Speaking of Beauty

LET YOUR HAIR DO YOUR TALKING

By Helen Pasini

There's sure to be something about you that makes the deepest final impression. It can be your hairdo if you'll let us plot with you. It could be your dress, or it could be something immemorable that you say. It might even be your smile, if you've got one that dazzling. But if you want to be absolutely sure that you'll be remembered as the star of some great moment of your life make sure that your hair is saying beautiful things about you.

Twirling Classes Begin At Jeffrey

Bexley Parks and Recreation Department has added a new activity to its winter program lineup - Baton Twirling classes for beginners or intermediates.

The instructor will be Miss Julie Cornell, a student at Ohio State University.

Classes will be taught at the Jeffrey Mansion for eight weeks, and will be limited to 10 per class for those in grades three through eight.

Beginners will meet either Tuesdays or Thursdays from 4:15 to 5 p.m. to learn the skill and technique of basic twirls.

Intermediates, those who have had some previous experience and a knowledge of the basic twirls, will meet from 5 to 5:45 on either Tuesday or Thursday afternoons.

All classes begin the second week in January and conclude with a program for the parents the last week in February.

SLICK SPEEDS can be obtained with a skate sail and here's proof positive that it can be done. Notice the firm bracing of the skater as he guides the sail.

Speed Skaters Slick Sailors

HOW FAST can one travel on ice skates? Champion speed skaters attain speeds of 27 miles per hour over short distances, which is fast considering that the skater's physique supplies all the force.

But-add a skate sail to take advantage of wind power and speeds up to 60 mph are possible.

Twenty years ago, a trio of skate sailors went on Lake Roxen Sweden, on the most perfect ice the lake had produced in the memory of man. The wind was blowing a constant 20 to 30 miles per hour. They set a 15½ mile course from Stjarnorp to Norsholm and covered it in the unbelievable time of 16 minutes, or at an aderage speed of 52 mph. In order to do this, the daring threesome most surely had to hit peak speeds of 60 mph.

ICE skating is "on the level", that is, gravity does not propel as it does in down hill skiing. In fact, a frozen lake is as level a surface as can be found on earth. So no matter the direction, you never go down nor up hill.

Furthermore, skate blades have very little friction on ice and a small force will carry you far. These are the things that make skate sailing possible.

A SKATE sail is a large kite shaped affair consisting of a vertical mast and a horizontal boom, over which is stretched a taut sailcloth. Flexible bows in the front and rear pockets of the sail help to maintain its shape.

The sailor stands on the leeward side of the vertical sail where he is protected from the wind. He rests the boom on his shoulder and feels the wind pushing on the other side of the sail. This signals him to push right back by leaning comfortably against the sail and away he goes. High speed miles can be covered without exertion by letting the wind do the work.

SKATE sailing is akin to sailboating, with similar terms. The ice skate blades act like the keel of a boat to resist sideway motion. Changing the course angle to the wind, or tacking, is done by raising the sail horizontally overhead and placing it on the opposite shoulder.

Stopping is accomplished by holding the sail horizontally overhead and turning into the wind. If in trouble, just toss the sail away and it will drift

Sculpturing Offered Beginning Jan. 17

Marjorie Bender will teach classes for beginners in Sculpturing at the Jeffrey Mansion on Wednesday evenings, 7:30 to 9:30, from January 17 to Feb. 28.

This seven week course will feature work in the diverse media of clay, wax and plaster. Fee for the course is $16, and class size is limited in number.

An introductory course in Printmaking will also be taught by Mrs. Bender.

This class will meet on Tuesday evenings at 7:30 in the Jeffrey Mansion, from January 16 through February 27.

Registration is limited, and costs $18.

Work will be done with relief printing, collographs, linocuts, woodcuts and monoprints. Also included will be class demonstrations, slides and books available to the class.

For further information call the Bexley Parks and Recreation Department, 258-5755.

AROUND TOWN

THE TSAI SISTERS, from Taiwan, opened this week at The Ramada Inn North. Because of early deadlines, I cannot give you a complete review. But, what I gleamed from their show, as well as their reams of publicity material, I will tell you this much: The Tsai Sisters are not like any other act that has appeared at the Ramada Inn North. This is an out and out show group, not a lounge act. These four sisters have appeared all over the world, in such places as Guam, Spain, Okinawa, Mexico City, Africa, and Portugal.

The sisters is a combination of movements, singing and playing many instruments.

MEIKO plays guitar and is the lead singer, possessing a versatile voice. Mitzua and Jenny accompanied her on guitar and provided vocal harmony. Mitzua, the oldest, is also the clown of the group, providing funny comedy relief.

Number four sister, and the youngest at 19, is the drummer. She is highly accomplished and her drum solos will wow you.

The Tsai Sisters are booked at the Ramada Inn North this week and next. That's all. This is one act that has to be a must on your January entertainment schedule.

WITH NO formal plot and a two-hour runnung time the film American Wilderness, currently playing in theaters across the country, could be called a feature-length travelogue, but those who have seen it say it is much more. In its sweeping display of remote wilderness, it is an adventurer's film. In its stalk of trophy game, including the four wild mountain sheep that are American hunting's most coveted prizes, it is a sportsman's film. Mostly, in its salute to the natural glories still extant in this land, it is apparently a film for everyone.

American Wilderness was written, filmed, edited, scored and distributed by Arthur R. Dubs, a Medford, Ore. contractor, sportsman and amateur pro

American Wilderness was written, filmed, edited, scored and distributed by Arthur R. Dubs, a Medford, Ore. contractor, sportsman and amateur photographer, but it is decidedly not an amateur production. Dubs spent seven years and traveled more than 32,000 miles gathering footage. By using 16-mm film, later enlarged to 35 mm for commercial distribution, he kept expenses to a minimum (the film cost $28,000 to make and has already grossed $3 million) and equipment light. He was thus able to hike, climb, pack and crawl into areas inaccessible to conventional camera crewss and there capture on film moments seldom seen.

"American Wilderness," is currently being shown at Westland Cinema and the Clinton Theatre. This is one for the entire family. Don't miss it, because I feel it will be a long time before another film of this quality and unsurpassed scenic beauty will hit the local screens. "American Wilderness," is thrilling and beautiful. You will talk about it for a long time.

I HAVE TOLD you before about the Corrsale School of Music and the top quality of instructors associated with the school. Just to show you what I mean, here is a brief run down of some of the instructors and their professional appearance Around Town.

Guitarist Don Beck is currently at the Ramada Inn East with organist Bob Mooney and drummer Chas Bower. Featured vocalist with this group is a Correale's protege, Jerri Aberman, whom Correale feels will be bigger than Nancy Wilson.

At Scot's Inn, Dave Buttler is the bass man with the Joe Dunlap Trio, while staff teacher Gary Carney, is playimg

At Scot's Inn, Dave Buttler is the bass man with the Joe Dunlap Trio, while staff teacher Gary Carney, is playing trombone helping to back up the name acts in the main room.

Terry Efaw, who recently cut a record with Chet Atkins in Nashville, is the guitarist in a duo featured at Studio Five.

Correale staffers Joe Ong, percussionist, and Ben Lepley, team up with Jeff D'Angelo at the Tamarack Inn.

WITH ALL of these excellent musicians around, it leads me to two conclusions: one, there is plenty of good entertainment Around Town, and, two, The Correale School of Music has the finest instructors in the country. All of them are the best you will find anywhere. I know, because I know most all of these people and have heard them perform. They are the best, that's for sure.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Want to save some money, in fact a lot, and have a good time. Just trot to one of the Railroad Savings and Loan offices, and pick up a coupon from their fantastic Savers Club. This entitles you to a ticket at a drastically reduced price for the hit broadway musical, "Twigs," coming to the Ohio Theatre around the middle of January. Believe me, it is worth the trip to one of the two offices of Railroad Savings and Loan two offices. I am not allowed to tell you how much you can save, but it is a large amount

The Savers Club is sponsored by the Railroad Savings and Loan. However, YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE A MEMBER TO GET YOUR COUPON...The following is a story I personally don't want to hear. January 22 Llamar Peek will resign as Regional Director of American United Inns, Northern region, to accept an executive position with a huge resort complex, Pheasant Run, in St. Charles, Illinois. The three Ramada Inns in Columbus, have been under Llamar's direction, as well as Ramada Inns in other parts of the state and elsewhere in the Northern part of the United States.

LLAMAR is one of the most astute men I have ever worked with in this business. He is an excellent food and beverage man, a top notch motel manager, and one of the best promoters I have ever met. A true triple threat man, that's Llamar Peek. I have personally seen what a great job he has done at Ramada Inn North, as well as the excellent job at the other two Ramada Inns in town. Good luck, Llamar, I will personally miss you, that's for sure, and so will many people Around Town.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

Sunday and Monday, January 7-8, two of our local theaters are casting comedies to be presented in February and March.

The Village Little Theatre, 1320 Cambridge Boulevard, will be holding tryouts for "Blithe Spirit", to be directed by Bob Weesner.

This is the zany comedy about the deceased wife who comes back during a seance to lovingly haunt her husband, who is now remarried.

The parts are all good character studies, but my pick is the medium who can steal the show if properly cast. For further information call Bob at 878-2573.

THE LAUGH riot of just a few years back, "Catus Flower" will be presented by Little Theatre Off Broadway. 3651 N. Broadway in Grove City. Auditions are scheduled for the 7th and 8th, but when you call the theater box office at 875-3919 for tickets for "The Owl And The Pussycat", playing for the next three weekends, you can check for time and director. I made several phone calls, but could not find anyone home to check these two important details.

Cagers Reaching 'Churning' Points

THE POINT of no return was reached last weekend in the area league cage races and at the halfway mark the leagues stack up like this:

Ohio Capital Conference - Westerville, 7-0 with Delaware close by 6-1 after the first round.

SEVERAL teams went out of the Columbus league last week and got caught in tough battles with Newark's unbeaten Wildcats downing Eastmoor and Columbus n North taking the Marion tournament.

Walnut Ridge went to Salem and downed that school in a surprise win.

Terry Yoakum's Westerville Cats continued to storm their way through the OCC field. The Cats barely edged Mt. Vernon on the Yellow Jackets court after being down by 10 points in the third period. The win kept the Cats undefeated (10-0) for the season with the second round of OCC play starting next Friday.

WINLESS (for the league and season) Reynoldsburg kept close to Worthington but could only close to four points and went down to a 58-54 loss.

Hilliard continued to draw blanks in the Mid-Eight and are still looking for a league and season win.

IT LOOKS like Grove City might take all the marbles in basketball as they did in football in the Mid-Eight. Herb Russell's crew have played steady basketball in their 9-0 season record.

Bishop Ready continued its climb to the Central Catholic crown with a downing of Hartley while in what turned out last week to be a better game than expected Upper Arlington had its hands full before knocking off Watterson.

Wehrle got its offense untracked and surprised DeSales last week to make its move toward at least a second place CCL finish.

Clance Hammond, Central's workhorse (he's averaging better than 23 points per game) came through with 29 against a tough Cincinnati Hughes team and Central came away with another win, 70-67 in overtime.

HERE'S HOW the scoring went among individuals last week in the Wednesday and Friday games: Williams, Mt. Vernon, 37; Wolford, Reynoldsburg, 23; Goodyear, Walnut Ridge, 24; Williams, South, 29; Hammond, Central, 29; Reid, Whitehall, 24;

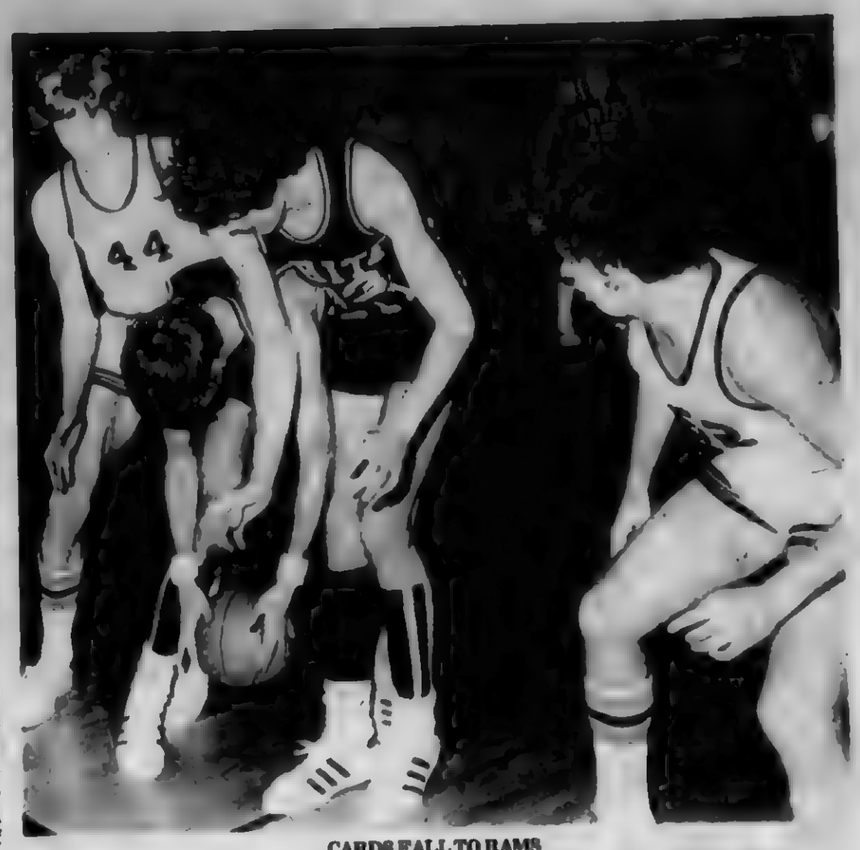
Saturday Jan. 6 - Eastmoor at Central, North at Linden McKinley, West at South, Northland at Mohawk, Walnut Ridge, at Brookhaven, East at Marion-Franklin and Mifflin at Whetstone.

Tuesday, Jan. 9 - DeSales at Brookhaven.



BROBST AND THE BALL PART

WHITEHALL'S Larry Brobst exhibited this modern dance skill in the Rams' Wednesday win over Worthington.

CARDS FALL TO RAMS

BIG CRAIG REID (6-5), Whitehall, fakes a handoff to teammate Chris Zag before hiking the ball to Tom Sickmeir seen in foreground. Worthington's defense of Rick Moore, Gary Burkhardt and Chip Seis, attempt to stop the two point conversion.

Illustration A Prize Winner

THIS PAINTING won Alex Velxy, 19, 717 Olde Settler Place, Columbus, a $200 third prize in Seventeen Magazine's 20th annual art competition. Alex's entry, illustrating "Hamilton," a prize winning story, appears in the January issue, devoted each year to original contributions from talented young people in many fields. Alex won first prize last year in the magazine's art competition. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Walt Velxy, Alex is a freshman at Columbus College of Art and Design where he plans on majoring in painting. He's a 1971 graduate of Whetstone High School. Reading and drawing are two of his interests. (Photo by Seventeen).

We Can't Make It

IN A LETTER from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency at Ann Arbor, Michigan, Ralph C. Stahman, chief of the Test and Evaluation Branch, tells me, "I am enclosing a copy of our report on emission tests of a Mercedes-Benz diesel sedan. The purpose of this test was to determine optimum sampling and analysis techniques for diesel-powered light duty vehicles. In the process of that program, it was determined that the stock vehicle meets both 1973 and 1975 emission standards."

This was a letter to me from the very people who say whether or not standards are met. They leave no doubt that diesel passenger cars already meet 1975 requirements.

CONTRAST THIS with the statement by General Motors PR man Krug in Columbus last month during a luncheon for public officials and newsmen as he said, "We are meeting 1973 emission standards with our new cars but technology needed to meet 1975 standards is not yet available and when it is, the modifications will cost the car buyers of Franklin County alone 17 million dollars."

Common sense tells us that is one company can meet 1975 standards, certainly other companies can. There are definite drawbacks to the Mercedes-Benz 220 Diesel sedan. First of all, it is about $1,000 more than the average American car. Second, the diesel engine is noisy for the first few minutes it is run (but certainly not as loud or obnoxious as a torn muffler). Third, diesel oil is smelly when used as a fuel in the internal combustion engine.

ON THE OTHER side of the ledger, the M-B diesel 220 has a life span over twice the average gasoline car. There is no planned obsolescence, the same basic body style is used for eight years. Diesel fuel averages 28 cents per gallon and 25 miles per gallon (almost a penny per mile). The original $1,000 increase in the new price of the car is soon paid back in length of life of the car and frugal mileage costs.

Why doesn't some clever American car manufacturer make a small, inexpensive diesel car, get a two-year head start on the 1975 standards? Only they can tell us that.

GUESSING, I can come up with way out ideas like: the car people wouldn't like it because it would make heavy inroads into gasoline sales and there is much trading of stock between gas and auto people; it would make travel too cheap and a lot of stocks would go down in value; etc.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: Keep your cars finely tuned. It will increase your gas mileage and at the same time cut down on the air pollution. Copies of the letter from EPA may be had by sending me a stamped, self-addressed envelope to P.O. Box 50, Columbus, Ohio 43216.

City National Bank of Columbus, Ohio officially opened the first "Bank24 Center" in the country January 1 at 2025 Brice Road.

City National Bank Opens Bank24 Center

The City National Bank and Trust Company of Columbus has launched "The Year of the Customer" with official opening of the first "Bank24 Center" in the country. As part of the bank's "Year of the Customer" program five new services, which will become part of banking at City National during 1973, will be announced soon.

The "Bank24 Center," first of the banking innovations planned for 1973 by City National, was announced by bank officials, in cooperation with Raymond Kuntz, president of Diebold, Inc.; and Jack Meredity, president of Docutel Corporation.

The new banking center, located at 2025 Brice Rd. in southeastern Columbus, provides 24-hour, 7-day-a-week service for walk-up and drive-through customers. A regular teller staff operate remote controlled drive-through lanes and a walk-up window during the day, while "Bank24" automated teller machines service customers 24-hours-a-day," explained Bank Chairman McCoy.

THE VOICE OF BUSINESS

How Strong Is Your Back?

(As Executive Vice President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Arch Booth serves as a spokesman for American business. The National Chamber Federation represents an underlying membership of more than five million business firms, organizations and individuals.)

By Arch Booth

FOR MANY Americans, the first unpleasant surprise of the new year is likely to be a smaller paycheck. The Social Security tax is increasing – again.

Not much at first, a dollar or two a week for most workers. That's due to a hike in the tax rate from 5.2 percent to 5.8 percent. (Many people don't realize that their employer pays the same amount, for each employee – that makes the "real" Social Security tax rate 10.4 percent for 1972 and 11.7 percent for 1973.)

THIS relatively modest increase is, unfortunately, far from the end of the story. On top of the higher tax rate, many of us will also find ourselves paying the tax for a longer period of time this year. Why?Because the amount of pay subject to the tax has also gone up.

Last year, Social Security was deducted from the first $9,000 of pay. After that, you were paid up until the first paycheck of the new year. In 1973, however, the "wage base" moves up to $10,800. So people who make at least that much will be paying the higher tax on an extra $1,800.

Pay Now, More Later

THE BAD news gets worse. Even if Congress keeps its hands off the tax for awhile (unlikely, judging from recent experience), it will still continue to climb because of increases already built into the law. One of the biggest will come in 1974, when the wage base goes up to $12,000. At that point, the maximum cost to a worker will rise from $631.80 to $702.00 a year. That figure will reach $925.65 by 1979, under present law.

That would be grim enough. But, Congress and the "social engineers" keep trying to find new things for Social Security to cover – expenses that could not possibly be recouped under the present tax rate, even counting its programed increases.

WHAT EXPENSES? Things like health care. Medicare has been added and then extended beyond its original scope of coverage. There is talk now of including payments for prescription drugs and for "catastrophic illness" insurance. And some people want to turn these small beginnings into a complete government health insurance program. Estimates of the cost of that step alone have ranged up to $81 billion a year. For comparison, Social Security paid out $48 billion in 1972.

CONGRESS keeps raising the size of the pension, too. And lowering the age of eligibility. Since 1964, pension benefits have gone up 65 percent, while the cost of living rose only 35 percent. And, future pension increases are now tied to the cost of living, so some continued escalation is inevitable even if Congress doesn't raise the base rate again.

The Cost to the Young

Isn't it time to consider the morality of all this? Many Social Security recipients innocently believe that they have "bought and paid for" their benefits. Hardly. Because the size of the pension has been increased so rapidly in recent years, the payments made into the system by present recipients don't begin to cover the cost of their benefits.

The most a worker could have paid in taxes since the program's inception is $4,639.20. At today's benefit levels, in only 18 months their retired worker will get back everything he put in.

If he has a dependent wife, the couple will receive close to $4,700 in one year. The fact is, the cost of today's higher benefits is being borne by today's workers.

IT IS A mystery to many that the younger generation has put up with it this long. Sure, we want to take care of the old folks. But we owe some consideration to the young folks, too. The young need cash for the expenses of starting a family and buying a home. It is becoming increasingly difficult for them to accumulate any, as more and more of their take-home pay disappears to finance benefits for other people.

Pass-Card New At Buckeye

Buckeye Federal is offering a new method of processing regular savings accounts. A plastic card and transaction ticket has replaced the traditional savings passbook. Buckeye Federal is the second savings and loan in the United States to use the plastic card concept of saving. The plan is being registered under the trade name "Pass-Card."

It is not necessary for the savings customer to write out a deposit or withdrawal slip. Instead, the customer states how much is to be deposited or withdrawn and hands the passcard to a teller. The information is transferred to Buckeye's data processing center and is seconds the customer recieves an imprinted copy of slip indicating the amount of the transaction and new balance.

At the end of each calendar quarter the customer is mailed a statement showing deposits, withdrawals, account balance and interest earned. No longer will it be necessary to present a passbook for updating.

TRY, TRY AGAIN

..Depressed because you can't quit smoking? Maybe you need the attention a professional physician can give to get you through the pangs of withdrawal. The Five Day Plan Withdrawal Clinic can provide this kind of professional help. Call 228-6704 for more information.

Ramada Inn Names New Sales Director

Roger C. Lais has been appointed director of sales of the three Columbus Ramada Inns, it has been announced by Bill B. Blankenship, president of American United Inns, Inc. (AUI), 1213 E. Granville Rd.

Lais joins AUI after serving three years as district director of sales for the Sheraton Columbus Motor Hotel. Previously, he was managing director of the Plumbrook Country Club, Cedar Point, Ohio, for three years.

He is a member of the Hotel Sales Management Association, the Country Club Managers Association, and the Ohio Hotel and Motel Association. He took his formal education at the University of Denver School of Hotel and Restaurant Management.

AUI has 12 motels in operation or under development and is a major operator of child day care centers and nursing homes.

No-Fault Auto Insurance Will Get OATL Support

GENUINE "consumer protection" no-fault automobile insurance will be supported by the Ohio Academy of Trial Lawyers in the 110th Ohio General Assembly.

"There are abuses and inequities in automobile reparations payments in Ohio," said Horace W. Baggott Jr. of Dayton, OATL president. "As consumer advocates we feel the time for true reform has come."

BAGGOTT said his association would work for a number of major revisions in the state's insurance laws:

-Out-of-pocket costs for injuries and property damage would be paid immediately, by his own insurance company, to a driver involved in an accident.

-This payment of costs, regardless of fault, would not prevent an innocent driver from collecting fair compensation from the driver at fault for such things as pain, suffering, and the loss of enjoyment of life.

-Consumer protection would be assured by barring insurance companies from the arbitrary cancellation of policies or the refusal to provide insurance to some persons. Cancellation would be limited to persons who do not pay premiums and persons who have their driver's license revoked.

-Insurance companies would be required to eliminate excessive delays in settling claims.

-There would be stricter regulation and scrutiny of the auto insurance industry by the state department of insurance. Investment income and profits of insurers would be considered in the rate setting process.

"AT THE present time," said Baggott, "there are nine so-called "no-fault" bills covering eight different plans pending in the Ohio General Assembly.

"Some of these have features that would benefit the consumer, others have features that would take away his right to recover damages or to take his grievances to court.

"WE PROPOSE to bring forth those features that will give the consumer adequate protection and the best buy for his insurance premium dollar. We will oppose any special interest legislation, whether it be to the advantage of the insurance companies, attorneys, or anyone else."

Baggott said that a plan that would pay drivers up to $2500 for actual losses in automobile accidents would be equitable and would cover the total expense in 96 per cent of the accidents in the state.

"This first party no-fault coverage, if paid promptly, would satisfy most accident victims and would do away with the necessity of a large number of lawsuits," Baggott said. "It would compensate the victim, but it would not take away his right to justice within the legal system.

"IT WOULD not punish the careful driver at the expense of the reckless driver, as many of the bills introduced thus far in the state would do."

Baggott said that in addition to working for genuine insurance reform, his association would continue to work for laws that would prevent traffic accidents and reduce their severity.

"The only sure way to cut insurance premiums," he said, "is to reduce the losses through traffic accidents. This means better drivers, better roads, better cars, better traffic laws, and better law enforcement.

"trial lawyers know from experience that there are no winners when it comes to traffic accidents. We have seen the devastation that comes from accidents -- damages to persons and families.

"No matter how high the settlement or what the means or reparation, I have never known an instance where all parties would not have been better off if the accident had not occurred in the first place."

THE OHIO academy of trial Lawyers represents 1,400 attorneys who specialize in the practice of court room advocacy.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) My son earned nearly $2,000 last year. Does he have to file a Federal income tax return?

A) If your son is single, you are not claiming him as a dependent and he did not have self-employment earnings of $400 or more, he does not have to file a return because his gross income is less than $2050. However, if you or someone else could claim your son as a dependent and he had income from dividends, interest or other types of unearned income, he must file a return if his gross income was at least $750. He must also file a return if he had net self-employment earnings of $400 or more.

Of course, he should file a return to claim any refund due him for income tax withheld.

Q) I have all my tax records. Can I file without my Form W-2?

A) No. A withholding statement, Form W-2, for each job held during 1972 must be attached to your return. Failure to do so delayed the refunds of many taxpayers last year.

Q) I plan to go to a commercial tax preparer to have my 1972 return filled out. Is he responsible for any errors on the return?

A) No. Each taxpayer is responsible for the accuracy of his Federal income tax return, no matter who fills it out.

If you do use the services of a tax preparer this year, be sure he signs your return and enters on the form his social security number or employer identification number.

Q) Is it true that this year taxpayers can designate $1 of their tax to go to a presidential election campaign fund?

A) Yes. This year, taxpayers, at their option, may designate $1 of their taxes ($2 if a joint return) to go to the political party of their choice or to a nonpartisan general fund.

The "check-off" is made on a separate form--IRS Form 4875--which is included in your tax forms package, and not on the Form 1040 itself. If you want to designate a dollar for the fund, complete the Form 4875 and attach it to your Form 1040. If you do not wish to earmark money for this purpose, do not file Form 4875.

Q) Will the IRS still figure out a person's tax, if he wants them to?

A) Yes. The Internal Revenue Service will figure out your tax if your adjusted gross income is $20,000 or less and was only from wages, salary and tips, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities, and if you claim the standard deduction. For more details, see your tax form instructions.

Q) What do you mean by "adjusted gross income"?

A) This is the total income that appears on line 17 of your Form 1040. Adjusted gross income is arrived at by subtracting business expenses and certain employee expenses, such as sick pay, moving expenses, etc. from your gross income. For most taxpayers, however, adjusted gross income is equivalent to their total income.

This year, your Form 1040 instructions contain a glossary of frequently used tax terms to make it easier for you to fill out your return.

Q) Are medical insurance premiums deductible in full?

A) If you itemize deductions, you may deduct in full one-half of the amount you paid for medical insurance, up to $150. The balance of your premiums is added to your other medical expenses. Only your medical expenses in excess of three percent of your adjusted gross income are deductible.

For more information, write your Internal Revenue district office and ask for a free copy of IRS Publication 502, "Deduction for Medical and Dental Expenses."

Q) Each Christmas my employer gives me a turkey. Do I have to include the value of this gift in my income?

A) No. If, to promote goodwill, your employer makes a general distribution of turkeys, hams, or other items of merchandise of nominal value at Christmas or another holiday, the value of those gifts is not income.

However, if your employer distributes cash, gift certificates, or similar items of readily convertible cash value, the value of such gifts is additional salary or wages.

Q) I moved last May. How can I be sure the Internal Revenue Service will send my tax forms to my new address?

A) Just leave your new address with the post office in your old neighborhood. The post office will forward the forms to you. When you get your 1973 income tax return, be sure to correct your address on the label in your tax return packet.

If you do not receive your tax forms package in the mail, you can obtain blank forms at any IRS office, most banks and post offices.

Q) Both my wife and I are having dental work done and I'm going to have a big medical expense deduction this year. Is there any way to get some kind of benefit for this now to help me pay some of the bills?

A) Yes. You may be able to have your employer reduce your income tax withholding based on the larger itemized deductions you expect. Instructions for making this change are given on Form W-4. Ask your employer or your local IRS office for a copy.

Club and organizational news should be sent to the Spectator by Thursday noon.

Firemen Accept Duty

The commencement program climaxed ten weeks of intensive training and encompassed 26 different subjects as required by the State of Ohio.

The men have been assigned to probationary training stations No. 10, located at 1096 W. Broad St., and No. 18 at 1551 Cleveland Ave., to complete their first year of training under the direction of selected training officers.

1973's Triple Header

THE NEW YEAR heralded the arrival of twin girls as the first babies of 1973 and the proud parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ventresca, 2114 Jewett Dr., Columbus, have named the girls Maria and Angela. At this writing Maria (shown with her parents) is at home. Angela is in Children's Hospital being treated for a breathing problem but is expected to be home later this week. Angela was the first to arrive at 12:03 a.m. followed by Maria at 12:05, both at St. Ann's Hospital. The girls were reportedly born about three weeks to a month ahead of schedule. Spectator advertisers surprised the couple with numerous gifts as 41 merchants in the Spectator circulation area contributed to welcome the newborn. The Ventresca's asked Spectator Executive Editor Ray Adams to express their personal appreciation to the many Spectator advertisers for their surprise. One advertiser called and indicated he was preparing a "double" gift for the family in honor of the twin blessed event. Joining the Ventresca family in the New Year's first was the first edition of the Spectator TV Times that debuted with the January 3 edition of all Spectator Newspapers. (Photo by Ray Adams.)

Year Of 'Getting To Know You'

THOMAS B. CONNERY
Special Staff Writer

Thomas Moyer and Virginia Prentice were re-elected president and vice-president of the Columbus Board of Education at the board's Jan. 2 meeting.

That was the first time in 18 years that a board member has been re-elected as president. Homer Trantham succeeded himself in 1955.

Mrs. Prentice placed Moyer's name in nomination She said that Moyer has done "a very credible job."

SHE ADDED THAT Moyer has presided over the formulation of many new ideas for big programs, and that he should now be able to preside over their fulfillment.

Mrs. Prentice's nomination was opposed by Dr. David Hamlar's nomination of Dr. Watson Walker. Dr. Hamlar said Dr. Walker as vice-president would be a unifying element for the board.

Moyer's re-election was unanimous. Mrs. Prentice was re-elected with four votes. Marie Castleman and Dr. Hamlar voted for Dr. Walker, and Dr. Walker abstained from voting.

Reflecting on 1972, Moyer said "the most significant event of 1972" was that it was a year "of getting to know you."

He said the public got to know the school system, Supt. John Ellis and the board got to know each other, and the board members got to know one another.

MOVER DESCRIBED 1973 as a year for implementation of the building program, the human relations and staff development programs, and the vocational program.

In a report on 1972, Supt. Ellis said, "Despite the fact that Columbus faced enormous educational problems, like most urban areas across America, I am pleased to report that we have a solid record of accomplishment."

Ellis said the most significant events of the year occur "when students become excited about learning - when teachers motivate students to do their best. It is impossible to capture such moments in a report."

Among the many items listed as highlights of 1972 by Ellis was Project UNITE. The project resulted in 746 recommendations to improve the schools. Only 29 of the recommendations have been rejected so far, and 262 have been accepted.

ELLIS ALSO LISTED the expansion of the vocational education program with 23 new programs, and the efforts to achieve a reasonable distribution of black and white staff members. Nearly 24 per cent of new teachers hired in 1972 were black.

Looking to 1973, Ellis said that one area of concern would be school finance. "We should work vigorously to secure additional federal and state funding and only as a last resort consider a local levy request," he said.

A $95 million operating budget for 1973 was passed by the board. Because of a $6 million 1972 balance, 1973 will not be a year of deficit spending. However, the schools will be in need of additional funds in 1974.

Taking steps to provide for additional funds, the board passed three resolutions requesting funds from the state or federal government.

THE FIRST RESOLUTION noted that the board had made plans for vocational education on the basis that the state would provide matching funds for buildings and equipment.

The resolution requested Governor John J. Gilligan and the Ohio General Assembly to take the action necessary to provide matching funds for vocational education.

According to board member Paul Langdon, a bill providing for the funds never got out of the Senate finance committee because of the threat of veto by Governor Gilligan.

"I hope the Governor sees fit to put it into his new budget," Langdon said.

THE BOARD'S SECOND resolution stated that inflation, personnel cost increases, and increasing expenses means that additional funds are necessary to maintain existing programs and begin new programs.

Governor Gilligan and the General Assembly were requested to take action to insure full funding for disadvantaged pupils, increase the amount of the municipal overburden funding for urban centers, and substantially increase the basic school foundation payments provided to school districts.

The third resolution also discussed the financial problems of the schools, however, the request went to President Nixon and Congress.

It asked that the President and Congress take action to insure full funding of present educational programs that affect city school systems, and also provide a federal revenue-sharing program for city school systems similar to the program recently enacted for state and municipal governments, or an alternative program that would provide commensurate increases in Federal funds for city school districts.

TV Time Magazine Has Movie Changes

The Spectator TV Time Magazine movie schedule is subject to change of movies scheduled due to pre-empting by stations or by late changes after the TV Times has been printed.

Whenever possible these changes will be published in The Spectator Newspapers so that Spectator TV Time readers can note them on the schedule.

We are sorry if these changes inconvenience our readers. We will do everything possible within printing deadlines to note these changes for you.

'DECADE FOR DECISIONS'

St. Alban's Plans Lecture Series

"Decade for Decision" is the title of the 16th annual winter lecture series to begin on Thursday, Jan. 18, at 11 a.m., and to continue on three successive Thursdays.

The series is sponsored by the Women's Guild of St. Alban's Episcopal Church. Lectures will be held in the parish education building at the rear of 333 S. Drexel Ave., Bexley.

Mrs. Richard M. Ross, 267 N. Parkview Ave., is president of the Women's Guild, and Mrs. Brooks P. Julian, 2791 Powell Ave., is 1973 lecture series chairman.

Problems of growth and its limitation, impact of new communications and the effect these developments will have on human beings are some of the concerns of futurologists.

An outstanding group of four Ohio State University professors will present their views on future trends in their respective fields.They will discuss probable changes in the world as we know it, and decisions that must be made to forestall decay of cities, destruction of natural resources and changes in societal institutions.

Dr. A. B. Garrett, professor of chemistry, O.S.U. vice president for research, and consultant for NASA, will open the series on Jan. 18. He will speak on "Science and the Citizen of Tomorrow".

Prof. Laurence Gerckens, American Institute of Planners, and director of O.S. U.'s School of Architecture, will speak Jan. 25 on "The Village at the Crossroads: The Second Urban Revolution Has Begun". Prof. Gerckens is also an urban planning consultant for the city of Columbus.

On Feb. 1, Dr. Henry L. Hunker will present "Resources, Values and the Future". Dr. Hunker is a professor in the Department of Geography and in the Division of Public Administration, College of Administrative Science. He is currently on leave as a Battelle Institute Fellow.

Dr. Jerome Folkman, Department of Sociology, and rabbi of Temple Israel is scheduled for Feb. 8. His subject will be "Are Families Necessary?"

Coffee will be served at 10:30 a.m. preceding each lecture, and a baby sitter will be available. Ticket information may be obtained through the church office at 253-6549.

Group Formed To Aid Bond Issue

A special committee called CIVIC Citizens Interested Vitally in Children) has been formed in the Madison-Groveport school district to lead the campaign for the passage of the school bond issue.

The issue was on the November ballot and was defeated. This issue was for $3,380,000 and the funds were to be used for a new junior high and possibly a new elementary schools.

A spokesman for the district said the millage would possibly remain the same.

The CIVIC group was authorized by the school board to decide when to place the issue on the ballot, either this May or later in November. The group decided on May at which time four renewal levies will also be voted on by the community.

Heading the citizens group is Jerry Callahan, general chairman; Mrs. William Scherbak, vice chairman; Mrs. Brant Tedrow, secretary; and Kenneth Sweigart, treasurer.

Eighteen people are serving on the committee and they represent the entire school district.

New Bridal Section Will Start Jan. 24

Engagements and weddings and plenty of needed information for the bride and groom to be will be a new feature of all Spectator Newspapers starting with the January 24 edition.

THIS SPECIAL section will put more at ease the people involved in these social and name change rituals.

And...as a reminder...there is absolutely NO CHARGE made for publishing engagement and wedding photos and announcements.

We'd very much like to include your engagement announcement ... then ... your wedding photo (that's right, we have no rule that tells you we'll only use one or the other) in this new section that will be published every other week (it starts Jan. 24, then the next issue is Feb. 7).

ALL WE NEED is for you to bring or mail the photo and information to The Spectator Newspapers, 3421 South Blvd., Columbus, Ohio, 43204. The office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. If you want the photo returned please include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Address them to the attention of Betty Brown, Society Editor.

P.S. We also have engagement and wedding forms that you can fill out and return to us if you'd rather we write the story.

Joan's Pets Column Is Featured

THE BEST way to sell the pet you have one to many of is to use a Spectator Classified Ad.

This way you'll be saying "For Sale" to the very people who want to buy one.

The new "Joan's Pets and Pet Supply Column" in the Spectator Newspapers Classified Section is the ideal place to place that ad.

People who want pets check the Classified Ads weekly. You can tell them every Wednesday what you're selling if you phone 274-1155 today.

AS THE animals are saying, "I'd make a wonderful pet for you."

Laurel Lea Schaefer Weds

THE WEDDING of the year (1972) in Franklin County had as its principals Miss Laurie Lea Schaefer, Bexley, Miss America 1972 and Mr. John Lurie, former TV-4 newscaster who has turned his talents toward a hoped for career in medicine. The December 30 nuptials and following reception had the elegance of a Cinderella fairy tale as Laurie and John became the principal characters, Prince Charming and the Maraimah of Kismet. Shortly before Miss Schaefer took the stroll down the aisle she posed for this exclusive photo by Spectator and Love Studio Gallery Photographer Michael P. Stafford. Stafford double exposured his film to capture the opening moments of the nuptials at the left, truly an exceptional bit of photography that captured all the warmth that could be found. The wedding story and more photos can be found in the Spectator Society Section.

Wildlife Attracts At Blendon

THE WALDEN Wildlife Refuge at Blendon Woods MetropolitanPark continues to attract hundreds of wild waterfowl as cold weather slowly closes all open water to the north.

Thoreau Pond at the refuge is kept open by an underwater aeration system and food is provided for the birds. As many as 14 different species of ducks, geese and other water birds have been seen together on the pond in recent days.

Visitors to the refuge can observe the birds from the cover of elevated shelters. Hours are 8 to 5 p.m. on weekdays and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Faithful Like The Mounties

OH, THE WEATHER outside was frightful but it didn't deter these Graham Road School safety patrol girls from gathering with principal Harold Scheiderer to discuss what to do when the snow comes. The weatherman predicted lots of it last week but changed the prediction at the last minute to flurries at the most. Kim Paas, left, and Shirley Oney, only had one answer to what to do about their duties if the snow came and that was "Let it snow, let it snow, let it snow."Like the postman, they, too, follow the creed of neither rain, nor snow, nor sleet, nor gloom of night, etc...will keep them from keeping their appointed rounds..." WATCH FOR SOFT SHOULDERS

Snow covered road shoulders are deceptive, advises the Columbus Auto Club. Use extreme caution when it is necessary to pull off the highway to check your road map or for emergency stops. Snow may hide a culvert, ditch, or other hazard. Best thing to do is to look for a little-used country road or driveway that is clear.

. . "For when the One Great Scorer comes to mark against your name,
. . He'll write not that you won or lost,
. . But how you played the game."

... Grantland Rice

TWO MEN achieved something in the span of 24 hours that encompassed Dec. 31-Jan.1.

One's greatness was enhanced by the revelation that his fellow man and God were undeniably one in his personal efforts to do God's will to help the Nicaraguan earthquake victims.

His name is ROBERTO CLEMENTE. Our prayers go with his family.

The other's true self came to light in a different way when his childish actions and unforgiveable rudeness became apparent at a post-game football press conference.

His name is WOODY HAYES.

We feel ashamed, in a sense, to include the Hayes' incident in this same editorial, but when two nationally known figures are headlined, one with tragic consequences, then we really have a duty to fullfill.

HARD AND poor and childish loser Woody Hayes showed his thin skin after the 42-17 thumping his Buckeyes took by his remarks to a question posed him on an incident that supposedly had him involved in shoving a photographer prior to the game.

For a man of his reknown and Christian background to utter "Jesus Christ" in the manner in which he did is not the opinion we have always held of the majority of the staff and faculty at Ohio State University. It is more in tune with the rock-throwers and name callers that prevailed when the riots occured.

WE DON'T feel that OSU President Harold Enarson can condone this kind of verbal abuse from someone who is supposed to add stature to OSU-not tear down its image.

We don't know the facts of the photographer incident and we can accept the fact that perhaps he overdid his job to the point of being a nuisance.

The facts of the "Jesus Christ" incident are crystal clear since it was seen and heard on television.

Enarson has his first test as a president.

We expect him to come through with flying colors.

Grandma

WHEN I was growing up I had my own time capsule.

I would just cross the street to Grandma Bibler's ("Bible with an r") and enter another century.

The only concession she made to the 20th century was electricity but I think she could have lived without that, too.

I USED to love to watch her pumping the pedal of her sewing machine while I sat on the couch with my feet propped on the bottom part of the pot-bellied stove in the living room.

We rarely went into the parlor mainly because it was cold and the horsehair couch and chair were itchy.

Whenever I came alone and wanted to play a game she always told me to play with "Jack", an old friend of her imagination whom she played with when she was young.

JACK AND I were pretty evenly matched when we played pick up sticks or Uncle Wiggley.

The only plumbing was one cold water pipe. To get warm water she used the compartment in the coal or corn cob burning cast iron stove.

She had a huge garden, grape vines and apple trees which kept her table filled all winter.

TOAST with homemade apple jelly could never taste as good.

We had to watch it very carefully. The sides of the toaster folded down, so you had to keep checking to make sure it didn't burn.

In one of the upstairs bedrooms was a brass bed with a feather mattress and feather quilt. I sunk so low when I was small, I didn't think I'd be able to climb out.

On rainy days we threw rubber jar closers she hadn't used in her canning onto a board filled with nails and with numbers under each to keep score.

Or we blew bubbles through old spools from thread.

WE ALSO had her toys to play with--dolls with china faces, a wicker baby carriage and a child's bike with one giant wheel in front and two tiny ones in back.

In the summer we could run anywhere in the yard without worrying about stickers getting in our feet because she kept them dug out.

We picked violet bouquets from the patch beside the garage (no car inside, of course).

I gathered the eggs (if the chickens were out of the nest) while she slopped the hogs.

IN THE SPRING there were hundreds of baby chicks to watch and feed.

Grandma Bibler is in heaven I'm sure because she was so good and kind; a garage stands where her house once did; and I'm no longer a child, but I can still remember a simple, loving, joyful time when all I worried about was having fun.

Dear Consumer

For A Little Peace . . . And . . . Quiet . . .

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President
and Director
White House Office of Consumer Affairs

According to the Environmental Protection Agency, noise in our homes may be reaching such high levels that there is a danger of injury to the human ear.

Some of the worst noise polluters are electrical appliances.

To combat this growing problem, EPA will soon issue regulations under the Noise Control Act of 1972 to require labeling of noise emission levels on electrical household appliances. A label will be required on the appliance's noise level in decibels, a unit for measuring the loudness of sounds.

According to EPA, noise levels of 0-60 decibels can be considered to be safe, low sound levels; noise of 60-70 decibels can cause negligible hearing damage but can produce annoying sounds; noise of 70-80 decibels can cause hearing damage if there is continual exposure; noise of 80 decibels or more is considered to be the loudest occuring in the home and can cause damage to hearing under frequent exposure.

0-60 decibels--major appliances such as air conditioners, refrigerators and clothes dryers;

70-80 decibels--sewing machines, food blenders, electrical shavers and food grinders.

80 decibels or more--electric yard-care tools and shop tools.

To help reduce the noise around you, EPA urges you to compare the noise output of different makes of an appliance before making a selection.

However, if you're stuck with noisey appliances or live in an urban area, here are some other things you can do:

Use noise-absorbing materials on floors;

Hang heavy draperies over the windows closest to outside noise sources;

Put rubber or plastic treads on uncarpeted stairs;

Use upholstered rather than hard surfaced furniture to absorb noise;

Use a foam pad under blenders and mixers;

Place window air conditioners where their hum can help mask objectionable noises.

More information and suggestions for avoiding noise in the household can be obtained from a new EPA pamphlet called Noise: the Harmful Intruder in the Home. To get your copy, send 15 cents to Consumer Product Information, Washington, D.C. 20407

YOU'LL PROFIT FROM RIDING WITH ME

Your Personal Stake

CHALLENGING an audience of nearly a thousand business leaders at a recent meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers, Walter E. Hoadley said: "We'd better have more new ideas soon to demonstrate the direct personal stake each American has in profits and how that same individual benefits."

Mr. Hoadley, who is chief economist of the Bank of America, pointed out that savings, insurance, personal holdings and other investments are widely channeled into jobs, business, and other productive activities, but only a few people know it.

THIS challenge is well-timed; every effort should be made to eliminate the paradox of public confidence in business being at a new low, with young people turning away from business careers, in the midst of what Mr. Hoadley calls "the greatest economic progress in history." The public is discerning of puffery, however, and businessmen should not hesitate to air their differences and talk should be in proportion to action.

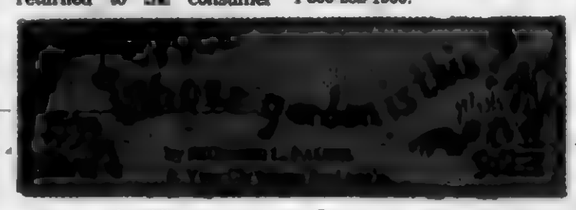
His points are well taken. Not many of us know enough about what motivates our local businessmen and our larger employers. In many instances they could be more forthright and positive; and we could be more willing to learn and be convinced. Here, and elsewhere around the country, the time seems to have come for businessmen and the community to get together and "talk it over."

CERTAINLY any objective observer of today's burgeoning economy would conclude that business must be doing many things extremely well. We all should know more than we do about it.

Consumers Are Warned

OHIO Commerce Director Dennis Shaul has warned Ohio consumers that the 3-day cooling off period - seen as a relief from door-to-door salesmen who high pressure Ohioans into purchasing unwanted goods and services - has loopholes of which all consumers should be aware. Those situations are exempt from the law which became effective January 1.

-All sales, cash and credit, involving less than $35.00.



-Sales in which the buyer initiated the contact between himself and the salesman.

-Sales which are negotiated at the seller's established place of business (rather than in the customer's home).

-Sales in which the customer requests immediate delivery due to an "emergency". Shaul said this provision could allow a salesman to fast-talk a customer into signing away his cooling-off rights.

THE 3-day cooling off period allows consumers in non-exempt situations to cancel a purchase within three working days of the sales agreement. The seller is required to supply the customer with a copy of the purchase agreement, which has a section provided for cancellation. If the customer decides to cancel, he must fill in the appropriate section and return the purchase agreement by mail to the seller. Money, notes or any credit agreements must be returned to the consumer within ten days. Even so, Shaul said that the new law allows the seller to keep all or part of any cash downpayment as long as it does not exceed 5 percent of the purchase price or $25, whichever is less.

IF YOU have any questions concerning the 3-day cooling off law, contact the Consumer Protection Division on its toll-free line: 1-800-282-1960.

A Spotty Congress

TOM KIMBALL, store keeper of the world's largest conservation group, calls the environmental performance of the 92nd Congress "Spotty." In the first full Congress of the "Environmental Decade", Kimball says, "Despite the last minute flurry of environmental legislation that cleared Congress just before adjournment, conservationists generally feel that legislative action was disappointing, resulting in few solid legislative breakthroughs."

He goes on, "One big exception was the passage of the Water Pollution Control Bill, the most comprehensive and, at the same time, the most expensive environment bill ever passed by Congress. The 24.6 billion dollar bill significantly revises the Nation's approach to cleaning up polluted waters by setting strict standards for both industries and municipalities. It also commits the federal government to an ambitious program of helpiong communities buld sewage treatment plants."

TWO OTHER major bills passed by the 92nd Congress, the noise and pesticide bills, also marked new high points in environmental legislation. The federal government now has authority to set maximum noise standards on most sources. Less effective will be the watered-down pesticide law.

Over the two-year session of the 109th General Assembly in Ohio, the conservationist was less fortunate. After a well-deserved victory over stripminers, the citizens were handed a weakened law that has set up an Ohio Environmental Protection Agency poorly equipped at best. With almost no place for citizens to be heard, the power of acting or ingoring is vested in a Czar and a three-man board. Power companies must now please a three-man siting commission whereas before they had several boards and sets of regulations to satisfy.

OPEN burning will continue to be a way of life out in rural Ohio. The Ohio pesticide laws are still amazingly week - designed by and for the agricultural community, not for the people breathing and eating the stuff.

At this late date, no land use policy has been established nor has there ever been a bill written to create such planning. A very weak junk auto dealer bill passed but requires the attention of local politicians including the county sheriff and auditor. If neither are in the mood, the junk cars continue to gather permitless and in full sight.

LET'S all hope the second two years of Ohio's environmental era are much more productive than the two just closing out. About 95 per cent of the legislative part of the clean-up is ahead. And legislation is the first step in the whole wide, wide problem.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: Call your state senator and representative and ask them what their plans are for the next two years. Insist on action.

"We make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give."—Fred W. Grown, The Bergen (N. J.) Citizen.

"We all make mistakes. Henry Ford forgot to put a reverse gear in his first automobile."—William R. Lewis, The Lynden (Wash.) Tribune.

H. C. McCord Expresses His Personal Thanks

To the Editor:

February 14, 1938, I was appointed to serve as Superintendent of the Worthington Schools after having been a teacher, coach and principal for eight years. Now, after forty-three wonderful and fulfilling years in Worthington and four years in other Ohio schools, I am announcing my retirement effective July 31, 1973.

I want to thank present and past members of the Worthington Board of Education, members of the community and members of the school staff for the cooperation and encouragement given to me during these years.

I want to thank present and past members of the Worthington Board of Education, members of the community and members of the school staff for the cooperation and encouragement given to me during these years.

It has been a tremendous privilege during my thirty-five years as Superintendent to have played a part in the educational and physical development of what I am proud to call a fine school system. My greatest hope is and will always be that the community recognize the need for continued support for better schools in Worthington.

My sincere thanks to all of you.

Gratefully,
H.C. McCord

Acting Director FBI Delivers Message

To the Editor:

Those of us who have been privileged to serve in the law enforcement profession know that the responsibilities of that profession are among the most challenging to be found in contemporary society.

To meet the demands of his varied duties adequately, the peace officer must have an abundant measure of intelligence, honesty, judgment, tenaciousness, decisiveness, courage, and physical stamina.

These qualities have distinguished the best members of the law enforcement profession. They must continually be sought in the selection of law enforcement personnel.

An officer who has all of these qualities still must extend himself in performing his duties to meet the high standards of his profession. Lacking any one of them, an officer may fall short in times of greatest need, when the balance of justice, or even life itself, is at stake.

It is extraordinarily difficult to fill the role which is the essence of law enforcement, that of protector. The role demands that a multitude of goals be met, yet in reality they often cannot be met. In a conflict, where law enforcement responsibilities most often begin, even to the skeptics the law enforcement officer becomes a tower of strength to whom the rest of us turn for assistance. He is the one person on whom many must depend for a remedy to the predicaments of life.

But there is another side to the law enforcement officer--a more gentle side of which we seldom hear. To see a police officer comfort those who are grief-stricken over the death of loved ones, to watch him selflessly risk his life to save another, to observe him giving assistance to the helpless, to share his assurances to a lost and tearful child, to learn of his commitment to helping underprivileged youths, and to know that he has spared a life--in circumstances that gave him every legal justification to take it is to witness law enforcement at its finest.

Humaneness, a genuine concern and compassion for a fellow human being, is, to many, an unexpected quality to find in a profession which deals so often with violent situations. Yet it should not be. It is a trait which is absolutely necessary for the kind of law enforcement we all want. At the outset of this new year, it is an appropriate time for the law enforcement profession to rededicate itself to cultivating the quality of humaneness in its members.

L. Patrick Gray III
Acting Director FBI

Volunteers Needed

With the new year comes the renewed plea for volunteers in the elementary inner-city schools of Columbus. People who love children, enjoy working in a direct action program, and have a genuine willingness to serve are needed. This includes housewives, students, senior citizens, and men and women in all walks of life.

Programs where volunteers are presently needed are tutoring, pre-kindergarten, library, community resources, and mini-humanities. Orientation and training are provided for each program.

Volunteers free the teacher from many non-professional tasks, giving them more time to teach, and at the same time build a stronger link between school and community.

Each year the need for volunteers becomes even greater, and this year will be no exception. Teachers, students, and administrators alike agree that the school volunteer has become a priceless asset. We ask that you give just one-half day a week and in return gain a meaningful experience that will give lasting pleasure. Call Brooke Younker, 451-6383.

Mandelkorn Speaker At Prayer Breakfast

Ben M. Mandelkorn, executive vice president of the United Jewish Fund and Council of Columbus will speak and participate in a discussion at the Men's Club Prayer Breakfast Sunday, Jan. 21, at 10 a.m. in the social hall of Tifereth Israel.

Men's Club program chairman Heinz Hoffman indicates that the Sunday morning presentation and discussion will center on the theme: "What You Really Don't Know about Your Community But Should Know ...An inside Inside Story." - Club members, wives and community guests are welcome - reservations suggested.

A member of Congregation Tifereth Israel, B. Mandelkorn came to Columbus in 1966 as director of the UJFC. He had seen prior service on the staff of the Detroit Jewish Welfare Federation and the Dallas Jewish Welfare Federation. He has also been director of Jewish Family Service in Dallas, Texas.

He was formerly the president of the National Association of Jewish Community Organizations Personnel and served on the Executive Committee of the National Conference of Jewish Communal Services, and serves on several national committees of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds as well as the National Council of the Joint Distribution Committee.

Mandelkorn is also Clinical Instructor at the Graduate School of Social Work at The Ohio State University and Chairman of theSummer Institute for Federation Directors of Intermediate Cities. His experience has been enreiched by four visits to Israel on various study missions.

Born in Paterson, New Jersey, Mandelkorn received his B.A. from Rutgers University and his M.S. Degree from the School of Social Work, University of North Carolina.

He served in the U. S. Armed Services as a Captain.

Ben and his wife, Rose, have two children: Robert, third year student in medical school; and daughter, Judith, attending Graduate School of Social Work at The Ohio State University.

Reservations for the January 21 Prayer Breakfast and services may be made by calling 239-7021.

Miss Laurel Lea Schaefer Wed To Mr. John Miles Lurie

In a beautiful holiday floral setting, Miss Laurel Lea Schaefer became the bride of Mr. John Miles Lurie December 30, at Broad Street Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Alvin Duane Smith officiated at the 7:30 p.m. candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Charles J. Schaefer and the late Mr. Charles J. Schaefer of Bexley.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Bernard Lurie and the late Mr. Bernard Lurie of Metropolis, Illinois.

The gown was designed with an empire bodice, cap sleeves and pearl embroidered satin rope neckline and hemline. The A-line skirt with back fullness flowed into chapel length. Her mantilla, bordered with matching beaded lace, was worn madonna style. She carried a formal English mantilla cascade of stephanotis, Forever Yours roses and gardenias accented with varigated holly, seed pearls, and gold threaded roping.

The attendants were attired in floor length A-line gowns of gold brocade and ivory silk. Their Flemish bouquets of Forever Yours roses and varigated holly were encrusted with gold threaded roping.

Cathedral bouquets of Calla lillies, Forever Yours roses, holly and white frosted pine cones were used to decorate the altar for the occasion. Spiral candelabra and deep red poinsettias banked the altar. The globed aisle tapers were wrapped in fresh pine roping with red velvet bows and cascades of white frosted cones. Wall sconces were draped in pine roping with red velvet bows.

At the ensuing reception at Stoney Creek Country Club, the bride's mother greeted her guests in a floor length gown of holiday red chiffon. The bridegroom's mother chose a floor length gown of emerald green chiffon. They carried nosegays of white princess orchids accented with gold cording.

The new Mrs. Lurie was Miss America of 1972. She is a 1971 graduate of Ohio University, where she received a B.F.A. degree in Theatre Arts and vocal music.

She is a member of Alph Xi Delta social sorority, the Society of Arts and Letters, and the American Association of University Women.

She is a recipient of the Tom Dooley Citizenship Award, and the Gold Plate Award for Outstanding Merit, from the American Academy of Achievement.

Miss Schaefer was selected Miss Ohio in July, 1971, and garnered the Miss America Crown that following September.

She is now employed by The William Morris Agency.

Mr. Lurie is a 1968 Radio-Television graduate of Southern Illinois University, and a former employee of WLWC Television in Columbus. He recently completed post-graduate work at Ohio State and Capital Universities.

He is doing television commercials and plans to enter medical school in July.

Following a South Sea Island cruise, the couple will attend the Inaugural Ball in Washington D.C. before returning to their home in Columbus, Ohio.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Joyce Lurie Welsh, sister of groom, Austin Texas.

Bridesmaids were; Mrs. Muguet Dresbach, Bexley, Ohio; Miss Susan Flanagan, cousin of the bride, Long Island, New York; Miss Pamela Inabinet, Miss South Carolina, Swansea, South Car.; Miss Dana Warner, Bexley, Ohio; Miss Kathy Boesel, Bexley, Ohio.

Best man was Mr. H. Ronald Welsh, brother-in-law

Change your Passbook to a

Pa$s*card

Join Buckeye Federal's new, convenient savings plan!

Buckeye Federal's new Pa$s Card fits in your billfold or purse, so you'll have it with you at all times. Now you can deposit or withdraw funds from your Pa$s Card savings account at your convenience. No more worries about forgetting your old fashioned passbook. Your Pa$s Card will be as close as your billfold or purse.

It's easier to use. Just hand your Pa$s Card to any teller, state how much you want to deposit or withdraw, sign the ticket . . . and that's it! In seconds, you'll receive an imprinted receipt showing date, amount of deposit or withdrawal and the new balance in your account. You'll also receive a quarterly statement through the mail showing deposits, withdrawals, account balance and interest earned. Great!

Your new Pa$s Card savings account will earn day-to-day interest, just like your old passbook did. Five percent interest is compounded daily. Let it accumulate and the daily compounded interest equals a 5.13% twelve month return. Now you can't beat that, and that's just a start. There are many more future services to come. Be ready and get a head start with a Pa$s*Card from Buckeye Federal.

If you're a present Buckeye Federal Passbook holder, change your passbook to a Pa$s*Card at any of Buckeye Federal's 13 downtown and neighborhood locations. If you're not a present Buckeye Saver . . . come and join us. Get a Pa$s*Card. It's the new way to save.

Hadassah Women Proclaim:

A Time To Be Proud

"A Time to be Proud" is Hadassah's theme this year for the Donor Luncheon which will be held on Tuesday, January 16, 11:30 a.m. at the Imperial House North. This marks Hadassah's 61st year and the State of Israel's 25th.

A minimum gift of $30.00 enables you to attend the Donor Luncheon and gifts of $50.00 or more enables you to participate at the luncheon with special recognition.

Seven groups comprise the Columbus Chapter of Hadassah which supports the Hadassah Hebrew University Medical Center and Mt. Scopus Hospital in Jerusalem.

Intensive research is done on cancer and other allied diseases which has produced a new blood test for early detection of cancer by Dr. Chloe Tal, senior lecturer at the Medical Center.

The Medical Center is the largest in the Middle East and is considered one of the six great medical complexes of the world. It is Hadassah's most important project in Israel.

The Medical Center provides healing, teaching and research. It comprises a 560 bed hospital, a medical school run jointly with the Hebrew University, a nursing school, dental school run jointly with the Hebrew University, a Mother and Child Pavilion and a school of Pharmacy. Its synagogue houses the famous Chagall stained glass windows.

The Hadassah Hospital on Mount Scopus, cut off from Israel in 1948, was recovered after the six day war. Unfortunately, the hospital was in a state of utter desolation and Hadassah is now rehabilitating and expanding it at a cost of $3,000,000.

Yours could be the Hand which helps a research scientist break through toward a cure of some terrible scourge of mankind.

Your gift could be the one which supports that final step needed to purchase a portable moniton, wheel stretcher, portable traction unit, patient lifter, heated bassinettes, child's wheel chair, adult wheel chair, crib, treatment table, infant scale, blood pressure gauge, complete crib layette, hospital gowns, aluminum crutch, adjustable walkerette, and yes, even a child's wool blanket.

Gadi Elon will be the featured entertainer at the luncheon. He is considered the Tom Jones of Israel.

Halston Models Steal The Show

DESIGNER HALSTON

ANGELICA

FAME RESTS as lightly on Halston's lean shoulders as the knotted cashmere cardigan he turned into the international snob signal of today. Three Cotys in a row, the cover story of Newsweek, a full color page in Vogue, and countless columns billing him the most influential designer of the 70s—"I only hope I can keep it that way," said the designer, in the homey Indiana accent he never tried to lose.

"I see a loosening up, a new easiness in the shape of jackets and coats," he remarked before showing his Spring Collection during the American Designer Series in New York. Then he opened his collection with his new shape—a loose white wool shirt-jacket over pants—part of Halston's Spring weekend wardrobe, which includes a skirt and silk shirt, slightly baggy pants, and a willowy wrapped coat—all interchangeable.

'IN' fashion

with Tess Stern

HALSTON'S SPRING version of his narrow Ultrasuede shirt dress has taken on the smooth shine of leather, in brilliant colors like red and purple for coats and jackets—soft beige for a slim front-wrapped shirt, and white for a little fitted top worn over a long apricot skirt.

For daytime, he showed a tent dress (actually a short caftan) in pastel shantung, worn unbelted to breeze against the body, and his daringly nude short dress in thin silk jersey. For evening, his newest caftans and dresses are handpainted silks in misty abstract patterns—chiffons and cottons—silk knit for sweater sets—cashmere for a large group of long bare dresses—pajamas in hand painted chiffon and pin-dot crepe.

THE MOST scintillating part of Halston's showings are his models—each one a famous celebrity performing in her own way. There's Naomi Sims, black, languid and beautiful—Angelica, tall and angular, with black geometric cut hair (daughter of actor John Huston), and Karen, cover girl, pale, blond, and as sweet as peaches and cream. But as a finale, Halston couldn't resist introducing his directrice, Pat Ast, now starring in an Andy Warhol film. She weighs at least 300 pounds and has frizzy long uncombed hair. Of course, she was wearing one of Halstons black silk hand-painted caftans—what else?

Speaking of Beauty

By Mary Ann Lafferty

HAIRDRESSING, ONE OF THE LIVELY ARTS

You won't get that treatment from us. If we do something for you that you're not completely happy with, all you have to do is let us know. We even gave a do-over to a gal who came in and complained that her hair (a permanent wave) looked too natural. She wanted a frizz so we gave it to her, and she left the salon as happy as a lark. We weren't too happy because it cuts us to the quick to spoil something pretty, but we weren't paying for it and she was, so we figured she was entitled to call the number.

They define the lively arts as those with creative movement. Watch the soft fall of the hair when it's long, note the bright zest of the sprightly short curls, or the fluid frame of short straight hair. If we could gather together a dozen of our patrons in any single day, we'd have a beautiful symphony of movement and color...living, lively art.

Sister M. Suzanne Uhrhane, O.P., president of Ohio Dominican College, today announced the election of three new members of the college's Board of Trustees.

Elected for a three year term are (in alphabetical order): S. Robert Davis, president of S. Robert Davis and Co., Inc., of Arthur Treacher's Fish and Chops, and of Diversified Development Corp., and chairman of the Board of National Fast Foods Corp.; Miss Martha Sullivan, an account executive with the Byer and Bowman Advertising Agency, and a member of the Ohio Dominican Alumni Association; and Lawrence J. Tolbert, president-treasurer of B& T Metals Co.

FOLLOWING A reorganization directed toward making the Ohio Dominican Board of Trustees more representative of the community at large, lay members were first named to the Board in 1969. From its founding in 1911 as the all-girl College of St. Mary of the Springs, the college had been under the leadership of the Dominican Sisters of St. Mary of the Springs.

The college became coeducational in 1964 and, in 1966, its name was changed to Ohio Dominican College to better identify it as a coeducational institution and build a bridge between the old and the new. Ohio Dominican is a fully-accredited, four-year liberal arts college with a present enrollment or approximately 1000, of which 40 percent are men.

Davis, a native of Columbus, which remains the base of his far-flung operations, attended Ohio State University and while a student there started his own real estate firm.

BESIDES HIS varied business activities, which also include the chairmanship of the board of the National Equipment and Distribution Corp., and board membership for the Florida Citrus Showcase, Davis is a life member of the Ohio State University Alumni Association, and a member of thet University's President's Club, the Athletic Club of Columbus, and the Scioto Country Club, as well as the Small Business Advisory Committee.

He, his wife and four children reside in Upper Arlington.

Miss Sullivan, who received a Bachelor of Arts Degree with teacher certification from Ohio Dominican, did graduate work in broadcasting at Ohio State University and started her career with Byer and Bowman as a copywriter.

CURRENTLY A BOARD member of the Diocesan Child Guidance Center and President of Players Club, she is a member of the Press Club of Central Ohio and of the Ad Club.

In 1963, she was honored as the Advertising Woman of the Year. She is a past secretary and lieutenant governor of the Fifth District American Advertising Federation.

A member of Theta Sigma Phi, national journalism honorary and formerly its local chapter president, Miss Sullivan is also a past mpresident of the Ohio Dominican Alumni Association, and a past board member of Traveler's Aid, the Epilepsy Foundation and of Rosemont School.

Tolbert, a graduate of the Ohio State University, in 1938, joined the B & T Floor Co. (now B & T Metals) in 1936. He was elected to its Board in 1948, and became president-treasurer of B & T Metals and of Rex Window Co., now merged with B & T, in 1966.

Civically active, Tolbert is a board member of the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce, the National Alliance of Business Men, Blue Cross of Central Ohio, United Way, United Community Council, the Columbus Symphony Orchestra, the Columbus Center of Science and Industry, the Franklin County Historical Society, and the Columbus Zoological Association. He also is an advisory board member of Columbus Technical Institute.

A PAST PRESIDENT of the former Columbus Federation of Settlements and of Neighborhood House, Tolbert is active in Columbus Rotary Club, the Urban League, the NAACP and the YMCA, whose East Side Branch, he previously served as a board member.

A member of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity, he is a 32nd Degree Mason and a Shriner. He also belongs to the Merry Makers Club.

Other members of Ohio Dominican's Board of Trustees are: Wilbert H. Yahn, retired, former president of the Columbus Division of North American Rockwell Corp.; Dean W. Jeffers, general Chairman and chief executive officer of the Nationwide organization; Everett H. Krueger, vice president of the City National Bank and Trust Co.; Mother M. Francis de Sales Heffernan, O.P., Mother General of the Dominican Sisters of St. Mary of the Springs; Sister M. Assumpta Costello, O.P.; Sister M. Augusta Barry, O.P., and Sister Suzanne. Dr. Robert Christin, Jr., president of St. Morbert College, West DePere, Wisc., and Donald Ruben, of Abraham and Purkey, attorneys, have completed their board terms.

Two Art Classes Scheduled At Center

Far East Recreation Center will be offering two art courses in adult education winter session.

Ceramics class will deal with all forms of handbuilding in pottery, instruction on potters wheel and glaze technique.

The class will not deal with the use of molds.

The session is eight weeks and the fee is $8. The class will be on Monday nights at 7.

The center will also have an adult drawing and two-dimensional design class which will begin today, Jan. 10 and will meet every Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. for eight weeks.

There will be no fee and the class will deal with still life, figure drawing and general visual design in a number of drawing methods, including ink, pencil and charcoal.

Golf lessons are also planned and will meet in the afternoon at 1 and 3:30 p.m. Classes for teenagers and adults will be at 7 p.m.

There are still some openings in boys gymnastics, wrestling and weightlifting. Wrestling meets Tuesdays, Thursdays for boys six through 12.

For more information on the programs, contact the center.

Senior Citizens 'Here's Action

Miss Florence Worrell from the United Nations Association of Columbus and Ohio will be the speaker at the 1100 East Broad Senior Citizens Recreation Center this Friday, Jan. 12th at, at 2:30.

She will show slides of her trip to India last April. Refreshments will follow the program and senior citizens may meet and talk with Miss Worrell.

Would you like a bit of help making up that special needlework kit you received as a Christmas gift?

If so, see Instructor Emily Ocker on Wednesdays from 10 to 4, during which time she conducts an all-day workshop and problem clinic for center members with knitting, crochet, beadwork and embroidery.

Art classes which are now open to any senior citizens are: Exploring Art – Mondays, 1:30 - 3; Pottery – Tuesdays or Wednesdays, 1:30 - 4; and Painting– Thursdays, 9:15 - Noon.

Further information is available at the Senior Citizens Recreation Center, 1100 East Broad Street, or by calling 252-2832.

Neo-Natologist Talks At Birthright Meeting

Dr. Meade O'Boyle, neo-natologist, will speak Wednesday night at 8 to Birthright members at its monthly train-in.

The meeting will be held at the conference room of the Buckeye Federal Savings & Loan building, at 4380 E. Livingston.

Dr. O'Boyle, formerly of Washington, D.C., will speak on fetal growth and development of the unborn child. Friends and supporters of the group, especially expectant or new mothers, are invited cordially to attend the meeting.

Birthright of Columbus, Inc. is a phone-in center for women with an unwanted or trouble pregnancy.

Its monthly train-ins are used as an instruction forum for its telephone counsellors.

Rounding Up The Rams

By Suzann Klayko

This year has seen many changes in the high school which were brought about by the Board of Education. These changes were brought to help improve the appearance of the high school and better the atmosphere for the students.

One of the additions made to the high school was the building of four tennis courts on the marching band's practice field. The courts was completed and in use by September.

Since the marching band lost its practice field to the tennis courts a new area for its use is being planned. This space will be as long as the football field. The date of completion is not yet known.

A new roof was put on the gym and the gym floor was refinished. A large Ram head was put in the center of the floor also. Other repairs for the future are repairing the bleachers and painting the walls. The auditorium is also slated for some remodeling. A new scoreboard for the football field was put in for immediate use.

The cafeteria will be used as a lounge during study halls. During Christmas vacation the cafeteria' floor was covered.

A room is now being prepared for in-school suspension. The room will contain individual study carrels. The room will be constantly supervised by teachers.

The student parking lot is being improved by smoothing out the holes and bumps. The parking lot will not be paved but covered with gravel.

A new post of Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds was started. This new post is hoped to improve building maintenance by cutting red tape.

Dinner Set For Jan. 20

The Zion Lutheran men of the church will be sponsoring a chili and ham dinner, Saturday, Jan. 20, from 12 to 6, at the Zion Lutheran Church, 1080 Obetz Rd.

There is a donation of $1.00 at the door. There will be plenty of chili & ham, pie and beverage.

ODC Will Offer Reading Program

The Continuing Education Division at Ohio Dominican College will offer a program to give the below average reader the personal help he needs.

The course, "Remedial Reading Clinic for High School Students", will meet from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays from Feb. 12 through March 15, at Ohio Dominican, 1216 Sunbury Rd.

According to Richard R. Teaff, director of ODC's Continuing Education, the course is designed to benefit students with reading problems, but is not geared toward those with severe physical or emotional handicaps.

It is expected to aid students who are personally willing to expend the necessary time, effort and self-discipline through an intense study directed toward improving word recognition and reading comprehension.

Mrs. Mary Jo Meyers, M.A., of the Ohio Dominican English faculty, will instruct the clinic. Plans call for tests to be given on the opening day of class to determine the students' sight, vocabulary and reading comprehension grade levels, with the test repeated on the last day.

Results of the two tests will be sent to parents at the conclusion of the program.

Classwork will be divided according to the student's individual needs, with intense work in three areas: word recognition, including use of contextual clues and phonetic and structural analysis; meaning comprehension on the literal, interpretative and critical levels; and if the student wishes individual help in reading one of his school textbooks.

Students will usually work in groups (containing no more than five students with similar reading problems). With Mrs. Myers' guidance, Ohio Dominican College English majors, will work with each group.

Gourmets Demonstrate Candlemaking

Carolyn McGrail of "Wicks & Sticks" Shop will demonstrate and speak on the art of candlemaking at the Jan. 17 meeting of the Gourmet Society of the Central Ohio Restaurant Association to be held at Forte's Restaurant.

Chairman for the 6:30 p.m. dinner is Mrs. Phyllis Forte, assisted by Mrs. Harold Deible. The program committee includes Mrs. Kirk R. King, Mrs. William Southworth, Mrs. Louis Robins and Mrs. Edward J. Miller.

Bartok Quartet Plans Concert January 13

The Bartok String Quartet will play at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts on Saturday, Jan. 13 at 8:30.

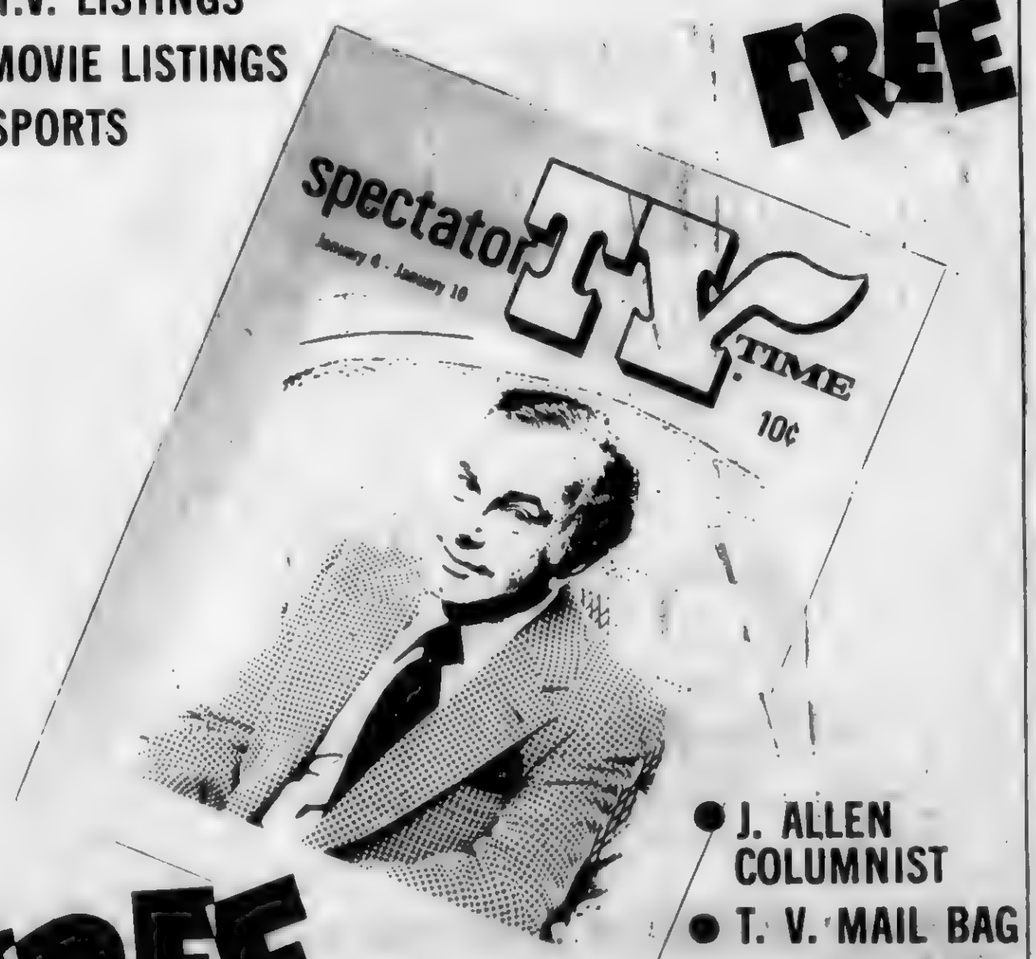
They will be presented by Prestige Concerts as the third event of this year's series.

Their program will be Quartet in D Major, Op. 76, No. 5 by Haydn, Quartet No. 2, Op. 17 by Bartok, and Quartet in A Major, Op. 41, No. 3 by Schumann.

The Bartok Quartet was founded in Budapest in 1957 as the Komlos Quartet after Peter Komlos, its first violinist.

The ensemble won several prizes in international competition and then was given its name in 1963 by members of the Bartok family and the Ministry of Education.

The Quartet has gone on to further awards and has appeared all over the world in concert, on radio and on television. Their repertory includes the six Bartok Quartets and works of other Hungarians as well as those of a broad range of composers from Haydn to the present.



The entire facilities of the Art Gallery will be open to patrons of the concert from 7:30 through intermission. At intermission, coffee and tea will be served in Derby Court.

Tickets are available through Mrs. Jon Cunnyngham, 66 W. Jeffrey Pl. and Mrs. F.S. Koehl, 1805 Coventry Rd. They also may be purchased from the University Music House, 4139 North High Street.

IF THE remaining fifty one weeks turn out as good as did the first one in 1973, it will be a great year. I had two really fine events this week. First, I discovered one of the best restaurants in Columbus, The Waikiki, serving the finest Chinese and Polynesian food in one of the nicest, most authentic atmospherees I have had the pleasure to experience for a long time. The second pleasant experience was listening to the group at the Ramada Inn East. Their name is the colorful College. There are six people in the group and they do keep things moving with comedy, excellent instrumentals and vocals, and a stage personality that's super professional.

I COULD use a wicker basket full of terms, such as exotic splendor, exciting polynesian decor and food, and many more, and yet and I would not be able to convey to you the true warmth and enchantment of the atmosphere or just how delicious is the food.

The food is terrific, the prices are much more reasonable than I ever expected. As manager Frank Lin, told me, "Prices are taylored for the residents of Columbus." We do not cater to a tourist trade. We are interested in serving the best food possible, so our customers will come back many times." And, believe me, dine there once, and you will go back again, and again.

WHEN YOU walk into the place, you are greeted by the cutest, most authentic decor that you will find anywhere. The floors, walls, ceiling, doors and just every inch of the restaurant is polynesian splendor. At each place setting there is a lei on top of a red napkin that sets on a red tablecloth.

The menu will litteraly flip you. There are over twenty four entrees, plus a large choice of soups, salads, appetizers, deserts and side dishes. You'll find Polynesian food, Japanese entrees and Chinese food. Plus, there is a large menu with nothing but Polynesian drinks.

BELIEVE ME, this is one restaurant that deserves to be a success. Everything is so traditional. There is a language barrier with the waiters. But, it is surprising how one can over-come this problem, especially whefordering one of the exotic drinks. When I tell you, that there is none better, or really any other spot that can touch the Waikiki, that is saying a lot. It is all true.

Frank Lin, the president and general manager, is just as intriguing as the restaurant. He came to the states five years ago from Tawian. He graduated as a mechanical engineer from Old Dominion College in Norfork, Virginia. Working his way through school in restaurants he and his brother met other Chinese students. They formed an association, which is now a corporation, which has 30 or 40 members owning 15 restaurants in the United States. New students are constantly being accepted, but they must be well qualified. They start as a dishwasher and must learn all phases of the business. Then, they become a stockholder.

FRANK'S brother works with him, and their parents still live in Tawain. By the way, Frank'sd real first name is Yihkang. He chose the name Frank, after the famous American Benjaim Franklin. Get it, Frank Lin. Pretty unique.

In fact, that is the whole story about the Waikiki Restaurant. Everything about it is unique and so very interesting and good. You can gt a good meal beginning at $3.25. What an inexpensive way to take a "trip" to a land of fantasy, which is located at the Imperial House - West Motel.

THE KNOX County Band, is a quintet of young fellows who basically have it all together. Listening to them sing harmony is a rare treat. They produce a darn, nice blend.

Marco Polo's Lounge is fortunate to have such a fine outfit. Instrumentaly, they are superb. Esch member is certainly strong on their individual bit.

Take Dave Harris, for example. This guy is a gas of a singer. He has a highly individualized style that will knock you over. This young fellow has a really dynamic voice. As far as I am concered he is super star material. Wait until he plays the sax. Wow! His renditions will send anyone right up against the wall.

And the guitar and trumpet styling of Dean Ellenwood, and a full house, musically speaking, is in order. Then put bass, organ and drums to it, and you will hear a sound that is full and as sparkling as a good champagne.

ORGANIST Ric Dowell is a real pro at the electric black and white keyboard. Craig Pataky, brother of my fellow columnist, is something else with the drums. His speed and style is to shelf, all the way. This young man contributes lots of drive to the entire grup. Last, but believe me, not least, is the work of bass man Ken McCow. His fingers are allover the strings. Ken also owns a pretty good voice. Togher, Knox County Band is one of the best and most enjoyable musical groups I have had the pleasure to hear. The pacing of their act is first rate. They come on with a wide variety of tunes set to outstanding arrangements.

THE BIGGEST fault I have with this band, is their name. It sounds like a hillbilly aggregation. Not so. These are five talented musicians who have it all together, both individualy and as a group. Their sound is tremendous.

This is one group that I have to recommend to lovers of good music. It all happens every night of the week at the popular Marco Polo's Lounge. Marco Polo made an important discovery, and when you visit Marco Polo's Lounge, you will also make an important discovery, one of the finest quintets in show business. This has to be a must on your new year entertainment schedule.

IF YOU are looking for a nice place, that swings, where you can have a good time, then look no further, just head to the all new Scioto Inn. If you haven't been there for a while, you are in for a surprise.

The Scioto Inn, after being closed for several months, is open under new ownership, that of well known Wade Williams. Wade is making the place jump, but not with the young, hippy type. The bar has been moved, and is now in the center of the room, the one to the south.

Wade is booking the best entertaining that can be found. This week he is featuring the Bill Mims Trio, featuring Jimmy Carter. This is a solid trio, playing all types of music for dancing as well as listening. You can hear them on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Wade Williams has also started a new food policy at the Scioto Inn. His luncheons are tops. For example, you may select from twelve different entrees that range from a $1.45 to a $1.85. There are a choice of fifteen sandwiches ranging in price from 40 cents to $1.15.

FOR YOU who are looking for a place with a private party room, this is the place. Wade said he will take all types of parties, meeting and such from ten people up to a hundred.

Stop in some afternoon for a good time, too. There is a special cocktail hour from 4 p.m., until 6:30 p.m. The Scioto Inn is the place to go for a good time and to meet new friends, be it for lunch, cocktails in the afternoon or to hear some swinging music in the evening. The Scioto Inn is really a fun place, and Wade Williams always make sure you are not disappointed. Look for me, I'll be there this weekend.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

This is the final week for the Keith - Charles duo at Lincoln Lodge. You will enjoy their comedy, vocals and truely good instrumentals. Make sure you catch Keith - Charles at Lincoln Lodge this week. They have been drawing full houses, that's how good they are ... For the best cheese cake in town, try Charbert's, on east 15th. It is delicious ... Ran across another restaurant the other night, The Country Squire. It is located on Henderson Road, and has been open for about six months. The food was good, prices reasonable. Nice, quiet atmosphere ... For a nice evening out, stop in some Friday or Saturday night at the Holiday Inn Reynoldsburg. The Stu Huffman Trio is currently playing for your dancing and listening pleasure. This is a nice, group, making lots of good music, that's with a capital "M." You get plenty of nice music with Stu Huffman. Their food is also great. Plan on spending an evening at the Holiday Inn Reynoldsburg, real soon, you won't be sorry. For a place with plenty of action, the Vegas Club is a must. They have a great band, plenty of good looking gals, including a bevy of entertainers. You are never a stranger, at the Vegas Club. Rumor of the week. Watch for some big changes at the Apple Tree ... For a real treat, dine out some evening at the Dobbs House Restaurant, located in the Airport Terminal. The atmosphere is superb, the same is true for the food and the service. Take my word for it, truely a great place to dine. They also have special menus for children, who by the way, love to eat and watch the planes land and take off. Many adults do also. All legal beverages are served at the Dobbs House. You can order anything you want from a sandwich to a 20 oz. porterhouse. It's all good.

Some Tight, Some Almost Closed

Halfway Home-But Who Will Cage Champs Be?

THE THEORY that anything can happen in the city league and usually does continues that trend.

The Marion-Franklin vs Eastmoor encounter should prove to be interesting and the loser will probably be eliminated from the city race, although three losses could very well be in contention the way the league leaders are taking turns losing.

Although Central is all but out of it, come tournament time the Pirates could be molded into a contender. They knocked off Eastmoor last Saturday.

TAKE YOUR pick now - but a flip of the dart into a name-filled board might be just as well to find the winner.

If Grove City is to get any kind of competition it will come the following week when they tangle with Bexley.

TO NO one's surprise the area high school basketball races are still having potential champions facing crucial tests every week.

Westerville's Cats, 8-0 in the Ohio Cap Conference visit Gahanna this week and the Lions, like all OCC teams, are priming for an upset of the undefeated Cats' (11-0 overall.)

East, South and Linden McKinley in the Columbus City Loop, came up eith big wins last week and find themselves snarled at the top of that loop with 5-1 records.

Former league leading Eastmoor dropped two the past week after taking the measure of Bishop Ready the week before.

MEANWHILE, Bishop Ready's tall and talented Silver Knights continue to make life miserable for the other Central Catholic league members and go to Bishop Wehrle Friday.

Grove City's undefeated Greyhounds (Mid-8 league 7-0 and overall 10-0) will have the odds in their favor against winless Hilliard but if the law of averages make a turnabout it could be Hilliard's turn to provide the applecart upset of the year.

IN WHAT should turn out to be the top game of the week in Central Ohio the second place Ohio Cap Conference Delaware Pacers come to Whitehall to face the improving Rams. The Rams, 8-2 for the season, have a history of getting tougher as the season progresses. Their overall height has made them a tough rebounding team and their second half play throughout the season has been outstanding. The Rams carried Westerville into an overtime before losing.

THE NETWORK: Plenty of 20-plus point scoring was the name of the game again last week with the following etching their names in that magic circle: Redd, West, 24; Binion, South, 21, McCants, East, 24; Winborn, East, 21; Adams, Northland, 22; Goodyear, Walnut Ridge, 25; Marshall, Walnut Ridge, 23; Bramlage, Bexley, 33; Askins, Delaware, 21; Williams, Reynoldsburg, 21; Bramu Williams, Mt. Vernon 25; Ferst, Franklin Heights, 30; Pontius, Teays Valley, 20; Logsdon, Teays Valley, 21; Sinclair, Grandview, 22; Moeller, Grove Ctiy, 26; Graves, Upper Arlington, 21; Joseph, Ohio Deaf, 22; Gruber, Canal Winchester, 21; Murlanne, Bishop Ready, 23; Fontanoroso, DeSales, 30; Ohanion, Eastmoor, 22; Murray, Eastmoor, 20; Hammond, Central, 22; Williams, South, 21; Harris, North, 23; Goodyear, Walnut Ridge, 30; Marshall, Walnut Ridge, 24; Daniels, Brookhaven, 23; Wood, Northland, 25; Gruber, Canal Winchester, 35;

HERE ARE some interesting figures on how area schools will stand in the Class A-AA and AAA tourmaments for 1973-74. The Class A range is 0-189 students, Class AA is 190-399 students and Class AAA is 400 and over students, all males, enrolled in grades 10-11 and 12.

The schools, class and number of male students are: Class A-Canal Winchester, 129; Columbus Ohio Deaf, 28; St. Charles, 176; Academy, 131; Wehrle, 183; New Albany, 137; Pickerington, [illegible]

Class AA-Teays Valley, 276; Bexley, 347; DeSales, 299; Grandview Heights, 220; Hamilton Township, 389; Hartley 300; Mifflin, 357; Mohawk, 209; Ready, 281; Watterson, 305; West Jefferson, 197;

And, all in AAA: Brookhaven, 791; Central, 867; East, 613; Eastmoor, 782; Franklin Heights, 401; Linden McKinley, 714; Marion Franklin, 681; North, 818; Northland, 802; South, 965; Upper Arlington, 1152; Walnut Ridge, 1008; West, 981; Whetstone, 863; Whitehall, 804; Delaware Hayes, 450; Gahanna, 634; Westland, 670; Grove City, 704; Groveport, 545; Hilliard, 527; Mt. Vernon, 624; Reynoldsburg, 508; Westerville, 946 and Worthington, 823.

High School Basketball Schedule

Area Non-League

Friday, Jan. 12 - New Albany at DeSales, Starr Washington at Ohio Deaf.

Saturday, Jan. 13 - Big Walnut at Northland, Kentucky Deaf at Ohio Deaf and St. Charles at Cincinnati St. Bernard.

ST. CHARLES' Goef Stafford adds two more points to his 18 point effort in Friday's losing cause against Mohawk at the Cardinal's gym. Mohawk's win over high-spirited St. Charles came in the last seconds of the game.

PHIL POLK, St. Charles, prepares his surge to the hoop and eventually scored while Mohawk's defenseman Jim Hight tried in vain to stop the two point score to tie the game early in the third period.

Park Federal Has Record Growth Year

Park Federal Saving & Loan Association has just recorded its' greatest growth year, according to Jack W. Chilcote, president.

A $15.3 million increase during 1972 places the total assets of the association at $82.5 million.

Savings accounts increased $13.1 million during the year, reflecting a 23.1 percent growth rate. Interest payments in the amount of $3.6 million represented an all-time high.

Mortgage lending increased $12.4 million. Reserves and individual profits reached $3.8 million, also a new high.

"The past ten year period has been one of exceptional growth," Chilcote commented.

Worthington Matmen Take Invitational

Worthington High School's wrestling team placed first Saturday in the 16th Annual Worthington Invitational Tournament with 94-½ points.

Second place trophy went to Columbus DeSales; third place was Cincinnati Oak Hills with 66 points.

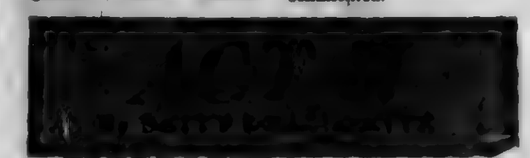
Band Plans Variety Show

The New Albany Band Parents are sponsoring a community variety show Saturday, January 20 at 8 p.m. in the New Albany Senior High Gymnasium.



The theme is "Remember When".

The Master of Ceremonies will be Dave Logan.

Chair seats will be $2 and bleacher seats $1.50 for adults and .75 cents for children.

Anyone interested in preforming should call Mrs. Wharton 855-7230 for information.

There are four categories of talent: Minstrel, Roaring '20's, Big Bands and The Sound of the '50's.

"THE OWL And The Pussycat" by Bill Manhoff is a funny play with a lot of truth and depth to it. The story is about a book store clerk named Felix who thinks of himself as a writer and a prostitute named Doris who thinks of herself as a model. Now, right there you have one of the greatest human foibles of all time - people being one thing in reality and claiming to be another.

Like the garbage man who calls himself a sanatation engineer, the house painter who calls himself an artist, the dental assistant who calls herself a nurse, etc. But, I degress.

The play takes off with the clerk having called the girl's landlord after seeing ger take money from a gentleman. She is kicked out of her apartment and has to give the landlord all her money so he won't call the cops. She knows the clerk made the call so she goes to his apartment for shelter for the night - him being responsible for her situation, don't you see!

That is the begining, what goes on from there is hilarious and, if you feel like putting meaning to it, deep all at the same time.

ON BROADWAY Alan Alda and Diana Sands gave the comedy life. By casting Linda Browning in the role of Doris, director Jim Dippel has altered the original concept of the play for Little Theater Off Broadway's production, running January 12, 13, 19 and 20 at 3651 N. Broadway, Grove City. This does not detract form the story, as I had imagined, just changes the set of values it is based on.

Linda was the kooky Daisy Gamble in "On A Clear Day" last fall, a role not in the least related except that both girls are somewhat dense and know it. She uses some of the same gestures and the same voice for this role and makes them work for her. Mike McGee, as the peeping tom fink Felix, plods and blasts his way into Doris's life and heart.

I DO wish they would realize the power of the underplay and not scream and shout so much to show emotion. They loose some of the subtleties in this way. It is also hard on the ears - unless you have teenagers in the house with a stereo set. Then you are used to it.

The backstage voices were terrific! Pat Casey and Maryanne Weed did their bit just like a soap poera - only it was the late - late show. Curtain time is 8:30 and ticket information can be obtained by calling 875-3919.

With "Mame" a recent memory, The First Community Productions have already started preparations for "Vaudivilities". It has been cast and is now in rehearsal for presentation in April. I talked to a couple of veterans of this extravaganza and they don't seem to mind the long rehearsal schedule at all. I have often dreamed of having time to rehearse a show properly - and they sure do have the time. Good luck troopers.

GALLERY Players are doing "Dark Of The Moon" at this time instead of the end of the season. The original musical they had scheduled is not completed. Jimmy Rawlins is the author, and it will be presented later in the season. Play dates for "Dark Of The Moon" are January 25th, 27th, 28th and 31st, February 1st, 3rd and 4th.

Club and organizational news should be sent to the Spectator by Thursday noon.

First State Bank Has New All-Time Highs

First State Bank officials have announced that new all-time highs in total assets, deposits and loans were reached during 1972.

As of December 31, 1972, more than $30.6 million was reported in total assets as against $23.45 million in 1971, a better than 30 percent increase.

Total deposits increased more than $27 million as compared to $20.1 million the previous year, a 35 percent increase. Loans increased from $11.83 million to $12.13 million.

"This large increase in business during 1972 is a result of several factors including an expanded installment loan department, new commercial and industrial services including international services and, most importantly, the purchase of First State Bank last March by the Society Corporation of Cleveland, a multi-bank holding company of the board and chief executive officer.

First State Bank is one of 12 affiliates of the Society Corporation operating 74 offices throughout Ohio. In Columbus First State operates a Westgate Office at 3505 Sullivant Ave. and a main office in downtown Columbus.

'World Of Home' Is Meeting Theme

"The World of Home" is the theme for the 1:30 p.m. January 16 meeting of The Ohio State University's Agricultural Circle at the Agricultural Administration Auditorium.

In carrying out this theme, Patrolman Earl Moore of the Columbus Division of Police will show and discuss the film, "The Door Was Locked." Members may invite guests.

The tea hostess chairman will be Mrs. David H. Boyne, 5950 Litchfield Road. She will be assisted by Mrs. D. Lyle Goleman, 2261 Pinebrook Road; Mrs. Harold Schick, 6845 Bowerman Street E.; Mrs. Paul Thomas, 5520 Rockport Road; and Mrs. Austin E. Ritchie, 5609 Hayden Run Road. Serving at the tea table will be Mrs. Wayne C. Ellett, 5737 Bromley Avenue and Mrs. R. GeorgeJapp, 4435 Shields Place.

The Agricultural Circle is an organization for faculty wives and women faculty members of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at The Ohio State University.

They're All Top Realtors

RICHARD "Dick" Fagan, an associate of Saxton Realtors, 5311 West Broad St. and long active in West Side civic affairs was one of only five real estate sales members of the Columbus Board of Realtors to have been accepted this year in the exclusive "Five Million Dollar" Sales Club. The Club has only 29 members in a city which has over 3,0000 real estate sales people. 24 sales people were admitted to the Board's "One Million Dollar" Sales Club bringing the membership in that club up to 170 members. Receiving their honors at the recent Realtor's Presidential Ball, the new members are from left "Doug" Welch with Holzer-Wollam; John Jenkins with Harley E. Rouda & Co.; Sally Knolls with Knolls Realty; Dick Fagan with Saxton Realtors and Dan D. Frye with C. V. Perry & Company. (Photo by Columbus Board of Realtors.)

Christmas Tree Mulch Free At Three Places

Mulch will be available, free of charge, at three recycling centers Saturday, January 13, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The mulch is a result of the Christmas trees picked up by the city of Columbus, in cooperation with the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, and coordinated by Ohio Waste Watchers, Inc.

Rather than add to the landfill, the trees were taken to a centralized location, run through a tree chipper and made into mulch, which will be available at three Recycling Centers: Westland (West Broad and Georgesville Road) behind Sears; Ontario's North (Hudson Street at I-71) and Marriott Inn East (2124 South Hamilton Road (near I-70).

These three locations will be staffed by volunteers from members of Ohio Waste Watchers, Inc. Citizens are requested to bring their own containers – boxes or bags – for all the material needed.

Chairman of the project is James Westwater, 2371 Bexley Park, and co-chairman is Mrs. George Harding, 758 Garrett Drive, state coordinator for Ohio Waste Watchers, inc.

The Ohio Waste Watchers, Inc. will hold their regularly monthly meeting at the Center of Science and Industry, 280 East Broad St., at 7:30 p.m. Monday, January 15.

The co-ordinator is Mrs. Norma Harding of 758 Garrett Drive, 451-4701.

Don't let them melt away

If your shopping list is growing longer and your cash is growing shorter, there's an easy way to make sure no one dear to you will be disappointed. Check the Want Ads for excellent shopping ideas on new and unusual pre-owned offerings at budget pampering prices.

This too is the time to offer those good but no-longer-needed items — bicycles — typewriters — antiques — telescopes — pool tables — motor bikes — sporting equipment — train sets . . . the list goes on and on.

If we can help you write your ad, we will be happy to do so. A courteous Ad-Visor is as close as your phone.

They're Gridiron Champions

Schedules Mayor's Report

"Columbus 1973: Mayor's State Of The City Report" will be presented on Columbus Town Meeting Sunday, January, 14, from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

Huntington Carlile will moderate the live telecast which will be rebroadcast Sunday evening from 10 to 11:30 p.m. over WBNS-AM Radio.

Speakers will be: The Honorable Tom Moody and members of his cabinet; N. Jack Huddle, Development Director; Bernard Chupka, Safety Director; Robert Newlon, Utilities Director; Alvin Peterjohn, Finance Director and Mel Dodge, Parks and Recreation Director.

Questions may be telephoned to 228-3881 throughout the program.

YEILD THE RIGHT OF WAY

The Columbus Auto Club-AAA says that failure to yield the right of way is dangerous at any time of the year, but especially during the winter when roads and streets are likely to be slippery. The safe driver shows extra caution and courtesy by yielding the right of way even when he knows it is legally his. This kind of common sense driving pays off in an accident-free driving record.

Clintonville Furniture Makes Best OSU-USC Guess

The personnel of Clintonville Furniture, especially Manager William R. Bates, can take bows this week as the Monday morning quarterback experts.

Throwing aside emotion and sticking more to the facts of life the team at Clintonville Furniture, 3301 N. High St., came through with flying colors last week on their prediction (the best among 42 by merchants) of the outcome of the Ohio State-Southern California football game.

Their prediction was Southern California, 33; Ohio State, 14.

Why not call them at 263-1857 or stop in and see the superb merchandise they have to offer.

Meanwhile, we offer our congratulations to Clintonville Furniture and condolences to OSU. The final score was 42-17.

CMACAO Heads Speak Jan. 11

Charles Wallace, director of the CMACAO Housing Rehabilitation program and Tom Dillard, executive director of the Model Neighborhood Assembly, will speak at 4 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 11 at the CMACAO Martin Luther King Neighborhood Action Center, 1169 Oak St.

The meeting, open to the public, is sponsored by the advisory council of the CMACAO Martin Luther King Neighborhood Action Center.

IRS Income Tax Service Offered

Don Campbell, Representative of the District Director for the Columbus office of the Internal Revenue Service, has announced that increased taxpayer assistance will be available during the 1973 tax filing season.

Assistance will be offered at the IRS office, 261, South Thrid St.

The days and hours are: Mondays, 8 a.m.-7:45 p.m.; Tuesdays thru Fridays, 8 a.m.-4:45 p.m. and Saturdays, 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Assistance may also be obtained by calling 469-7422 during the above hours.

In addition, assistance will be offered this year at the Sawyer Recreation Center, 1066 Atcheson.

Hours are 10 a.m.-6:45 p.m., Monday thru Friday, from January 26 thru February 16 and April 2 thru April 16.

Parks Plan Winter Hike

The Department of Natural Resources has announced plans for the 8th annual Winter Hike at Hocking Hills State Park, Saturday, January 13.

The popular outdoor event, sponsored by the department's parks and recreation division, attracted 1,5000 participants last year.

Hikers are to assemble at 9:30 a.m., at the park shelterhouse near Old Man's Cave. They will be split into small groups for the five and one-half mile trek to Ash Cave. The groups will be led by trained naturalists.

The tour of Buckeye Trail offers scenic views to park landmarks including Old Man's Gorge, Devils Bathtub, Sphynx Head, Cedar Falls, Ash Cave and Queer Creek.

There is to be a lunch break at Cedar Falls where the Logan Kiwanis Club will serve bean soup and free hot chocolate. Hikers also can bring sack lunches. Coffee will be provided at Ash Cave by the Logan Trade Club.

Buses will be available at the end of the hike to transport hikers back to Old Man's Cave. Provisions also have been made for those who do not wish to continue the hike after lunch.

Planning Book Sale

The Columbus Public Library will offer thousands of used books for sale at the library's Buck-a-Bundle book sale Feb. 1-3 at the Main Library, 96 S. Grant Ave.

Hours of the sale are 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 1, and Friday, Feb. 2, and from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 3.

The Beat Of A City . . . And Then Some

Revenue Sources Needed By Schools

Thomas B. Connery

Columbus School Board President Thomas Moyer appointed a special committee January 9 "to impress upon those in responsible positions that the property tax has been overworked."

Moyer said that the ad hoc Committee for Adequate Funding should "begin shouting at state and federal officials for more funds to operate city schools."

He said that the purpose of the committee will be to "impress on state government the need for a more certain revenue source."

Moyer said that competent authorities are convinced that the property tax has been overworked and that urban schools are going to have to get a larger share of state and federal revenue if they are to continue to operate efficiently.

He added that he hopes to have the board"s voice heard in the legislative and executive branches of the federal government.

Moyer appointed Paul Langdon chairman of the new committee, with himself and Dr. Watson Walker as members.

He also assigned members to the board's fourstanding committees, and appointed their chairmen: Dr. David Hamlar, buildings; Dr. Walker, finance; Mrs. Marilyn Redden, community relations; and Mrs. Marie Castleman, curriculum.

In its study and discussion session, the board heard a progress report on the staff development and human relations program by Dr. William Staats, special assistant to the Superintendent.

The purpose of the program is to train school personnel in better ways to interact with students, parents, and each other. An important part of the program is helping the teachers acquire a better understanding of their student's community and home environment.

To explain the "diversity, creativity, and complexity of the program" Staats told of study units on black-white relations Appalachia, and various ethnic cultures.

Students participate in a variety of ways, such as field trips, skits, exhibits, discussions, projects, and stage plays. Teachers are participating in seminars, study sessions, team-teaching and open classroom experiments, visitations to student's homes, workshops, and after-school activity programs for students.

Several school principals attended the meeting and described their own programs. Each school is required to submit a staff development and human relations program based upon its own needs and situation.

Dr. L. Thomas Moore, principal of Highland Elementary School, said that as a result his school's program his staff "has grown in mutual respect."

In addition to using techniques such as the open classroom and a non-graded curriculum, Moore said that the Highland staff was "fanning out into the community."

James Roy, Southwood Elementary principal, said that his teachers get a half-day off each month to make visits to the homes of students. He also described an after-school activity program that 404 students participate in. The teaches receive no additional compensation for their time in the program.

Roy told of a program that awards good behavior by students. If any school personnel, including the janitor, sees a positive act by a student, he awards the student a buckeye leaf that is similar to those that Ohio State football players wear on their helmets for making an outstanding play. Roy emphasized, however, that his students do not wear helmets.

Dr. Staats said that "to this date 98 per cent of the schools have submitted plans for staff development and human relations."

All board members indicated their satisfaction with the progress of the program, however, Mrs. Prentice and Dr. Walker said that they would like to see more emphasis placed on home visits by teachers.

Schedules Mayor's Report

"Columbus 1973: Mayor's State Of The City Report" will be presented on Columbus Town Meeting Sunday, January, 14, from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

Hunington Carlile will moderate the live telecast which will be broadcast Sunday evening from 10 to 11:30 p.m. over W[illegible]BNS-AM [illegible].

Speakers will be: The Honorable Tom Moody and members of his cabinet; N. Jack Huddle, Development Director; Bernard Chupka, Safety Director; Robert Newlon, Utilities Director; Alvin Peterjohn, Finance Director and Mel Dodge, Parks and Recreation Director.

Questions may be telephoned to 228-3881 throughout the program.

YEILD THE RIGHT OF WAY

The Columbus Auto Club-AAA says that failure to yield the right of way is dangerous at any time of the year, but especially during the winter when roads and streets are likely to be slippery. The safe driver shows extra caution and courtesy by yielding the right of way even when he knows it is legally his. This kind of common sense driving pays off in an accident-free driving record.

Clintonville Furniture Makes Best OSU-USC Guess

The personnel of Clintonville Furniture, especially Manager William R. Bates, can take bows this week as the Monday morning quarterback experts.

Throwing aside emotion and sticking more to the facts of life the team at Clintonville Furniture, 3301 N. High St., came through with flying colors last week on their prediction (the best among 42 by merchants) of the outcome of the Ohio State-Southern California football game.

Their prediction was Southern California, 33; Ohio State, 14.

Why not call them at 263-1857 or stop in and see the superb merchandise they have to offer.

Meanwhile, we offer our congratulations to Clintonville Furniture and condolences to OSU. The final score was 42-17.

CMACAO Heads Speak Jan. 11

Charles Wallace, director of the CMACAO Housing Rehabilitation program and Tom Dillard, executive director of the Model Neighborhood Assembly, will speak at 4 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 11 at the CMACAO Martin Luther King Neighborhood Action Center, 1169 Oak St.

The meeting, open to the public, is sponsored by the advisory council of the CMACAO Martin Luther King Neighborhood Action Center.

IRS Income Tax Service Offered

Don Campbell, Representative of the District Director for the Columbus office of the Internal Revenue Service, has announced that increased taxpayer assistance will be available during the 1973 tax filing [illegible].

Assistance will be offered at the IRS office, 261, South Thrid St.

The days and hours are: Mondays, 8 a.m.-7:45 p.m.; Tuesdays thru Fridays, 8 a.m.-4:45 p.m. and Saturdays, 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Parks Plan Winter Hike

The Department of Natural Resources has announced plans for the 8th annual Winter Hike at Hocking Hills State Park, Saturday, January 13.

The popular outdoor event, sponsored by the department's parks and recreation division, attracted 1,5000 participants last year.

Hikers are to assemble at 9:30 a.m., at the park shelterhouse near Old Man's Cave. They will be split into small groups for the five and one-half mile trek to Ash Cave. The groups will be led by trained naturalists.

The tour of Buckeye Trail offers scenic views to park landmarks including Old Man's Gorge, Devils Bathtub, Sphynx Head, Cedar Falls, Ash Cave and Queer Creek.

There is to be a lunch break at Cedar Falls where the Logan Kiwanis Club will serve bean soup and free hot chocolate. Hikers also can bring sack lunches. Coffee will be provided at Ash Cave by the Logan Trade Club.

Buses will be available at the end of the hike to transport hikers back to Old Man's Cave. Provisions also have been made for those who do not wish to continue the hike after lunch.

Planning Book Sale

The Columbus Public Library will offer thousands of used books for sale at the library's Buck-a-Bundle book sale Feb. 1-3 at the Main Library, 96 S. Grant Ave.

Hours of the sale are 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 1, and Friday, Feb. 2, and from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 3.

With needlepoint in hand

The world is full of ladies. Some of them are funny.

Met some funny ladies over lunch a couple of weeks ago. And, no matter on which side of the generation gap you pitch your TV tent, you've had occasion to enjoy their antics too.

Ann B. Davis

WHILE THE NAME Ann B. Davis conjures up shades of "Schultzy," the secretary on "The Bob Cummings Show" to mom and dad, the kids know her as "Alice," the cookie-baking housekeeper of "The Brady Bunch."

During her seven year trip to the "overnight success" stage, Ann did a little of everything, including selling Christmas cards. But, those days are gone and when I caught up with the comedienne I found no evidence of notepads, cookies or cards. She was, however, clutching "The Red Dragon of Wales" in one hand. The beast is the subject of a piece of needlepoint that Ann is picking up of late between takes during her "nice normal 12-hour working day."

While 12 hours makes for a long day, the working season in total is short. It takes just four months of filming to shoot the entire 23 episodes of the "Brady" season. But Ann isn't working less and enjoying it more. "I hate to get done with my whole job in four months," she lamented. "I happen to like going to work day after day." The culprit in the case is that money-saving item called the "rerun." The "rerun" is the axis upon which the four-month working season turns.

"WHEN IS THE public going to fight back about all the reruns?" she asked. Then speaking for the actors, she added, "We're waiting. As long as the audience will sit still, reruns are what they're going to get."

In way of comparison Ann did a mathematical exercise. "Back in the Cummings show days," she said, "We did 39 episodes a year and ran the 13 best. That meant 178 shows in a little over four years. At our rate (23 a year) it would take us eight years to do that."

When Ann packed "Schultzy's" Emmys and moved from the Cummings set to the Brady household four years ago there wasn't much fanfare. In fact, as she put it, "Nobody paid much attention to 'The Brady Bunch' until they suddenly realized that we'd been on three years and knocked nine shows off the air."

AS THE ABC BRADYS opened their fourth season with a family trip to Hawaii this season, the mood was considerably different. The teenage viewers had found idols in the characters played by Barry Williams and Maureen McCormick and the young, young element was "gone" on Alice. "I don't know how old they are," Ann commented. Then gesturing she added, "They're about this high." (Unless my 'eye' is off they're the 8 to 10-year-olds). "The other day one that size greeted me. I said, 'Hi,' and asked her name. She replied, 'Oh, you know me.'" From the relish with which the story was told I would hazard a guess that the exchange pleased both Ann and Alice.

Ann and Alice are a lot alike. They're both funny, funny ladies. One, because she's a veteran actress. The other, because she's written that way. "To have a sense of humor and make a living," Miss Davis pointed out, "takes a certain finesse."

"I like acting," said Ann.

"It sure beats the heck out of selling Christmas cards," Alice grinned.

The Beat Of A City . . . And Then Some

MOODS WERE MANY at the 16th annual Symphony Grand Ball last Saturday at the Sheraton-Columbus Motor Hotel. The mood created by the flowers (red and blue carnations) was soft yet brilliant. The mood created by the gourmet dinner was one of ecstacy yet fulfillness. The Mood created by the Symphony Orchestra's performance was one of excitement yet lightness. The mood created by the Bill Harrington orchestra was varied from gaiety to cheek-to-cheekness. The mood created by the Koffee Haus was relaxing yet vibrant by the thought of an elegant evening's end. But the greatest mood of all the evening was created by the people who attended - those who support the existance of the Symphony Orchestra and who give so willingly of their time and efforts in many community causes with self-satisfaction of a job well done their great reward. This is the mood of a fellow man who loves his brother as himself and will rekindle any fire that might die out and with it man's cultural achievements. Mr. John Kessler was Symphony Grand Ball chairman. He reflects on all this with his lovely wife as the Symphony sways with the "Beat of Columbus" to The Man of La Mancha's "Impossible Dream" come true. Property Tax Overworked

Revenue Sources Needed By Schools

Thomas B. Connery
Special Staff Writer

Columbus School Board President Thomas Moyer appointed a special committee January 9 "to impress upon those in responsible positions that the property tax has been overworked."

Moyer said that the ad hoc Committee for Adequate Funding should "begin shouting at state and federal officials for more funds to operate city schools."

He said that the purpose of the committee will be to "impress on state government the need for a more certain revenue source."

Moyer said that competent authorities are convinced that the property tax has been overworked and that urban schools are going to have to get a larger share of state and federal revenue if they are to continue to operate efficiently.

He added that he hopes to have the board"s voice heard in the legislative and executive branches of the federal government.

Moyer appointed Paul Langdon chairman of the new committee, with himself and Dr. Watson Walker as members.

He also assigned members to the board's fourstanding committees, and appointed their chairmen: Dr. David Hamlar, buildings; Dr. Walker, finance; Mrs. Marilyn Redden, community relations; and Mrs. Marie Castleman, curriculum.

In its study and discussion session, the board heard a progress report on the staff development and human relations program by Dr. William Staats, special assistant to the Superintendent.

The purpose of the program is to train school personnel in better ways to interact with students, parents, and each other. An important part of the program is helping the teachers acquire a better understanding of their student's community and home environment.

To explain the "diversity, creativity, and complexity of the program" Staats told of study units on black-white relations Appalachia, and various ethnic cultures.

Students participate in a variety of ways, such as field trips, skits, exhibits, discussions, projects, and stage plays. Teachers are participating in seminars, study sessions, team-teaching and open classroom experiments, visitations to student's homes, workshops, and after-school activity programs for students.

Several school principals attended the meeting and described their own programs. Each school is required to submit a staff development and human relations program based upon its own needs and situation.

Dr. L. Thomas Moore, principal of Highland Elementary School, said that as a result his school's program his staff "has grown in mutual respect."

He also described an after-school activity program that 404 students participate in. The teaches receive no additional compensation for their time in the program.

Roy told of a program that awards good behavior by students. If any school personnel, including the janitor, sees a positive act by a student, he awards the student a buckeye leaf that is similar to those that Ohio State football players wear on their helmets for making an outstanding play. Roy emphasized, however, that his students do not wear helmets.

Dr. Staats said that "to this date 98 per cent of the schools have submitted plans for staff development and human relations."

All board members indicated their satisfaction with the progress of the program, however, Mrs. Prentice and Dr. Walker said that they would like to see more emphasis placed on home visits by teachers.

Daytime show is exciting

Jack Barry

"I find the immediacy of a game series very exciting. It's something that's happening right now and you can't help but get involved with the contestant," says Jack Barry, host and creator of "The Joker's Wild," a daytime program seen Mondays through Fridays on the CBS Television Network.

Barry is certainly qualified to speak about game series, since he has been associated with nearly 30 programs in the past as host, creator or producer. It's also natural that he's enthusiastic about "The Joker's Wild," but Barry doesn't just want you to think it's due to his personal involvement—he gives reasons.

"This series has what I feel is the most important element of all successful game series – a big risk factor," he says. "The contestant has a chance to win or lose a great deal. It's just like Las Vegas – and it makes for exciting viewing."

Hikers are to assemble at 9:30 a.m., at the park shelterhouse near Old Man's Cave. They will be split into small groups for the five and one-half mile trek to Ash Cave. The groups will be led by trained naturalists.

The tour of Buckeye Trail offers scenic views to park landmarks including Old Man's Gorge, Devils Bathtub, Sphynx Head, Cedar Falls, Ash Cave and Queer Creek.

There is to be a lunch break at Cedar Falls where the Logan Kiwanis Club will serve bean soup and free hot chocolate. Hikers also can bring sack lunches. Coffee will be provided at Ash Cave by the Logan Trade Club.

Buses will be available at the end of the hike to transport hikers back to Old Man's Cave. Provisions also have been made for those who do not wish to continue the hike after lunch.

Bill Cosby

Cosby credits Twain and Foxx for his comedy style

Redd Foxx

"...I was impressed with his simplicity and observation and his fantastic sense of hunor in establishing a picture with words."

Mark Twain, famous American humorist, is the subject of this statement by another famous American comic— Bill Cosby, the star of "The New Bill Cosby Show" seen Mondays, on the CBS Television Network.

Cosby credits Twain with being one of the strong influences on his own style. "When I was a boy my mother used to read Mark Twain to me, and I read all of his works for myself when I was in high school," he says.

Another man who has influenced Cosby is nightclub comic turned television personality, Redd Foxx.

"I first bought some of his records when I was in high school," Cosby says of Foxx. "What impressed me was his ability to get a laugh without delivering a line, also his ability to deliver a word and make it mean something special through sound and inflections. That's where he really shines."

About the effect Charlie Chaplin has had on him, Cosby says: "Some years ago there was a Chaplin film festival in New York City. I went three times a day. I saw him do things that I've seen modern comedians do on the screen. They probably lifted them from Chaplin, and I can't say I blame them. I can't think of a better clown for any comic to emulate."

At his home Cosby has a copy of the film "Steamboat Bill," starring Buster Keaton — another favorite from the annals of comic history.

She's a beautiful dropout

Barbara Anderson is probably Hollywood's most beautiful dropout.

Little more than a year ago, the lovely blonde gave up a lucrative role on the "Ironside" series after four years and an Emmy Award.

"I GOT MARRIED," she says, "and found that my marriage and my relationship with my husband were more important to me than anything else."

So, she released her agent, her press agent, disconnected her answering service and discovered, much to her own surprise, that she was very domestically inclined.

"Now, I just intend to work when I enjoy working with the other actors in the cast," she says.

HER FIRST ACTING assignment since her retirement was a role on the season premiere of "Mission: Impossible" broadcast recently on the CBS Television Network.

"I took this part because I got to play a lady with a past," Miss Anderson says, "and do a drunk scene that was demanding but great fun to do."

How does a successful actress who has worked continually handle the impact of a sudden, self-imposed retirement? "It was difficult at first," she admits. "But then, I discovered the joys of creative cookery and took a couple of gourmet cooking courses.

SHE ALSO BECAME aware of the multiple pleasures of gardening and enrolled in a class at UCLA.

The Beat Of A City . . . And Then Some

MOODS WERE MANY at the 10th annual Symphony Grand Ball last Saturday at the Sheraton-Columbus Motor Hotel. The mood created by the flowers (red and blue carnations) was soft yet brilliant. The mood created by the gourmet dinner was one of ecstacy yet fulfillness. The Mood created by the Symphony Orchestra's performance was one of excitement yet lightness. The mood created by the Bill Harrington orchestra was varied from gaiety to cheek-to-cheekness. The mood created by the Koffee Haus was relaxing yet vibrant by the thought of an elegant evening's end. But the greatest mood of all the evening was created by the people who attended - those who support the existance of the Symphony Orchestra and who give so willingly of their time and efforts in many community causes with self-satisfaction of a job well done their great reward. This is the mood of a fellow man who loves his brother as himself and will rekindle any fire that might die out and with it man's cultural achievements. Mr. John Kessler was Symphony Grand Ball chairman. He reflects on all this with his lovely wife as the Symphony sways with the "Beat of Columbus" to The Man of La Mancha's "Impossible Dream" come true. Property Tax Overworked

Revenue Sources Needed By Schools

Thomas B. Connery
Special Staff Writer

Columbus School Board President Thomas Moyer appointed a special committee January 9 "to impress upon those in responsible positions that the property tax has been overworked."

Moyer said that the ad hoc Committee for Adequate Funding should "begin shouting at state and federal officials for more funds to operate city schools."

He said that the purpose of the committee will be to "impress on state government the need for a more certain revenue source."

Moyer said that competent authorities are convinced that the property tax has been overworked and that urban schools are going to have to get a larger share of state and federal revenue if they are to continue to operate efficiently.

He added that he hopes to have the board"s voice heard in the legislative and executive branches of the federal government.

Moyer appointed Paul Langdon chairman of the new committee, with himself and Dr. Watson Walker as members.

He also assigned members to the board's fourstanding committees, and appointed their chairmen: Dr. David Hamlar, buildings; Dr. Walker, finance; Mrs. Marilyn Redden, community relations; and Mrs. Marie Castleman, curriculum.

In its study and discussion session, the board heard a progress report on the staff development and human relations program by Dr. William Staats, special assistant to the Superintendent.

The purpose of the program is to train school personnel in better ways to interact with students, parents, and each other. An important part of the program is helping the teachers acquire a better understanding of their student's community and home environment.

To explain the "diversity, creativity, and complexity of the program" Staats told of study units on black-white relations Appalachia, and various ethnic cultures.

Students participate in a variety of ways, such as field trips, skits, exhibits, discussions, projects, and stage plays. Teachers are participating in seminars, study sessions, team-teaching and open classroom experiments, visitations to student's homes, workshops, and after-school activity programs for students.

Several school principals attended the meeting and described their own programs. Each school is required to submit a staff development and human relations program based upon its own needs and situation.

Dr. L. Thomas Moore, principal of Highland Elementary School, said that as a result his school's program his staff "has grown in mutual respect."

In addition to using techniques such as the open classroom and a non-graded curriculum, Moore said that the Highland staff was "fanning out into the community."

James Roy, Southwood Elementary principal, said that his teachers get a half-day off each month to make visits to the homes of students. He also described an after-school activity program that 404 students participate in. The teaches receive no additional compensation for their time in the program.

Roy told of a program that awards good behavior by students. If any school personnel, including the janitor, sees a positive act by a student, he awards the student a buckeye leaf that is similar to those that Ohio State football players wear on their helmets for making an outstanding play. Roy emphasized, however, that his students do not wear helmets.

Dr. Staats said that "to this date 93 per cent of the schools have submitted plans for staff development and human relations."

All board members indicated their satisfaction with the progress of the program, however, Mrs. Prentice and Dr. Walker said that they would like to see more emphasis placed on home visits by teachers.
